CANADIAN LINE FIRM AS ROCK

HAVE INFLICTED TERRIBLE CASUALTIES ON FOE—MORE MEN WANTED.

Ottawa, Sept. 1. — In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon Sir Edward Kemp read the following message received from Lieut.-General Sir Arthur Currie, general officer commanding the Canadians in France:

"London, Aug. 30, 1917.

"Your message of congratulation is sincerely appreciated by all ranks of the Canadian corps. Tell our comrades in the Canadian militia that in addition to winning and consolidating ground of great tactical value, we have inflicted casualties on the foe at least treble our own. In repeated and determined counter attacks the flower of the German army was thrown against us, but our line remained unshaken as our own Rockies. Will not the pride which you say Canada has in her sons inspire her to send us men to take the places of those who have so nobly fallen?"

Delay in Quebec Bridge Erection

Bad Weather on Flanders Front

London, Sept. 1.—The official statement says that unsettled weather prevails along Franco-Belgian front. Enemy artillery showed some activity during the night, south of Lens, and near the coast.

Nothing particular of interest to report.

THE SHOE FACTORY BY-LAW

This bylaw is for the purpose of securing a new industry — the manufacture of shoes.

At present the Ackerman Company's factory property is assessed for $23,790. This is the assessment placed upon it by the assessor at its full assessable value. If the bylaw is passed it will not lower this assessment.

The company will continue to pay, as now, full taxes on the full assessable value of the property, as it now is.

If the factory is enlarged, as it probably will be after the shoe factory has been well established, the exemption will apply only for ten years from this year, to any new buildings erected on the property.

And on any such new buildings the company will pay school taxes, patriotic rates and war taxes.

For this small concession, at most, the city will secure a new factory in a staple line of manufacture that has every prospect of development into a large industry.

Other places would like to secure this factory. One offer includes a building as well as exemption. If by any chance this bylaw should be defeated, it is not out of the bounds of possibility that this offer will be further considered and accepted.

The Ackerman Company will continue the harness factory. The shoe factory will be a new industry that Peterborough should not run the danger of losing.

The voting on the bylaw will take place on Thursday next, Sept. 6th. All municipal electors have a vote, and an elector can vote at one place only.

GERMAN EMPEROR WAS NOT MASTER IN HIS OWN HOUSE

Light Thrown on Bagdad Railway Negotiations—Kaiser Designed to Keep Friendly With England---Opposed by Crown Prince and Military and Naval Officials.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 1.—The Manchester Guardian, in article this morning, dealing with the negotiations between Viscount Haldane, when Sec'y of Foreign Affairs, with Emperor William, Bethman-Holwegg, Von Tirptz and others with reference to the Bagdad railway agreement, points out that the Emperor is not master in his own house so far as the Germon foreign policy is concerned. This was shown by the conference approved of by the Kaiser at Berlin, being called off because Russia had been invited, as well as England and France, to discuss terms for England holding control of the farthermost section of the railway nearest the Persian Gulf.

Desired to Keep Friends.

At the time of negotiations referred to, the Emperor desired to keep on friendly terms with England; and continued in this attitude for some time afterwards, while a faction headed by the Crown Prince, Admiral Von Tirpitz, and the general staff and probably Von Buelow were decidedly anti-English.

The cry against Haldane's whole policy arose while preparing against a triumph of the anti-English to, as far as possible, strengthen those in Germany disposed to be friendly.

Haldane's Peaceful Efforts.

The article concludes that Haldane tried by every means, consistent with great Britain's interests and honorable obligations to strengthen the hands of moderates in Germany, while his enemies strengthened the hands of extremists and supplied them with arguments that England, despite protestations was Germany's real enemy.

Noted Italian Poet Wounded

London, Sept. 1.—A Times' special from Rome says: "Captain Gabrielle D'Annunzio has told friends in Milan that during the battle of August 19th he flew over the enemy troops, and bombed them from a height of 250 feet. His machine was hit several times. On returing to the shed it was found to be pierced with 127 holes. The poet himself was slightly wounded in the left arm.

WHO HAS BAG? OFFICER FINDS A TRACE OF ONE

PROVINCIAL POLICE LOOKING AFTER LOST BAGGAGE—ONE PIECE FOUND.

Miss Mary Campbell of Woodstock, was spending a holiday at South Beach, and on August 19th left in her motor for home. When she reached Peterborough a club bag and a roll grip were missing, and, despite advertising, no trace could be found of the baggage. The club bag contained a number of articles of jewelry that were family heirlooms, and Miss Campbell reported the matter to the Provincial Police and Detective Reburn was sent down to investigate.

Yesterday, in company with High County Constable Archie Moore, a trip was taken along the probable route that Miss Campbell travelled.

At the Young's Point cheese factory Mr. Emery stated that he was awaiting a claimant for the roll grip, which was picked up near the factory. No trace of the club bag was found, and Detective Reburn thinks that someone may have found it and is keeping it for an ad. to appear. The notice which was published of the loss stated that the loss occurred on the Douro side, while it was in the Smith side that the roll was found. The finder will do well to notify Constable Moore, as Detective Reburn states that it is a very serious offence for anyone to keep it now that the facts are known.

CROWN RESERVE IN SOUTH GOSFIELD, ESSEX COUNTY.

Toronto, Sept. 1.—Hon. F. G. Macdiarmid, Minister of Public Works, announced at the Parliament Buildings yesterday that an order-in-Council had been passed by the Provincial Government setting aside a portion of the township of South Gosfield, in the County of Essex, as a Crown game reserve, in response to an appeal from the Essex Wild Life Conservation Association. The new provincial preserve includes the farm of Jack Miner, famous for his splendid work in the interest of the furred and feathered folk of the wild places. Mr. Macdiarmid pointed out yesterday that the Government's action had been largely inspired by a desire to pay a public tribute to the worth of the work Mr. Miner had done for the preservation of wild life in Ontario.

The order-in-Council, which is proclaimed in the current issue of the Ontario Gazette, rules that the hunting, taking or killing of any game bird or animal upon the preserve, which is about four square miles in area, is now prohibited.

MONTREAL RIOTERS STEAL REVOLERS AND CARTRIDGES

Smash Bank Windows, and Break Into Hardware Stores in Search of Arms—Crowd Finally Dispersed by Police.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Sept. 1.—A meeting of anti-conscriptionists held at Maissonneuve market last night was followed by a parade in which the plate glass at the Hochelaga Bank was smashed; and the rioters broke into a hardware store on St. Catharines street, stealing about $300 worth of bullets and cartridges. The mob went further along the street, breaking into another hardware store and securing several hundred dollars' worth more of cartridges in addition to a number of revolvers.

The crowd was finally dispersed by the police and two of them arrested, one being a young lad alleged to have had a box of dynamite in his possession.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1917

PERSONAL SACRIFICE

IN TIME OF WAR says our estimated contemporary, "By Water", when every effort must be put forth to save the state, it seems not only reasonable, but the only effective way of prosecuting the country's cause, to have the state measure and dictate the amount of personal sacrifice that shall be the portion of each and every individaul. Whether a man's contribution is by taking his place on the firing line, or by giving up a portion of his income, or by helping the output of munitions, or even in the production of foodstuffs by cultivation, his services should be outlined for him by the state.

GROW CLOVER SEED

In average seasons red clover, that has not been pastured after the fire hay crop has been removed, will produce a crop of well matured seed. Instead of cutting the second crop for hay, pasturing it or, as it frequently happens, ploughing it under, why not allow this crop to mature and save the seede from it?

By raising your own clover seed you are obtaining seed from plants which, by their very existence, have demonstrated their adaptation to the conditions prevailing on your farm, and in your immediate locality Such seed, it is quite reasonable to suppose, will produce plants which are equally well adapted to local conditions. For this reason home grown clover seed is really more valuable than most of the seed obtainable through ordinary channels of commerce

Quite often very poor-looking fields of second growth red clover will produce a profitable crop of seed. In many cases fields where the clover is quite thin and say only eight or ten inches high, will yield over one hundred pounds of clean, well-matured seed per acre Usually, however, an average second growth will produce anywhere from 150 to 250 pousds of seed per acre.

The red clover seed crop should be cut when the heads are dark brown in colour, and contain hard, well-developed seed. In havesting all unnecessary handling should be avoided. Rough handling, frequent turning, etc., will thresh or break off the most mature heads, thus wasting a portion of the most valuable seed

Where the crop is less than one foot high it may be cut with an ordinary mowing machine. It is usually advisable to have two men follow the machine with hand rakes and move each swath out from the standing crop a few feet so that, on the next round, the cut clover will be out of the way of the horses and machine. By following this practice with short clover, a great deal of seed will be saved that would have otherwise been threshed by the horses' feet, end therefore left in the field.

Where clover is one foot or more in height the most satisfactory implament to use for cutting is the binder. The cord should be removed, and the spring on the knotter slackened so that it wil trip continuously. Usually there are two boards that hold the sheaf: these should also be slackened so that the clover will have a free course to the ground. In dropping to the ground, the seed will not shell and the crop will be left in loose windrows where it will dry quickly, and can be easily gathered with a barley fork.

The length of time that the clover should remain in the field would depend upon the weather. Generally speaking the crop should be placed in the mow or stack when dry enough to keep well. It can then be threshed when convenient

Laurier Is Real Obstacle
(Toronto Telegram)

Laurier is the real obstacle to union. Sir Robert Borden has wasted time in consultation with machine partners who are primarily interested in winning the election in Canada rather than in winning the war in Europe. These alleged supporters of conscription from the Western Liberal machine do not want to join any government or help any government except a government headed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

THE TWO MIRAGES.

FOR NEARLY THREE years two men, companions in the Arctic, argued as to whether the Germans had taken Paris. [illegible] determined, to what will be the satisfaction of the world, the fact that there is no Crocker Land; that instead of a great country of green hills northwest of Cape Thomas Hubbard there is only polar ice — and illusion. The layers of air at various densities, played upon by the magic light of the north, long deceived the MacMillan party, just as it had fooled the great Admiral who first saw this splendid vapor continent

In the same three years some 60,000,000 persons—who knew that Paris had not been taken, but believed that it would be in good time —watched the green hills of another mirage, the land of Prussian promise, of Kultur, of world power. The layers of thought, created to suit the various densities of the German people, became to the mind what Crocker Land was to the eye.

The two great mockeries fade together. "Finally," says a man from the Arctic, telling of the end of nature's phantasm, "when the sun shifted it was no longer there." So, beneath the sun of civilization, the Kultur Land with which the phasma makers of Prussia delighted and deceived their people passes from sight. It is no longer there and in its place is the barren waste of poverty and death and shame.

KERENSKY DEFIANT

KERENSKY'S SPEECH opening the National Conference at Moscow Sunday, rang true to revolutionary ideals, says the New York Sun. In cold type, read far from the inspiring scene which attended its delivery, considered at leisure by those to whom the issues of the Russian revolution are confused and perplexing, it still makes the pulse leap and sympathy run high for a nation just entering upon the troublous road which America in 1776 and France in 1793 trod, with infinite sacrifices, hesitation and doubt to the ultimate haven of democracy. The Danton of the Russian revolution, Kerensky cries again: 'Il nous faut de l'audace.' To dare, to dare again and always to dare is his outline of the policy which its leaders must pursue.

"Those who think the moment has come to overthrow the revolutionary power with bayonets are making a mistake," said M Kerensky. He continued:

"Let them take care, for our authority is supported by the boundless confidence of the people and by millions of soldier who are defending us against the German invasion. * * * But let them remember that our patience has its limits and that those who go beyond them will have to settle with a Government which will make them remember the time of Czarism. We shall be implacable, because we are convinced that supreme power alone can assure the salvation of the country. That is why I shall oppose energetically all attempts to take advantage of Russia's national misfortunes, and whatever ultimatum is presented I shall subject it to the supreme power and to myself, its head."

The first lesson to be taught in revolution is that liberty has its limitations. Especially is this true in such a situation as confronts Russia today. Only organized, disciplined actions can put to rout the forces of evil that are attacking the nation from without and within. At Riga the well drilled and veteran German troops are attacking disorganized and mutionous Russian regiments that retreat, not so much through dread of harm as because they think it a sacrifice of their new won liberties to obey their officers. In Perograd and Moscow the scarcely less disciplined agents of Germany are spending the Kaiser's funds in buying up influential men in every circle of society to plot against the revolutionary Russian Government.

The situation is not new in the history of man's progress toward freedom We had our tories in our Revolution and British gold corrupted the unhappy Arnold. France, like Russia, had a foreign war to meet on her borders, a civil war in La Vendee, and "Pitt's gold" to corrupt her citizens and to cast suspicion and doubt upon many of her leaders. Prussia and Austria strove to destroy the beginnings of liberty in France in 1793, as they are striving to do it in Russia in 1917. They failed then as they will fail now. Democracy has advanced too far to be turned back

All neighboring nations filled the streets of Paris in revolutionary days with spies, agitators and reactionaries. To what end? The replacement of the Bourbons on the throne. That was why the sole defence for France was to hurl at the feet of intermeddling Europe the head of the King. The nobles, the adherents of the old order, the parasites of the court were the tools [illegible] autocratic Europe sought to use in replacing the Bourbon dynasty. Hence the Terror

In Russia the German propaganda or Deutschtum seeks out a different class. Oddly enough it is among the Socialists that the German intrigues against Russian liberty make their most menacing headway. With pockets full of German money spies and agents try to convince Russian workingmen that the revolution which gave them freedom gives them too little freedom. They are urged to dethrone liberty in the name of liberty, and to place the whip once more in the hands of autocracy. A separate peace, a German peace, would see Nicholas recalled from Tobolsk, the dungeons of the fortress of St Peter and St. Paul again crowded, and the roads to Siberia populous once more with the very Socialists now acting as Germany's agents.

Kerensky's defiance sounded the only true note of defence. To dare everything, even the charge of Czarism, in order to put down intrigue and revolt is the supreme duty of the men in power in Russia today. The democratic world—which is the whole world save the Central Powers—owes it to itself to give every possible aid to Russia's present Government. Particularly does this duty rest upon the United States. It is inspiring to note that at the conference a message was read from President Wilson pledging "every material and moral assistance the United States can extend to the Government of Russia." Our immediate task is to check the rush of agitators from our own shores to Russia—their passage paid by German agents. In every other possible way Kerensky must be supported. Since the world is to be made safe for democracy. Russia's epoch-marking essay in democracy must not be permitted to languish and die.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Must Not Cripple Others
(Hamilton Herald)

When President Wilson said in his reply to the pope, that "no peace can rest securely upon political or economic restrictions meant to benefit some nations and cripple or embarrass others," be may have meant to give notice that he has no sympathy with the objects of the Paris economic conference. However, it should be considered that the understanging arranged at the Paris conference was not aimed at a democratised Germany, which Mr. Wilson hopes to see.

Inevitable
(Buffalo Courier)

A Munich committee strongly protests against peace without indemities, as a period of grinding poverty and crushing taxation would follow That appears to be what is in store for the German people.

To Fight Or Not!
(Hamilton Herald)

To fight or not to fight—that is the question which is worrying the Russian soldier. And under the queer new Russian democracy every soldier seems to be free to settle it to suit himself.

Hard on the Lions
(Tit-Bits)

The Reverend Charles H. Spurgeon's keen wit was always based on sterling common scnese. One day he remarked to one of his sons:

"Can you tell me the reason why the lions didn't eat Daniel?"

"No, sir. Why was it?"

"Because the most of him was backbone and the rest was grit."

Save the Trees
(Ottawa Journal-Press)

Trees should be considered almost sacred things. If in the limits of human communities or near settlements anywhere a tree has to be cut down, the man who causes it should set out another one. To destroy in a few minutes a thing of beauty which takes twenty years to mature is bad enough; the least that should be done when such destruction seems necessary is to start a substitute.

Wit and Wisdom

The enterprising impresario of the mammoth circus offered £100 to any member of the audience who would enter the lion's cage. He made the invitation nightly, but no one seemed in a hurry to accept it until one evening a very sheepish looking individual rose and shouted:

"If you please, sir, I should like that hundred pounds!"

The audience was horror-stricken, but the impresario replied, with a contemptuous and rather incredulous smile:

"Oh! So you want to go into the lion's cage, do you?"

"Certainly!" said the man, starting to make his way from the audience.

"Very well, then; come along, I will open the door for you and you [illegible]."

"Ah!" said the man, stepping forward with a knowing wink, "I'll go in, but you will have to take the lion out first What you said was that you would give a hundred pounds to anyone going into the lion's cage."

The irascible old gentleman had ordered a chicken, but when he got it he wasn't satisfied—some people never are.

"'Waiter," he yelled, "bring a charge of dynamite and a hatchet and an extra double steam power coke hammer! This chicken's got to be carved, even if it is made of dreadnought steel."

The waiter was desolate. "Very sorry, sir," he said, " but that always was a peculiar bird. It even objected to be killed, though we always do everything with the greatest of kindness. But this bird, sir, actually flew away and we had to shoot it, sir—yes, shoot it—it flew on to the top of a house and—"

"Say no more," said the old gentleman. "I see it all now. You shot at it and brought down the weathercock by mistake. John, my friend, all is forgiven."

Pat and Bill were amateur burglars and they conceived the idea of burgling the house of Mr. Jones, the local miller. But to get to the safe they would have to pass through the miller's bedroom. So Bill thought of a brilliant way out of the difficulty.

"Pat," he said, "if he wakes up and hears us we'll mew like cats, and he'll think it's one of his own pussies."

The night duly arrived and they duly gained the miller's bedroom. But just as Bill was crossing the room a board creaked and woke the miller up.

"What's that?" he cried.

"Me-ow," answered Bill.

The miller was satisfied. The next minute, however, the board creaked again.

"What's that?" roared the miller.

"Hush now," said Pat, "be quiet. Sure, an' it's only another cat."

For an hour the captain had been lecturing his men on "The Duties of a Soldier" and he thought that the time had come for him to test the results of his discourse.

"Private Murphy," he asked, "why should a soldier be ready to die for his country?"

The Irishman scratched his head for a while; then an ingratiating and enlightening smile flitted across his face. "Sure, Captain," he said pleasantly, "you're quite right. Why should be?"

A Scottish countrywoman was taking her son to the school for the first time, and after impressing the schoolmaster with the necessity of the boy's having a thoroughly good education, she finished up by saying:

"Be sure he learns Latin."

"But, my dear lady," said the schoolmaster, "Latin is a dead language."

"So much the better," replied the woman. "Ye ken, he's goin' to be an undertaker."

"Believe me, Grace, when I am away, I am thinking every instant of your blue eyes and of your lovely fair hair."

"Tut, tut! I am sure you said the same thing to another girl before me."

"Grace, don't be cruel. I swear solemnly that you are wrong. The girl before you was dark."—Puck.

Military Inspecting Officer — "Now, sergeant, what precautions do you take against inferted water?"

Sergeant—"We boil it."

Officer—"Very good."

Sergeant—"Then we filter it."

Officer—"Excellent!"

Sergeant—"And then we drink beer."

Democracy of the World Was Saved by the English, Declares Jas. W. Gerard

EVERY day which passes is beginning to show more clearly how near democracy was to a cataclysm in the summer of 1914. First one unimpeachable witness and then another comes upon the scene to expose the almost incredible chain of buttresses by which the German Government had shored up the campaign of conquest which it launched just three years ago. It hardly matters where the human mind ranges, there it finds evidence of carefully thought-out plans for extending German kultur and German domination. As time goes on, more and more witnesses come forward to prove that it was the entrance of Great Britain into the struggle that saved the day for democracy. The latest man to testify to the part played by England is James W. Gerard, who was American Ambassador in Berlin when the war broke out He calmly tells the people of the United States that England saved, not only Europe but also America. Gerard tells of an interview with the kaiser during the fateful August days of 1914. It was on the occasion when the German Emperor wrote his letter to President Wilson admitting that the invasion of Belgium was due to military necessity. The kaiser was visibly depressed, and Mr. Gerard makes the following significant comment on the situation.

"It was not without reason that at this interview, when the kaiser wrote this message to the President, he said that the coming in of England changed the whole situation and would make the war a long one. The kaiser talked rather despondently about the war. I tried to cheer him up by saying the German troops would soon enter Paris, but he answered: "The English change the situation: an obstinate nation; they will keep up the war. It cannot end soon." It was the entry of England in the war, in defence of the rights of small nations, in defense of the guaranteed neutrality of Belgium, which saved the world from the harsh dominion of the conquest-hungry Prussians and, therefore, saved as well the two Americas and their protecting doctrine of President Monroe."

Venice Lights Are Dim.

In the old, happy-go-lucky days before the war the Venetians used to turn night into day in order to entertain the travelers who flocked to see their "glorious city in the sea." It was when night had fallen that the music-boats, brilliantly lighted with colored lanterns, appeared on the Grand Canal and in the Basin of St. Mark. Soon they were surrounded by hundreds of gondolas, filled with happy travelers, enjoying the song and music and the gay and picturesque scene.

Now, alas, all is changed! There are no travelers and no music-boats. Early in the evening all lights in public places and in private houses must be shaded or extinguished. Gondolas and boats are all tied up at their respective traghetti. Venice becomes strangely silent and still.

Then when St. Mark's clock strikes midnight a call clear and distant is heard. It brings a speedy answer. Again call and answer are repeated. They are heard by every one as they go circling around the city. They are the words: "Per l'aria! buona guardia!" "All'erto! sto!" (On the air! Keep a good watch." "Alert! I am.") They are uttered by the night-watchmen from their coigns of vantage throughout the city.

Venice, secure from attack by sea or land, is now liable to be assailed from the air. Therefore these watchmen are set to keep a sharp lookout skyward, to look well to the air, so that they may give timely warning to the citizens. They call to each other hourly so as to make sure that no one is asleep, and that all are alert and watching.

These hourly calls are therefore to the Venetians welcome ones, even though they should disturb their slumbers, for they thus get timely notice of the approach of danger so that they may take measures to save their lives.

ne of the pitching stars of the present season is Wilbur Cooper, of the Pirates. He has turned in about one-third of the victories scored by his club.

Connie Mack's team can certainly hit the ball. The Tigers and White Sox are the only American League clubs which excel the Athletics in the branch of the game.

Bobby Byrne, the veteran infielder let out the other day by the Phillies, feels quite at home with the White Sox, who have signed him up "for better or for worse."

Chicago fans are worrying about the batting slump of the White Sox and the crippling of third-baseman Buck Weaver. And, as though their cup were not filled to overflowing, a call to the colors before the season ends may come to Schalk, Weaver, Gandil, Scott, Felsch, Danforth and Jenkins. Here is matter for the worry department, all right.

In spite of the fact that the Washington team seems to have come to life, the attendance figures in that city remain at a very low ebb.

Signs are not wanting that the American League will not struggle desperately to retain the Senators next season.

BOMBARDIER WELLS, SOLDIER BY TRADE

William (Bombardier) Wells has been living up to his middle name since his country went to war. The British heavy-weight champion feels quite at home in a uniform, as soldiering is his trade. The Bombardier was born thirty years ago tomorrow, August 31, 1887, and as a youth enlisted in the British army. He was sent out to India, where boxing is a very popular sport with the "milingtary mob," and it wasn't long before certain husky young gentlemen with pugilistic reputations manifested a desire to muss up his handsome young face. Bombardier was willing to have them try it on, and he quickly acquired a proficiency with the gloves that made him the idol of the army in India. The slender, clever soldier, standing six feet three inches, and built like an Apollo, was the ideal figure of a boxer and, after he had won the heavyweight championship of the army he began to entertain notions of winning fame and fortune in the professional ring. He made friends who shared his opinion, and they purchased his discharge and sent him back to England to clean up the bunch. That was in 1910, and at first Bombardier made a noise like a real "hope". During his first year in the ring, which was the year Jack Johnson flattened out Jim Jefferies, Wells took on five men and defeated them all by knockouts. Gunner McMurray, Corporal Brown, Sergeant Sunshine, Private Voyles and Seaman Parsons were his victims, but in 1911 Wells met his Waterloo at the hands of a gent who also bore a warlike name- Gunner Moir. He then won the decision from Porky Flynn, and annexed the English heavyweight title by knocking out Iron Hague. In 1912 Bombardier paid his first visit to America, and was knocked out by Al Palzer, although in the early rounds he made a monkey of the Iowa farmer. Bombardier then knocked out George Rode, the ex-soldier Boer. He returned to America in 1913, and was knocked out by Gunboat Smith. His two fights with Georges Carpentier followed, and on both occasions the Frenchman put him to sleep. Bombardier looked like a goner, pugilistically, but in 1914 he came back and knocked out Bandsman Blake and Colin Bell, the Australian, the latter bout being for the heavyweight championship of the British empire and $10,000. Wells is considered one of the cleverest and most intelligent of present-day boxers. Of course, the war may do things to him to put him out for good, and even if he gets through without a scratch, he'll be an old-timer when the "big scrap" is over.

FAMOUS RUBE CAME BACK

Here is a list of hurlers who are there or thereabout. Richard de Marquis, commonly known as Rube Marquard, had a trial as pitcher in 1907 with the Cleveland club, but was turned back to the minors. In 1909 the famous Rube came back and has been in our midst ever since. James Vaughn, known as Big Jim, of the Chicago Cubs, received his first trial in fast company ten years ago and has been in and out three times. A few seasons ago he came back to stay and light up the old National. Robers Groom of the Browns and Jim Scott of the White Sox lack one season of getting into the double number.

Joseph Lavender, Larry Cheney, Ruddy Rudolph, Watt Tyler are getting along in years as hurlers and are considered vets, but are mere urchins when compared to Matty, Plank, Cy Young, Joe McGinnity and the famous and everlasting Cy Falkenburg.

BASEBALL

Some time ago Jack Coombs, the Brooklyn tpitcher, was discussing his work and his methods of pitching to the different batters. He was asked what batter he found it hardest to pitch to. "That's a hard question to answer," he replied. "They're all hard, and any batter in the league, no matter how carefully you figure him out, is liable to cut loose at any time and upset all your calculations." When asked to name the batter who gave him the most trouble, he named George Burns, the Giant left-fielder. "George Burns is a good batter," said Coombs, "and it's a hard matter to fool him, because he rarely strikes at a bad ball. He's a pretty tough proposition for a pitcher." Some time later Burns was asked what pitcher he found hardest to hit. He didn't hesitate a moment. "That's easy, he said, "Jack Coombs."

Just about this time of the day, Harry Wolverton is yelling "Here, chick, chick, chick-" for Harry, who was manager of the Yankees, has now turned farmer and is cultivating a nice little win-the-war agrden "somewhere in California".

TWO PRESENTATIONS MADE TO MR. GEORGE B. WILSON

Canadian General Electric Staff Remember Departing Popular Test Foreman.

Mr. George B. Wilson, who for the past eight years has been foreman of the main test department at the Canadian General Electric Co. here, left this morning for Toronto where he has been promoted to a much more responsible position at the head office of the Company.

Last night he was the guest of his fellow foremen and members of the staff as well as the men who have been under him in the test department at the Empress Hotel and two very handsome presents were made to him.

There was no doubt of the sincerity of the expressions of regret and at the same time good will that were expressed by the different members present and everyone felt that they had lost a comrade who was a "Friend indeed."

The first presentation was that of a handsome black leather club bag which was presented in the presence of the members of the test department by Mr. D. J. Roach.

Mr. Wilson replied with great difficulty. He expressed regret at leaving the local branch but informed them that at least once a month he would have to visit the local factory and would see them. He gave them some very fatherly advice as to the conduct of the test course and hoped that everyone of them would reach a very high position in the work they have set out to accomplish. He reviewed the 29 years that he has been in the testing department, first with the Thomson-Houstan Co. and with the General Electric since they took over the former corporation. Before closing some of the members of the test entertained with a very vocal and instrumental selections and the company with "He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and "See Him Smiling."

A Diamond Pin.

The committee representing the heads of departments, sections, foremen, and office staff then took forcible possession of Mr. Wilson and entertained him with a graphic history of his misdeeds and failings. These were well dwelt upon by Mr. W. S. Campbell, who had been selected to act as chairman for the occasion. After giving him a general heart talk as a preliminary a program of music, song and comedy was given and those who contributed were Messrs. R. J. Devey, at the piano, Walter Evans with songs, G. W. Gillman an address in which the good points of Mr. Wilson's career were dwelt on, and W. Cowie gave several good Scotch songs.

During the course of the even- [illegible] of satisfaction was taken out of an address which was read by Mr. J. G. Wilson and the presentation of the diamond pin by Mr. W. J. Nelson.

Mr. Wilson was formerly presented and brought forth by Mr. Hugh McCusker.

The address was as follows:

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC CO., LTD., PETERBOROUGH.

Dear Mr. Wilson:—

We have learned that after serving eight years with this company you have so conducted yourself and your department, that your achievements have merited the attention of the management and that your experience, energy and ability are being rewarded by promotion.

You have been what some foremen remarked a "live wire" among us. You have taken a keen interest in social life and the general improvement of the environments in which we live.

You have shown yourself a true lover of sports, always assisting in any movement in connection with such, and voluntarily backing it up financially.

You have cultivated a large heart filled with sympathy and respect for your fellow employees. Your efforts were untiring in the relief of cases of distress among the employees and many a widow and orphan have been assisted, which directly resulted from your personal activities.

Now, Mr. Wilson, we would have you believe that "No man liveth to himself." Our happy associations have resulted beneficially to all of us, and we have great pleasure in sharing the pride which you naturally must feel in conjunction with your new appointment. We have every confidence in you to direct your business course in a manner that will further command the respect of your head office associates, and the management of the corporation which yon have the honor to represent.

To cement our highest regards for you, we beg you to accept this diamond pin as a lasting token. May its brightness ever cheer you through life and its reflection ever remind you of the happy associations of the past

To Mrs. Wilson and family, we present our hearty congratulations, accompanied by abundance of good wishes.

SORRY TO PART.

Very respectfully yours,
William J. Nelson, Chairman.
John G. Wilson, Secretary.
For Committee representing Heads of Departments, Sections, Foremen and Official Staffs.

Mr. Wilson was very much at sea with the expressions of fellowship and good will shown by the men of the Works. He went over with them all the different stages of his connection with the company and hoped that he would be excused from making a lengthy reply as be had to report in Toronto early in the morning. He thanked them most heartily for their beautiful gift and he extended the thanks of Mrs. Wilson for the kindly reference made to her. He informed the members that part of his duties at the head office would be to deal with complaints and issued formal notice that they would have a real hard complaint if he did not receive an invitation to the annual outing of the foremen.

The meeting closed with the singing of Auld Lang Syne and God Save the King.

Czech Saved Korniloff.

It is not generally known that at one time in the present war, Lieutenant-General L. G. Korniloff, whose victories in Galicia have so astonished the world, was an Austrian prisoner of war and that he escaped from Austrian captivity with the aid of a Czech soldier, who forfeited his life to save his distinguished Slav brother.

During the retreat of the Russian army from the Carpathians in the spring of 1915 General Korniloff, then commanding the rear guard, was captured by the Austrians and interned in Bohemia. In the summer of 1916 he managed to escape with the help of the Czech soldier, Frank Mrnak. For several weeks the two fugitives were making their way stealthily toward the Roumanian frontier, hiding by day and traveling by night. But one day in August they were surprised by gendarmes. The general got away and finally reached Russia, where he commanded the Petrograd garrison during the revolution. Mrnak was hit and captured and later sentenced by the court-martial in Pressburg to be shot.

It had been the Czech soldier's intention to enter as a volunteer in the ranks of the Czecho-Slovak brigade, which has by this time grown into two divisions. That his name and his heroic deed should not be forgotten, the commander of the brigade issued an order to have Mrnak's name inscribed on the roll of Company A of the first regiment of the Czecho-Slovak brigade of sharpshooters. It was further ordered that at every roll call when Mrnak's name is called the sergeant of the first squad should answer: "Shot by Hungarian court-martial in Pressburg for saving General Korniloff."

Had Been Down in Bed Nine Weeks

HER SON ADVISED TANLAC AND SHE WAS UP SOON AFTER SHE BEGAN TAKING IT.

"When I began taking Tanlac I had been down in bed for nine weeks, and if you had seen me then you would be surprised to see me in here now," said Mrs. K. Thompkins, who resides at 12 Wood street, in a conversation with the Tanlac representative at Parke & Parke, Ltd., Hamilton, a few days ago.

"My health had been failing for two years," Mrs. Thompkins continued. "I was al run down, had no appetite and suffered from gastritis, I had dizzy headaches and was as nervous and shaky as anyone get to be. I could scarcely sleep at all and felt so tired, stupid and bad in the morning that I could hardly get out of bed. I finally got so bad off I couldn't do my work and just had to give up and go to bed. I had awful smothering spells caused by the gas on my stomach, and belched so much that it embarrassed me. My chest was full of pain and my heart would flutter and jump like it was coming out. I tried any number of different kinds of medicines, but it was just like taking that much water as for the good they did me. I fell off until I weighed only one hundred and three pounds and was getting weaker and more despondent all the time.

"My son advised me to try Tanlac and I was up and about shortly after I began taking it. I now have a splendid appetite and can eat most anything without it hurting me. The gas has stopped forming on my stomach and I don't have any more smothering spells or palpitation of the heart. I'm not nervous and dizzy any more, my headaches are gone, and I sleep every night like a child. I now weigh one hundred and eight pounds and I get up in the mornings refreshed and really enjoy doing my work. Every symptom of my trouble is not only relieved, but entirely gone, and I can truthfully say I really feel like a different person. I wil lalways have a good word for Tanlac, and several of my friends are now taking it on account of what it has done for me."

A RUSSIAN SINGER.

Venerable Musician Sang His Last Great Song and Died.

Russian music belongs to all the people. Russians express themselves in melodies instead of words. Siberian exiles told their life stories in their songs and thus understood each other even when speech was forbidden. Baroness Souiny in her volume on Russian life tells how Votitchenko, the Russian musician, collected and interpreted the old songs of war and love known to previous generations. Finding treasures everywhere, transplanting century-old melodies known only to a little group of peasants in some remote corner of Russia to the modern world.

"Having heard of a hamlet far north in Siberia where lived an old peasant who knew songs forgotten by all others, Votitchenko undertook the journey, traveling many days to the isba where the venerable Ostap had passed his ninety-eight years.

"The old man, not different from other old men who wish to lengthen their days, shook his head. He would not sing; the thin thread of breath which still kept him alive might break. But young Votitchenko was stronger in his will than the old man. He had made the journey; he had to have his songs—songs forgotten by all, songs the old must give to him. Oh, yes, Ostap knew songs; oh, so beautiful that only the great men of his youth, nearly a century ago, could sing, and that nobody else could remember, and so the songs would die with him. The old man closed his eyes; he sunk into reveries of the past, of his youth and vigor. All was silent in the modest isba. Peasants had entered silently to listen to the tympanon, which sang under the young traveler's fingers, songs they all knew and loved. Very softly, not to awake old Ostap from his thoughts, he played the melodies, to which the people moved and hummed. Votitchenko struck rich chords, and the little wooden house vibrated with the sounds of dance music, love-songs, war-marches.

"Ostap, as if awakening from a long sleep, blinked at the young musician, bent forward, listening to the joyful, fiery songs, his little eyes opened wide, his wrinkled old face straightened as in a tension. Suddenly he rose, his big frame trembling like a leaf from emotion. The other peasants, moving to a corner, were struck with awe, as if they saw a vision. Grandfather Ostap had not stood up for fifteen years; some of the women crossed themselves and a child began to cry. Old Ostap, as it far away, began first with a shaking voice, and then sang strongly and loudly. Votitchenko excitedly followed the strange song, note by note, and at the third strophe could play it fluently. Old Ostap was still standing, still singing—but suddenly, exhausted, he fell back into his chair, his eyes stared, his heart beat no longer. The great old son of a warrior had expired with his song; but the song, the forgotten song, lives, and will live forever."

This Man Faces Great Problem

THE Honorable Charles Joseph Doherty, member of Parliament for the St. Ann's division of Montreal, is Minister of Justice in Sir Robert Borden's Cabinet. When the pending conscription measure becomes law in Canada its enactment will be entrusted not to the military authorities, but to the Ministry of Justice. Upon Mr. Doherty will fall, therefore, the ultimate responsibility for the application of conscription to Canada. The now diffuse opposition will converge upon him. In his onerous position he will need all the fortitude which distinguishes him, and all the support which the law-abiding can contribute.

With the imminence of his responsibility clear to him, he presumably designed the machinery of the conscription bill so as to make less difficult his task of administering it. It is inherent in him to minimize the feature of coercion and to emphasize the provision for dealing with all proper and pertinent objections. Indeed, on June 29, 1917, in The Evening Post, over his signature, he stated: "The proposed measure in no way specially affects the people of any province, race, creed, or class. It bears equally and evenly on all Canadians in all parts of Canada. . . . Neither is the measure inspired by punitive intent. . . . Nor will its application produce any punitive effect. Its provisions for adjudication as to claims for exemption put that adjudication in the hands of local tribunals in each province. The method of appointment of these tribunals is such as to secure to the individual an absolutely fair court, familiar with his surroundings and appreciative of his viewpoint."

Many of the people of Quebec believe the measure is directed against their province, their race, and their religion. The president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, Mr. James F. Watters; the Federation of Labor of British Columbia, and the only labor member of Parliament—the member for the district of Maisonneuve—profess to believe that the measure is intended to exploit the laboring class. Most of the opponents of the bill affirm that the measure cannot bear equally and evenly on all Canadians, as the rich may utilize the elaborate system of appeals to delay their being drafted, whereas the poor cannot afford to hire counsel for this purpose.

A distinct feeling of satisfaction exists that the final word in regard to the application of conscription rests with the present Minister of Justice, a man whose qualities fit him equitably to enforce the law while tempering it with sympathy devoid of weakness, and free from partizanship. The place Mr. Doherty holds in the esteem of his fellow members of the Conservative party has been determined by the exercise of these qualities. He is that rare phenomenon in political life, a man greater than his reputation. He is not a parliamentarian, but a judge to whom party profit weighs lightly against justice and principle. While yet in his thirties, he was appointed judge of the Superior Court Bench of the Province of Quebec. That high position he held with distinction for fifteen years, and when he relinquished it the judicial habit had long been fixed in him by the mordant action of time. That habit pervades his silences and his speech.

When he went to Ottawa, the Conservative party was still in opposition, and members of a party in opposition find themselves frequently in need of comfort and of counsel. To Doherty they turned, and few ever had recourse to him in vain. This was one of the reasons, and by no means the least, why the selection for Cabinet office of the wise and helpful member for St. Ann's was by every one regarded as certain, when Mr., now Sir Robert, Borden was placed in power by the election of 1911. It was in the nature of things, too, that Doherty should become Minister of Justice, an office endowed with the prestige of Sir John Macdonald, Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir Charles Fitzpatrick, Sir Alan Aylesworth, and other great figures in Canadian history.

Doherty's long record of judicial probity, his aloofness from the petty intrigues of party politics, and the fairness and consideration which he has constantly shown towards even the lowliest of those who have sought his aid during his six years of office, convince the rational among the opponents of conscription that whatever harshness the measure imposes will be mitigated by the present Minister of Justice, to the limit of his powers. His French constituents in St. Ann's know that French interests are dear to him. His countrymen of Irish extraction will get justice from him; more they neither expect nor seek. The Catholic Church has in him a tried and trusted son. The Anglo-Saxon honors and respects in him the majesty of the law. If Mr. Doherty undertakes the duty of applying conscription to Canada, a duty which his continuance in the office of Minister of Justice will impose, Labor may take what comfort it can from the certain knowledge that in Mr. Doherty's hands the conscription measure will be used neither to exploit class nor to subserve interests, but will bear "equally and evenly on all Canadians in all parts of Canada."

CLEAN ICE BOXES

How to Care For Foods In the Refrigerator.

DON'T BOARD PTOMAINES.

Points About the Nicety of Sanitary Compartments and the Least Care You Can Give the Matter Without Breeding Germs During Hot Weather.

First remove all food from the food compartment and with strong, hot soapsuds, in which there is a generous handful of salsoda, notwithstanding its effect upon the hands, wash the compartment in every corner. Rinse out with hot water and then scald thoroughly with water from a boiling teakettle.

Wipe dry with a perfectly clean towel and wash and scald the doors and the ledges and shelves, which have been removed. Set the shelves in a current of air and leave the door of the compartment open so that it may cool. Then wrap the ice in a paper ice blanket and set in the food compartment and treat the ice compartment in the same manner. When all the water has run down the drain remove the drainpipe and scald it again and again with boiling soda and water. Noxious gases form in the drainpipe, and these literally poison any food with which they come in contact.

Cool the drainpipe and replace and when the ice compartment has cooled set back the ice and close the doors, being very careful always to latch them, else a large proportion of the efficiency of the refrigerator is lost.

It is a good plan to go over the outside of the chest or refrigerator with an oiled cloth if it is a wood finish or with soap and water and metal polish if it is enamel metal trimmed. This will prolong the life of this piece of furniture. Its preservation is important, for in case of moving it is often most convenient to dispose of such articles, and if they are in perfect condition they will bring more.

In storing away food care should always be taken to see that no drops and overflow are allowed to remain around the rims of bowls and plates. A container which is shaped for butter is in the end most economical, for then old bits may be put away and the container need only be washed when a fresh supply is laid in.

Wash and sort all salad materials as soon as they enter the house, put them in clean white bags and shake to dislodge the water drops. These bags may be laid against the ice, and the melting caused is more than balanced by the crisp condition in which they appear on the table

Never set a vessel directly on the cake of ice. If instant cooling is imperative chip off a bit of ice, crush it and set the vessel in it.

Never leave the doors of the refrigerator open an instant longer than is necessary.

The effort of keeping a new refrigerator clean is a real pleasure, but where an old ice chest is concerned the work should be reduced by giving the entire box a coating of paint or two if need be. Aluminum paint does excellent service for the inside and stops up cracks and holes. This paint is also said to be sanitary. Where there are old wooden racks and shelves a scouring with sand, sal soda and soap will render them germless.

286 Congress St., Boston, Mass.
"I have been a sufferer from Headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all the so-called 'cures' on the market. Some months since my attention was called to Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a 'sick' or 'nervous' headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effects. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

BEST LAWNS AND GARDENS SELECTED BY JUDGE ADAM

Offers a Silver Cup for Annual Competition in a Cla to be Decided on.

The results of the judging of the lawns and gardens of the city has been handed in by Judge Adams and the results and his letter to the Peterborough Horticultural Society, donating a competitive cup, are given below:

Toronto, Aug. 27, 1917.

Gentlemen:—

I take great pleasure in handing you herewith a summary of results in the lawn and garden competition promoted by your society this summer for the beautification of Peterborough.

One could not help but be agreeably surprised at the skill shown by some of the competitors in the arrangement of flowering plants, and also with the interest taken in vegetable production.

The majority of those entered in the various classes deserve high commendation for the results obtained, particularly so Messrs. Kennedy, Williams and McKee, who, though really not eligible under your rules, went to much trouble and expense to keep up their enviable reputations as first class gardiners, which they have admirably done and with a wide margin to spare.

I am greatly indebted to yourself, Mr. Stocker, and other officers of the Society for assistance given and courtesy shown me, which made my work a real pleasure, and I sincerely hope that those who have not been fortunate enough to be among the winners this year, that that fact will only serve to stimulate their efforts another year. To that end I have much pleasure in forwarding you a sterling cup to be competed for in whichever class your society shall decide, the only provision which I shall impose is that it has to be won twice (not necessarily succession) before it becomes t property of the successful comp itor.

With best wishes for continu success and a deeper interest in yo competitions by the residents your progressive city, I remain,

Yours very truly,
FRED W. ADAMS.

A DOZEN STARS LOST ONE BY ONE IN TWO SEASONS

THE PASSING OF EDDIE PLANK MARKED THE END OF A REAL VETERAN.

One by one they are slipping out and it seems as if they were going by groups; in two seasons the game has lost a dozen of its most famous hurlers by the age route, for instance, Matty, Plank, Nap Rucker, Ford, Brown, Ed Walsh, Jean Dubuc, Joe Wood, Earl Moore, Ray Collins, Tom Hughes, Cy Falkenburg, all heroes every one of them, of countless battles on the diamond, contests that were thrillers from the opening inning to the finish

Outside of Chief Bender and Red Ames there are no hurlers in the game today who have a record in years of service that excites unusual interest. In the pitching averages of 1913 there can be found the names of seventeen hurlers who had put in ten or more seasons in big leagues up to that date. Today, scan the records as closely as possible and you will find the namees of only five pitchers in both major circuits who have seen ten or more years service.

With the passing of Edward Plank from baseball the game lost its real veteran he being the oldest in point of service in either league. The highly esteemed athlete and gentleman from Gettysburg, Pa., put in seventeen years, then comes his former teammate, the famous C. Albert Bender, with fifteen seasons, and the pace he is going at present would indicate the great Chippewa will last a few more seasons. The renowned Red Ames, formerly with the New York Giants, and now with the St. Louis Cardinals, is right with Bender in point of service, both breakin into the big game in 1903.

Walter Johnson is the third olde pitcher in the business, from poi of service, with Eddie Cicotte righ behind him. Ed broke into the gam that is, the majors, as a regular, i 1908, although he had a meal ther once before. John Wesley Coomb signed to pitch for Manager Mac back in 1907 and has been a bi league star ever since save for o period in which sickness kept hi out of the game. Slim Sallee appeared in the uniform of the St. Lou Cards in 1908 and has cut conside able figure in and out of the gam ever since; the end of this seaso will be his tenth. With the Giant today the famous Sallee seems to b as good as ever.

Customs Returns $7,000 Increase

The returns for the Peterborough Customs House are very much better than for August, 1916, as the comparisons given below will show. There were a lot of things that tended to give last year's results a good showing as compared with the year previous, but in spite of that the returns show an increase this year of over $7000.

August, 1917	$83,034.17
August, 1917	76,034.85

More Harvesters' Excursions West

Montreal, Sept. 1.—Representatives of the leading Canadian railways met today in Montreal and decided that, in view of the [illegible] shortage of farm labor in the West, it was advisable to arrange for a supplementary series of harvesters' excursions from Ontario and Quebec only. Those from east of Ottawa will leave September 11th, and those from Ottawa and west on September 12th.

Canadian Bacon May be Admitted

London, Sept. 1.—The King signed a proclamation prohibiting the importation of bacon, butter, hams, and lard, except under license.

The object of this action is to enable the Government to take over the entire purchase of the import articles enumerated and concentrate the purchase in various countries into a single organization. The food ministry is establishing in the United States a single buying agency.

Pending further arrangements, licenses will be granted certain importers of bacon, ham and lard from other countries than the United States to continue imports. Consignments of Canadian bacon will be under the same restrictions as American goods. Imported in behalf of the food ministry, they will be distributed through the ordinary channels at fixed terms as to commission and profits, thus protecting the public.

U.S. GRAIN MEN ALL SATISFIED AT WHEAT PRICE

FOOD ADMINISTRATION ACTION MAY MEAN LOWER PRICE FOR BREAD AND FLOUR.

Washington, Sept. 1.—A reduction in the price of bread is in sight today as the result of the fixing of $2.20 as the price per bushel of the 1917 wheat crop. The licensing system for flour and bread dealers will soon be put into effect and, although not extending to the small dealer, the food administration is expected to find a way to hold down bread prices.

Members of the price-fixing committee are agreed that a price of $2.20 will permit of a 14-ounce loaf of bread for five cents, allowing a fair profit to both the flour manufacturers and the baker.

Representatives of the producers began by voting for $2.50, and labor representatives for $1.84. The price set by Congress for the 1912 crop was taken into consideration by the committee in fixing a fair valuation for this year's harvest.

A despatch from Minneapolis says: Substantial reductions in the price of flour and fair returns to the producers of wheat will result from the fixing of $2.20 as the price for No. 1 Northern spring wheat at Chicago, in the opinion of local millers and grain men.

The price of $2.20 for the best grade of spring wheat at Chicago means $2.14 or $2.15 a bushel, according to the grain men here.

General satisfaction with the government price was voiced by the grain trade in general.

"The price fixed will naturally mean some reduction in the price of flour," said John Crosby, of Washburn-Crosby Company.

Grouchy Gus says: "It's a pity the rules won't permit of baseball games being umpired from the stands. At the average game there seems to be so much umpiring ability displayed by spectators that it is wasteful not to utilize it. Almost every can-dodger at Victoria park, for instance, hesitates not at all to demonstrate that it is rank extravagance to provide paid umpires."

WANT DIRECTOR TO BE IN CHARGE OF CHAPLAINS

CANADIAN CHAPLAINS WANT A MINISTER AT HOME TO GUIDE AFFAIRS.

London, Sept. 1.—The Canadian Chaplains Department here is urging most strongly the appointment of a Director of Chaplain Services in Canada, who is badly needed for the organization and cohesion of the work at home in view of the number of soldiers who have returned.

Ottawa has been requested to sanction an appointment, which is urged by chaplains of all denominations, but so far there has been no answer.

It is understood that this director in Canada, who would be appointed from this side, is to advise the Adjutant-General at Ottawa on matters connected with the chaplain services, would necessarily be a clergyman of extensive experience at the battle-front.

There is said to be considerable irritation in the chaplains' services over the attitude of some Canadian bishops in endeavoring to recall valuable chaplains from France for churches in Canada.

PRESENTATION TO MR. COLEMAN

The following account of a presentation to Mr. Chas. Coleman appears in the issue of The London Pioneer on July 27th:

"A presentation to Mr. C. Coleman was made in K6 shop, Field Gun Section, R. G. F. The chairman, Mr. A. Scott, before calling upon Mr. Hilbert, foreman, to make the presentation, said that Mr Coleman had volunteered his services in Canada to come to England to "do his bit," leaving his family and business to which he was about to return, after fulfilling his contract with the Government.

Mr. Hilbert, in making the presentation, spoke highly of the services Mr. Coleman had rendered to his country. He would miss him as a workman and also as leader of the famous quartette which had given so much pleasure to his fellow-workers in the past. In asking Mr. Coleman to accept the presentation, which consisted of a cigarette case and loving-cups, he said the presentation carried with it the esteem and respect of them all, but that they wished him God-speed and a safe journey.

Mr. Coleman, after thanking the chairman, Mr. Hilbert and shop mates, said that although he soon would be thousands of miles away, he would never forget the many friends he left behind in old England.

The meeting closed with Mr. Coleman singing "Never let the old flag fall,' after which he was accorded three cheers."

THE SHOE FACTORY BY-LAW

To the Editor of The Review.

Sir,—Kindly permit us to use your columns to make an explanation to the electors regarding the Shoe Factory Bylaw, which is to be voted upon on Thursday, the 6th day of September next.

This is one of the best factory propositions ever submitted to the city. Usually the city has given to a new factory a free site and an exemption from taxes. The Council and the people have endorsed this policy frequently.

In this case a free site is not asked for. The Ackerman Company have some space in their present harness factory building in which the shoe factory will be started. It will be a new industry, and it will have to compete for business with old-established concerns in other places. For this reason the company wishes to be able to calculate closely upon what its overhead expenses will be, and therefore asks that its assessment shall be fixed at the present amount for ten years. The city will not lose anything it now has. It will not give a site, and the company will continue to pay taxes on the full assessment of the lands and buildings it now has.

The company agrees to employ at least thirty hands, but expects to employ double that number before long. When the number of employes is increased, large premises will probably be needed, and in that case the company will erect a building on the vacant land it owns adjoining its present factory. Unless this building is erected, the city will not give the company anything, and if the new building is erected the only exemption will be on the new building, for the company will still pay taxes on the full assessment of the land, and even on the new building it will pay school taxes and patriotic and war rates. And for this small exemption, at most, the city will secure a new factory in a staple line that has every prospect of developing into a large industry.

At the present time there is no lack of employment. Even so, that is no reason why we should not try to add to the number of our prosperous industries and continue to build up the city. But when the war is over—and we all fervently hope that will be soon—more employment will be needed, and the more industries we then have the better it will be.

Other places—any other place—would jump at the chance of securing the shoe factory on the terms of this bylaw. We are quite certain the electors of Peterborough will support the bylaw, but we wish to point out that they can do that only by voting for it on September 6th, and we hope that the electors will remember the date and take the little trouble needed to vote for the bylaw and thus assist to advance the interests of our city.

Yours very truly,

JOS. J. DUFFUS,
Mayor.

A. A. McINTYRE,
Chairman Manufacturers' Committee.

SEND IT NOW! SMOKES WANTED BY THE SOLDIERS

THE OVERSEAS TOBACCO CLUB WANT YOUR NAME ON ITS LIST.

Before you go home today, send in a subscription to the Overseas Tobacco Fund to send Tobacco and Cigarettes to the Soldiers in the Trenches. The Peterboro boys and the men from this district all tell of the wonderful comfort that a smoke is to them in their hours off duty. Sometimes they are able to catch time between shots.

The amount you send will be duly acknowledged and your name on a card will be sent and you will surely get a letter of thanks from some of our brave lads.

Do it Now.

Dear Sir:—

I beg to acknowledge both shipments of tobacco and cigarettes, but have not had a real opportunity to write you until the present.

Have passed the tobacco and cigarettes amongst the boys of my sub section and each man has asked me to pass on to you his appreciation of same. Smokes are always acceptable and is one item the boys must have.

I am sitting in the gun pit dotting these few lines down after receiving information that we were to have a night off from firing. The other day when we were registering, a Hun stuck his carcass above his trench and he went up in smoke. It looks as if we are going to have another winter's campaign, but we have them on the run now and it might end just as sudden as it started.

Again thanking you for the smokes, I remain,

GUNNER F. E. PATTERSON.

France, July 2nd, 1917.

Dear Sir:

I just thought while I was sitting down here writing that I would send you a few lines in a letter instead of the card that was with the cigarettes that we received today, and I must say I hardly know how to thank you for them. I hope you will get this short note and if you like you may answer it. I would be very glad to hear from you. I remain,

FARMERS—
Protect Your Interests

There is great danger from fire during the threshing season. We respectfully offer the following suggestions as precautionary measures.

1—Use coal as fuel if possible.

2—Do not thresh when a heavy wind blows into your barn.

3—Be sure that an adequate supply of water is close at hand in accordance with the conditions of your insurance policy.

4—See that the engine is at least 26 feet from the nearest building or stack.

6—Allow no smoking about your buildings at any time.

7—Remember that any thresher not using a proper screen or spark arrester is liable for imprisonment and fine.

By keeping these points in mind you may save yourself and the company heavy losses.

CARRY CANADIAN FRUIT TO MILLION HOMES
University Girls in the Orchards
Loading Fruit Train
National Service
The Fruit Special

Canada's fruit crop must be utilized to the fullest extent this year to relieve the pressure upon other sources of food supply. Government authorities, the transportation companies and the growers are co-operating with this end in view. University and high school girls are taking the place of men who have gone to the front in the work of gathering in the crop, giving up their vacations to toil from morn till eve in the orchards. In order to bring the fruit to the consumer in the best of condition the Canadian Express Company is operating over the Grand Trunk lines each day a special train from the Niagara Peninsula carrying fruit only. This train which begins its run in the early afternoon at St. Catharines, Ont., is made up of the most modern type of express cars specially adapted for carrying fruit, having the maximum of ventilation. There is an average of twelve of these cars on the fruit special each day. The fruit is picked in the early part of the day and is carried from the orchards to special sheds erected at each of the fruit shipping points. These sheds being kept scrupulously clean and free from dust. This special train service makes it possible to place the fruit on the consumers table within twenty-four hours of its being picked.

Fortune Hunter Weds an Heiress

New York, Sept. 1. — Three months of matrimonial life have destroyed whatever illusion Mrs. Ethel Henrietta Freedman, an heiress, of Vancouver, B.C., might have had, and yesterday she obtained an order from Justice Guy, in the Supreme Court, for the arrest of her husband, Harry Aaron Freedman, pending an action for the recovery of $4,300 she alleges to have advanced him while on their honeymoon.

The young woman accuses her husband of being a fortune-hunter, and says he was impelled in his desire for marriage by the fact she is a beneficiary under her father's will. She says she married the defendant on May 16th, 1917, in Los Angeles, and alleges the marriage was consummated under false and fraudulent representations on the part of her husband, who, when courting her, she says, posed as a business man with considerable means.

EXEMPTION TRIBUNALS HOW THEY WILL WORK

Peterborough will Likely Have Two Boards in City and the Same Number in County.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—Eleven hundred and seventy-six tribunals have been located to deal with exemption applications under the Military Service Act. They are distributed as follows:—

Ontario 427, Quebec 300, Manitoba 93, Saskatchewan 57, Alberta 110, British Columbia 74, the Yukon 2, Nova Scotia 91, New Brunswick 4., Prince Edward Island 15.

In Montreal there will be 69 tribunals and in Toronto 30.

In the larger cities a unit of 7,500 of the population was fixed for each local tribunal.

The procedure, now that the Military Service Bill is on the statutes, will be in this order:

1. Issuance of a proclamation establishing the exemption tribunals.

2. Creation of a Parliamentary committee to appoint one member for each local tribunal the county judges to simultaneously appoint the other member.

3. Issuing of a proclamation calling up the first three classes—20 to 34 years of age.

When the last measure will be started depends upon how much time is taken in effecting the preliminaries respecting the constitution of the tribunals. At least a month will be required. When this calling up proclamation issues a certain time will be given in which to report for duty or else secure exemption.

By the provisions of the regulations now being drafted by the Advisory Board under the Military Service Act, it is proposed that when the proclamation issues all who are affected must report to the tribunals, which will act simultaneously as registration boards and also consider applications for exemption. Those who do not secure exemption will be drafted for service, and, as stated, those who fail to report at all will be treated as deserters.

1918 Gowns Will Have But One Sleeve

Chicago, Aug. 31.—Despite the fact that women's evening gowns with only one sleeve will be fashionable this season, there will be no reduction in the price. Quite the contrary.

Mme. Margarite, one of the promoters and exhibitors, told an interviewer that the war had tamed Dame Fashion.

"Wools must be conserved," said Mme. Margarite. "Our soldiers must have warm clothes, so our women must be content with just about half the cloth in their tailored attire."

A casual view would indicate that the women are quite well satisfied with half, or even less, than the usual amount of clothing. Anyway, coats are to be shorter, skirts narrower, lapels to be only lines, a sort of camouflaged lapel, and there will be no patch pockets.

Designers have taken some ideas from the harems. One beautiful model came out wearing a bifurcated skirt, rich in oriental hues, accompanied by ankle bloomers of radiant hue.

For evening wear, silhouette gowns will be popular. They are extremely cobwebby.

CAUGHT BEAUTIFUL TROUT.

Mr. G. A. Jordan, P.M. of Minden arrived in Lindsay yesterday, bringing with him one of the largest specimens of the speckled trout tribe ever seen in that town. The fish weighed 12 lbs., measured 33 inches in length, and was taken in tow by the suave magistrate in the placid waters of Maple Lake. Several parties viewed it at the G. T. R. station and pronounced it the best they ever saw.

Many a man who is willing to be good is unable to make good.

One Candid Profiteer

(Christian Science Monitor.)

The St. Louis coal mine operator who testified that men in the coal industry took excessive profits because they could get them should be given credit for his candor. Others who take excessive profits are seldom so frank as he. But his testimony should lead the public to demand an administration of the law relating to necessaries which will make it impossible for the profit-grabber to take all he can get.

SALMON SCARCE RAISINS HIGH FLOUR LOWER

Interest in the grocery trade was focussed on the recent order of the Food Controller in prohibiting the sale of canned goods in Canada in the West until October 1, and in Eastern Canada until October 15. Wholesalers assert that there will probably be very little difference in trade returns as a result, owing to the small consumption of this particular class of canned goods during the months of September and October. There is only one class of people on whom it may bear somewhat heavily, namely, the farming communities of the West during the harvesting period, as they are big consumers of canned commodities at that time. Prices on canned salmon were not announced during the week there being some possibility that domestic trade might not have the option of one-pound sockeye talls at all as the pack is expected to be light.

There was a movement toward higher prices in provisions, induced by the recent high price of hogs. Live hogs, however, took a big drop and this may presage easier prices in meats, coming as a result of the British embargo on bacon. Both butter and eggs were higher. Cheese was also slightly firmer in price. New crop honey is reported light and prices are higher in consequence

There was considerable activity in the dried fruit market during the week, as the California Raisin Association named their opening prices, which were considerably higher than the opening of last year. Prunes also advanced at Coast points. Rices are in firm market and a more general shifting toward higher levels took place during the week Other lines in which advances were registered during the week included sardines, lobsters, compound jams, shrimps, icings, baking powder, marmalade.

In the sugar maket steadiness prevailed with a disposition to mark time in view of an easier position in the primary market in the United States. Ontario winter wheat flour was lower in price Manitoba flour remained unchanged and mills are booking ahead for no greater period than thirty days, owing to the uncertainty over control of the industry. Business was fairly good in grocery trade during the week.

HARDWARE MEN ARE UNCERTAIN OF THE MARKET

"Hardware and Metal," Says

There is a general hesitancy in the iron and steel market, due to the uncertainty with respect to price-fixing in the United States As yet this has had little apparent effect on the Canadian market for manufactured products, as the price changes recorded during the past week in an upward direction have been quite numerous. Galvanized sheets give evidence of a weaker tendency, a decline having been recorded in one quartr during the week. This decline has been induced not so much by the uncertain condition in the United States markets as to the recent ruling of the Dominion Government that duty on the accretion in price between the time of purchase and the date of shipment shall not be charged on more than 25 per cent. of such advance This has permitted the readjustment in price noted Lower quotations on black sheets have been made by some of the American mills to Canadian dealers, which gives an inkling of the trend of the primary markets. Lines in which advances have been recorded during the week include screwdrivers, force pumps, hickory chisel handles, lampburners, skidding tongs, timber carriers, canthooks, peavies, stopcocks, horse bits, bread mixers, sawbucks, bucksaws, ice saws door pulls, lantern globes Linseed oil was in firm market with advances recorded. Turpentine was in firm tone with indications that difficulties may develop on transportation from primary shipping points Business has been seasonably good during the week.

HAS FOUR "HOUR HANDS"

Making Traveller's Watch Keep Good Time Everywhere

The average commercial traveller who journeys about Canada has to keep a close watch on his timepiece to see that it is telling the truth. There is an hour's difference in time when you enter and leave some cities, and it's an important matter that you do not forget to set your watch back or forward an hour, according to which way you are travelling. If you overlook it you may miss a train. An express official who travels almost all the time and is so busy that he sometimes forgets to change his watch, frequently had an experience of this kind. Sometimes he arrived an hour ahead of time, or perhaps an hour after a train left, giving him time enough for reflection.

Then he conceived the idea of making his watch tell all four different times — Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific. He went to a jeweller [illegible] put on the timepiece—each of a different color, so that he can recognise it at a glance, on the face of his watch. For instance, the ordinary hour-hand, set at Eastern time, is silver; a blue hand, set an hour back, represents central time; a red hand, for mountain time, is set two hours back, and a green hour-hand, three hours back, represents Pacific time. You can do this to your own watch. The jeweller will make a set of hands of these colors and alter your watch for a consideration of a few dollars.

DURING THUNDERSTORMS

Avoid Telephones, Registers, Radiators, Chandeliers, Wet Floors, etc.

During a thunderstorm if you are indoors: (1) Keep away from the stove and chimney. The hot gases from the chimney may conduct the lightning to and down the chimney.

(2) Do not take a position between two bodies of metal, as the stove and water pipe, for example. An exception to being near metals is the case of an iron bed. One of the safest places, is on a mattress in an iron bed, provided you do not touch the metal. The metal surrounding you makes a safe cage which will prevent the lightning from reaching a person inside.

(3) Do not stand on a wet floor nor draw water from the well or faucet. (4) Do not stand directly under a chandelier, near a radiator, nor on a register. (5) Do not use the telephone.

Inspiration to Anglers

The weather may be unpleasant, the fish shy, luck villainous, but never be discouraged; luck must turn, the fish must feed, the sun must shine and you must catch fish. The poorest day's fishing is often concluded with the capture of a record fish.

Deer or mutton fat will be found to be an excellent dressing for fishing lines. It will keep them soft and pliable, and also keep a fly line floating.

Green feed in some form, grit, oyster shell and a dry dust bath are four essentials to egg production in early winter.

Keep a Bag of Bran Handy

Bathing in hard water is bad for the skin and is apt to make it course. Rainwater makes a wonderful bath but is hard to get, and when that is impossible the water should be softened by throwing into it a small bag of bran or a teaspoonful of baking soda. Even a bag containing ordinary yellow cornmeal will take away the harshness of the water.

Baked Pears

Fill a baking dish with whole pears. Wipe them but do not remove stems. Pour around them 1 large cup boiling water, add 2 tablespoons sugar and bake slowly, basting frequently. Serve cold, sugar and cream.

Ice Cream and Pineapple

Place a layer of vanilla ice cream in a mould, then shredded pineapple and alternate until the dish is full. Cover carefully and pack in ice and salt. Let stand half an hour.

"I was troubled for a considerable time with a very unpleasant, disfiguring Rash, which covered my face and for which I used applications and remedies without relief. WING POWER OF BIRDS

Stormy Petrel's Great Power of Flight —The Swift Swallow

There is nothing more wonderful in Nature than the power of flight possessed by birds, and no subject which yields more startling facts upon investigation. "The way of an eagle in the air" is one of those things of which Solomon expressed himself ignorant; and there is something truly marvellous in the mechanism which controls the scythe-like sweep of wings peculiar to most birds of prey. Yet even naturalists of the first order have had little or nothing to say about the power of flight in birds, while some of them speak on very insufficient evidence. Witness Michelet's statement that the swallow flies at the rate of 340 miles an hour. Roughly, this gives us 1,000 miles in four hours, but naturally, even in its swiftest dashes, the swallow does not attain to anything like this speed. But the Duke of Argyll is rather under than over the mark when he computes the speed at more than 100 miles per hour.

The mechanism of flight in the swallow is carried through an ascending scale, until in the swift it reaches its highest degree, both in [illegible] facility of evolution. Although there are birds which may, and probably do, attain to the speed of 150 miles per hour, this remarkable rate is not to be looked for in any of the birds of the swallow kind. In their migrations swallows stick close to land, and never leave it unless compelled. They cross straits at the narrowest part, and are the most easily fatigued of all birds. Apparently, though they possess considerable speed, they have no powers of sustained flight. These attribute belong in the most remarkable degree to certain ocean birds.

Anyone who has crossed the Atlantic must have noticed that gulls accompany the ship over the whole distance—or, at least, are never absent. The snowy "sea swallows," as the terns are called, seem quite tireless; though the petrel and the albatross alone deserve the name of oceanic birds. No sea deserts seem to bound the range of the petrels, and they are found at every distance from land. Different species haunt different seas—from the fulmar in the far north to the giant petrel, which extends its flight to the ice banks of the south. Here the Antarctic and snowy petrels appear, often floating upon the drift ice, and never leaving those dreary seas.

Trifles

Out of the blunt sword thrown away
  What time the coward fled,
The king's son turning back the fray
  His hosts to triumph led.

Out of the loaves and fishes scant,
  Out of brotherhood,
Quelling the gnawing pangs of want
  Christ fed the multitude.

Out of the rock ungraced with dew,
  The rock by storm unbowed,
The rod of Moses gently drew
  The largess of the cloud.

Out of the trifles light as air
  If but our eyes could see,
Our souls might shape the fabric fair
  Of life and destiny!

—Edward Wilbur Mason

Who Ever Heard of Such a Thing?

"Hobson," said Muggins, "they tell me you've taken your boy away from the graded school. What's that for?"

"'Cause," said Hobson, "the master ain't fit to teach him."

"Oh," said Muggins, "I've heard he is a very good master."

"Well," replied Hobson, apologetically, "all I know is he wanted to teach my boy to spell 'taters with a 'p.'"

Save the Children

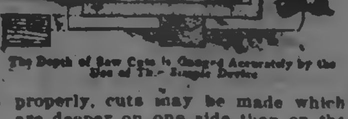
Mothers who keep a box of Baby's Own Tablets in the house may feel that the lives of their little ones are reasonably safe during the hot weather. Stomach troubles, cholera infantum and diarrhoea carry off thousands of little ones every summer, in most cases because the mother does not have a safe medicine at hand to give promptly. Baby's Own Tablets cure these troubles, or if given occasionally to the well child will prevent their coming on. The Tablets are guaranteed by a government analyst to be absolutely harmless even to the newborn babe. They are especially good in summer because they regulate the bowels and keep the stomach sweet and pure. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PROTECT MIGRATORY BIRDS

At the North American Conservation Conference, held in Washington, in 1909, and attended by representatives of Canada, Newfoundland, United States and Mexico, the international problems presented by the proper protection of natural resources were clearly recognised. With regard to migratory wild life the necessity for co-operative action is especially obvious. In Canada and the United States the protection of this invaluable resource is vested in the individual provinces and states, respectively. Protective laws were extremely diverse in both character and efficiency, with the result that the beneficial effects of adequate protection in one portion of the continent were largely nullified by the lack of similar measures in other sections. To secure stricter and more uniform protection negotiations between Canada and the United States were undertaken. The arrangement was satisfactorily concluded, the later ratification by the United States Senate constituting the final step. The treaty does not affect the administration of the provincial game laws, but insures in Canada, as in the United States, the minimum of protection regarded as essential to the permanent preservation of the wild life resources of North America.

Depth Gauge on a Hand Saw

In making the saw cuts for joints in timber, much time can be saved, and the job made more nearly uniform, by using a depth gauge on the hand saw. A simple contrivance for this purpose is made by clamping a steel square on the side of the saw, as shown. By adjusting the square properly, cuts may be made which are deeper on one side than on the other. When this kink was used by a carpenter, his fellow workmen immediately followed suit by rigging up devices in imitation of it.—Popular Mechanics.



The Depth of Saw Cuts is Gauged Accurately by the Use of This Simple Device

In the event of a fisherman using last year's gut, it will be found that soaking them in a solution of glycerine and water (ten per cent. glycerine) for about three or four hours, will strengthen and improve them.

When a fishing rod is not in use it should be hung up, and not tied tightly in the bag. This will prevent any pressure being brought to bear upon the joints.

AGREE ON RULES FOR OPERATORS

The board of conciliation appointed by the Minister of Labor, and who are holding their sessions in the City Hall, Toronto, to settle the difference between the G.N.W. Telegraph Company and their operators, agreed on the rules and working conditions for the future.

Yesterday afternoon the question of wages was taken up, and Judge Gunn, the charman, expects to finish not later than this evening.

The representatives of both sides are working together, evidently with the one object, of making a settlement that will be in the best interests of all concerned.

The squad marched so poorly and [illegible] that the captain shouted indignantly: "You knock-kneed big footed idiots, you are not worthy of being drilled by a captain. What you want is a rhinoceros to drill you, you wretched lot of donkeys." Then, turning aside, "Now, lieutenant, you take charge of them!"

Canadians in U.S. To be Conscripted

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Colonel John S. Dennis, commanding the western division of the British recruiting service, said that enough Canadians and Britons had enlisted since the recruiting of England's subjects in the United States to make more than six full battalions (6,000 men).

"I am authorised," he added, "to say that Britons and Canadians living in the United States who do not voluntarily enlist within the next few weeks will be conscripted."

She was a smart girl, indeed, and was going home on Easter holidays. She sat in the corner of the compartment with her tiny niece upon [illegible] the tunnel at Enniscorthy, all at once the passengers heard a child's voice:

"Kiss me, too, auntie."

"Eileen, darling," came the reply, as quick as thunder after lightning, "you should say kiss me twice; kiss me two is not grammar."

Beware of Little Losses

Big mistakes do happen now and then and are easily detected because they are big. Little mistakes causing little losses are made every day and are unnoticed at the time. Ben Franklin said. "A small leak will sink a great ship." So small losses in a store will make a big business bankrupt.

The sure way of preventing these losses is by adopting a National Cash Register store system. This system automatically registers all sales made and shows who made them. It also prints an infallible receipt for the customers. Prevents losses through mistakes and hrough disputes with customers.

There is a National Cash Register specially adapted to the needs of your store. Write us and our agent will call and talk over the matter with you.

MILITARY ACT TO BE ENFORCED

BRITISH MAKE SUCCESSFUL RAID NORTH OF CITY OF LENS

Many Germans Killed and Taken Prisoners—French Score New Triumphs on Aisne Front—Italian Airships Bomb Austrian Naval Base.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 4.—The enemy's artillery showed great activity during the night northeast of Ypres, says today's official statement. "We advanced our lines slightly northeast of St. Julien. We carried out a successful raid last night directly north of Lens. Our troops kiled a number of Germans and captured several prsoners. A hostile raiding party was driven off south of La Bassee."

Hun Raiders Checked.

Paris, Sept. 4.—Attacks were made by Germans last night on the French lines in the Hutrebise region on the Aisne front and east of the Meuse in the Verdun sector. Officers announced today that both were checked by French fire.

Raids by French troops at Sapigneul between Sousin and Somme-Py in Champagne and in Argonne region resulted in capture of prisoners and material.

Airplanes Active.

Rome, Sept. 4.—Thirty Italian airplanes have dropped nine tons of bombs on the Austrian naval base at Pola, causing destruction and large conflagrations, it is announced officially.

French Town Raided.

Paris, Sept. 4.—The French official of statement follows: "Not far from Hurtebis farm the fire of our forces broke an attack led by detachments of the enemy shock roops. They suffered serious losses wihout obtaining their objectives.

In the Champagne district French detachments penetrated the enemy trenches along a front of 800 mtres and to the entire depth of the enemy's first position. After having destroyed numerous gas tanks and blowing up various shelters our men returned to their lines bringing some 40 prisoners, four machine guns, one trench cannon and other important material.

In Argonne another surprise attack to the north of Vienne Le Chateau gave us prisoners. The vicinity of Calais and Dunkirk was visited last night by German aviators, who threw down bombs. Calaias reports that several persons were either killed or wounded.

NO DELAY IN CONSCRIPTION

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Montreal, Sept. 4.— Rumors that the Military Service Act would not be introduced are described by Sir Robert Borden in letter to correspondent here, as baseless. The Prime Minister also says: "I am unable to share the apprehensions as to the effect of this law in this country. We have sent a Canadian expeditionary force to the battle front in the name of Canada—It is idle and shameless hypocrisy to pretend, as the chief faction opposed to this law do, that because these men went voluntarily, men at home have no obligation to support them. It would be a far worse fate for our country than any that has yet been seriously suggested as possible.

AUSTRIANS MAKING VAIN RESISTANCE TO ITALIANS

Chief of Staff Goes to Italian Front to Attempt to Reorganize Army Shattered by Recent Defeats—Monte San Cabriale Ready to Surrender.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Udine, Sept. 4.—Field Marshal Von Ars, Chief of staff of the Austrian army, is reported to be inspecting Italian front for the purpose of reorganizing his troops, demoralized by many recent defeats. Meanwhile the Italians continue their steady advance and are spreading over a larger tract of country especially through the Brestovizza Valley and over the Bansizze plateau, capturing trench after trench and in some cases finding contingents of Austrian troops literally exhausted and suffering from thirst and hunger, their means of communication having been cut off by the well directed Italian fire.

Monte San Cabriole still is making desperate efforts at resistance, but the Italian pickets are gradually creeping up the slopes making its fal only a matter of time, when as an official laughingly say here "The Austrians well execute another strategical retreat."

Army officers and others who have read Austrian war bulletins are much amused over the statements that the Italians are fleeing when, as a matter of fact, Austrians constanly are losing territory. Since the beginning of the present advance the Italians have gained ground every day while all Austrian efforts to recapture the lost positions have been shattered by the energetic resistance of Cadorna's army.

GERMAN SUBS FAIL IN HUN EXPECTATIONS

London, Sept. 4.—The best presentation of the submarine losses yet seen appears in the Times' engineering supplement. The writer estimates the net loss during the whole of the present year at 2,550,000 tons. The net loss means the total loss less newly-built or otherwise newly-acquired tonnage. The Germans expected a million tons net loss monthly.

The writer emphasizes the fact that allied neutral vessels are not included, nor disabled vessels, which are temporarily useless, and absorb the labor of repairing. Ordinary casualties at sea are also excluded from the figures.

CANUCKS AGAIN BEAT PRUSSIANS

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Sept. 4.—With the exception of killed and died of wounds on the increase the lists of casualties among the Canadian troops at the front have been growing heavier every day during past week. Between Saturday noon and Sunday midnight 1718 names were given out from the records office. Last night's list contained 665 names. Since Saturday, Aug. 25 a total of 6,998 casualties have been given out. The artillery and field services have suffered heavily from gas poisoning. The list of "gassed" among all the services is unusually long. The indications are that the casualty lists will continue to be very heavy for some time.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 4, 1917

HATRED AGAINST ENGLAND.

"Be calm," said Fernand Villeneuve at an anti-conscription meeting in Montreal on August 8th, "but [illegible] should be no discussion, as our Solicitor General, Meighen, wishes. It means that we should be ready to do our part to defend our liberties, which are in danger. It is not necessary to be carried away, but we should resist men like Borden. Conscription is a crime against this country and the Allies. Men in Ontario are preparing other countries to say that the French-Canadians deserve to be shot. We are not afraid of the trenches. We should wait for our enemies here, not strangers, but the traitors of Ottawa. Let them put us in these trenches, and we will show that we are not afraid, and are ready to meet our enemies. Our reasons against conscription are: First, our love for Canada, and, secondly, hatred against England, which will not respect small minorities. Before fighting for England to protect her friends, let us remain here to defend our little minority in Ontario, who are suffering from the English-Canadians. Why does not England respect our rights today as before?

"If a recruiting officer comes to you," concluded Villeneuve, "do not be afraid to give him a thrashing, and if you have anything to shoot with, don't be afraid to use it."

DEFINITE THOUGHT.

"It would be a wrong thing at this juncture to entrust the work to any other man than the present Prime Minister."—Hugh Guthrie, M. [illegible] (Liberal).

NATIONAL NEWS SERVICE.

All the leading daily papers in Canada are now directly connected with each other and with the city of New York in a news service that will be national in every sense of the term and will bring the different parts of the continent more closely together in a community of interest than has ever been the case before.

Between the Maritime Provinces and British Columbia nature has set formidable barriers preventing the free interchange of news by leased wire. Even betwen Ontario and Quebec, on the one hand, and the Pacific provinces on the other, no free flow of news, day or night, has been possible because of the thousands of miles of wilderness along the north shore.

The three "great gaps" as they have been termed, comprise the belts of unproductive territory between St. John and Montreal, between Ottawa and Winnipeg, and between Calgary and Vancouver.

The united effort of the Canadian daily press to establish a truly Canadian national news service failed and came to naught when confronted by the grave financial problem of carrying day and night leased wires over these wide stretches of mileage.

But, when last winter Sir Robert Borden came to realize that herein lay a great and insistent task of nationaltional unification and the decision of his Government to come to the aid of the daily publishers of Canada was implemented by tht inclusion by the minister of finance in his estimates of a sum for that purpose, the path at once opened for the attainment of the present happy goal.

The prime minister has honored the new service by a message over his own signature. Other messages of congratulation, including one for E. F. Slack, of the Montreal Gazette, president of the Canadian Press, Limited, which were printed yesterday, were exchanged over great stretch of wire, nearly five thousand miles, physically uniting Sidney, Cape Breton, with Victoria, Vancouver Island, and including in the one circuit, Halifax, Moncton, St. John, Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Hamilton, London, the head of the Great Lakes, Winnipeg, the citits of the Pacific, Nelson, in the Kootenay, and Vancouver.

Including both day and night wires, the new association will operate nearly twelve thousand miles of leased wire mileage and employ between eighty and ninety expert telegraphers, in the interchange of [illegible] parts of the Dominion.

The new association has been fortunate enough to make reciprocal arrangements with the Associated Press of New York, whereby not only will the news of that association, recognized as the most comprehensive and efficient in the world, be available to Canadian readers, but what is of outstanding importance to Canada and the development of the Dominion, a full service of Canadian news, will for the first time be placed at the disposal of the daily press of the United States.

A CHAPLAIN'S OPINION.

Tells of the Courage of Men at the Front.

Rev. John Garbutt, a former pastor of the Cobourg Methodist church, who went overseas with an Ontario county battalion, writes from France as follows concerning the courage and good work of the Canadians at the front:

"The Canadians are playing a most important part in the great offensive which is taking place on the Western front. We have been very serious fighting since the 9th of April, and have made considerable progress.

"I have had a great amount of satisfaction in my work during the last two months. Our brigade had to move at 7 a.m. on Sunday to make our journey in easy stages to the place appointed us in a great offensive. I asked the Colonel for the privilege of holding services on the Saturday. It was a cold, bleak showery day, but we had a fine parade service, and afterwards I held a communion service. A great many stayed for sacrament. It was only two days later that a number of those who stayed for sacrament gave their all for the cause.

"I find no difficulty in getting the soldiers to attend voluntary services. A week ago I had charge of a prayer meeting with three hundred men present. On the Sunday following I gave sacrament at a voluntary service in the Y. M. C. A. tent to a large number of men. I am holding on an average five services on Sunday and one service on a week evening. I know that real definite work is being done. I have had every opportunity of seeing the wounded as the stretcher-bearers brought them into the regimental aid post in the field, and in very many cases have had definite assurance of their faith and confidence in God.

"The courage of our men is sublime. No one who has not seen a modern battle can realize what it is like. To describe it as awful is to use the correct word. A barrage of fire from guns of all kinds is beyond description. One cannot conceive of anyone passing through it alive. But into this curtain of fire these brave boys go with undaunted courage and pluck. While many fall some pass through unhurt, but no one seemingly falters."

Slackers Once Came Here.

In the Civil War period the American slacker could, and often did, seek refuge in Canada, but the Dominion is closed to him now. He sometimes ventured a return across the line and then he was usually caught, and, after imprisonment, forced to do his bit. In time he came to be classed with the "bounty jumper," a professional deserter, and a parody on "Tramp, Tramp, Tramp, the Boys Are Marching," of Boston composition, was taken to apply to him, as well as to the culprit who was, perhaps, more sordid than cowardly. One verse ran:

"In the prison cell I sit and I wear
the prison clothes,
And they put me on the hardest
kind of fare;
When I've nothing else to do I play
checkers with my nose,
And I almost have to give up in despair."

A Speech Recalled.

Sir Joseph Wesley Flavelle, addressing the Ottawa Canadian Club last winter, said he had been over at the front, and he saw these young men suffering uncomplainingly. "I said to myself," he said, "My God, what can we do to make ourselves worthy of these young men, so that when they come back we can look them in the face?"

Then pointing to the audience he said: "You parliamentarians, you public men, you judges of the supreme court, you heads of industrial concerns, what are you doing to make yourselves worthy of these young men? What are you doing in this war?" Discussing the question of profiteering, he said dramatically: "To hell with profits." This speech has been given an odd significance by recent events.

Invasion by Prussians Cause of Constant Fear Among the Swiss People

THE question of the possible invasion of Switzerland by German forces, which has recently occupied attention to a considerable extent, is, of course, not a new one. The Swiss authorities recognized invasion as something more than a possibility as soon as the war broke out, over three years ago, and, in proclaiming the country's neutrality, they also announced the Swiss Government's intention of defending that neutrality against all attempts at violation, from whatever quarter they might come. The necessary preparations were carried through with an energy and thoroughness characteristic of a people which had maintained its independence against all comers, with almost unbroken success, for over 600 years, and so effective were these arrangements that it was found possible, after some time, for Switzerland to reduce the force which she had rushed to her frontiers. Her neighbors, as Felix Calonder, now vice-president of the Republic, declared in a memorable speech at Bellinzona, had given her assurances which could not but be regarded as satisfactory. He hastened to explain that the sentinels who still remained on the Swiss frontiers, and the garrisons of the fortifications closing the great passes, were not to be taken as a sign that Switzerland distrusted her friends. They showed the world, however, clearly enough, that Switzerland was not inclined to take any risks. And at the first hint of invasion, the Government at Berne acts with promptitude. It looks with skepticism on the report, but issues immediate orders for the mobilization of three additional divisions of the Swiss army.

FELIX CALONDER

As to the probabilities or improbabilities of invasion, it is perhaps idle to discuss a question which must necessarily be so much a matter of pure speculation. Paris, naturally enough, viewed any such possibility with serious concern. It looked at once to Belfort and remembered the statement of Colonel Egli, during his trial at Zurich, that, in the event of a German invasion, the German forces could be at Lucerne on the first night. Even Paris, however, when it came to analyze the position, steadily became more confident. There was much rumor and much vigorous writing, but when it was all subjected to the inexorable test of fact, it was found to have sprung from "a certain concentration of German forces near Switzerland, particularly behind Lake Constance." Whatever there may or may not have been in it, however, it has served the purpose of making quite clear to all, concerned or unconcerned, that Switzerland is still ready to defend her neutrality with the utmost determination. Some 200,000 of the best soldiers in the world, and "a perfectly impossible terrain," might give any invader pause.

A Curious Zoological Colony.

Investigations recently made on the little known and rarely visited Henderson or Elizabeth Island have led to the discovery of a little colony of zoological total abstainers. The island, which is uninhabited, is situated about one hundred and twenty miles north east of Pitcairn Island—itself sufficiently out of the way, but famous as the home of the descendants of the mutineers of the Bounty. There is no water on it, not even a swamp, and it is only six miles long, yet it harbors quite a menagerie—a kind of rat, a lizard, described as very abundant, and no fewer than four kinds of birds, all peculiar to the island. These are a fruit pigeon, a lorikeet, or honey-eating parrakeet, a little rail or crake, and a reed warbler. The strange thing about the inmates of this curious little natural aviary of coral rock, surrounded by waves instead of wires, is that two of its inmates are birds, one especially associated with water—the rail and the warbler. Yet it is evident that these, like the rest, must do without drinking unless the dew can slake their thirst or they have acquired toleration for sea water as a beverage.

Where Do They Drink?

A curious feature of animal life in the deserts of the south-west is that rabbits, quail, squirrels, deer, antelope, the mountain sheep, and any number of reptiles and insects live at great distances from visible water.

OLD ZEB'S ESCAPE

He Is Arrested as a Moonshiner, but Gets Away.

REVENUE MEN ARE FOOLED.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, [illegible] by Associated Literary Press.]

I HAD an idea that the old possum hunter was making illicit whisky and that he could lead me to his still if he would, and one day I said to him:

"You aren't afraid that I am a revenue spy, are you?"

"Lawd, no!" he laughed.

"Tell me about some of your experiences," I said.

He smiled, and it was several minutes before he said:

"I got three or four bad scares, but none of 'em was ekal to the one I'm now going to tell you about. My still was a small one, and to make any profit I had to carry my own kegs away. I had three or four ten gallon kegs, and after a run I'd shoulder one and carry it six miles over the mountain to a sartin place and sell the stuff. One day I bring a keg up to the house, so's to git an airly start, an' I find the ole woman lookin' mighty upsot.

"DO YO' SURRENDER, ZEB WHITE?"

"'Zeb White,' she says, 'yo' ar' gwine to git cotched tonight, as sure's yer born! If yo' ar' jest don't say nuthin' except that sulphur water is good fur my rheumaticks. Now go on, and may the Lawd be with yo'.'"

"That was queer talk," I said.

"Powerful quare, sah, but it turned out all right. I'd got about half way over the ridge and was feelin' that I'd git through all right, when a man suddenly steps out on the path in front of me and cries out fur me to stand. Other men cum up outer the airth, as it was, and I knowed I'd been took. I stood still and sez:

"'Wall, who is it, and what's wanted?'

"'Do yo' surrender, Zeb White?'

"'In co'se, but what d'ye want?'

"'We want yo', sah, and we've got yo' at last! Bin layin' fur yo' fur three months past.'

"As I walked along with 'em I knowed they had a dead case on me. They had a camp not fur away, and when we reached it I made out that there was five men in the crowd. They was jest tickled to death, too, over my captur'. They took the keg off my shoulder and put handcuffs on me, and I heard one of 'em say I would git at least two y'ars in prison. Bimeby the boss o' the gang lifts up the keg and smells of it and sez:

"Then another man smells o' the keg, then another, and purty soon I seed they was puzzled. Bimeby I see one of 'em pulls out a gimlet and bores a hole, and when I seed what cum out o' that keg I was so dun knocked out that I couldn't speak. If it wasn't water I'm a possum! The ole woman's words about sulphur water and rheumaticks hit me all at once, and I began to laugh. That set the boss of the gang almost wild. He yelled at me:

"'Zeb White, yo' ole reprobate, but I'm a mind to throw yo' over a cliff! What ar' yo' doin' with a keg of water on yo'r shoulder?'

"'It's fur the old woman's rheumaticks.'

"I never seed five madder men in all my bo'n days," laughed Zeb, "and sum of 'em were fur givin' me the switch. As they had no proofs agin me they had to take off the handcuffs and let me go, but I tell yo' it did hurt their feelin's to do it. When I got home the ole woman sez:

"'Zeb, did yo' find company on the mountain?'

"'Yes. Five revenue men.'

"'Did they seem to feel powerful bad about it?'

"'They did, fur suah. When did yo' change them kegs on me?'

"'When you went back to the still. I just felt what was gwine to happen and wanted to save yo'.'"

"That was a sharp trick," I said as the old man refilled his pipe.

"Couldn't be beat!" he chuckled. "And the next keg o' whisky all went fur shoes, kaliker and snuff fur her."

WEALTH OF FRANCE

Little Outward Display, but There's Plenty of Riches.

It has long been known to the economist and statistician that France is the richest country in Europe. But the casual observer rarely realizes that fact because in France there is little outward display of wealth.

To assign the inhabitants of a small provincial town to their respective places in the scale of wealth one must have a very keen insight into French social manners and customs. The accumulation of riches does not draw in its train all those differences in the way of life, in dress and social position which we are wont to associate with it in other countries.

One may go into the principal cafe of a French town and watch two men playing billiards. They appear to be on a footing of perfect familiarity one toward another. There would be no way of telling that one man was living on an income of $20,000 a year and that the other was a druggist barely able to meet his current expenses. Americans stopping at a Parisian pension and paying perhaps $1.50 a day apiece for room and meals, sit at the same table with a French family, presumably that of a clerk. They are amazed to learn that the head of the family is a cabinet minister.

When he has laid by a "pile," which the Englishman or American would consider ample to justify him in taking a house in the suburbs, "climbing" in society and retiring from business, the Frenchman still clings to business.

Although his everyday expenses are very probably less, he has as a rule far heavier drains on his purse. Each of his daughters will claim a handsome dowry if she is to be married well, and these dowries must be paid without impoverishing the business.

This system of interwoven family and business arrangements naturally is associated with the closeness of the ties of French families. A man and wife would as soon think of deserting each other as of deserting their "in-laws."

In no country is the passion for hoarding money developed to such a degree as it is in France. The bounds of praiseworthy thrift and economy are too often left behind and the passion for saving grows into miserly avarice. But pauperism has been reduced to the lowest possible minimum in France.

Most of the tradesmen have two or three lines of financial defence behind which to retire in case of business reverses. Small trading leaves no slur and the Frenchman feels no passion for disassociating himself from anything suggestive of the shop.

The barriers of class and caste fell with Louis XVI.'s head. There is no straining of one class to enter another, and consequently very little of that sense of discomfort which arises from false position. Few men in France find it desirable, or even profitable, to conceal their social origin.

England's Naval Genius.

Sir Eric Geddes (he was knighted last year) is only forty-one years old, and is the ablest administrator in the British Empire. Mr. Winston Churchill is a brilliant parliamentarian and writer, but he was a failure in naval management at the opening of the war. Sir Edward Carson is a great lawyer and politician, but not an executive. Geddes, as a boy in India, decided that he wanted to be an engineer and run railroads. He came to the United States and spent some years in practical railroad work. Twenty years ago, when he was only twenty-one, Geddes went back to India, where his rise in railroad administration was marvelous. Later on he became a railroad manager in England, and at the outset of the war he handled troops and supplies both in England and in France, and Kitchener learned to rely absolutely upon his efficiency. He went to the aid of the French Government when the railroad situation needed straightening-out after the battle of the Somme. Then he became Sir Douglas Haig's director-general of transportation. He more than anyone else developed the business of munition production in England. Two or three months ago Sir Edward Carson needed him at the Admiralty, and he was given a temporary rank of Vice-Admiral with the title of Controller of Shipping. This young railroad man of American training has now the titles of major-general and vice-admiral, besides having been knighted by the King. Geddes has the reputation of being a genius for cutting through obstacles and getting things done. Everybody co-operates with him wherever he goes.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Review of Reviews

PEEPING INTO ARCADIA.

Once upon a time two teachers of singing met. As they were not bigots filled with jealousy, they engaged in conversation, comparing experiences here and in Europe before the war. It was discovered that one had studied mainly in Paris, the other in New York and London. Each sang well. Each admired the other's voice. Thus they began to inquire about the vocal theories held by each. They examined and compared their notions on voice production, on breathing, on vocal gymnastics, on diction. They found that in essentials they were agreed, despite the fact that they had studied in different schools. They discovered also that their general pedagogic methods were similar, and that if a pupil at any time should pass from one master to the other, it would not be necessary to begin all over again and to criticise satirically the previous teacher. At this point, knowing the absurdity of such heavenly harmony, we recognized that the whole thing was a silly dream, and awoke. Still it is no discredit to say that we awoke with regret. A glimpse at such an Arcadia, even though it existed only in imagination, was abundantly worth while.

BRIEF NEWS BY WIRE

Happenings all Over the World During Sunday and Labor Day Holiday.

Four German mine sweepers were destroyed off the coast of Jutland by British forces is the report of the Admiralty.

An official report says: We carried out a successful raid east of Wytschatete. Inflicted casualties with machine gun fire on the enemy garrison as they attempted escape across tht open. Weather cleared for first time in four days in the evening and we brought down one German machine. The number of prisoners captured by the British in August 7,279, including 158 officers. Captured 28 guns of heavy calibre, 200 machine guns, 75 mortars. These exclusive of prisoners and guns taken in Flanders by our allies.

The Paris official report says: Northwest of Hurtebias we took a trench on 200 metre front and captured thirty prisoners. A German counter attack was repulsed.

The enemy last night occupied advanced posts southwest of Havrincourt but was later driven out.

About one hundred Germans were landed from destroyed trawlers in Jutland. Many severely wounded trawlers were grounded and afterwards completely destroyed by the British.

The Petrograd war office admits that the Russians have abandoned Riga, the big seaport on the Baltic.

Italian troops continue to advance to Trieste; Australians make big stand but unable to stop Cadorna.

Nine were killed and six hurt by German aerial raid over West Kent of London.

Many prominent people were arrested in Petrograd and in Moscow charged with a plot to restore the Czar.

The Making of Big Guns.

"No fewer than one hundred and seventeen miles of steel wire are wound on a twelve-inch gun that weighs thirteen and a half tons," says a writer in The Millgate Monthly. "In appearance this wire, which is of the same quality as piano-wire, resembles tape; it is one-quarter of an inch wide and one-tenth of an inch thick. It is tested to a breaking strength of one hundred and ten tons. The wire unwinds from a reel as the gunbarrel revolves, and a tension of about fifty tons to the square inch ensures mechanical accuracy in wrapping it round the gun. Various parts of the gun receive different thicknesses of wire. At the breech of a twelve-inch gun, where the chief strain comes, there are ninety-two layers, which give a thickness of nine and a half inches of wire, but at the muzzle there are only fourteen layers. Over the wire the gunmakers shrink on steel rings at white heat. When they cool they contract and grip with immense force. The rifling of the barrel is an automatic process [illegible] example of wonderful mechanical ingenuity. When the gun is finished experts test the accuracy of the rifling with plastic gutta-percha."

After Half a Century.

After lying at the bottom of Lake Huron at a depth of 180 feet for over half a century, the sunken steamer Pewabic has been finally located by divers and work is now in progress to raise her $200,000 cargo of 300 tons of pure copper. This has been made possible by the invention of a special diving suit which withstands the terrific water pressure at so great a depth.

The divers state that the vessel is in fair condition with even her rigging and deck structure intact. They penetrated the vessel's cabin, on their first trip, and in it discovered a number of grinning skeletons, bleached white by their long submergence. They located a number of trinkets, which they sent to the surface. These included a silk dress, which, despite half a century below water, appeared almost as good as new when dried, while the crimson and gold coloring of some cotton goods retrieved was as bright as the day the material was purchased. There is specie yet to be found valued at $40,000.

The salvaging of this cargo will open the road to the accumulation of a fortune by members of the salvage company. Along the jaws of the Sawtooth Reef in Lake Superior alone lie scores of sunken cargo craft, laden to the scuppers with copper. The wrecks of the past half century in Lake Huron too, can be made to yield millions in gold.

The Congo.

The Congo is the most wonderful system of waterway on the face of the globe. It has twice the extent of the navigable waters of the Mississippi and its tributaries and three times its population. Professor Dupont, once director of the Museum of Natural History at Brussels, said that its fertile valleys were destined to be the granary of the world. India-rubber, gums, ivory, dyestuffs, silver, lead, iron, coffee, and palm-oil are there in immense quantities.

Three in a Family Helped By Tanlac

"In Every Case It Has Given Fine Results," Says Well Known Piano Man.

"It has not only done me a world of good, but my wife and daughter have also been wonderfully benefitted, and hereafter, Tanlac is a family medicine at my house." This statement was made recently by Arthur Wakelin, who was for twenty six years employed by the Heintzman Piano Company and resides at 52 Ford street, Toronto.

"I simply needed a general, all round building up," Mr. Wakelin continued, "and Tanlac has done that very thing. I am getting along in years and I never thought anything could give me such quick and satisfactory results. I had been in a general run-down condition for about a year and while I wasn't sick enough to stay in bed, I just felt bad and out of sorts all the time. I had no life or energy and felt like my strength was all gone. I would get up in the mornings tired and all fagged out, feeling like it would be impossible for me to do my work, and the least little job would tax my strength to the utmost. I simply felt unfit for anything and knew I needed something to correct my trouble and build me up.

"I was almost obliged to have some confidence in Tanlac after reading such high endorsements, and in just a few days after I started on it I began to feel my old time vim and vigor returning. I have now taken two bottles and that old worn-out, don't care feeling has left me entirely and I am feeling fine. I get up in the mornings feeling refreshed and brimful of new life and energy, and fit and ready for anything that comes to hand.

"My wife, seeing the good Tanlac did me, decided to try it, too. She had been suffering from a bad case of stomach trouble for several years, and while she tried many different medicines nothing ever helped her until she got Tanlac. She had no appetite and, honestly, I don't believe she ate as much in a week as the average well person eats in one day. What little she did eat disagreed with her and she suffered with indigestion terribly. She had tried so many things without benefit that she had almost lost hope of ever finding anything to help her. But Tanlac seemed to get in its work right off and three bottles have straightened her up until she can eat anything she wants without the slightest trouble afterwards.

"After seeing the good it did my wife and myself our daughter began taking it too, and in every case it has given fine results—far better than we expected. So we are all indebted to Tanlac and hereafter it's going to be a family medicine in my house."

Fines Of $50 each Against Doctors

Brockville, Sept. 1—Two doctors and a druggist of Westport have been fined $50 each for issuing and filling prescriptions contrary to the liquor law. There have been nine hundred orders for liquor given in that village since the prohibitory law came into force. Inspector Taber has been on the trail of the law breakers on Grenadier Island in the St. Lawrence River, and his prosecutions there have resulted in fines being imposed in three cases, totalling $450. Two other cases stand for hearing.

The editor of the Ludington, Mich. News has been fined $100 for contempt of court for criticizing the judge's method of conducting court.

Food Barons and Investigators

NOTHING has stirred Canadian public opinion since the outbreak of war like the report that a little group of men had been making gigantic profits out of the sale of bacon during the past two years. The alleged profiteers deny that they have made as much money as the disclosures stated, but in the meantime Canadians stand aghast. Eight persons figure prominently in the profiteering disclosures.

Hon. T. W. Crothers, Minister of Labor in the Borden Cabinet, under whose department the investigation into the causes of the high cost of living is conducted, was sworn into this position on Oct. 11, 1911. He represents the riding of West Elgin and was first returned to office in the general election of 1908. He has practiced his profession of law for many years in the City of St. Thomas.

William Francis O'Connor, K.C., cost of living commissioner for Canada, who sprang a sensation by his exposure of alleged excessive profiteering by several well-known Canadian packing houses, was born in Halifax, Nova Scotia, in 1873. He obtained his early education in the public schools of Halifax, and later was awarded the degree of LL.B. from Dalhousie University and the degree of B.C.L. from King's University. He was called to the bar of Nova Scotia in 1898, and in 1906 was an unsuccessful candidate for the Nova Scotia Legislature. He was member of the board of control for the city of Halifax from 1913 to 1916.

Miss Bessie Josephine McKenna, M.A., who was associated with Mr. O'Connor in the investigation of cold storage in Canada, was a graduate of the University of Toronto in the year 1909. Since October, 1916, she has been connected with the Federal labor department as a special investigator, and in that capacity has taken an active part in the recent investigation into the high cost of living. Following her graduation she was connected with the university for two years and conducted investigations into the working conditions among women, on behalf of the political economy department. During these years she resided in the "University Settlement." In 1915 in order to obtain her M.A. degree she wrote a thesis on "The Whitewear Industry," the material for her story being obtained by personal investigation and observation.

Sir Joseph Flavelle, Bart., who is associated with the firm of William Davies Co., Ltd., mentioned in the charges of profiteering by W. F. O'Connor, K.C., cost of living commissioner, is a well-known Toronto capitalist. He was created a baronet on June 3 of the present year. He has had a long and successful business career, and holds the office of president of the Wm. Davies Co., Ltd. He has held many other positions of trust, and in 1916 was appointed chairman of the imperial munition board. He was born in Peterboro, February 14, 1858, and later moved to Lindsay, where he was for many years engaged in the dry goods business in partnership with his brother, J. D. Flavelle. He removed to Toronto in 1887, where he has since resided. He was formerly proprietor of The Toronto News. He has always been interested in the University of Toronto, and has contributed liberally to its various funds. In 1905 he endowed a chair in Hebrew in Victoria College with a subscription of $25,000. In the same year he founded a traveling fellowship in classics of $750 a year, and he later subscribed largely to the fund for the erection of new residences in connection with the university.

John D. Flavelle, chairman of the Ontario License Board, vice-president of Flavelles, Limited, Lindsay, is a brother of the baronet. He settled in Lindsay in 1864, and became manager of the milling interest in 1884. In 1904 he was appointed a member of the grain survey board by the Dominion Government.

Thomas Francis Matthews, secretary-treasurer of Matthews-Blackwell, Limited, which firm was established in 1868, was born in Lindsay, July 20, 1869. He is a brother of the president of the company. He entered his father's business and in 1889 became branch manager at Peterboro. When the business was changed to a limited company in 1894 he was appointed secretary and continued in that position in the larger company after the amalgamation.

William E. Matthews, president of the Matthews-Blackwell, Limited, has been in the packing business since 1877. He was born in Lindsay, Ontario, October 9, 1862, and is the son of George and Ann Matthews. He opened a branch of the George Matthews business in 1882 and another branch in Ottawa in 1889. On the formation of the George Matthews Co., Limited, he was elected vice-president, which position he retained until the company amalgamated with the Park-Blackwell Co., Limited, and the Laing Packing and Provision Co., Limited, when he was elected president in 1911.

William M. Flavelle, president of Flavelle's, Limited, Lindsay, began his business career as a clerk in 1867 at the age of 14. Later he became a clerk for J. R. Dundas, with whom he became a partner in 1884 and rose to the presidency of that company in 1904.

CORPORAL AUSTIN AMONG WOUNDED

SON OF MR. W. C. AUSTIN HAS BEEN ADMITTED TO HOSPITAL.

Mr. W. C. Austin, 648 Weller street received a despatch from Ottawa today informing him that his son,, Acting Corporal Frank D. Austin, was wounded and admitted to hospital August 26. His injury is described as a lacerated wound in the forechest. Mr. Austin has called for further particulars and the friends of the family will join with them in the hope that the young soldier's condition is not severe.

Corporal Austin was in the last year of his course in engineering in the Toronto University when the war broke out. He enlisted in October, 1914 with an engineers' corps in Toronto and went overseas in the following May. He has been at the front since September, 1915.

Corporal Austin acted as despatch rider while in England and followed the same dangerous line of duty since going to the front. Although at all hours a target for the enemy sniper he had escaped injury up to the present, although twice hurt accidentally. A record that is inscribed almost mericulous when the nature of the services are taken into accord.

May be Deported To United States

At the police court this morning John Curtis appeared on a charge of insanity and was held for examination.

It appears that he was working at a local factory, but drew the attention of the police to his walking the streets at various and frequent hours of the night. He told the court that a brother died in an asylum.

He gave his address as 117, W. Franklin St. Baltimore, Md., and that his brother is W. W. Curtis, 3642 W 11th St. Washington, D.C.

He had a bank book showing deposit of $380. The Government will likely send him back to the United States.

HE PREACHED ON LABOR PROBLEM

REV. W. ARCHBOLD CONDUCTED SERVICES IN ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

The Rev. Walter Archbold, D.D., of Ocean City, Maryland, officiated at all the services on Sunday last in St. John's Church, and preached eloquent sermons morning and evening. Mr. Archbold expressed great pleasure at once more officiating at St. John's, and noted the many improvments made to the fine old church since his last visit. Congratulations were extended to the choir, for keeping up the standard of the services, notwithstanding the fact that so many of their choristers had volunteered for service. During the sermon at Evensong, the preacher urged that a wrong conception of labor and its true meaning, was the cause of so much suffering and fraud, both in production and distribution. Lying advertisements of shoddy goods would be impossible if the sacred duty of labor occupied its proper position in the life of the people as a whole. "To labor is to pray," should be our motto.

IN THE SAME FIX.

The Ingenuous Request of an Old Acquaintance in Distress.

ELMER BATES, erstwhile Cleveland newspaper man, more recently a country journalist, was coming up West Sixth street from the Union depot the other morning when he was halted by an old time pensioner.

"My dear old friend!" cried the o. t. p., seizing Elmer by both hands.

"I'm—I'm afraid I don't quite recognize you," faltered Elmer, not quite truthfully, for this person had held him up for many a piece of silver in the old days.

"Why, yes," insisted the other, "you once saved my life."

"I did?" asked Bates as visions of bread cast upon the waters arose before him.

"Don't you remember? I was trying to get to Chicago to bury my poor old mother. You staked me to supper, lodging and breakfast, got me a ticket to Chicago and gave me $5 for spending money."

"Oh, yes—I remember now!" And more visions of 100 to 1 shots danced before the journalist. "I'm so glad I helped you, dear old chap!"

"Yes, dear old chap," was the answer. "And I knew I'd meet you again some day. Listen; I'm in the same fix again."—Cleveland P[illegible]

SOMETHING FOR

MANY VALUABLE AWARDS.

The second prize in this great circulation enterprise will be a $475 Heintzman Piano. This in itself would amply repay the hardest worker for his effort in the contest. The third prize will be a Columbia Grafonola valued at $102. The fourth prize is a beautiful white ivory bedroom suite, and the fifth award will be a "Hoosier" kitchen cabinet. The next four prizes will be Waltham gold watches, and those who fail to win a prize will be paid a cash commission of ten per cent. on the business they secure. Everyone wins—you can't lose in this campaign.

HOW TO ENTER CONTEST.

There is no formality necessary in entering The Daily Review Contest. All that is necessary is to clip out the Nomination Blank found on another page, and mail or bring it to The Review office, and receipt books and all information will be given to you. After your name is enrolled as a candidate, get your friends and acquaintances to sbuscribe. If they are already subscribers, get them to renew or pay you their past-due account. You will receive votes according to the advertised schedule on all subscriptions turned in by you. Write to your friends and tell them you are in the contest and in to win. Early energy spells success. A few short weeks of hustling will make you the winner of a prize that under different circumstances would take you years to get. Your friends will subscribe to The Review and will be pleased to help you. Nothing is gained by standing back and allowing other people to have the best things in life. Enter your name today.

EARLY WORK COUNTS MOST.

The subscriptions secured during the first stage of the contest will count most votes.

The two months of the campaign have been divided into three voting periods.

The most votes will be allowe dduring the first period.

After the first period, all straight subscriptions, new or old, to The Review will earn twenty per cent. less votes.

After the second period a further reduction of twenty per cent. will be made.

Send for a receipt book today.

INSTRUCTIONS FOR VOTING

If you are not a subscriber to The Review, and wish to become one, you need not wait for your favorite candidate to call on you and ask for your subscription, but may send in your order at once to The Review, naming the candidate for whom you wish to vote. Don't fail, however, to accompany your subscription with the amount covering it, as votes are issued on prepaid subscriptions only.

If you have no favorite among the contestants, nominate yourself. You understand, of course, that you may vote for yourself. A special coupon good for 50,000 extra votes with your first subscription appears on another page in this issue.

RECEIPT BOOKS READY.

The Review has printed a number of receipt books for the use of the candidates and their friends. These receipt books will be mailed out as fast as nominations are received, and will be delivered to those who call at the contest office for them. The system of accounts that will be used during the contest demands that the receipt books be used by all candidates. They have been prepared in such a manner as to make the work of the contestants very easy.

WHAT TO DO NEXT.

As soon as your name has been entered go among your friends and tell them you are in the race, and in to win. Ask them to give you their subscriptions to The Review. Tell them you will be allowed no votes on payments of less than one dollar, and also tell them that the larger the term of their subscription, the more votes you will be allowed therefor. They want The Review, anyway, and you may as well have the votes that their subscriptions will give. As soon as you have secured one subscription, don't stop, but go on atfer another. Don't let your friends forget that you are in the race, and before a great while you will find them working for you just the same as if they, too, were in the fray. Any time there is any matter that is not perfectly clear to you, don't hesitate to ask questions. The contest managers will be glad to help you.

This is the "Story of Opportunity" you have been waiting for.

DYNAMITERS PLOTTED THE MURDER OF LORD ATHOLSTAN

Also the Assassination of Sir Robert Borden and Solicitor General, Arthur Meighen—Parliament Buildings at Ottawa Were to be Dynamited.

Montreal, Sept. 4.—With most of the men suspected of complicity in the cartierville dynamiting outrage under lock and key, the police today gave out details of anti-conscription plots that have been uncovered here and frustrated. The anti-conscription dynamiters had mapped out the following program:

First, the murder of Lord Atholstan as he drove from his country house to Montreal.

Then the Solicitor-General, Arthur Meighen was to be assassinated in Ottawa.

The Prime Minister, Sir Robert Borden was to be murdered and th Parliament Buildings at Ottawa were to be dynamited.

Suspects Rounded Up

The Anarchists had every thing prepared to put this program in execution when the police authorities began to get suspicious of certain of ticket of leave elements competed with the organization. Joseph Leduc was rounded up and forced to commit suicide yesterday at Lachute and Henri Monette is now being chased in the Laurentian mountains near Steagathe by the police in automobiles.

The police believe that the clues they have dug up in connection with the plot point to their having been hatched primarily by prominent men here with strong German affiliations

Men in Clerical Garb

The police have further announced that men in clerical garb had been shadowed fater they had visited the home of suspects and that information in reference to guns and ammunitions said to be in an institution in the city was being investigated.

BIG INCREASE IN SHIP BLDG.

London, Sept. 4.— Commenting on the rapid increase in ship building to offset losses from the submarine campaign, a Cardiff correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company says that two supplements published by Lloyd shipping register show that between June 8 and July 17 more than 100 steamers, of which 49 are British, were added to the register Most of these vessels are of large tonnage. The rate of construction is understood to be increasing rapidly.

There are approximately 200,000 drug addicts in New York City and the number is increasing, acording to information made public yesterday by internal revenue agents who have taken part in recent raids.

BUTCHERS HERE DO NOT FIGURE COST THIS WAY

PETERBORO MEAT MEN WILL NOT AGREE WITH THE CHICAGO PACKER.

Boston, Sept. 4.—President E. A. Cudahy, of the Cudahy Packing Co., replying to a question from Joseph E Davies, a member of the Federal Trade Commission, which is looking into the question of packing house food products, says:—

"By the consuming public and by the press, the packing industry is almost always considered from the standpoint of the price of a porter-house steak.

"Unfortunately for the paker, he comes in contact with the public to a large extent as the producer of a daily food. The copper mine owner or steel producer has an enormous advantage in this respect. The public does not realize that the profits of one copper mining company last year, on a volume of sales not one-twenty-fifth that of the volume of the five largest packers made almost as much as the aggregate made by those firms.

"The weight of the carcass of beef is far less than that of the animal on the hoof—in round numbers there being a shrinkage of 40 per cent. However the loss in value due to this shrinkage is all so nearly absorbed from the utilization of hides ond other offal that the wholesale price of a beef carcass can usually be calculated at somewhere approximating 25 per cent. to 40 per cent. over the cost of the animal on the hoof. In other words, the beef from an 8-cent steer will usually be found selling around 10 to 12½ cents."

GEORGE HOLLY ARRESTED HERE

Detective Newhall arrested George Holly last night on a charge of being implicated in several thefts at Bradford.

Chief Thompson received word from Chief Constable Simpkins that Holly was wanted there for stealing harness, chickens and other things and was thought to have gone to Peterboro.

Detective Newhall was detailed on the case and found a trace of a man answering the description as having taken rooms on Downie street. He lay in wait for a chance to observe the man and when postive that the man wanted was before him in the kitchen of a house stepped inside and placed Holly under arrest. The prisoner at first denied his identity, but later he admitted that he was the man. He claims that he is wrongfully accused of stealing chickens. He was only borrowing a board from the coop.

He does not explain why he made his getaway without driving. He left a horse and rig behind him.

Mark Mensel, a Toledo miller, has been made administrator of the 3,000 flour mills in the Ohio Valley under the National Food Act.

THE SHOE FACTORY BY-LAW

This bylaw is for the purpose of securing a new industry — the manufacture of shoes.

At present the Ackerman Company's factory property is asessed for $23,790. This is the assessment placed upon it by the assessor at its full assessable value. If the bylaw is passed it will not lower this assessment.

The company will continue to pay, as now, full taxes on the full assessable value of the property, as it now is.

If the factory is enlarged, as it probably will be after the shoe factory has been well established, the exemption will apply only for ten years from this year, to any new buildings erected on the property.

And on any such new buildings the company will pay school taxes, patriotic rates and war taxes.

For this small concession, at most, the city will secure a new factory in a staple line of manufacture that has every prospect of development into a large industry.

Other places would like to secure this factory. One offer includes a building as well as exemption. If by any chance this bylaw should be defeated, it is not out of the bounds of possibility that this offer will be further considered and accepted.

The Ackerman Company will continue the harness factory. The shoe factory will be a new industry that Peterborough should not run the danger of losing.

The voting on the bylaw will take place on Thursday next, Sept. 6th. All municipal electors have a vote, and an elector can vote at one place only.

Bouchard Had Ticket of Leave

Three Frenchmen were arrested by C. P. R. Detectives on Saturday night charged with stealing a ride. They were brought before Magistrate Dumble and sent to jail for 10 days in default of a $10.00 fine.

After Constable Gilham went back to Havelock he found a ticket torn up in the cell which was a ticket of leave for Jos. Bouchard from St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. The description answers to the Bouchard arrested.

Chief Thompson is communicating with the authorities.

A notary public or commisisoner of deeds in New Work State, who asks or receives more than 12cents for administering the ordinary oath in connection with an affidavit, subjects himself to criminal prosecution, civil suit and removal, Attorney-General Merton E. Lewis held in an opinion made public.

A 11 LB. TROUT CAUGHT BY FRED ROY IN GULL LAKE

Fred Roy spent the holiday at Gull Lake and her certainly will be very anxious to go back there again. He caught a beautiful 11 lb. trout and it is today on exhibition in the window of Jopling's meat market. The trout is a very fine specimen and measures 30 inches long and 17 inches around the girth.

The negroes drafted for the U. S. army will not be called out just yet.

A WATER ROUTE.

Montreal to New York Via Lake Champlain.

As a result of the fact that the United States have now become an ally of Canada in connection with the war the people of the two nations are already looking forward to much closer working agreements in regard to domestic problems on this continent. For instance, there is now a move to develop water transportation between New York and Montreal by way of the St. Lawrence and Lake Champlain route. Regarding this, the Burlington Free Press says:

"With the establishing of closer relations between the United States and Canada ensured by our co-operation in this war it goes without saying that one of the chief obstacles to the development of the Hudson-Champlain-St. Lawrence waterway will be eliminated. The invisible international boundary has been a more insuperable barrier to water transportation between Montreal and New York via Lake Champlain than all other land obstacles, including cost, combined.

"Major Macdonough, chief of the second division of the United States Engineering Corps, who has also visited Burlington in connection with the development of transportation on Lake Champlain, brought out at a hearing in Albany the fact that Montreal is approximately 800 miles inland from the Atlantic Ocean, to say nothing of the distance from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to New York. By way of Lake Champlain and the Hudson, Montreal, and New York are only about 300 miles apart.

"You cannot conceive of Germany, or even little Holland, permitting a great natural waterway like that afforded by the St. Lawrence River, Lake Champlain, and the Hudson River to go unimproved and sending ships over a thousand miles out of their way to get 300 miles. The present war contingency will help us develop transportation on the Hudson and Lake Champlain. The cooperation of the United States with Britain will pave the way to the breaking down of the barriers now blocking the opening of a great international waterway between New York and Montreal, between the Great Lakes and the Atlantic Ocean."

Scarcity of Farm Labor.

One of the great problems which the Canadian farmer has to solve, in meeting the demand everywhere made upon him for increased production, is, of course, the shortage of labor. The large number of farm laborers who have joined the colors, together with those who have been attracted to the towns by the higher wages and more attractive conditions offered by the munition manufacturer, constitute a serious drain on an already inadequate supply; whilst the position has been still further complicated by the demand for greater production. The situation is, of course, not a new one. Even in the days before the war, the demand for labor was always greater than the supply, a condition which roused several of the Provinces to take strong action favoring immigration; but conditions brought about by the war have seriously aggravated the difficulty. In no Province, perhaps, is this difficulty felt more acutely than in British Columbia. There the exclusion order has dealt specially hard with the farmer, who has been subjected to an additional difficulty by the inducements offered in the prairie Provinces to laborers to emigrate to these Provinces during the busy months. The importance of the situation is twofold. The great demand on essentially food-producing countries to-day is food production, and every effort should be made to maintain and to increase the supply. Then, in Canada, it is necessary to recognize the fact that agriculture is a basic industry, and that nothing will help more toward the rapid repairing of the economic damages inflicted in the country by the war than that peace should find agriculture prosperous, and based on the system best adapted to unlimited expansion.

Canada's Sober Soldiers.

"Canada," Lord Salisbury is said to have observed, "is a village street several thousand miles long, where everyone knows his neighbor and has little good to say of him." This epigram is brought to the mind by the perpetual accusations of drunkenness brought against the Canadian troops in England, not by the British population, who ought to know, but by their own kinsmen five thousand miles away. Gen. Steele has just put a stop to these accusations, if anything can stop them, by his rigid official testimony to the almost nonexistent percentage of drunkenness in the Canadian forces. He also bears witness in order to keep men satisfied, and within camp bounds, with a glass or two of beer among their friends before going to bed. The plain truth is that all these stories, which blacken the reputation of the fighting men of Canada, are set on foot to forward the prohibition movement in certain areas of Canada. It is to be hoped that General Steel's statement in the Canadian Record will do something to check a campaign of slander which the Canadian Expeditionary Force strongly resents.

To an Unknown Canadian.

During the King's recent visit to Vimy Ridge, says The Times' correspondent, what most engaged his attention were the scattered graves with which the ridge was dotted. Wherever a cross marked the resting place of a soldier, the King went to inspect. Before one grave, "To an unknown Canadian," he stood for a long while. The grave was well tended, with flowers rising to wreathe a broken trench helmet with which the cross was surmounted. "It is hard that any one of these brave fellows should be unknown," he said. "The world ought to know every one of them." More than once he expressed appreciation of the careful and reverent way in which the dead are buried.

Persian Cookery.

Cookery among the well-to-do classes in Persia is extravagant—partly because they are lavishly hospitable, partly because all house-servants are fed from the leavings of the master's table. A favorite dish is the following: Small pieces of lamb of the size of a walnut are skewered on a slender rod of iron; two pieces of lean and a piece of the delicate fat of the huge tail of the Oriental sheep are put on alternately, a soupçon of garlic or onion is added, and the kabab is toasted over a fierce fire and handed hot; it is eaten with a little salt and a squeeze of lemon. Pillaws are merely boiled meat, venison, or fowls, smothered in mountains of rice. This rice is delicately boiled, and a little clarified butter is added. Tiny chickens, quails, pigeons, doves, and young partridges are handed hot, on the spit itself, to each guest.

Wants Labor Law.

General Candido Aguilar, Governor of Vera Cruz, has offered a prize of 2,000 pesos to the person who shall submit before next October a proposal for a labor law which shall best meet the requirement of the State.

Ought to Keep Up.

"By the aid of electricity, it says here, 5,000 photographs can be got out per second."

"Well, this ought to be fast enough to satisfy the average stage beauty."—Florida Times-Union.

HANDING ONE TO BEN

"Three friends there be

Ben Franklin said of old;
"A faithful wife.

I've seen good wives
And faithful dogs;
But faithful cash—Pooh, Jooh!

Well, the soccer season has opened in England. Most of the soccer fans however, are playing a different kind of game "somewhere in France."

Roy Wilkinson, Newark's cannonball ptcher, looks like a forty-two-centimeter to most of the batters who face him.

There are now four Russells in the major leagues. Reb Russell, of the White Sox, was the only pitcher of that name in the big show three years ago, but since that time three others have broken in and they are all pitchers at that. Allen Russell, of the Yankees, is the only one well known outside of the "Rebel," but Brooklyn has a young twirler named Russell, and Connie Mack has picked up a youngster of that name. When they get through with baseball they ought to make a good vaudeville team.

Two young Denver boys are coming to the front. They are Cliff Lee, outfiefilfider and catcher who is getting ready to play with the Cleveland Indians next soring, and Buzz Murphy, outfielder, who's going to do some stunts for the DesMoines club of the Western League. Both men were members of the Central Association, which disbanded a few weeks ago on account of general unfavorable conditions.

Grouchy Gus says: "Men who have children won't be conscripted; which wil be some compensation for the persistent touches they receive for stakes to the movies, payment for broken windows, etc."

JIM CORBETT'S BIRTHDAY

James J. Corbett, otherwise known as "Gentleman Jim," who is coashidered the brainiest and cleverest boxer who ever stepped into the ring, will celebrate his fifty-first birthday today. The former heavy-weight champion was born in San Francisco in September, 1866, the son of Patrick Corbett, a native son of Erin. Young James was a pretty smart fellow, and had a head on his shoulders, proof of which is the fact that he got away with a sheepskin from Sacred Heart College at the age of sixteen James then determined on a financial career, and entered the Nevada Bank, in San Francisco, as a clerk. He was a stalwart six-footer, overflowing with youthful spirits and full of ginger and pep, and he sought an outlet for his physical energy by boxing at the Olympic A.C. As a professional boxer the conqueror of Sullivan brought about a return to the old Mace style of clever, speedy work, in which brains count for as much as durability and slugging power. He was a master of self-defence, and his style of fighting did much to rehabilitate the game in popular favor.

Practically all boxers nowadays are customed to wearing swallowtails and boiled shirts and silk lids, but Corbett was the first "gentleman boxer" who seemed to take naturally to such sartorial embellishments. Kid McCoy was always perfectly at home in a dress suit, and Tommy Burns—who when last heard from was running a "classy togs" shop in Calgary—took to the silk topper and the rest of the full-dress scenery like a duck to water. Corbett has always been the prize looker among the top-notch boxers, but before the war he had a rival in Georges Carpentier, the French boxer, who in full-dress looked like a matinee idol. George is wearing a uniform these days, and no doubt looks mighty fine in that, too.

Jimmy Dunn has an awful headache thinking over his $15,000 investment for Joe Wood, who simply won't come back. Joe looks very much as if he was ready to write "Reminiscences."

BONNYCASTLE DALE WRITES GOOD STORY

September Rod and Gun is out and shows the usual list of good things for sportsfen readers and lovers of the out of doors. This issue is a good one to put in the late summer vacationist's knap-sack. Such stories as "The Hide Builders," Bonnycastle Dale; "Two Weeks without a Care," T. N. Hewitt; "Duck Hunting on the Small Sloughs," George Belton; "A Cruise in the Sloop Katharine," Austen Saunders; "The Time, The Place, the Game" Archie McKishnie; and "Fishing in Little Streams," Reginald Gourlay, make the vacationist glad he went and the stay-at-home man sorry he can't go and maybe determined to get away into the north woods when the hunting season comes on. Among the special departments, that devoted to dog men's interests, The Kennel, contains this month a full report of the recent Regina Dog Show. Rod and Gun is published by W. J. Taylor, Ltd., Woodstock, Ont.

RUNAWAY RACE FOR THE GIANTS IN NATIONAL OTHER CLUBS ARE LOSING MONEY EVERY DAY.

Pity the poor magnates in the National league. The race is over so far as the ultimate winner is concerned and the treasury is far shy of expense money in some towns. Weather and war have played havoc with baseball in the older circuit, and while the magnates are not doing a lot of talking they are searching privately for a remedy.

With the possible exception of the Giants, the pennant winners, the Reds and Cardinals, the National league clubs are not making money. Philadelphia may be another exception, but it is doubtful, as the fans are not in the habit of flocking to ball parks after a world's series and a nip and tuck fight for the top such as was staged last season. However, you can write it in your book, that Boston, Brooklyn, Chicago and Pittsburg are not laying up any coin.

Boston, with its $1,000,000 plant, is in a bad way. There isn't any secret about this. Next to the Bean Town management, Pittsburg ranks second as the big loser and B. Dreyfuss stands in a fair way of finishing first before the season is over. A bum ball club, a change in management and a disposition to retrench brought about these conditions. The tonic here is a change of ownership.

Next in the order of losers comes the Cubs, with Brooklyn bringing up the rear. Weeghman and his associates are said to be "in" nearly $50,000 on the year, including players purchased last fall and turned back because they looked major league class. The attendance has been terrible on the north side. Ebbets, the Brooklyn president, never a big winner until the Dodgers copped in 1916, is having the slimmest season of his big league career.

What's going to happen next year? The magnates are worried. Last season the kick was that New York must befurnished with a pennant contender if the other seven clubs in the circuit were to reap a financial harvest, the theory being that without Gotham the National league booked a sure-enough bloomer. Well the Giants were handed a winner, almost every club contributing its mite; but what good has it done? The Giants are feasting, as they always will feast, and with mighty few exceptions the other seven clubs are fasting.

OLD-TIMERS BEST

Batters Who Faced Pitcher Only 45 Feet Away

"The old time batter who hit around .340 was a better man than the .370 hitter of to-day," ventured Billy Quinn, veteran umpire. "How so?" someone asked.

"Well, the player of other days was up against greater odds than the ones of to-day," answered Quinn. "Up to 1881 the pitching distance was only 45 feet against 60 feet to-day. And the old time pitchers didn't have curves or foolers. All they depended upon was speed. Can you imagine what a batter was up against with bullet-like pitching and the pitcher only 45 feet away?" If the present day batters think it is easy to hit against speedy pitching from a 45 foot distance, I'd suggest they try it with Walter Johnson, Grover Alexander, Guy Morton or some of the other speed boys doing the heaving. I can say that even the great Ty Cobb couldn't average one hit in every four times up against such pitching."

In no case may a court sentence a criminal to more than two years' hard labor.

GOLF: AGELESS SPORT

Youths and Old Men Win Championships—Famous Examples

Golf is the ageless sport; the one game where extreme age or extreme youth do not act as a handicap. Francis Ouimet, just out of knickerbockers, entered the National Open Championship—and won. He beat all the crack players in America; he triumphed over Vardon and Ray, the great English linkists. And Ouimet then was still in his teens! A short time later Walter Travis, far along in the fifties, competed against the best players in the Metropolitan District—and Travis won the championship!

Harry Vardon was 26 when he won his first title; he won his sixth at the age of 44. Jimmy Braid, also of England, wasn't a champion until he became 31 years of age. Since then he has won five championships—the last at 40. And Braid's playing at 49, an age considered far beyond athletic prime, was more brilliant than he displayed at 31.

J. H. Taylor, another English wizard, was only 23 when he first took unto himself a title. He was 42 when he won his fifth. Tom Morris, ranked as one of the greatest golfers England ever produced, was 17 years old when he became champion, while, on the other hand "Old Tom" Morris was 40 before he annexed his first crown in 1861. And so it has gone throughout golfing history; stories of championships that show that age has nothing whatever to do with the ultimate outcome; that an old man has as much chance for victory as the callow youth; that age doesn't figure at all in the playing of the grand, old game.

Fable of Baseball Park

Once upon a time a baseball fan went to the park, purchased a sack of peanuts, counted them and discovered more than twelve peanuts therein.

Cut leaders should be kept in a box between two damp pieces of felt. They should never be exposed to the light when not in actual use.

It is the intellect employed in the catching of fish that gives the zest to the sport.

Baked Hash of Rice and Beef

Into a stewpan put one cupful of chopped cold beef, one cupful of cooked rice, one cupful of milk, two tablespoons of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of pepper. Stir for one minutes, then add a well beaten egg. Turn the hash into a baking dish and bake twenty minutes.

WHAT IS COMING WHEN WHITE SOX TAKE TRIP EAST

COMISKEY'S FAVORITES HAVE NOT BEEN AT ALL SUCCESSFUL.

One big reason why the Chicago White Sox are out in the front of the American league pennant parade is that the eastern clubs have been able to make very little impression on the pale hosed warriors of Clarence Rowland in the games at Comiskey park. When the Yankees finished up with the Chicago club on Tuesday the last game of the East v. West series at Comiskey park this season had been played.

Of the forty-four games played by teams from the eastern half of the circuit at Chicago the White Sox won no less than thirty-two, this performance showing what a powerful club Rowland has when it is playing on the home lot. With such a big advantage in games the Sox can go along breaking even on the road and still be in first place.

Washington has made the poorest showing of the eastern clubs at Comiskey park. Griffith's team can make the going difficult for the White Sox when they visit the capital, but in Chicago the Sox have a habit of walking rough shod over the Senators. Just once this season has the Washington team scored a victory in Chicago and against this lone triumph the White Sox have rolled up ten victories. The Yankees have done just a little better, but not enough to do any cheering about. Three games made up the Yankees' winning portion this season at Chicago and the White Sox carried off the honors eight times. Even the world's champion Red Sox, now battling the White Sox for the pennant have not made what can be called a creditable showing on the home grounds of their rivals, the series standing seven games to four in favor of the Chicago club. The Athletics were able to do as well as the Red Sox and better than the other eastern club.

All of which is interesting for another reason. A team that can do all this damage at home must have been a bit under the mark as a traveling organization when it did not gain a more commanding lead than the White Sox enjoy at present. As a matter of fact the White Sox have done little against the eastern clubs in the east that compares with the walkaway they have enjoyed in the west. As they must make another swing through the eastern section and will not have the eastern clubs any more on their home park it appears that the easy part of it is over as far as the White Sox are concerned.

A LAST CHANCE FOR HARVESTERS

Let the Dogs Roam Council to be Asked

Mayor Duffus intends to ask the City Council tonight to consider the question of raising the dog quarantine.

The complaints regarding dogs have been very few during the last month and the danger of rabies is thought to be past.

This will be a very popular move with the owners of dogs, particularly the hunters who will have a chance to let their hounds out for a little run.

HUNS BOMBARD ENGLISH TOWN

PLAYGROUND ASSOCIATION ASK FOR A GRANT OF $250

Sum Required to Help Defray Expenses of Season Just Closed---Board of Education to Discuss the Matter Further.

There was a bare quorum at the meeting of the Board of Education last night, the six members present being Chairman Eastwood and Messrs Fowler, Denne, Crane, Neal and Hill.

Messrs. C. Fessenden and ex-principal Walkey sent letters of thanks for the year's salary which they had received on retiring from the teaching staff. This brought up other matter. Miss M. A. Warner, who for 24 years was director of the Kindergarten Department, wrote asking the Board to extend her the same consideration. This matter was referred to the committee on appointment.

Principal Clark of the King Edward School reported that six sessions of night classes had been held with returned soldiers as pupils and that satisfactory progress had been made. The number enrolled was ten and the average attendance six. Mr. Clark was granted the usual fee of $3 a session for his work.

Miss Ferguson Resigns

Miss E. M. Ferguson, instructor in household science, has bough a business in New York and sent in her resignation to take effect October 1. This was not accepted but the matter was referred to the committee on appointment, as it was claimed that sufficent notice had not been given.

The Playgrounds Association

Chairman Hammond, of the Finance Committee of the Playgrounds Association wrote asking for a grant of $250 to help defray the expenses of the season just closed. It was stated in the communication that there had been 400 attendants at the King Edward and 200 at the Central School grounds.

Last year the Board granted $200 for the purchase of equipment for the playgrounds. There was some opposition to a grant this year, one of the chief reasons being that there is no money on hand for the purpose. Dr. Neal and Mr. Fowler spoke in favor of granting request, the former dwelling on the value of the work of the association from the viewpoint of a physician. The matter was deferred until it can be taken up at a full meeting of the Board.

The usual half holiday will be observed in the schools on Friday, Sept. 15th, to give the pupils an opportunity to attend the fair.

NINE PERSONS KILLED AND FORTY NINE WERE INJURED

Latest Attack of German Air Raiders on London---Crowds Demand Reprisals in Order to Put an End to Outrages.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 5.—It is announced officially that nine persons were killed and forty nine hurt in last night's air raid on London. One raiding aeroplane is reported to have been brought down off Sheerness.

Among the London crowds the dominant demand was for reprisals which many believe would put an end to the raids on England. Others insist that the Government take immediate steps to obtain the supremacy of the air to a degree which would render raids impossible.

Referring to the Chatham raid on the previous night the Manchester Guardian says: "We have been invaided and have suffered greater losses of life and property than in any invasion since the Normans conquered England." Arguing that this is not inevitable the Guardian adds: "We can and must achieve overwhelming supremacy in the air which would both open an easier victory for our army and redeem our shores from outlaws."

Crowds Waited Raiders.

The streets were filled with curious crowds until early hours today, inspecting the damage from last night's air raids over the London district. More bombs appear to have fallen in the streets than hit buildings. The Chronicle estimates that eight or ten raiders visited London. There were two separate attacks over the London district, the second occurring about one o'clock this morning. Some people claim to have seen half a dozen airoplanes, but they quickly lost sight of them in the haze. After dropping bombs the raiders flew seaward. One machine was located by searchlights at an estimated height of 9000 feet. It was severely shelled and onlookers declare that it was hit. At the same time British airplanes were seen manouvering for an attack on the raiders.

HUN SUBMARINE BOMBARDS TOWN ON ENGLISH COAST

Eleven Were Killed.

A later statement says that 11 persons were killed and 62 injured in last night's air raid.

GERMANS ARE WORSTED AT ALL POINTS OF BATTLE LINE

French Reverse Reported on Macedonian Front--Artillery Still Active in Neighborhood of Lens--Tons of Bombs Dropped on German Posts---Italian Capture of San Gabriele is Confirmed.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 6.—"A hostile raiding party was driven off by the fire of rifles and machine guns last night in the vicinity of Armentieres," says today's official statement. A raid by the enemy at a later hour against positions held by the Portuguese also was unsuccessful. The German artillery was active in the neighborhood of Lens.

Flitters Caught

The recapture at sea of six escaped Germans is announced by the admiralty. The statement follows. "British light forces while patroling the North Sea on Sept. 1, captured a small boat containing six German prisoners who had escaped from this country."

French Repulsed

A Bulgarian official statement received here today claims that the French on the Macedonian front were repulsed on Monday near Bratonel with very heavy losses. It also asserts that on the Dobropolje the Serbians delivered an attack which ended in a sanguinary defeat for them.

Italians Still Triumph

A despatch received in London confirms the capture by the Italians of Monte San Gabriele together with 950 prisoners, including 32 officers. The Italians now possess the entire chain of mountains which dominate Gorisia.

Drop Tons of Bombs

The Admiralty reports today state that many more tons of bombs have been dropped on German military establishments in Belgium and much damage done.

Hospitals Bombed

Paris, Sept. 5.—German attacks on the Aisne and Champagne fronts last night were repulsed by the French, says today's official statement. The French made a successful attack in Champagne. French hospitals were again bombarded by German aviators.

TO CALL OUT FIRST CLASS

Ottawa, Sept. 5, (C.P.)--A proclamation will shortly be issued calling the first class under the Conscription Act to the colors. This will embrace single men and widowers between the ages of 20 and 34. Application for exemption forms will be available at post offices.

Persons engaged in agriculture and certain mechanics will, it is understood have some claim to exemption.

KEEP DOG TIED UP

Quarantine Has Not Been Lifted As Danger Still Exists

The dog quarantine still remains in force, and the dogs must be kept tied up until a later meeting of the City Council.

Mayor Duffus was going to introduce the matter last night as he thought that the danger of rabies had passed. The police reported that a dog had been shot on Monday night after a veterinary had pronounced it dangerous from the disease.

Action was delayed until the next meeting.

HIGH PRICE FOR COAL TO BE $10

CITY WILL SELL FUEL TO CONSUMERS AT THAT FIGURE OR LESS.

When the report of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was being considered at the City Council meeting last night the following clause in reference to the coal was found fault with.

That the Chairman of this Committee with a member or members of the said Committee, be authorized to place orders for coal, to come forward, at such price that it may be delivered to citizens at $10.00 per ton or less.

Ald. Stratton thought that a definite set price should be given instead of the broad statement at a "Price less than $10 a ton." He did not thing it good business.

Ald. Smith was in favor of Ald. Stratton's suggestion. He thought that the coal price could be fixed at $9.50.

Ald. Dobbin was quite willing to follow the advice of the committee. He would do exactly what they said.

Mayor Duffus pointed out that it was a new venture with the city and they had no idea of what the expenses would be.

Ald. Duncan thought that a quantity of the coal should be stored for an emergency. It was not intended to sell it right off the cars but to get some to have on hand when the dealers' supply was off.

Ald. Dobbin could not see any reason for storing coal when the people wanted to take it from the cars. Every member of the Council would share in the responsibility for the success or failure of the Municipal Coal Yard.

Ald. Langford was in accord with the views of Mayor Duffus. It is impossible to figure on the expenses at this time. He thought that a $10.00 maximum figure was a fair one.

It was finally decided to adopt the report and the coal question was explained to the members of the Council after the meeting.

CITY ELECTIONS TO BE HELD NEW YEAR'S DAY

ENTER YOUR NAME TODAY

Do you wish to know how to win the valuable prizes in The Review's great voting contest?

Of course you intend to enter the race ,or give hearty support to one of your friends.

If you belong to the first division, if you have resolved to engage in the friendly competition for the best prizes ever offered in this section of the Province, you will naturally plan your campaign in advance.

Perhaps The Review may be able to assist you with a few words of counsel. There are some things which you cannot afford to overlook, whether you are young or old.

First there is no virtue in any undertaking which counts for more than "promptness."

"Do it Now" has won many a battle—and it is the best motto for a voting contest, or for any other campaign, excepting the motto, "Do it Right."

Delays are always dangerous to any undertaking. The man who delays his start in any race handicaps himself just to the extent of the delay.

RECEIPT BOOKS ARE READY

The contest receipt books are now ready for contestants. Call and get one or phone 189 and The Review will send you one. Do it now.

Fill in your name and address and send or mail it to the contest office immediately.

If you wish to win the splendid touring car you will have to get cordial support from your friends.

Show them you are in earnest. Don't wait for anybody to see your friends first. Let them know you mean business. A day may mean the difference between success and defeat for you. By all means "do it now."

KEEP AT IT

Once you have entered the contest and received your receipt book, stay with it."

Don't be faint hearted. Make up your mind that persistent work will count for more in a six weeks' race than spurts followed by vacations.

Every person you meet is either a subscriber to The Review or is willing to become one. The Review should be in the home of everyone in this section.

When you meet a subscriber get him to renew. You will get votes for every subscription payment. When you meet a man who is not a subscriber, add to his pleasure by making him one of The Review's family.

CASUALTIES ARE POURING IN

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—Canadian casualties continue to pour into the Record office here, echoing the gallant work by Maple Leaf troops in the recent battles. Since Saturday, August 25th, there have been 7247 Canadians in the list and a big proportion were killed or seriously wounded. In the noon casualty list today fifty are given as killed or died of wounds, and forty-six gassed. It is notable that a great number of Canadians have been "gassed" lately.

Local Honor Roll

Three names appear in the casualty list today from this district. The men are all wounded. They are:

Pte. William Walker, Lakefield.
Pte. P. R. Hay, Campbellford,
Pte. J. R. Brady, Madoc

Flags at half-mast throughout New Westminister symbolized the deep personal regret of thousands of citizens over the death of Sir Richard McBride.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1917

BORDEN IS THE MAN

The Conservative caucus at Ottawa as was to be expected, promptly rejected any and all proposals for retirement of Premier Sir Robert Borden as a price for Coalition government. Not merely from the party, but from the National standpoint, the proposal had to be condemned as impossible of consideration.

Even if Sir Robert has defects—and who has not?—he remains the most suitable man at this juncture to head the Canadian government. His repeated visits to England and the front, his attendance for two months as a member of the British war cabinet, his general acquaintance with our Imperial and international relations, mark it as an act of supreme folly to propose to cast him aside at such a juncture.

The origin of the proposal is the chagrin which Liberals feel at the self-destruction of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the mess in which he has placed the Liberal party. They seek the miserable consolation of pulling down Sir Robert Borden to keep company with Sir Wilfrid Laurier among our moribund statesmen. In so doing they disregard every consideration of decency and patriotism, and exalt petty partizanship at a moment when to do so is the most ignoble of acts. The country at large is not blind to what such manoeuvres mean.—Stratford Herald.

OUR N. C. O's.

CAPT. BURNHAM has appeared again on behalf of the soldiers, when he brought before the Prime Minister and Cabinet Council the necessity of the Government "making good" with the N. C. O's, who found, when they went overseas that they were only "acting," and were degraded accordingly.

Not only is the Government in honor bound to keep faith with the country's defenders in the matter of rendering them adequate assistance, but the men who are actually in the service must not be neglected or made to suffer by reason of regulations which they do not clearly understand at the outset.

THOSE OVER-RATED GERMANS.

BEFORE THE WAR broke out, Canadian orators, especially those who held forth at Canadian Club luncheons, were wont to dilate on the efficiency of the German race and the progress made by them in the arts and sciences. Nothing has been heard of that line of talk for the past three years. Now we are more likely to hear the Teutons arraigned as barbarians, but very often the speaker or writer who characterises them as such winds up with the saving clause that the Germans have brains and that they have made science.

Germany is essentially a military nation. Emperor and common people alike worship at the shrine of Mars, and yet Germany has not taken the initiative in inventing the modern weapons of warfare, but has even in this line borrowed and adopted the ideas of other nations.

As a writer in the Louisville Courier-Journal says, the greatest thing that Germany has done is to advertise herself falsely as the light of the world. No son of hers invented the electric light, the gas light, the acetylene light, the kerosene light, the safety lamp, the candle dip or the friction match. America, France, England and other "untutored" nations performed these tasks. The sun, moon and stars are the only lights left for Germany's contention, and, according to the Mosaic account, the Lord and not the Kaiser made and placed them in the firmament.

The steam engine has been called the greatest of all inventions. It broke the shackles from slaves; it mingled the marts of the world; it made neighbors of the antipodes. Newcomen, a native of Devonshire, obtained the patent for the first partially successful steam engine; Watt, a Scotchman, perfected it; Cuynet, Murdock and Trevithick brought forward the locomotive, not on German soil; Stephenson, an Englishman, was the first to apply the locomotive steam engine to railways for passenger traffic; France, England and [illegible]. When all had been completed Germany pulled the whistle cord, shouted "Hoch der Kaiser!" and tagged it "Made in Germany."

It was an American, not a German, who invented the telegraph and the reaping machine. The first threshing machine was built in England. All the modern inventions were first thought of and perfected by other races than the Germans, who have been so ready to adopt them and claim credit for the improvements. The first astronomer was an Italian.

By use of the compound microscope, Pasteur, the French biologist, as early as 1857 demonstrated a connection between microscopic organisms and disease. This was nine years before Dr. Kock, the German bacteriologist, had graduated. In this connection the important antiseptic surgery of Dr. Lister of England should be recorded: Edward Jenner, the discoverer of vaccination, and Harvey, the discoverer of the circulation of the blood, were Englishmen. An American taught the world the use of anaesthetics. Canadian and American dentists excel all others. They are employed by many crowned heads—even the Kaiser has his.

The Teutons have not shown the engineering skill of the French, who cut the Suez Canal, or of the Americans who joined the Atlantic and the Pacific at Panama. The decimal or metric system by which the Germans make their measurements is a gift from France. The method by which they make their steel is that of Sir Henry Bessemer of England. Many of the fruits and vegetables of which they eat an enormous quantity were brought forth by the peerless Burbank. No wonder that the Germans can "goose step" so high, for what else have they practised?

History and study will reveal that the world's greatest teacher, scientist, inventor, discoverer, statesman, general, philosopher, preacher, painter poet, architect, novelist or singer was not "made in Germany."

THE MEN WITHOUT A COUNTRY.

The police in Montreal have unearthed what they regard as a plot to murder the leading statesmen and publicists in Canada who have taken an active part in favor of conscription. The plot also included the destruction of the Parliament buildings at Ottawa and the inauguration of a reign of terror.

The French-Canadians may be charged with responsibility in this treasonable compact but it is unfair to fasten any such suspicion upon that race. The Anarchist is not a Canadian. He is a man who owns allegiance to no country or government. The average French-Canadian is a man who seeks to live his life according to his own devices and if left to himself will remain at peace with all the world. The worst that can be said of the residents of the Province of Quebec is that as regards the war they are indifferent. They realise neither the danger that threatens themselves or the civilised world. They have been misled and mistaught by blatant leaders and designing politicians who have their own selfish ends to serve. Whatever may be their shortcomings the records of the habitants, does not justify the charge that he is an anarchist or that he is actively hostile to the Empire to which he belongs.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Why waste words on the anarchists? What they need is a rope end.

• • •

The food faddists who advocate the eating of bran seem to forget that that by product is most palatable in the form of dairy supplies or beef.

• • •

• • •

And now if Mr. Hanna is really honing for popularity, let him do something by way of regulating the price of the oyster.

• • •

Lest some of the aldermen should forget, attention is called to the fact that in this enlightened age it is not customary to hang a man on mere rumor.

• • •

Still the carless man with the car is more to be dreaded than the German airman dropping bombs on an English city.

• • •

Closure is required in other places than Parliament to put an end to what is insinuated rather then what is outspoken.

• • •

The anti-conscriptionist who says he is willing to go to prison for his "principle" had better write it "principal" if he wishes to be understood.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

The Necessary Man
(Toronto Mail and Empire)

Sir Robert Borden will give the people of Canada a National Government to carry on the war. He has done his best to associate with him in that Government the leader of the Opposition and such Liberals as the latter might nominate. Sir Wilfrid Laurier did not accept the offer, but Sir Robert did not therefore give up his efforts to make his Government a balance of parties. If he cannot induce Liberals to come into a National Government with him, he will simply have to bring the country through its crisis without their help. And the people of Canada, who have been watching all parties throughout the situation will stand by him as he is standing by them.

THE ASSASSINS HAVE FAILED
(Toronto News)

The plot for the political assassination of Sir Robert Borden, which was hatched in the office of The Toronto Star, has suffered signal defeat. The Prime Minister is the one outstanding statesman around whom loyal, Win-the-War Canadians must rally, and the country knows it. It is time that the conspirators sheathed their knives.

ONLY ONE WAR POLICY
(Nelson Daily News)

No Canadian war policy can mean continued participation in the war unless it specifically and categorically declares for conscription. In Canada as in Great Britain, the voluntary system brought splendid results, but it finally reached the end of its tether.

THE POPULAR WILL
(Guelph Herald)

The Liberal party is teaching its leaders the lesson that the voice of the people must be respected, no matter how a once powerful leader differs.

AID FOR THE ENEMY
(Toronto Telegram)

Laurier Opposition at Ottawa is doing as much to help Germany as any of the Socialistic groups in Petrograd.

Wit and Wisdom

Her Wish.

"I wish you were like Mrs. Green's husband."

"Why?"

"He's so good to her. He buys her everything I want."

Would Give Him the Lie.

Clerk—Well, sir?

Rounder—Better make it $4.20. My wife keeps the bills and I've been writing her that during her absence I've spent all my evenings at home.

A Weight on Its Stomach.

"I just got off a sick bed."

"What ailed the bed?"

Brainless Bertha Again.

The Young Lady Across the Way says those swagger sticks our soldiers carry are a poor protection against German swords and bayonets it seems to her.

Saved Himself.

She—So you said I had carroty hair. I'd have you know it's golden.

He—That's what I meant, 18-karaty.

No Apparent Change.

Sapleigh—I say, doctah, if I were to lose my mind, would I—ah—be aware of it myself, you know?

Doctor—You would not notice the difference, nor would any of your friends.

His Fee.

Client—So the jury has awarded me $500. Not bad, eh?

Wound Up.

A member of Parliament had emptied the room with an interminable speech. Looking around at the empty benches, he remarked to a bored friend, "I am speaking to posterity."

"If you go on like this," growled the friend, "you will see your audience before you."

Conscience Satisfied.

"Lizzie, will you be mine?"

"Not on your life."

"Don't you love me?"

"No, I don't, and never did."

"Are you sure?"

"Absolutely sure! I would rather be shot than marry you!"

"Thank you for them kind words, Lizzie, I had to ask somebody to marry in order to do my duty, but now that I have been refused, I will never have to ask anybody else. Now my conscience will allow me to be a merry bachelor and save money for my old age."

Editor Review:— Have landlords come forget that they were once children themselves? I have been trying to rent a house for over two months now and I have seen several that would suit me but when asked if I had children and answered yes I was refused the house on account of children. Now, I would ask those people if they forget that they were once a child and had a father to rent a house to live in, if their father was turned away how he would like it, or do they forget their loving mother who cared and brought them up who may have sat many a night watching over them and now they don't want to rent to another man who has children. What do these people want a father to do? Is it to put his children in a field or a home for orphans?

Ah, no, I would not separate my children from their mother. Where they are not wanted I would not be either. And now to think some of these landlords are fathers themselves. What kind of a heart have they? The excuse is that children are destructive. Well, if their children are such it is no reason that others are. If they allow their children to be brought up on the streets, others don't. For myself I have brought up my little ones in a respectful manner. There is no roughness about them.

I am living in one house for five years or over and never had a complaint about them. And allow me to say:

One landlord wanted to know what kind of a wife I had. Well if his was not what she should be don't let him think others have the same. If there are wives in this town who are living double life all should not be judged accordingly but some of these angel-faced landlords are very fond of finding out the character of another man's wife and if she is one of those who will allow him to call around and spend evenings in her company while her own husband is out well if she has fifty children she can have any house he owns.

It is about time that some one should take a tumble and encourage strangers who come here to live but it seems that a man with a family are not wanted. Why, if these landlords would only stop and think for a few minutes that a family coming into any town means a big thing for the town and besides the employer is more sure of him than of a single man and it means his money is spent in the town and as they want a better Peterborough they will nev- [illegible] in a good many ways to encourage the strangers.

A MEMORY OF EARL GREY

Earl Grey at his hunting cabin near Lake Windermere, B.C.

AN interesting point has never yet been decided as to the permanent name to be given to the pass which leads over the Purcell Range between Lake Windermere and Argenta on the Upper Kootenay Lake. The late Earl Grey, who had a hunting cabin half way up the pass on Toby Creek crossed the pass on one occasion, with the result that the geographers named it after him. The original discoverer of the pass, however was a prospector named Wells, and Earl Grey, who was always a thorough sportsman, wrote saying that he thought it a hardship to deprive Wells of the right to the old name of Wells Pass. To-day however, the name of Earl Grey Pass is still current and remains in most of the maps. The British Columbia Government commenced to build a road over it, which, however was badly damaged in the great washouts of 1915. This summer two venturesome tourists made the crossing though at considerable hardship owing to the condition of the trail at Hammill Creek on the western side. The following account of the trip appeared in the "Kootenian," of Kaslo B.C.

"After a trip that they will not forget in a hurry, Dr R. N. Carter of Rossland, and Henry Cody of this city arrived in town on Wednesday of last week after a somewhat dangerous jaunt across Earl Grey's Pass, and through Hammill Creek canyon. They had left Wilmer, in East Kootenay about ten days before and made their way up the Toby Creek wagon road to the summit, and put in about one day exploring the huge Toby Creek ice field. Mr. Cody was well acquainted with the country up there, having mineral claims on the East Kootenay side, upon which he has been doing assessment work for years. The ground was not new to him, but it was virgin territory to the doctor. The latter stated that he had never before seen such magnificent mountain scenery. Having travelled a good deal over the surface of the globe, he is in a pretty good position to judge as to what constitutes the real thing in the line of mountain scenery.

"He found the Toby Creek glacier a particularly inspiring and wonderful spectacle. They spent a day on top of this huge lake of ice and only had a look over one corner of it. They started out in the early morning to promenade upon it, and walked for four hours steady the going being rather good except for working around some of the crevasses, and in the four hours' stroll arrived at the conclusion that they had not gone half way across it. So they returned to the camp. Beyond the risk of falling off a precipice or looping the loop down the side of a mountain, there was not a great deal of danger to the trip until they worked their way down on this side of the pass and began to come down Hammill Creek. The trip from the pass down was made in a driving rain, with the bushes soused with water so that they were soaking wet in a few minutes after leaving the timber line. The trail in places was so overgrown that it could scarcely be followed. A number of new slides had come down lately and piled the bottom of the valley with various debris, so that progress was at times necessarily slow. They managed to get through to the Argenta Mines compressor building and camped at that point [illegible] night. The following day was one of hardship and extreme peril at times. Between the point on the Hammill Creek road where the trail to the St. Patrick group branches off, and the Argenta Mines compressor, a semblance of a road was wiped out entirely in places through the depths of the fiercely savage Hammill Creek canyon. Several times they had to improvise bridges to cross the roaring stream, said bridges being nothing but a convenient tree which was felled with an axe. As Hammill Creek varies all the way from forty to eighty feet wide and as the fallen trees sometimes sagged down into the teeming torrent, the peril of such crossings can be better imagined than described, more particularly in view of the fact that both men had heavy packs on their backs that of Cody's weighing some sixty-five pounds.

"At last, however they gained the point on the canyon road where the trail branches off to the St. Patrick group and from there on, comparatively speaking, the going was like unto that of a paved street. In due time they reached Argenta, and from that point were rowed over to Lardo, where they connected with the barge "Empress" and came to town."

THE SHOE FACTORY BY-LAW

This bylaw is for the purpose of securing a new industry — the manufacture of shoes.

At present the Ackerman Company's factory property is assessed for $23,790. This is the assessment placed upon it by the assessor at its full assessable value. If the bylaw is passed it will not lower this assessment.

The company will continue to pay, as now, full taxes on the full assessable value of the property, as it now is.

If the factory is enlarged, as it probably will be after the shoe factory has been well established, the exemption will apply only for ten years from this year, to any new buildings erected on the property.

And on any such new buildings the company will pay school taxes, patriotic rates and war taxes.

For this small concession, at most, the city will secure a new factory in a staple line of manufacture that has every prospect of development into a large industry.

Other places would like to secure this factory. One offer includes a building as well as exemption. If by any chance this bylaw should be defeated, it is not out of the bounds of possibility that this offer will be further considered and accepted.

The Ackerman Company will continue the harness factory. The shoe factory will be a new industry that Peterborough should not run the danger of losing.

The voting on the bylaw will take place on Thursday next, Sept. 6th. All municipal electors have a vote, and an elector can vote at one place only.

MR. MATTHEWS IS BACK FROM U.S.

Mr. T. F. Matthews, of the Matthews-Blackwell Company, has returned from Washington, where, with General Manager Fox of the William Davies Company, he interviewed Food Controller Hoover, Lord Northcliffe and Sir Charles Gordon, with regard to the sale of Canadian bacon. The representatives of the Canadian packing houses are hopeful that in this regard their interests will not be endangered. A meeting of the Canadian packers will be held in Toronto today to discuss the situation.

If the sale of the Canadian product is cut off in England the result will be an increased exportation of live hogs to the United States. This will be a reversal of present conditions, as a large number of American hogs are now imported and the finished product sent abroad, Canadian labor getting the benefit of such an arrangement.

Reserve Officers C.E.F. Retain Rank

It is published in district orders that authority has been granted for the formation of a reserve of officers for the C.E.F. The reserve will consist of officers, who, having served with credit in the Canadian Expeditionary Force, cease or already have ceased to be employed therein, and such officers will retain in the reserve the rank and seniority that they held in the C.E.F. They will be the first to be considered for appointments which they are qualified to fill, and preference will be given to those who, during the present war, have taken part in active operations. Forms can be obtained from the office of the assistant-adjutant-general.

General Superintendent Chas. E. Davies, of the G. N. W., and the representatives of the telegraphers met with the hope that they would reach a settlement on their wage question, but failed. Ald. Dobbin Proposes That West Ward School Building be Converted Into Apartment Houses.

Ald. Dobbin, in his capacity of executive office of the Patriotic Fund, appeared before the Board of Education last night with a proposition designed to solve the housing problems as it applies to the dependents of the men who are overseas. He told the members of the Board that rent had been raised in some cases nearly [illegible] scarce that it is almost impossible for some soldiers' families to secure a dwelling. He has found residences for some of these at Lakefield where there are houses to be had at as low as $2.50 a month.

Ald. Dobbin proposed that the old West Ward School building be turned into an apartment house for the accommodation of four families, two on each floor. He had an expert look into the matter and it had been estimated that the remodeling of the structure would not cost more than $961. For the apartments so provided a yearly rental of between four and five hundred dollars a year could be obtained, or enough in two years to pay for the outlay on a building that at present brings in no return to the city. The rent would be guaranteed.

This matter was deferred until there is a full meeting of the Board. The taking of such a step would establish a new precedent, that of the Board going into the business of a landlord. Mr. Hill, too, called the attention of his colleagues to the point that the school building is now the property of a certain section of the ratepayers and if the change is made it will pass into possession of the entire city. He favored the idea of turning the building by sale over to the City Council, the members of which represent all the people and the aldermen could dispose of as they saw fit.

TRIAL ORDER SOLICITED

CHAIRMAN AND ENGINEER TO WORK IN DOUBLE HARNESS

Ald. Weir Complained of a Lack of Harmony in the Matter of Sewer Construction.

The Engineering Department came in for a little criticism at the hands of some members of the City Council last night and incidentally Ald Weir, chairman of the Board of Works, took a fling at the council for what he considered "ignoring the chairman." He referred to the resolution which gave the City Engineer absolute power in dealing with sewers on Prince and Princess streets. He could not give any explanation as to who gave instructions about certain work on the streets. He had never been able to get together with the Engineer as there was a feeling of some kind existing that he had interfered in the working of the Engineering Department. He wanted it distinctly understood that he never interferred nor wanted to interfere with the work of the department as long as satisfaction was given. He also disclaimed any responsibility for the high cost of the preliminary operations on the Prince Street sewer.

Ald. Stratton found fault with the way Park street had been oiled down to the Delaval plant.

Ald. Weir could give no information regarding why the street had not been properly prepared for the oiling.

Mayor Duffus wanted to know why [illegible] then everyone had a word to say.

Ald Saunders took exception to Ald. Stratton's remarks. He thought that oil on Park street had improved the street. The oil had not been wasted.

Ald. Weir pointed out that streets that had been ordered oiled two months ago had not been touched.

Mayor Duffus pointed out that the aldermen were elected to carry out the wishes of the people. The chairman was at head of the department and should know the working and what was going on.

After considerable discussion in which City Engineer Parsons denied any feeling in the matter of sewer or other work, it was decided to inaugurate the order system by the chairman and the City Engineer will give monthly statements to the Board of the expenditure in his department.

It was decided to recommend the building of a four foot sidewalk on both sides of Sutherland streets.

The chairman and City Engineer will get together and prepare a report of work to be done.

"Homestead" Map of North West

A publication which should prove of considerable interest to the prospective settler to Western Canada has just been issued by the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior. It is known as the "Homestead" Map and shows graphically the exact location of each quarter section which is still available for entry under the free Government offer of 160 acres.

The map has been published in four separate sheets, one each for Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Northern and Southern Alberta, respectively, and is available for free distribution in individual sheets or in complete sets.

The Homestead Map is one of a number of maps, reports and bulletins with respect to settlement in Western Canada that are available for free distribution upon application to the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch. In view of the arrangement with respect to farm labor in Western Canada counting as residence on a homestead and thereby reducing the period within which residence and cultivation duties must be performed prior to applying for a title to the land, also on account of the impetus which has been given to agriculture by the present world shortage of foodstuffs, the demand for information on the subject of Homesteading is showing a marked increase.

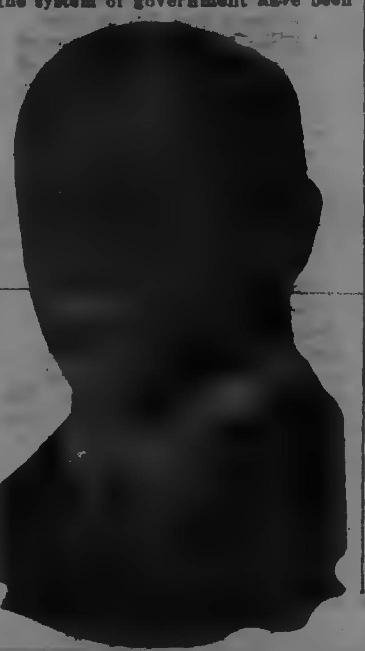
General Smuts Offered Suggestion to England About Future Monarchs

REVERANCE for tradition has caused the British public to stand aghast at the suggestion by General Smuts that the future kings of England should seek their brides within the kingdom. Even liberal opinion is inclined to hold such a suggestion as verging upon heresy, while the recent proposal of H. G. Wells that kings should be abolished is beyond the pale of reason. To suggest such a thing is to invite a suspicion of madness.

All of these ideas for further democratizing the British Government have sprung up like mushrooms since the Russian revolution. People seem to be infected with the spirit of change. It has cropped out in business, in politics, in the church, and, most of all, in society. Every newspaper printed in England to-day has one or two touches of the new era in democracy set forth prominently. To aliens these signs of the times are as plain as day; they blare forth among these stolid British institutions like a Byzantine palace would on the middle western prairies of Western Canada.

Despite the horror with which the suggestions for change in the system of royal marriages and even in the system of government have been received there continues to be a great deal written in support of such preachings. In a recent article Edwin Oliver, writing in The Evening Standard, has attempted to vindicate General Smuts in his proposal to have English princes marry English women.



GENERAL SMUTS

He points out that it has only been since 1772, when the royal marriage act was passed, that it had become the rule for kings to wed with royalty. Under that act members of the royal family cannot marry before they are 25 years of age, and not after that age without a year's notice to the Privy Council and the assent of Parliament.

"Hence we see that this limitation upon the royal marriages is at most conditional upon parliament," says Oliver. "It dates back less than a century and a half. Prior to that enactment British kings studied their own inclinations or interests in choosing their consorts, and there is no instance of the offspring of royal blood being excluded from succession on account of the inferiority of the maternal descent.

"The first instance of a kingly union with an English subject is that of Edward IV. Elizabeth Woodville was of undistinguished birth and a widow, yet, although the marriage caused a scandal at the time, the law of succession was held in such reverence that the astute Henry Tudor took the precaution to make the first daughter his wife.

"Richard III. also chose an English consort, Anne of Warwick, who had previously been espoused to Edward, son of Henry VI. Henry VIII.'s matrimonial steeplechase led him to the altar with no less than four of his lady subjects. The doubt thrown upon the legitimacy of his daughter Elizabeth did not prevent her succeeding in her order of precedence.

"The one notable recent instance to be recorded is that of James Duke of York, who married Anne Hyde. Although death terminated the union some years before James ascended the throne, both daughters born of it became queens in their own right."

Since the royal marriage act of 1772 went into effect the English princes have had little choice but a marriage with a German princess. The trend of the times is to discard all things Teutonic, among them the members of the German royal family. This feeling is taking pretty firm root, and there is a growing belief that General Smuts's suggestion will some day see its fulfilment.

WILL PAT MORAN BUILD-UP CLUB?

Baseball fans will watch with interest the method adopted by the Phillies to remold their ball club into a winner again. Not even the most optimistic fan concedes the Phillies a chance to catch the new York Giants. So far as 1917 is concerned, the Phillies' tale is written.

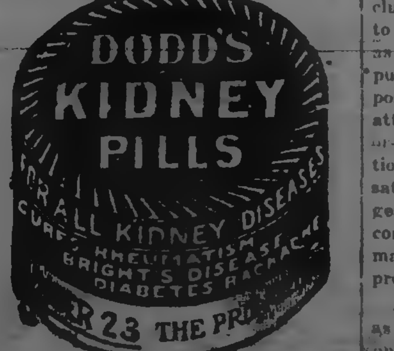
Will Manager Moran now begin to tear out and rebuild for other years, or will he plod along with his present combination, playing the best possible ball to keep second place and let the next season and the one following that take care of themselves? His action will furnish a direct comparison with the method of Connie Mack, most baseball men believe.

It undoubtedly is true that the present team will need material changing before it will be a pennant winner again. It will need another pitcher or two, at least one more live, hard-hitting infielder and a similar addition to the outfield.

Under similar conditions we all know what Connie Mack would do. He faced the same proposition three times in his career after winning pennants and he never hesitated to tear out and begin all over. In two instances he accomplished his purpose. In the third trial, which is now working to its conclusion, he bids fair to again develop a winning team.

However, the policy of the Philly club has been different. It has been to keep the team as close to the top as possible all of the time, giving the public as near a pennant winner as possible, even if it is not possible to attain first place. Instead of the "all-or-none" policy, the Philadelphia National league organization has been satisfied to make the necessary changes as they develop whether these consist in buying a needed player, making a trade, or developing a promising recruit.

After all, it is a matter of opinion as to which is the better method and only a glance at the receipt books of the clubs over a long period of such contrasting methods will determine which is the better, for money talks in baseball as well as everything else. The club that pleases the fans is the organization that fills its coffers.



PATRIOTISM

Patriotism, like Charity, should begin at home. The man who is willing at any time to protect his country against foreign foes, should be willing AT ALL TIMES to protect his Family against such common foes as Poverty, Privation and Suffering.

A Life Insurance Company cannot take the place of a Husband

BUT—

It can preserve the family from want.
It can lighten their load of care.
It can build a barrier against adversity.
It can strengthen the foundation of the home.
It can certify to a man's affectionate regard for his family.
It can place his widow beyond the need of marrying for support.
It can add to a man's years by freeing him from anxiety.
It can enhance the respect and esteem of the public and of his wife and children for him.

Complete and absolute Family protection can be had by your taking a policy in THE SUN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA, THE LEADING CANADIAN LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY.

PROTEST SHOWED UP POOR RULES

While it is not believed the great race the White Sox and Red Sox are making for the American league pennant will be marred by any technicalities and President Comiskey's protest of the game lost by his team in Chicago on August 20 was not taken seriously, it must be admitted that there were some astounding departures from the rules in the playing of both games on that day that suggest the advisability of rule revision.

The first game of the double-header went six innings, when it was stopped for more than an hour by a rain storm, after which it was resumed and played out, the White Sox winning. That was a violation of the rules right there.

At the finish of the nine innings of the interrupted first game the second was started and eight innings played, when the contest was called on account of darkness, the Red Sox being in the lead. The game was started in violation of the rule that says a game must be commenced not later than two hours before sunset.

Because of the importance of the games and in consideration of the great crowd on hand both club managements seemed to agree to these rule violations. They wanted to give the fans a full run for their money. But when one of the games illegally played is lost we find a protest on a technicality. Is this fair to the fans who thought they were witnessing an unquestioned championship contest having bearing on the pennant fight?

But the question raised is the advisability of changes in the rules—changes that have several times been advocated recently. One refers to the calling off after 30 minutes' wait of a game interrupted by rain. It seems generally agreed that this rule should be abolished and that a game started should be played out, when possible, no matter how long the period of interruption may be.

The other rule refers to starting a game not less than two hours before sunset. The rule could never have been meant to cover the second game of a double-header. If it was it has been violated in about 90 per cent. of all the double-headers ever played after the days begin to shorten in the last half of the season.

We doubt if a good sportsman like Charley Comiskey wants to win games on technicalities and therefore doubt that he means his protest seriously, but out of it may come some action along the lines advocated regarding resumption of interrupted games and late starting of double-headers.

Maybe some one will arise and ask: Why is a double-header, anyway? The privilege of double-headers has been abused, to the reproach and cheapening of the game. A rule of restriction governing such matters might be framed by the game's authorities for the welfare of baseball.

A LAST CHANCE FOR HARVESTERS

Owing to the unprecedented need of farm laborers in Western Canada and the lateness of the harvest, arrangements have been made by the Canadian Northern Railway for an additional excursion on Sept. 10 and Sept. 12th from all points west of and including Ottawa, Ont., at the rate of $12.00 to Winnipeg, plus half a cent per mile beyond. This will be positively the last opportunity of taking advantage of a reduced fare to the West where high wages and every prospect of three months' work prevail. For tickets and all information, apply to Thos. Mark, town agent, or General Passenger Department, C.N.R., Toronto, Ont.

She Knew Beans.

A young lady took down the receiver and discovered that the telephone was in use. "I just put on a pan of beans for dinner," she heard one woman complacently informing another.

She hung up the receiver and waited. Three times she waited, and then, exasperated, she broke into the conversation. "Madam, I smell your beans burning," she announced crisply. A horrified scream greeted the remark, and the young lady was able to put in her call.—Philadelphia Ledger.

His Domestic Economy.

Somebody said to Jamie McJames one day, "I trust you don't spend all your wages." "That I don't," Jamie replied. "I only spend two-thirds. Two-thirds is all." "And the other third—you bank that, I suppose?" "No, I do better than that with it. I give it to the wife to run the house."—London Standard.

A Dangerous Occupation.

"Does my practicing make you nervous?" asked the man who is learning to play the cornet.

"It did when I first heard the neighbors discussing it," replied the sympathetic person. "But now I'm getting so I don't care what happens to you."—Washington Star.

Raid on Dunkirk Occurred Yesterday

London, Sept. 5.—Shortly before nine o'clock explosions and heavy firing could be heard in the direction of Dunkirk and Calais and it was thought a raid on a large scale was taking place along French coast. This lasted until nearly midnight, when warnings were given, and shortly afterwards bombs began to drop. Anti-air craft guns went into action and through the din and whirr of airplane engines could be heard. Search lights were brought into operation, but they failed to pick out the raiders.

DEMANDS SCALP OF FIRE CHIEF

ALD. DUNCAN WOULD OUST HIM WITHOUT A HEARING.

That all Chinese are gamblers by instinct, and that the City Council or the police might as well try to stop the flow of the water in the Fraser as to prevent gambling in some form among the Chinese, was the somewhat sweeping statement made by Mr. J. The Review's New Telegraph Service

The Review now receives daily the full reports of the new National Telegraph Service that has just been inaugurated after years of effort by the Canadian Associated Press and our readers will receive the benefit in fuller accounts of the war as well as of all events of importance throughout the world. The new service connects every part of the Dominion. It cooperates with the Associated Press and this means that the readers of The Review will also be kept posted in all the matters of importance that are transpiring in any section of the American continent, with special reference to the part the United States is taking in the war in Europe.

The National Press Service marks an important epoch in Canadian journalism. No more fitting or notable celebration of fifty years of nationhood could have been designed. The occasion has been deemed worthy of congratulatory messages sent to the newspapers by Sir Robert Borden and other members of the Dominion Government. No part of the country will be slighted by the service and under the new order Canada should make progress as never before in its history. Every section of the Dominion will be kept constantly before the reading public.

The Review's telegraphic service also includes the cable despatches of Mr. Stewart Lyon, the special representative of the Canadian Press at the battle front. No war news published in Canada gives the public so clear an idea of the gallant work that is being done by the Canadian troops, and no summing up of the situation has been so accurate as that made from day to day by Mr. Lyon.

Interest In The Big Contest Grows Daily

Many Nominations Have Been Received and Public is Enthusiastic---Name of Contestants Will be Published Saturday---Early Work Counts the Most Votes---Don't Delay a Single Moment---Enter NOW!

Interest and enthusiasm in The Review's great contest is growing every minute and the big campaign is the subject of conversation in many homes in the city and vicinity. Yesterday was a banner day for nominations and many young people called at the office to get details of the contest and get started. Getting started is the most important point for the biggest votes of the contest are being given during the first period. Every minute NOW is worth many minutes during the latter part of the contest. Twenty per cent. less votes after the first period and then again twenty per cent. less votes after the second period. The wise contestants will "get started" right away, and the contest office is open every evening until 9 o'clock for the accommodation of those who cannot call during the day. "Do it now" has won many a battle. Send in your name this minute or better still, call at the office.

There is nothing difficult to understand about the big campaign. From the Review's point of view it is strictly a business venture organized for the purpose of securing a large number of subscriptions. The prizes will be given to the people who secure the most votes. A certain number of votes will be given for every subscription and the one who secures the highest total will receive the automobile. There are nine prizes in all and those who do not win one of the prizes will be paid in cash ten per cent. of the business they collect. Everybody wins—there is something for everyone and it does not cost anything to enter.

The contest is divided into three periods. The first period will close Sept. 29, and the second period on Oct. 13. The contest will end October 27 and the prizes awarded on that date.

THIS IS IMPORTANT

There will be no alteration in the vote schedules except that a decrease of twenty per cent will be made at the close of the first period and again at the close of the second period. This means that the schedules will be forty per cent lower during the last period of the campaign and shows the importance of getting busy during the early part of the contest. There will be no special vote offers—no booster periods or any extra votes of any kind. Bear this in mind candidates—and make the most of every minute while the most votes are given. One day NOW is as good as several days during the latter part of the campaign.

NINE ELEGANT PRIZES

The first prize in the campaign will be a 1918 Model Five Passenger Touring Car. The name of the car will probably be announced tomorrow. The second prize—a $475 Heintzman & Co. piano is now being displayed at Heintzman Hall, Hunter street. The Columbia Grafonola is on display at The J. M. Greene Music Co., Charlotte street, and you are invited to call and hear it. All the prizes are of splendid quality and well worth earnest effort. The bedroom suit and kitchen cabinet have been purchased from Cressman and Co., and the watches from Warne Bros., Jewelers, George street.

CONTEST OPENS SATURDAY

The big contest will open Saturday morning and the names of the candidates nominated up to that time will appear in the paper. Will your name be there? Are you going to let this splendid opportunity to win a great prize slip away? Nothing is ever gained by standing back and allowing others to have the best things in life. Get into the race and share in this splendid distribution of prizes and commissions. You can do it.

The voting on the Ackerman Shoe Factory bylaw, was carried on very briskly all day. A great number of autos turned out to assist in getting a large vote out.

The Review bulletin will announce the result this evening.

GERMAN FLEET REPORTED NOW IN THE GULF OF RIGA

Russians Continue Retreat From Baltic Coast---Continually Assualted by Artillery of the Persuing Germans---Further Measures to Stem Advance Depends on Behaviour of Troops.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Sept. 6.—It is semi-officially announced that a German fleet has appeared in the Gulf of Riga. During the past two days the Riga front has been broken on a width of 30 versts. Throughout Tuesday the Germans energetically pursued their offensive, particularly north of Uxkull in order to cut the Riga-Venden railway.

The retreat of the Russians from Riga over the neck of Land Mile and half way between Lake Kish, and Lake Egal is being accomplished with the greatest difficulty and with the enemy constantly shelling the rear guard. This route is along the Pakoff railway and is the only exit from the cul de sac, the German column having moved up from the Uskull direction cutting of the Russian retreat to the south-east.

The civilian head of the War Ministry, Baris Seavinhoff, has issued a statement saying that the success of measures which will be taken to check the advance, wholly depends upon the behavior of the troops.

Huns Take 7,500 Prisoners.

Berlin, Sept. 6.—More than seven thousand five hundred prisoners have so far been taken by Germans in region of Riga offensive, Army Headquarters announced today. Guns to number of 180 have been taken.

PRUSSIAN GUARDS WALK INTO TRAP SET BY CANUCKS

Crack Battalion Outwitted by Colonial Troops and Almost Cut to Pieces in Engagement That Followed.

(By Stewart Lyon)

Canadian Headquarters in France, via London, Sept. 6.—The famous Prussian Guard formations are war weary and despondent over their experiences during the last three weeks in this part of the front. A prisoner of a regiment attached to the Fourth Guard Division, which holds the enemy line in the vicinity of Hill 70, says that the losses in his regiment have been very great. By our attack on the morning of Saturday the Third Battalion was so badly cut up that the first batalion had to be called to their part of the line. The officers of this battalion were not aware that our men held a certain trench well to the south of our front line. By their orders the Germans advanced up the trench until they came under the concentrated machine gun fire of the Canadians holding the trench. In a few minutes half of the company were wiped out. In another part of the trench a similar experience befell another company.

Foe Loses Nerve

These misfortunes cut the nerve of the enemy, and the circumstances the attack Tuesday morning added to their demoralization. That attack was preceded by the projection of gas. Some drums of gas were thrown into the German trenches beyond the point to which it was intended that our men should penetrate. Dugouts are traps when gas is projected into the trenches, as it seeks the lowest levels available and settles there until gradually absorbed into the atmosphere. Forsaking their dugouts when the gas alarms began to ring the enemy rushed up into the front trench and put on their gas masks. At that moment our barrage came down upon the trench preparatory to an assault. The enemy lost many men by our artillery fire, and when our infantry came up it was but a half-hearted resistance that the shaken enemy offered.

Foe Disheartened

No serious attempts has been made to recover the lost ground, which was almost the last position north of Lens from which the enemy could observe movements within our line. There has been abnormal bombing activity by the enemy and shelling of the back area by high velocity guns. The British aviators also have been extremely active since the return of clear weather. In one case a direct hit was made with a heavy bomb on an enemy aerodrome. The explosion violently bumped an attacking aeroplane, but it quickly righted and the aviator swung round and crossed the aerodrome at a height of 700 feet to observe the result of his lucky hit. Great clouds of black smoke were rolling up, and it was evident that a large part of the plant had been destroyed.

The use of machine guns upon trains, lorry convoys and similar enemy targets during these forays is now so common that it is not thought worth while reporting such incidents.

ENGINE JUMPED TRACK.

Train From Lakes Late This Morning as Result.

The engine of the Lakefield train ran off the track at the village station this morning just as the train was starting for the return trip to Peterborough.

No one was hurt and another locomotive was sent from the city to pull the derailed engine onto the track.

This was the cause of the delay in the train service from the lakes.

How Conscripts Will Be Distributed

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Men called up under the Military Service Act will be attached to the battalions already in France from their own territorial divisions, that is, Ontario men will be drafted to the famous regiments, from military districts one, two and three, when once they get to Britain and France. All new men will first, however, have some preliminary training in Canada.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 6, 1917

THE MAN AT THE HELM

IT IS BORDEN and not Laurier who has been at the Canadian helm during all of this war. It is Borden who has visited the actual fighting; whose heart has bled for the hard-pressed Canadian troops and for their need of the rest and succor that can only be given them by a constant flow of recruits. It is Borden whose long experience with volunteering qualifies him to say when its power to maintain that flow has come to an end. In short, it is he who feels the situation's extremity from the standpoint of the man who is doing the job, and not from that of the man who merely suggests how it might be done. When Sir Robert, so placed, declared that the way beyond the Dominion's extremity lay in the great principle of universal service, one knew he was speaking that stern and availing statesmanship which democracy must show in this war or else perish.—Boston Transcript.

THE PRICE OF WHEAT

THE PRICE OF $2.20 a bushel for No. 1 Northern spring wheat fixed by the United States Government is liberally fair to the farmer, it will mean a considerable saving to the Allied buyers, and it ought to mean a distinct saving to the American consumer, says the New York Evening Post. In 1867 the price of wheat reached $2.50 a bushel; between that date and the present war it never touched the rate now set by Dr. Garfield's commission. A few months ago wheat touched even $3.50 a bushel, but that rate was artificial, caused by the bidding of foreign Governments against each other, and the rush into the market of speculators who, having previously distrusted the high prices and sold short, were forced at last to find wheat at almost any price to fill their contracts. The average crop of wheat in America is such that good farmers can realize over $50 an acre gross on wheat at the price now fixed. This year has been poor, but the rate will still pay a good profit and encourage production. The farm price of wheat in Illinois was 88 cents on December 1 1912; 86 cents on that date in 1913, $1.01 in 1914; and $1 in 1915. The rate of $2.20 now quoted in Chicago is, of course, for Chicago delivery and for a little better grade than Illinois wheat.

ANARCHISTS IN CANADA.

EVERY COUNTRY at some period of its history has to cope with the menace of the active anarchist, and by experinece has proved that the evil is easily stamped out if prompt and decisive action is taken.

Not so many years ago the United States was a veritable hotbed of anarchy, and Chicago was the centre of the cult. The teachings of the leaders culminated thirty years ago in the famous Haymarket riots when seven policemen were killed by bombs. The leaders of the new faith were arrested, tried ans convicted. None of them had actually taken a hand in the riots, but their teachings had incited the mob to violence. Four of them were put to death, and the fifth escaped execution only by taking his own life on the day before that set for the hanging.

That put a quietus on the American anarchist for years. Until the war broke out little was heard of him. If he worked at all it was in the dark. The cult became active again a short time ago, when the selective draft was proposed. Two of the ringleaders have been given a long term in prison to think over their sins against law and order. Of the incarcerated, one is a woman—Emma Goldsmith—the most dangerous of them all, and one whose sex alone has saved her from earlier retribution.

The anarchist is abroad in Canada. The police are on his trail, and the danger from his underground warfare against the law can be checked as easily as it was in the United States, if the same heroic measures are taken.

Of all the enemies to society, none is to be more dreaded than the anarchist. There is no excuse for his mania. He is unlike the man who takes the life of another while laboring under temporary insanity engendered by excessive human passion. He sins in secret and commits diabolical murder in cold blood. If any man merits capital punishment especially in a country where that form of penalty is visited upon lesser offenders the anarchist does beyond all question.

The Military Service Act is now a law of the land. To actively oppose it or to encourage others to do so, is treason, and the punishment for treason is death. Nothing can be gained by temporizing with the offender. Laxity in the application of the law will encourage others to offend likewise. Any citizen of Canada is at liberty to work for the repeal of a law which he regards as unjust, but to openly oppose such a law while it is still in force is another matter.

A USEFUL LIFE

THE NEW YORK Times makes the following editorial reference to the late Earl Grey, formerly Governor-General of Canada: "All his mature life Earl Grey was interested, eagerly and effectively, in the amelioration of social conditions. He introduced co-operation in his Northumberland estate. His effort and plan to reform British public houses and to promote the sale of nonintoxicants in them are known to all social reformers. He was an able financier, an energetic, tireless, and always modest administrator. He was the friend of Mr. Choate, Mr. Roosevelt, Mr. Taft, and many other Americans, and of America. A federation of English-speaking peoples was his dream or hope. He lived to see a close sympathy between all branches of English-speaking men, fighting together for the same cause. An active, useful, fruitful life."

NOTES AND COMMENT.

FREE SPEECH in some parts of Canada seems to mean nothng so much as free poison gas.

• • •

THOSE WHO believe in government by the majority should not hesitate about either submitting to the Military Service Act or in advising others to do the same.

• • •

THE MAN who has reached the age of 34 and is caught in the net because he is not yet married deserves no better fate.

• • •

THERE MAY BE dope victims in Canada, but none of the drugs used are strong enough to breed the delusion that Sir Wilfrid Laurier will ever come back.

• • •

BUT WHY chase the small-bore seditionists with every artifice at the command of the police while the big fellows in public life are allowed to go Scot free?

• • •

FOOD CONTROLLER HANNA reminds the public that while oysters are permissaible they are not compulsory.

• • •

JUST AS SOON as the Food Controller started to boom fish as a desirable diet the thrifty dealers took their cue and thrust up the price.

• • •

AND NOW watch Ald. Dobbin and his committee as they begin their drive against that autocrat, Old King Coal, and send him to the discard along with the other de-crowned monarchs.

• • •

PRESIDENT WILSON intimates that the Kaiser is a liar, and the latter is vexed—not because he is, but because he has been caught redhanded in the act.

Jones—Well, you told me to get familiar with the great composers.

THE INEVITABLE
(New York Tribune)

Exactly the same sort of oper ation was carried on in the civil war when Grant in his great campaign from the Rapidan to the James failed to destroy Lee's armies and achieve an absolute decision. The South, from its shaking walls, still thundered forth the same defiances and still proclaimed the same invincibility which now falls from the lips of the German emperor and is echoed by every German agent and sympathizer all over the world. Yet it requires only the slightest examination of the situation for the past fourteen months of the war to demonstrate how rapidly and how unmistakably the German defeat is coming. A military decision next summer can be avoided by the German only if he succeeds in imposing his view of allied strategy upon the allied nations and the United States and Russia fail to play a part in the campaign of 1918.

NO NELSON IN PRESENT SERVICE
(Springfield Republican)

An English defender of the admiralty in trying to answer the question. "What would Nelson have done?" pertinently reminds his readers that nowadays the Nelson who fought Trafalgar could never have got by a medical board with his one arm, his one eye, his damaged head and his chronic invalidism. In Nelson's day it was enough to be a fighter.

HOW LLOYD GEORGE KEEPS UP
(The Passing Show)

Have you ever noticed that Lloyd George makes periodical excursions into Wales? Of course you have; but what of it? Oh, nothing, nothing at all, only you may perhaps have also noticed that the majority of the inhabitants of Wales are Welshmen who speak Welsh—a language which conveys no meaning whatever to any other nation on God's earth, and which I often doubt whether they really understand themselves. Very well, then, Lloyd George goes down to Wales, and makes speeches in Welsh. Nobody knows what he says —I don't, you don't and I daresay he doesn't—but I'll lay a pound to a brick that during those speeches he gets off his chest all the unparliamentary expressions that have been simmering inside him for months.

It may take a casualty list to do it, but the time is coming when spying in this country will be regarded as something more than a misdemeanor.

KAISER AND PEOPLE
(Ottawa Journal)

The truth is that the entire German people, from the Kaiser down to the meanest of his subjects, willed this war and had their hearts set upon the destruction and conquest of other peoples. And even today, with the nation bleeding to death, the overwhelming bulk of the people of Germany are solidly behind the war lords and the kaiser.

In the name of common candor and justice, let us have done with this "pussyfooting" about the German people. The German people are fighting us and hating us and murdering our women and children.

SEVENTEEN YEARS AGO

From The Review of Sept. 6th 1900:

The Horticultural Society opened a successful exhibition in the market building.

A Year Ago Today.

French capture Hospital Farm and Rainette Wood and the British secure a lodgement in Leuze Wood, northwest of Combles.

Italians take several commanding positions of the Austrians on Punto del Forane in the Sugana valley.

The inventor of a new electric brake for automobiles claims it will stop a car moving at a speed of fifty miles an hour within 45 feet without skidding.

AMERICANS FAR BEHIND IN PRODUCTION OF AIRPLANES

Seven years ago, in a little workshop just outside of Paris, was built a monoplane that flew the first time it was turned loose, and, in flying, broke all existing ethereal records for speed, duration of flight, climbing, altitude and flexibility. Were one of the "aces" of the flying corps asked today to operate in that machine over the shell-torn terrain of Flanders, he would laugh at the request, regarding the single-winged dragon fly as a joke, a dangerous toy.

Yet, when Edouard Nieuport produced his speedy little swallow, that part of the world interested in man's mastery of the air said the millennium had arrived. Nieuport had made the radical designs for that plane entirely on paper, following experiments and mathematical calculations too abstruse to be gone into here. It flew on its first trial and Edouard Nieuport knew it would.

Wrights Still Earlier.

Seven years before that time, in 1903, the Wright brothers first startled the world with a heavier than air machine that actually flew with its own power. It was this American genius, applied at Dayton, Ohio, that gave to the world the most valuable asset this great war has known, worked out by laborious air experimentation.

Europe saw the possibilities from a military standpoint. Immediately the great universities of England, France, Germany and Italy established laboratories for the exclusive study of the science that masters the air. The United States alone of the great Powers did not visualise the wonderful opportunity. Even after Europe was plunged into war, then America, forced in, with the science of airplane design and construction and operation progressing by leaps and bounds, all this time, still could not produce planes.

Science Neglected in America.

While in England alone there are dozens of laboratories and designing plants and constructing factories, there is only one laboratory worthy the name in the United States that is working on the great problem. England and France number aerial scientists by the thousands, men who have been studying for ten years. America can count her actual aerial scientists on her fingers. Europe is equipped to keep up with the weekly demand for newer airplanes; in America the few factories are working principally on double-seated instructor planes.

The U. S. war department hopes to send ten thousand trained aviators to France this year. When they go into action, scouting, map making, observing, and dropping bombs, they will do so in English and French planes. In the United States planes cannot be sent to France because those now being made there are not fast enough, cannot climb sharply enough, have not the factor of safety that European planes have. While the United States can obtain —probably has obtained — blue prints of British and French latest designs, manufacture from those plans is not feasible because it would be impossible to have the co-operation of the designer and builder — and the country is woefully lacking in men trained to design and build.

Tested in Wind Tunnel.

All of which leads up to the "wind tunnel." Without going into technical details this device can be explained simply as a long tube, at one end of a powerful fan, or airplane propeller, in the middle a rack on which can be placed a small replica of a plane or any part of it. Wind is forced against this part, and its resistance to the air is gauged upon instruments that lie without the tunnel, gauged so accurately upon a scale that the scientist can say to an iota what the pressure in actual flying conditions would be upon a life-size airplane in flight. Such conclusions cannot be scaled in actual flights.

These wind tunnels are located in government and private laboratories throughout Europe. Edouard Nieuport used a crude one in producing his famous monoplane. In the United States there is one, at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. The war department is constructing one in Virginia; the Navy will have one in operation in a short time at the Capital.

There should be a hundred of them in America. With the proper testing machines, scientists at the six universities where are now located the ground schools for preparing United States army aviators for the flying fields could keep pace with the European designers and builders—and the United States could ship planes to France just as good as any in action there, if not better.

Assistance Sought by University.

President James of the University of Illinois asked the last Legislature to appropriate $150,000 for the construction of such a laboratory and wind tunnel. The university will furnish the operating personnel and the site. As it is now, the university must await another session of the lawmaking body unless some "angel" with as big a vision of facts as the university men have, comes forward and provides the money. Illinois then could take first rank in the United States in airplane design, construction and instruction, for the ground school at the university and the flying institute at Rantoul are producing as many aviators now for Uncle Sam as any other section of the country.

Such prominent figures in the science of air mastery as Gen. Squier, C. D. Walcott of the Smithsonian Institute, S. W. Stratton, director of the bureau of standards, and Allan R. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of America, endorse the plan for such a laboratory at Urbana.

E. Percy Noel, war correspondent of the Chicago Daily News, in a recent article, wrote: "The airplane production of England and France is estimated at the rate of four hundred a week." In the United States fewer than forty a week are being made and these are training macsines, unsuitable for the front.

Wit and Wisdom

An attorneyl was consuted by a woman desirous of bringing action against her husband for a divorce.

She related a harrowing tale of the ill-treatment she had received at his hands. So impressive was her recital that the lawyer for a moment was startled out of his usual professional composure.

"From what you say, this man must be a brute of the worst type!" he exclaimed.

The applicant for divorce arose and, with severe dignity, announced:

"Sir, I shall consult another lawyer. I came here to get advice as to a divorce, not to hear my husband abused."

The other day a young lady got into a crowded street car aud was obliged to sit next to an old gentleman not of an overclean type. When the conductor came to the lady for her fare she exclaimed frantically: "Oh, I have been robbed. I have got nothing in my pocket but a piece of string, some orange peel, and an old knife."

"Madam," said the old gentleman in a deep, coarse voice, "would you please take your hand out of my pocket?"

The east end doctor was attending an injured woman who had come to his surgery with her arm severely bitten.

He dressed the wound, and as he did so he remarked:

"I cannot quite make out what sort of animal bit you. The wound is too small for a horse's bite and too big for a dog's."

Jimmy's mother had told him to stay near the window and watch for the bride and groom and come and tell her when he saw them coming. After waiting for some time his patience was rewarded, but he forgot to run and tell his mother. When they were quite near he suddenly remembered, and called out lustily: "Mamma, here comes the bride and the gloom!"

"That's a fine stream for trout, friend," observed a piscatorial acquaintance the other day to a genuine sprig from the Emerald Isle, who was whipping away with great vigor at a well-known and favorite pool.

"Faith, and it must be that same, sure enough," returned Pat, "for deuce a one of 'em 'll stir out of it."

"The new neighbors wants t' cut th' grass, mum," said Bridget, "an' wants ter know if yes will lend thim th' loan av our lawn mower."

"Lend them the lawn mower to cut the grass on the Sabbath!" asked the highly shocked mistress. "Certainly not, Bridget. Tell them we have none."

AS THEY LEAVE

(New York Sun.)

Stand up, New York, and watch your men go to war, to the war of the free peoples against the great beast of the world.

Be proud of them, mothers that bor them, wives that bade them go, fathers that are glad.

Cheer them, you men whose turn is to come, as they would cheer you.

Hate them with the hate that only cowards know, ye slackers and skulkers who hide behind the banner of pacifism.

Look at them from behind your shutters, ye hyphenates. Many of them the sons of immigrants, they have but one country in their hearts today. They are what you might have been.

CONCERTS AT THE FRONT KEEP TOMMIES HAPPY.

Interesting Excerpts From a Diary Tell of Enjoyment Received From Music Near Front.

Enthusiastic accounts reach London of the success of the concerts organized by Lena Ashwell at the fighting fronts in France. Officers and men attend the concerts in huge numbers and unanimously testify to their importance as recreational and morale-repairing influences.

"At this place," [illegible] diarist with one of the firing line parties, "we are two miles back of the advanced troops. Lots of men have come straight from the trenches. I am simply amazed at the way they listen to the music. Our Y. M. C. A. hut is chockful- two rows of officers in front, and the rest Tommies as close as they can pack. Never heard such cheers as they gave us when it was over. We saw many star shells and artillery shells bursting as we sang and played."

Concert in a Brewery.

Again: "Here we a showing in a brewery, a large and very cold place supposed to be fairly safe. The audience is most enthusiastic—mainly boys just in from the lines. One of the masked for Raff's 'Cavatina.'"

Running on, the diarist says: "Concert at E—— to about 4,000 men in an enormous gymnasium. Three shows in the neighborhood of B——, first in a sort of barn in the tunneling camp for the men who are mining. Very crowded and enthusiastic audience. Second concert at a clearing hospital; more enthusiasm. Third in Y. M. C. A. hut. Sacred concert in L—— church during low mass. The church was very crowded and the effect of the music was beautiful. Our first to the Canadians—a splendid reception; packed house. So many couldn't get in that we promised to repeat the show tomorrow afternoon. Fighting going on near here; the ——st Canadians go 'over the top' tonight."

AFTER SEVEN YEARS.

Millbrook Man Again Visits the Toronto Fair.

Toronto, Sept. 6.—One of the veterans of Ontario who attended the Exhibition yesterday was W. J. Jones, Millbrook. "It is just seven years since I was here last," he said, "and I don't see a single thing that looks like it did then."

"What change strikes you as the most noticeable?" he was asked.

"Why, I think this fountain is the greatest thing I ever saw. And then the water front is fine. It was not fixed up anything like it is now in the old days. I am off to see the stock now."

MUSIC PROMOTED IN SHIPYARDS

Four Bands Have Been Organized Among Craftsmen.

Music and the shipbuilding industry are now joining hands in Seattle, Wash., and four new bands have sprung into existence in as many months. The Annes Shipyard Band, the Duthie Shipyard Band, the Skinner and Eddy Company Band and the Seattle Construction and Dry-Dock Company Band are the names of the new musical organizations. The largest of these organizations is [illegible] bers, which made its initial public appearance at Volunteer Park early in July in a well-balanced program.

The members of the band are in a lasge part employed in the yards in clerical positions. T. H. Wagner, Seattle's oldest and most popular bandmaster, is instructor as well as director, teaching the amateur members of the band, which rehearses every day from 12 to 1 o'clock during the noon hour in Recreation Hall. All expense for the upkeep of the band is borne by the shipbuilding company.

The Duthie Shipyards Band played at another park the same day, giving a fine program. This organization has 35 members, all employed in the shipyards. Each noon they give a program in the yard for the entertainment of the employes and hold their rehearsals at 4 o'clock in the afternoon immediately after work. An added attraction to social life in the Duthie yards is a splendid vocal quartette.

The band at the Seattle Construction and Dry Dock Company rehearses three times each week and renders the music at the numerous social functions given by the company. The latest band to be organized in the shipbuilding industry is that of the Skinner-Eddy Company. Like the other bands, it is composed mainly of amateurs, and rehearsals are held after working hours each afternoon.

The shipbuilding industry, which has so recently grown to enormous proportions throughout the country, is in the forefront of the progressive fields of commerce which are aware of the invigorating effects of music on their workers. The greater efficiency produced through stimulation by music is of incalculable value to the employes and can almost be translated into terms of dollars and cents.

LITTLE RED SCHOOL HOUSE AS A CENTRE OF MUSIC

The essence of music is unselfishness. Of that there can be no doubt. Hence the propagation of music among all classes or what some choose to call democracy in music, is worth working for, and some go so far as to believe that it is inevitable.

A Chicago pianist offers the suggestion that an attempt should be made to make the little red school houses of the countrysides centres [illegible] being the arrangement of a series of concerts in each community. Through that and other agencies latent musical interest would be stirred up and he believes the old-time singing master should be reinstated in the old time singing schools. One result of this would be the cultivation of a good ear for music, as singing en masse is an excellent training for the ear, an essential in studying any instrument one may make his choice.

With the depopulation of certain rural districts comes a real problem to our country. The "back to the land" movement can never be successfully made a reality unless there be more music in the country communities, more music in the country homes, for music, fundamentally, is a human necessity.

GETTING THE MOST OUT OF MUSIC.

"I have every respect for the work being carried on by the music teachers of this country," said a business man the other day, one who is willing to back with his purse movements that aim at giving broadcast the benefits of music. "I know under what difficulties they sometimes work, and I have nothing but praise for that work. Only from one viewpoint would I find any fault—and that is some of them work as if every pupil might become a professional musician. That cannot be so. But every pupil can be taught how to enjoy music, to get something permanently helpful out of the training."

This raises the question, what percentage of those in attendance at a musical ionacrt get anything like what they should out of it? By far the majority have had the advantage of some music lessons. They are naturally fond of music or they would not be there. But upon the nature of the teacher's work, perhaps years ago, depends in part the measure of enjoyment obtained from the program.

The chief object of musical education is to foster and develop the olve of music. To enable one to get a great deal, the very most, out of music. If the music in our schools, if the system epmolyed by our music teachers, does not have that in their aim, the aim is wrong. There is more in music for tired people who go down to the music hall in the evening or who have music in their own homes, than words can express. The ideal system is that which provides for the education of the people of all classes on how to get the most enjoyment out of it.

BIG CONVENTION.

Canadian Edison Dealers Meet in Toronto.

The second annual convention of the Canadian Edison Phonograph Dealers met in Toronto September 4th and 5th, this week. The convention was a huge success in every way both instructive and entertaining and was attended by Mr. Wm. Maxwell, vice-president of the Edison Co., New York.

A recherche banquet was held Tuesday evening in the Ontario club, after which a tone recital was given by the great artist, Christine Miller.

The J. M. Greene Music Co., this city, sent six representatives to the convention, four from Peterborough, one from Belleville and one from Lindsay. Miss LeBar, recently appointed manager of the Edison department in this Company's head office, Charlotte street, read a splendid paper on "The Responsibilities of an Edison Dealer." The paper was prepared by Mr. J. M. Greene and elicited responsive endorsation from all present.

Rheumatism

A Home Cure Given by One Who Had It

In the spring of 1893 I was attacked by Muscular and Inflammatory Rheumatism. I suffered as only those who have it know, for over three years. I tried remedy after remedy, and doctor after doctor, but such relief as I received was only temporary. Finally, I found a remedy that cured me completely, and it has never returned. I have given it to a number who were terribly afflicted and even bedridden with Rheumatism, and it effected a cure in every case.

I want every sufferer from any form of rheumatic trouble to try this marvelous healing power. Don't send a cent; simply mail your name and address and I will send it free to try. After you have used it and it has proven itself to be that long looked-for means of curing your Rheumatism, you may send the price of it, one dollar, but, understand, I do not want your money unless you are perfectly satisfied to send it. Isn't that fair? Why suffer any longer when positive relief is thus offered you free? Don't delay. Write today.

DELIVER BOOZE! BY AIR EXPRESS IDEA OF JOKERS

HUNTSVILLE MAN TAKES LETTER FROM SCUGOGVILLE AS A POSSIBILITY.

A Lindsay man who wished to have some sport with a Huntsville friend, told him of a proposed air service which would be established between Montreal and the Scugog town in case no liquor was permitted into Ontario, and received the following reply by mail:

Dear Friend,—Younr esteemed letter to hand, and my friend and I were glad to learn of the progressive ideas of the Lindsay citizen in instituting an air service for the relief of afflicted and thirsty humanity in your town. It is a noble work and should succeed, and the gentlemen who conceived the idea are worthy of having their names written at the highest point in the Hall of Fame. To posterity their names should be handed down as the volunteers who came to the relief of suffering humanity and carried the "liquid of life" to those who were parching end perishing in the far-flung desert wastes of Providence-wide prohibition. By the way, the writer asks, could it not be arranged that Huntsville would come into the circuit, and the aeroplane make a detour to the thriving little town which has its dry souls also.

This, he further states, would be highly appreciated by many of the prominent citizens of the Muskoka Lake hamlet, who believe in the use of all things which providence has bestowed upon us, but not in the abuse of our worldly possessions.

SUPPOSED CLERGYMAN FOUND DIPPY DEPORTED

The American Secret Service man who was supposed to have come to Toronto for Rev. Benjamin Edwin Parkinson not putting in an appearance, the Toronto police solved the trouble of dealing with the case of the clergyman-Colonel by deporting him. The man having been declared mentally unbalanced by the doctors at the General Hospital, the authorities were able to order his deportation as an undesirable. Rev. Mr. Parkinson was arrested in a hotel, where he was parading in the garb of a Colonel of the United States army. Inspector of Detectives Kennedy stated that he was suspected of espionage, while the American authorities advised him to hold the man until a Secret Service agent arrived for him. This was a week ago.

Didn't Close Her Eyes All Night

Mrs. Garside Says Tanlac Strengthened and Built Her Up Wonderfully.

"When my husband saw how quickly Tanlac relieved me, we got him a bottle, too, and it is doing him as much good as it did me," said Mrs. R. Garside, of 392½ Richmond street, London, whose husband is employed in the munition works of the Spray Motor Company, the other day.

"I had been in a dreadfully rundown condition for a year," she explained, and my stomach was in a terrible condition. I had no appetite and what little I forced down soured on my stomach and filled me with gas and my heart would flutter like it would jump out of my body. I was subect to smothering spells that almost took my breath away and suffered agonies with a pain in the left side of my chest. My nerves [illegible] would [illegible] with excitement at any sudden noise. I would roll and toss from side to side of my bed and many a time I wouldn't close my eyes all night, and when morning came I would be so tired and fagged out it was all I could do to get up and dress. I fell off eight pounds and was fast going down hill, in fact, I hadn't enough strength and energy left to do my housework.

"I think I took about every preparation there was on the market but found no relief till I began with Tanlac. The way this medicine took hold of my troubles from the first and started me up hill again was wonderful. I am now on my fourth bottle and have the finest kind of appetite, I can eat most anything I want and since Tanlac has helped me to digest my food properly I have been freed of that awful gas and the smothering spells and the heart flutterings have stopped. My nerves are in much better shape and I sleep better than I have in a long time. Tanlac has built me up so that I am heavier and stronger than I was and certainly feel more like doing my housework now than I did a few weeks ago.

ELEVEN BOARDS FOR PETERBORO

TWO OF THESE WILL BE IN CITY AND NINE IN COUNTY.

There will be eleven tribunals in Peterborough city and county to hear exemption applications under the new Military Service Act. There will be two members on each tribunal, one to be appointed by Judge Huycke and the other by the Government board that will be named by the committee to be chosen jointly by the Premier and Sir Wilfrid Laurier. It is believed that the new Act will be put in force at once and that the exemption boards will find work ahead of them as soon as they are appointed.

There will be two boards in Peterborough City and one each in Apsley, Norwood, Warsaw, Lakefield, Havelock, Kinmount, Hall's Bridge, Bridgenorth, and Centerville.

There will be one each in Campbellford, Brighton, Castleton, Warkworth, Cobourg, Cold Springs, and Roseneath.

Durham County will have one each in Port Hope, Bowmanville, Millbrook, and Blackstock.

Judge Huycke has not yet decided on his nomination to the Exemption Boards but has the matter under consideration. The Judge has, however, complied with instructions from Ottawa by suggesting certain changes in the location of the various county boards as above announced.

Local Veterans On Visit To Lindsay

HELP RETURNED SOLDIERS OF THAT TOWN TO STRENGTHEN BRANCH.

Sergt. G. Victor with Corporals Fred Long and T. Baxter of the War Veterans Association were in Lindsay last night helping the branch in that town to perfect their organization. The society was organized some time ago but so far has only 19 members while 45 are eligible. They asked for help from the Peterborough branch and the request met with a ready response.

Gen. Sir Sam Hughes will be asked to become honorary president. A tag day was planned and it was decided to apply to the citizens for the use of a club room.

Sergt. Victor called on the Lindsay papers and secured promises of help by giving the Veterans and their needs all the publicity and support that is required.

Mr. James Morrison aged 92, of Beaverton, who saw the first Fair in Toronto seventy years ago, was a visitor to the Exhibition grounds.

GEORGE L. MYLAND ELECTED TO GO TO LABOR CONGRESS

Special Meeting of Labor Council Next Wednesday Evening to Instruct Him as to What Course to Take on Matters Likely to be Discussed at Ottawa.

George L. Myland, a member of the local Typographical Union and of The Review news room staff, was elected at the regular meeting of the Trades and Labor Council last night as delegate to represent that body at the annual meeting of the Dominion Trades Congress, which will assemble at Ottawa for a six days' session on Monday, Sept. 17th. William Rudkins, a member of the Moulders Union, was elected alternate. Mr. Myland is financial secretary and treasurer of the Trades Council and is also Secretary-Treasurer of the Ontario Conference of Typographical Unions, and president of the Labor Educational Association of Ontario. He was a delegate to the thirty-second session of the Dominion Congress when it met in Toronto a year ago.

A special meeting of the Trades Council will be held in Labor Hall Sept. 12 to instruct the delegate with regard to what action he should take on matters of importance that will come before the Congress, especially such problems as the Industrial Disputes Act, the conscription of wealth, and the high cost of living.

At the session of the Congress in Toronto last year a resolution was adopted almost unanimously asking the Government to repeal the Industrial Disputes Act as it was held that it operated unjustly against labor. No action has been taken, and the Act has not even been amended. It is altogether likely that the demand for repeal will be repeated at the coming session. The stand of local labor men on this issue will be made clear at the special meeting next Wednesday night and Delegate Myland will be instructed accordingly.

One year ago the Dominion Congress placed itself on record on the question of the conscription of wealth when the delegates declared for a tax of 75 per cent. of all war profits. This position is likely to be reaffirmed when the matter is taken up again at the Ottawa gathering.

Local labor men fail to note any reduction in the high cost of living since the appointment of a Food Controller. They are not yet convinced, either, that the fuel problem has been solved even by the establishing of a civic coal yard. These are matters that should receive further governmental attention, it is held, and this is one question that will be fully discussed at the meeting next Wednesday night.

A letter was received from Mr. "Jimmy" Simpson of Toronto, vice-president of the Dominion Congress, urging the Trades Council to send a delegate, as matters of grave importance are to be discussed, and so important a centre as Peterborough should be represented.

A Generous Plumber.

At the last meeting in August the Council voted $5 to a fund to defend two striking plumbers in St. John, N. B., who are charged with murder and arson. They have had two trials in which the jury failed to agree, and are still in jail.

When Mr. Geo. A. Brenton, a contracting plumber on Hunter street, heard of the action of the Council, he handed $5 to President J. J. Hartley to be devoted to the same purpose.

The Machinists' Union will also send a delegate to the Dominion Congress.

NEW INCOME TAX BILL AS AMENDED BY SENATE

Measure Changed in Several Important Particulars and Now Stands for Third Reading.

Ottawa, Sept. 6.—Amendments were made to the Income Tax bill by the Senate; the bill was reported, and now stands for third reading.

The section defining the incomes subject to taxation was amended, so that taxable income is declared to be the "annual net profit" instead of the "annual profit," as in the original bill. Other amendments were made to the same clause to make it clear that, while bequests were not to be regarded as income, the earnings of the bequests and the policies were income, and subject to taxation.

Another amendment declares that in computing income the person taxed shall not be allowed to deduct the amount of personal or living expenses.

Senator Bostock, the Opposition leader, moved that for each dependent child the taxpayer should have exemption of $150. He stated that there was exemption for each child in England and France. Sir James Lougheed replied that he could not accept the amendment. The amendments already made were of an explanatory nature, and did not affect the principle of the money bill. This amendment proposed to reduce the amount of that taxation which the Government and the House of Commons had agreed should be collected, therefore it altered the principle of the bill.

Chairman Sproule, acting as Chairman of the committee, sustained the ruling. Senator Bostock appealed to the Senate from the decision, which was sustained by 27 to 23.

The clause requiring employers to deduct the amount of the tax from the salaries of employees and pay direct to the Government was amended by Sir James Lougheed so that employers will deduct and pay only the "normal" tax. He stated that it would be impossible for employers to compute the amount of the super-tax.

A new telephone attachment that must be operated to make a connection shows the number of calls that have been made and the number remaining on a limited service line.

Married Men on Staff of Standard to Receive $250.

It is often a good thing to be married for sometimes good things come in the way of married people which are denied single ones. This holds true in the case of the married members of the Standard bank staff who were notified that a bonus of $250 a year had been granted them by the head office. This applies to all branches of the bank, and the action of the management is much appreciated by the beneficiaries.

Mrs. Mary A. Wilson, 701 Harvey street, has raised an excellent crop of potatoes from the peelings of the tubers which she saved and planted last spring. CROP REPORTS FROM ONTARIO VERY CHEERING

DEMAND FOR FARM LABOR FALLING OFF IN SOME LOCALITIES.

Following is a summary of weekly crop reports made by District Representatives to the Ontario Department of Agriculture: Rains have delayed harvesting, and considerable oats remain to be cut, or are in the shock. However, there has been practically no sprouting reported this season, and all the grains are as a rule well up to or above the weight of the measured bushel, as revealed by threshing. A little hay is reported to be still uncut, owing to the rush of the grain harvest. Corn is now growing rapidly, but it is still a week or two behind its usual development at this date.

The area of new fall wheat so far is not up to the average, owing to the late harvest, the hard surface of the soil in August owing to the drouth, and the lack of experienced ploughmen. The Government tractors are actively endeavoring to overtake this shortage.

Potatoes are promising a good yield, recent weather having been most favorable for them. Turnips, sugar beets and other roots are looking fine where well hoed and weeded. Nearly all vegetables have done well this season. Melons in Essex are now in full season, but the crop will be rather light.

Prices for cattle and hogs are lower than owners care to take after the stiff figures prevailing recently. There is plenty of grain and other fodders now on hand, and there is little likelihood of any animals being sacrificed this fall or winter. Pastures have again picked up, and there is a good milk flow for this time of year.

The demand for farm labor, except for ploughmen, has not been so keen during the past week, although a number of experienced ditchers, both hand and machine men, could find employment at good wages. The farmer's family has been a great factor in harvesting this season. The Wentworth representative reports seeing a farmer, his wife, two daughters and an eight-year-old son drawing in oats. Some outdoor threshing has been necessitated on account of so much hay being in the barns. The demand for tractors continues strong.

OFFICIAL FRUIT REPORT APPLE CROP VERY SHORT.

The Government's fruit report of conditions in this district says:

Oshawa, Ont.—Early fruit coloring well and dripping very fast. No accurate estimate of crop as yet. The weather conditions are unfavorable.

Cobourg, Ont.—Apple crop very light, with occasional good orchards. Fifty per cent. scab in orchards not cared for. Weather conditions good.

Both the transmitter and receiver of a telephnoe of French invention can be hidden in a flower vase, table ornament or any other inconspicuous object.

Splicing links and a unit made of a non-conducting material have been invented for insertion in electric light chains to insure that they are insulated.

Geologists have estimated that Austria's little developed tin deposits could be made to supply about three-fourths of that country's needs of the metal.

Synopsis of Canadian Northwest Land Regulations

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. Duties—Six months residence upon and cultivation of land in each of three years.

In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price [illegible] per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm laborers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

The Cubs made a good swap when they turned over Demaree to the Giants for little Peter Kilduff, who is playing shortstop in great style.

Henie Groh of the Cincinnati Reds is rapidly developing into one of the best third basemen in the leagues. Zimmerman had better look out for his laurels.

Some of the American League teams are devoting extra time to military drill. The ones which are sweating most are those who stopped recently and only resumed when they heard that a $500 prize would be awarded to the most soldierly outfit. That's pay-triotism for you'

Tex Rickard, who has promoted some of the biggest battles in ring history, has decided to quit the game for the present, at any rate. He is of the opinion that public interest in boxing has been killed by the boxers themselves, who wanted much and gave little in return, and that the whole game is not on the square, as it is played just now. Besides this, Rickard says, the war has put a crimp into the ring game from which it will not recover for a long time.

It is not unlikely that Al Orth has umpired his last game in the National League, for the veteran judge of play was injured in a game in Brooklyn recently when he slipped and threw his right knee out of joint. This is the third time that such an accident has laid Orth out. He first came to grief with his knee in 1915, when he slipped in going into the Phillies' dugout and so dislocated his knee that he was laid up in the hospital for a month. At that time Orth was warned that if he suffered another severe dislocation it would end his career as an umpire. Last year he suffered another injury, but it was slight. But his recent mishap was as serious as the first, and Orth is now at his home in Lynchburg, Va., with his leg in a plaster cast.

Gotch's Victories.

Today is the anniversary of two of the most important victories of Frank Gotch, the greatest of American wrestling champions. Twelve years ago the Iowa farmer demonstrated his superiority over Jack Carkeek, who had long reigned supreme over the world's mat artists. Gotch met the veteran in Butte, Mont., and quickly demonstrated that all the cleverness and generalship of the once mighty Carkeek were insufficient. On September 4, 1911, four years after his bout with Carkeek, Gotch was pitted for a second time against Hackenschmidt, who had disputed the Hawkeye man's claim to the world's championship. This bout was pulled off in a Chicago baseball park before the biggest wrestling crowd in American history. It was a brief contest—so brief that some insisted that it had been fixed, but there is no reason to doubt that Gotch's speedy victory was the honest fruit of superior strength, science and skill. The Russian Lion was only a cub in Gotch's hands, and he never had a chance.

Lajoie's Birthday.

Napoleon Lajoie, the grand old Frenchman, who is now manager of the Toronto club of the International League, will celebrate his forty-second birthday this week. He was born in Woonsocket, R.I., on September 6, 1875. It is about twenty years ago that Lajoie broke into the national pastime with the Fall River club of the New England League. In eighty games the French-American lad amassed sixteen home runs, fifteen triples and twenty-seven doubles, and any number of singles, his batting average with Fall River being .429. He played first in the outfield but later in the season took turns at first, second, third, short, and catcher, and if there had been any other positions open he would have taken a whack at them. Before the season closed Lajoie was sold to Billy Brady, manager of the Philadelphia Nationals for $1500, and then began his long career with the big league which ended last season. He then went to Toronto and took over the management of that team.

Pugilistic Annals.

1908.—Willie Lewis defeated Bill Hurley in six rounds at Schenectady, N.Y.

1911.—Kid McCoy knocked out Bob Day in one round at Toronto.

A LAST CHANCE FOR HARVESTERS

Owing to the unprecedented need of farm laborers in Western Canada and the lateness of the harvest, arrangements have been made by the Canadian Northern Railway for an additional excursion on Sept. 10 and Sept. 12th from all points west of and including Ottawa, Ont., at the rate of $12.00 to Winnipeg, plus half a cent per mile beyond. This will be positively the last opportunity of taking advantage of a reduced fare to the West where high wages and every prospect of three months' work prevail. For tickets and all information, apply to Thos. Mark, town agent, or General Passenger Department, C.N.R., Toronto, Ont.

WHITE SOX LUCK WILL WIN THEM TWO PENNANTS

SOME INSIDE DOPE ON THE PERFORMERS OF COMISKEY'S TEAM.

William Buckner, versatile trainer of the White Sox, has the dope to prove that Comiskey's team will cop the pennant this season. Buck has been with the club longer than any veteran on it and has stowed away much experience. His prediction has the ring of genuineness. Here is Buck's dope:

"They are harping about the shine ball, but that delivery is not the reason for the Sox winning this year. I'll whisper the reason—we have the luck."

It's Buck's contention that the Sox weren't on speaking terms with luck last year. It wasn't the dope for them to win.

Tells of 1916 Bad Luck.

When Old Man Misfortune comes around and makes himself at home with a manager, he might just as well close up shop, according to Buck. Rowland came close last year but he couldn't hope to cop the bunting with one misfortune after another piling up at the wrong time.

One will recall that Felsch was injured; Schalk was out for a time; Reb Russell was not in the game to face the world's champions, of which he was the recognized Nemise.

This season the Sox are lucky, says this prognosticator. Everything they do seems to turn out all right, whether it is good baseball or not. Buck Weaver, the player supposed to be about one-third of the club, was injured and knocked out. McMullin stepped into the breach and filed the gap.

Two of the Pitchers Fail.

Two veteran pitchers of the Sox fell by the wayside, but new ones stepped in to take their places. Jackson was hit on the head, apparently much harder than Tris Speaker, but Joe arose and went about his duties as if nothing bad happened. Risberg was assailed with a bad attack of blood poisoning that threatened his life, but he was out only a day or two. This great fielder resumed his duties when all the signs pointed to his being laid up for three weeks and possibly out for the season.

One of the best signs is that of Russell's recent performances. This southpaw was supposed to be all through. Since that time he has come back and hurled two shutout games. He's Rowland's best bet against Boston.

Trainer Buckner says he is amused over he plight of the hostiles in their failure to discover the secret of Cicotte's success.

Tells Secret of Cicotte's Success.

"First it was the mud ball, then the licorice ball, then the oil ball. Now it's the paraffin ball that's giving Cicotte his shine ball," says Buck.

"Now, I've always played fair with Fielder Jones, Clark Griffith and the other managers. I'm going to let them in on the secret of Cicotte's success. Here it is: Eddie is in the best condition of his career. He's the smartest pitcher in the business and his great condition has enabled him to employ psychology in pitching. He has a lucky team back of him as have Danforth, Russell, Faber and the others. One can't beat a combination like that. Half of Cicotte's success lies in making his opponents believe he has an uncanny delivery."

Buck says they may yell their heads off over the successes of the Sox and it will do the team's enemies no good. The dope runs for the Sox to "cop the rag."

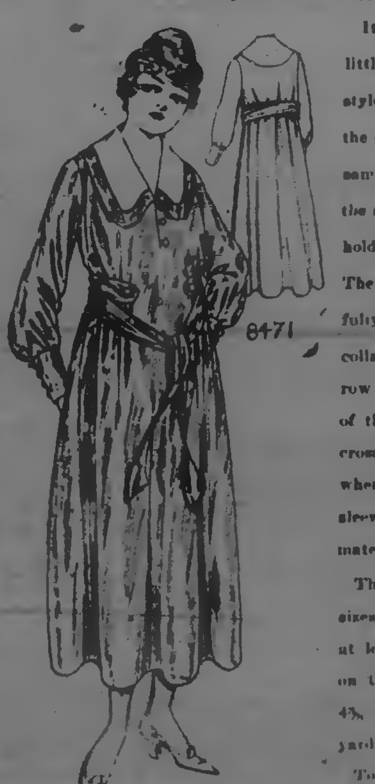
LADY'S DRESS.

By Anabel Worthington.



It really is surprising how the many little individual touches can change the style of these simple one piece dresses, for the construction of them is practically the same. They usually hang straight from the shoulders and have a loose belt, which holds the dress in to the figure a trifle. The one given here, No. 8471, has a gracefully shaped collar of satin, with a smaller collar of Georgette laid over it. A narrow sash of satin is tacked at each side of the front, drawn around to the back, crossed and brought to the front again, where it is loosely tied. The long, full sleeves are gatherd into deep cuffs of the material.

The dress pattern No. 8471 is cut in sizes 36 to 42 inches bust measure. Width at lower edge of skirt is 2½ yards. As on the figure, the 36 inch size requires 4⅜ yards 36 inch material, with 1½ yards 36 inch silk for collar and sash.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

DOROTHY ALLAN RECITAL

"The Toronto Courier" says of Miss Allan's singing, after having heard her at a musical of "The Arts & Letter's Club" in that city, that "Miss Allan's voice is of luscious quality in the mezzo-range, and lovely in the soprano, clear and white as the notes of a thrush.

There is an edge to Miss Allan's voice which is almost pure contralto and it is this surprising range and variety of tone-color that makes her voice so very effective, repertoire so extensive, and her style so popular."

"Musical Canada" says "Miss Dorothy Allan is a young singer who is rapidly making a name in musical circles for herself and Peterborough, from which city she hails.

"In addition to an excellently trained voice of beautiful quality, Miss Allan possesses to a remarkable degree that highest of all gifts in a singer, a fine sense of musical temperament, and it is safe to predict a splendid career for her."

Among the numbers to be sung by Miss Allan at her Recital in the Collegiate Hall on Monday evening, is the splendid and very exacting Aria "Omio Fernando" from Donnizetti's Grand Opera "La Favourita." This aria is a great test of a singer's vocal ability and endurance, as well as physical.

The program is one of the best vocal programs ever attempted in this city, representing the highest in the old classics, in the operatic and in the modern styles.

HUNS BOMB AMERICAN HOSPITAL

DAYS OF TRENCH WARFARE ARE SAID TO BE NUMBERED

Special to New York Sun Says That War Will be Decided by Airplanes and by Use of Deadly Gas---Allies Excel in Both Branches.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

New York, Sept. 7.—A special cable to the Sun from London, under yesterday's date says "The most intense aerial activity that has been seen at any time since the war began is in progress on both sides of the western front. It is taken here to mean the possible approach of the turning point in strategy. While trench warfare continues in some areas, both British and French staffs say its days as a dominating factor in the situation are numbered.

Two years ago the leaders of both armies were speculating how to get the armies safely out of the trenches. Apparently the problem has been solved by the slow development of events instead of by the supreme genius of any Napoleonic commander. Under the present system there is no longer any sharp line of demarcation between the opposing forces. Instead they are scattered apparently in a promiscuous way over a wide belt of country. Shell holes, fortified concealed posts and concrete "Pill boxes" are taking the place of trenches.

The new type of warfare is regarded as especially favorable to the Allies because it gives a wider play to the individuality and initiative of the soldiers and minor officers, in which the English, French and Americans are much superior to Germans.

The Allies are confident also that they will have soon an overwhelming superiority in the production and use of gas, which is even now an important method of fighting. The British especially have developed the most efficient methods of using the new gas with unparalleled deadliness.

ACKERMAN BYLAW CARRIES

Number of Votes Cast Were 871 of Which 713 Were Favorable---Majority was 555

The Ackerman Shoe Factory Bylaw met with a very hearty endorsement from the citizens yesterday when a majority of 555 was reigstered in favor of fixing the assessment of the company for ten years.

The vote cast was much larger than is usual in a bylaw vote and it was due to the active interest of the Greater Peterboro Association and the members of the City Council that such a vote was got out

In only one polling division in the city (Swanson's) was a majority given against the bylaw, and when it is considered that 713 electors out of 871 voted for the measure, there is no question as to how the ratepayers feel about the Ackerman Co.

The vote polled by Sub-divisions was:

ALLIES' CAUSE AND FREEDOM OF WORLD DEPENDS UPON THE NAVY

Lloyd George Says Britain is Still Supreme on Seas and Germans Have no Hope of Victory---Sir Edward Carson Declares Allies Must Fight Until Militarism is Crushed.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Birkenhead, Eng., Sept. 7.—Premier Lloyd George in a speech here today on receiving the freedom of the city declared that the whole allied cause and the freedom of the world depends on supremacy at sea and that he was certain it would be maintained. German statesmen, he said, had been at great pains to impress upon their people that the submarine figures given out by him in the House of Commons recently were inaccurate. He declared these figures were absolutely correct and that they put an end to all hopes of the enemy to win. The Premier asserted he was absolutely convinced that the German submarine never would be able to beat down the strength of the British Empire or beat down the hopes of the Allies by means of all the efforts the Germans could make with the submarine.

The Germans Must Be Beaten.

Sir Edward Carson, declares today: "There is a great deal of very loose and mischievous talk about peace. Some people seem to imagine we have only to conclude a treaty with Germany and all will be well, but I should like to ask what is to happen? Are the nations of the World to proceed with preparations for the next conflict, to pursue their researches in science to the expansion and creation of still more deadly weapons of warfare?"

Sir Edward then quotes the German Emperor as saying there is no international law and that treaties are scraps of paper and so forth and adds, "I have not yet seen a single suggestion made as to how in the future the calamities are to be prevented from reoccurring if the lawless temper of the German remains unrepentant and their power to repeat their crimes remains what it has been in the past. Whatever terms Germany might now bring herself to accept in order to recuperate her strength for another aggression, her people would soon forget such economy privations that they have had to endure and would remain convinced they proved themselves invincible."

Sir Edward asserted that if this war is to put an end to all war German militarism must be sufficiently crushed to make fresh aggression by her impossible for a long time to come. And until it is no longer possible for the German people themselves to be deluded by the legend of their invincibility in arms."

Real Enemies of Peace.

In conclusion Sir Edward said that it was obvious Great Britain must carry on the war until such victory is attained as will remove all practical danger of war in the future. "And any man," he said, "who tries, whatever his motive be, to distract the attention of the country from this goal of deliverance, is the worst enemy of real peace."

Patience With Russia

Birkenhead, Sept. 7.—"The Premier said that the news from Russia in the last few days had not been good. He thought when the revolution came that it would have the effect of postponing victory, but he had expected an earlier recovery, however, he thought all we must exercise is patience.

BITTER FIGHT IS EXPECTED OVER NEW BILL

Press Opinions Seem Formed Along Straight Party Lines.

LIBERALS ARE HOSTILE.

West Will Send in Strong Protest Against Proposed Law.

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—That along and bitter partisan fight will develop in Parliament on the war time elections bill is indicated today by the summaries of newspaper comment sent here. It is quite evident that the opinion in regard to the bill has developed definitely along party lines. Liberal papers, without regard to their attitude on conscription have almost unanimously condemned bill as built entirely for the benefit of the Borden Conservative Government, while Conservative journals acclaim the measure as the only thing possible in justice to Canadians overseas.

In some sections of the Canadian West, where the disenfrenchisement clauses will cut a wide swath in the voters' lists, it is reported that strong representations will be made to the Government to prevent the bill going into effect.

Another Attempt to Build Quebec Bridge

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, Sept. 7.—On September 17 another attempt will be made to complete the famous Quebec bridge on the Transcontinental railway by hoisting the second span into place. The last attempt was a disaster.

Liberal Caucus On Election Bill

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—The Liberals had a caucus this morning on the war time elections bill. It is expected that they will move an amendment to the second reading calling for giving the franchise to all women.

BACON PROBE.

REVIEW'S BIG CONTEST WILL OPEN TO-MORROW

Many People Will Compete for Valuable Prizes to be Given in Great Campaign---Anyone May Enter---Send in Your Name To-day and Win a Splendid Prize---Vote Standing Monday.

Tomorrow will be a RED LETTER Day in the lives of many young people in Peterborough and vicinity. Tomorrow is the first day of the Review's big contest and several contestants will be started on their way to winning one of the splendid prizes that will be awarded on October 27. The names of all those who have been nominated up to the present time, will apear in tomorrow's issue and the first vote standing will appear in Monday's paper.

Make a Good Showing

Contestants should make a big effort to make a good showing when the votes are first published. If you stand high in the list or occupy first place, it will show your friends and acquaintances that you are going into the contest with the proper spirit and energy and that you deserve the support of all your friends. Then, too, many people like to go the wey the leader goes and are always ready to help those who help themselves. Be the leader when Monday's vote standing is issued and show your friends that you are a real sure-enough candidate and out to win the Capital prize Touring Car. The vote standing will be made up Monday morning and candidates should turn in their votes by 9 o'clock tomorrow night.

Be Enthusiastic

It's the love of the game, the laurels of the winner, that makes any game in life worth while; it's the love of the fight, the satisfaction of knowing you have succeeded that makes life worth the living; and so in a competition like this, it is the fun of working, the interest of rivalry that makes the prizes worth more than their mere cash value. Go into the contest to win. Organize business like methods of conducting your campaign for votes. This is essential to success in contesting for the excellent prizes the Review will distribute.

Work hard yourself, collect coupons, solicit subscriptions, make personal canvasses, use your telephone, but exert your best efforts as a director and organizer. Enlist your family, brothers and sisters, relatives and friends, school chums, business associates, secret society brother, fellow church members and all other people with whom you come in contact. Train them as a well disciplined army to work in your behalf. Do not shoulder the whole burden yourself. It is a poor friend who will not come to your assistance in the fight for the Review's great prizes.

The live wire is the only effective wire. Be one yourself. Be full of energy charged to the limit with power. It will not carry you far before it will soon communicate a spark of enthusiasm to the person whom you are trying to interest in your candidacy. You can't give what you don't possess and unless you feel full of confidence, energy and enthusiasm, you cannot arouse interest among your friends. Whenever you feel yourself flagging refresh your spirits with one of these thoughts:

Every candidate meets with dissapointment now and then. It a friend dissapoints you, perhaps some one whom you expect nothing of, may surprise you in the other way. Try him.

Time To Get Busy

The contest opens tomorrow and many are just realizing what it means to win a handsome touring car for a few weeks' effort. Those who start tomorrow will have an advantage so get busy NOW. The contest is short and every minute will count. If you have not yet entered send in your name at once. NOW is the time.

There's a heap of satisfaction,
  In a contest if you grin,
If you keep your nerve in action,
  And wear a lifted chin,
There's joy in doing something
  That you never did before,
So don't be a deaf and dumb thing—
  Chance is knocking at your door.
It's in overcoming trouble
  That a fellow gets his fun;
It's the shattering the bubble
  That is labelled "Can't be done."
And the harder that your fight is
  Then the greater is your fun,
And the finer your delight is
  In the prize that you have won.

HOSTILE RAIDS NEAR LENS SUCCESSFULLY REPULSED

British Troops Rush Hun Post Near Queant and Capture Machine Guns---French Ministry Resign---Italians in Bitter Fight-

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Sept. 7.— Hostile raids were successfully repulsed in the vicinity of Armentieres and near Lens, says today's official statement. North of Frezenberg the enemy delivered two strong counter attacks against the positions we gained in local attacks and compelled our detachments to withdraw to their own lines. During the night our troops rushed a hostile post west of Queant and captured machine guns. Enemy artillery is active near Lens.

French Ministry Reserve

Paris, Sept. 7.—The resignation of the Ribot minstry was decided upon unanimously after a cabinet meeting this morning. President Poincare has asked the Premier and Ministers to withhold their resignations until the presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies returned to Paris.

On French Front

Paris, Sept. 7.—Violent artillery fighting occurred last night on the champagne and Verdun fronts, says today's official announcement.

Russ Navy Ready

Petrograd, Sept. 7.—No enemy vessels other than submarine have been observed in the Gulf of Riga, the War Office announces. The Russian naval forces are ready to engage the Germans. There was no material change yesterday in the Riga region the statement says. Encounters occurred between the Russian rear Guards and the advance cavalry of the Germans.

Nobles to Be Exiled

The newspapers today report that the Government has decided to exile abroad as a result of the recent exposure of a counter revolutionary plot, Grand Duke Nicholas Alexandrevitch, Grand Duke Paul, Mme Virubova, the confident of the former Empress Alexandria, former minister of the Interior Khvestev and former palace commandant General Voyoikoff, the former Premier Sturmer's secretary.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 7, 1917

LET US HAVE IT.

Under the Conscription Act about to be enforced, men will not be chosen because of any party affiliation. All fit Canadians of a certain age, without respect to party, will be asked to go and fight for their country.

What a spectacle to say to the people of Canada that the war must be carried on either by a Tory or a Grit Government.

It is an insult to the intelligence of Canadians.

The proposition stamps the man who makes it as a partizan before he is a patriot.

Let us have a National Government.—Winnipeg Tribune.

THE ACKERMAN BYLAW.

THE CITIZENS of Peterborough again demonstrated that they are alive to their own interests when yesterday they endorsed the bylaw which is to assure the Ackerman Company a fixed assessment on their factory property for another ten years. The vote cast was a large one for such a question, and out of the 871 polled, 713 were in favor of the bylaw. This leaves no question as to how the citizens feel with regard to the Ackerman Company and what they offer in return for the concession.

Peterborough is now assured of a larger industry, if not an entirely new one. There will be a large force of well-paid workmen employed, and the addition to the working population of the city will be considerable.

Mr. Frank W. McKeen, who will be superintendent of the new shoe factory, comes to this city with the best possible recommendation from manufacturers, business men and workingmen alike.

A FEAST OF REASON.

At an Exhibition luncheon in Toronto the other day two of the most notable speeches were made by men who were regarded as representatives from Quebec. Sir George Bury, vice-president of the C.P.R., said that his crowning ambition is to secure the good-will of the people of Ontario and the city of Toronto.

The company which Mr. Bury represents are assured of that and anything else in sight to which they may take a fancy. At the present time they are peculiarly entitled to consideration, seeing that they are the only railway corporation in Canada satisfied with their original concessions and who have been able to make a success of the business by building up one of the greatest transportation systems in the world.

Another speaker was Mr. J. S. Brierly, an outsanding figure in Canadian journalism, who served his apprenticeship on the St. Thomas Journal and finally reached the managing editorship of the Montreal Herald, a position which he held until recently. Like every man from Quebec Mr. Brierly set out to apologize for that province's indifference in the war. He blames the trouble on a lack of education. There is, he says, a need of efficient leadership and the ecclesiastical and political leaders have not done their share in awakening the province to its duty.

How far is Mr. Brierly as a newspaperman, willing to go in assuming a share of the responsibility he is so ready to fix upon others? Have the Quebec newspapers that are published in the English language done their full duty in this educational work?

The greatest trouble with Quebec is that it has had a super-abundance of leaders, political and otherwise, who have made catspaws of the people for their own ends. In this work they have not altogether lacked the support of the profession of which Mr. Brierly was until recently so distinguished a member.

Don't Help Any.

(Detroit Free Press.)

What a man that has fallen into the river needs is a life-preserver, not a lecture on the folly of getting in water beyond his depth. Editorials on the beauties of peace don't help a country at war, either.

THE NEW FRANCHISE ACT.

The new Franchise Bill which was introduced in the House of Commons yesterday is likely to provoke one of the fiercest fights ever witnessed in Parliament and compared to which the struggle over conscription will be as nothing. The Laurier Liberals will oppose the measure to a man and opposition from the Western members is to be expected as their constituencies will be affected more than any other section of the Dominion.

The coming election is one in which the welfare of the soldiers will be the paramount issue. All other questions are dwarfed into insignificance when compared with the welfare of the nation's defenders. If the war is to be won Canada must continue to bear her share of the burden. The soldiers must be supported and reinforced. The new Franchise Bill may be a drastic measure but it is justified by the extraordinary conditions that have brought about its introduction.

The mother who has raised her son to be a soldier, the wife or sister of such a man, should be empowered to render even more substantial aid than to send to him socks or other articles. His safety is of more concern to his relatives at home than even his physical comfort. These relatives are to be given a chance to say whether their husband, son or brother overseas is to be helped by the sending of reinforcements instead of being left to carry the burden alone. On the matter of conscription there is not a doubt as to how these women will vote. Not one of them will be content so long as their friends are fighting overseas and others are allowed to remain in the security of home.

It is estimated that upwards of eight hundred thousand women will thus be enfranchised in Canada, the computation being based on the assumption that every man now in khaki has an average of two female relatives in Canada. These new voters are sufficient as regards numerical strength to assure the return of the members of the Dominion Parliament, without regard to party, who are pledged to a policy of winning the war.

The mother who has encouraged her son to shirk his duty and who has kept him enmeshed in the strings of her apron, the wife or sister who persuades husband and brother to linger in the rear would, if given the franchise nullify the voting strength of the spartan women who are making the sacrifices, whose relatives are in trench, hospital or military cemetery, and who know no peace night or day as they wait for news from the front. That the former class should be denied the vote is only logical. Those who have the greatest interest at stake alone should be granted the privilege of saying whether or not Canada is to remain in the war or all that her brave sons have already done is to go for naught.

Residents of Canada who were born in countries now at war with the Empire and who have been naturalized for 15 years or less are to be denied the right to vote for the duration of the conflict. In taking this drastic action the Government does not look for precedent. Similar legislation has been enacted in Australia. England has recognized the same principle and no man of Austrian or German birth, even if naturalized, has from the beginning of the war been permitted to get to the front. Even if an alien becomes a citizen of another country he does not in a generation lose all sympathy for his native land.

The naturalized Canadian who has been born in Austria or Germany will not be compelled to fight against his native land. It is surely not unreasonable to insist that he shall be deprived of the opportunity to aid the race under whose flag he was born by the exercise of the franchise even though it has been in his gift for fifteen years.

The disenfranchised alien is less likely to complain of the new legislation than are the politicians who require and who counted upon his vote. He is, as a rule, opposed to conscription. He will not be asked to carry arms against his native land and with this assurance he is likely to be content. When the war is won all his rights as a Canadian citizen will be restored and he will be permitted to eat of the fruits which others have planted and protected.

There is no denying the fact that among the naturalized citizens of Canada there are just as devout patriots as are to be found among the native born, men who realize the advantages that would be denied them if they had remained in the land of their birth. But the present is no time for the sifting of the wheat from the chaff. There can be no distinctions made. If a patriot has failed to give practical demonstration of his loyalty, that is at this juncture peculiarly his own misfortune.

The man who refuses to respond to the call to the colors under the Military Service Act is to be denied the right to vote. In this he is treated exactly like the man who violates any other law of the land and is arrested for his offence. To this phase of the bill even the most rabid partisan can offer no valid objection.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

IT'S VOTES that count.

• • •

FOR THE SOLDIERS in the trenches, there's a bit that you may do.

• • •

THE PROFESSOR of modern history has his work cut out for him in these stirring times.

• • •

THE POLITICAL candidate who dreams that he is headed for Ottawa may wake up to find himself landed nearer home.

• • •

THE C. P. R. craves the goodwill of the public. The C. N. R. did not bother with such light matters, but laid hold of everything tangible in sight.

• • •

THE MAN called to the colors under the Conscription Act and who fails to respond will not only lose his vote, but is likely to lose his liberty as well.

• • •

RUNNING for Parliament on the Laurier ticket will not get a candidate in West Peterborough anywhere unless the loyal voters all happen to die before election.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

The Allies Are One.

(London Daily Mail.)

There is no room for the slightest divergence among any of the Allies on the principles at stake. Alsace-Lorraine supplies the test. France has reaffirmed her position. It is endorsed with enthusiastic fidelity by all the Allies from Petrograd to New York. We may differ in words. But in purpose and in spirit all the Allies are as one.

The Right Word.

(New York World.)

According to a fashion announcement, in order to save woolens for soldiers, "women must be content with just about half the amount of cloth in their attire." Is "content" just the word, or should it be "delighted"?

No Time for Peace Patter.

(Chicago Tribune.)

A German peace at this time would be a German victory, and the world will be insecure with a German victory. Peace talk is corrosive. The United States is preparing to fight, and fight for a safe and not an unsafe peace.

Don't Need a Nickname.

(New York Herald.)

Apropos the waste of much newspaper space it may be noted that the Canadians have been able to do a good deal of fighting even though a lot of persons have worried over giving them a nickname.

Kerensky is Sincere.

(Hamilton Herald.)

"May they be damned who talk of a cessation of hostilities now," says Premier Kerensky. The language may be naughty, but it isn't half so offensive as the kaiser's pious blasphemies. Besides, it's probably sincere.

Wouldn't You?

(Louisville Post.)

No wonder Germany is fighting for Lens. How the people of this city would fight to hold a coal field with coal at the present prices!

ODDS AND ENDS FROM THE AMERICAN PRESS

Kansas Missionary Work.

(Kansas City Star.)

Osceola believes a pair of mules there have got religion. The most fractious span in St. Clair county was given to Sam Eaton, county missionary for the Baptist church, whereupon they immediately became docile and tractable, and Sam drives them from meeting to meeting without trouble.

Kentucky Coon Market Dull.

(Owenton Herald.)

Whitney Chapman had two coons in a sack on the Owenton market on Tuesday, which he offered at "one buck" per head. At noon he picked up one prospective buyer, and the other "fur" blocked the market. Mr. Chapman will not offer any more coons on foot on this market, but will probably butcher them, retail the meat here and wholesale the hides in Louisville.

A Kansan's Patriotic Proposal.

(Topeka Capital.)

Having been beaten to every other activity in the way of war preparation, Sim Heckle proposes that a mass meeting for the purpose of giving three rousing cheers be held.

Hard Licks for Hard Times.

(Atlanta Constitution.)

You can't get rich by studyin' how po' you is, no mo' than you kin git ter de top of a hill by wishin' it wuz closer ter de ground. Hard licks is de only good prescription fer hard times.

CANADA AS NEW YORK SEES IT

(New York Sun.)

Although the Canadian bank statement for August 31st will not be published until toward the end of September, it is understood in banking circles that a substantial improvement was effected last month in the ratio of available reserves to liabilities, and that at the present time this ratio is considerably above the figure indicated by the bank return published a week ago, which covered the position as at July 31st, 1917.

Counting specie, Dominion notes, surplus in central gold reserves, call loans and net bank balances in New York and London as available reserve, the aggregate thereof had fallen to 25.53 per cent. of the net liabilities on July 31st—as against an average monthly ratio of 32 per cent. shown throughout 1916.

One has to go back to October, 1914, to find a percentage as low as that recorded for July 31st, 1917. The principal cause of the decline in reserve strength is, of course, the steady absorption of the quick assets of the banks into government loans.

In August, however, the situation was rectified by the American loan of $100,000,000 negotiated by the Dominion Government. Proceeds of that loan, after providing for the maturing $20,000,000 loan of the Dominion, served to build up the balances carried by Canadian bankers with New York correspondents; and probably the rising tendency of interest on call loans in the latter part of the month would lead to the employment of a part of the newly-acquired funds temporarily in Wall street.

As Wall Street call loans and New York bank balances are both rated as immediately available, the effect would be to boost the reserve ratio. The reserves were also favorably affected by the liquidation of municipal and provincial government special loans, which proceeded actively in August; and, as mentioned in last week's letter, the decline of the munitions industry appears to contain promise of a diminished demand from government for bank credits.

Canadian Northern Purchase.

With the passage by the House of Commons of the Government's bill providing for the purchase of Canadian Northern stock, the measure now goes to the Senate. It is taken for granted that the Administration will succeed in getting the bill through the Upper House, notwithstanding strong opposition. According to current reports, certain financial interests in Montreal, some of them being connected with the Canadian Pacific, are opposing the scheme, and there is opposition from a section of the public which suspects a gift or bonus of public money for the benefit of Sir William Mackenzie and Sir Donald Mann.

Some of the French papers in the Province of Quebec are urging their compatriots in the Senate to reject the bill on the ground that Quebec having guaranteed no Canadian Northern bonds, will not derive any benefits. The financial community realize that the Western Provinces, British Columbia in particular, stand to benefit considerably through the virtual release of their guarantee liability which would follow the acquisition of the C. N. R. stock by the Dominion.

The banking interests are somewhat relieved over the absence of any important demonstrations in Quebec against the Military Service Bill in the several days which have elapsed since the Governor General signified the royal assent. It is recognized, however, that the French-Canadians have been quieted for the present by the prospect of a general election, which many of them believe will result in Sir Wilfrid Laurier's return to power. The advice handed out to them by their leaders frequently runs in this strain: "Keep calm. Do not worry. There will be an election soon, and Laurier will then be Premier. He will see that your rights are protected." This state of mind promises to make of the impending electoral struggle an unsettling factor which may react to some extent on the financial situation, especially if the effort to form a union or coalition government proves unsuccessful.

Wit and Wisdom

A short time ago a gentleman who was travelling in Lancashire had occasion to stop at a village on the outskirts of a well known manufacturing town.

After having transacted his business he had a few hours on his hands, and therefore, to while away his time, took the opportunity of inspecting the places of interest in the locality.

Early in the afternoon the bell of the village church commenced tolling.

The visitor's curiosity being aroused, he stopped a lad who, from the cotton on his clothes, appeared to be a loffer, and who seemed to have come from a mill on an errand, and asked:

"Can you tell me, my boy, why the bell is tolling?"

"Yigh, aw con." answered the youngster, quite innocently. "It's becose th' sexton's pooin' th' rope!"

"I understand that somewhere in this region there is a sect or order who call themselves Nebuchadnezzarites?"

"Aw, yes!" replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "I've heard tell of 'em—they live 'way back yanler in the hills, some'rs."

"Do they actually eat grass?"

"No, I guess not. Nigh as I can get at it, they eat this yur breakfast food, or something that-a-way, and go sa'ntering around on all fours, like rams, more or less. They 'pear to think that form of locomotoring is good for their health. And, nakaz-rate, I should judge that it makes it handy for sensible folks to kick 'em."

An Irishman and a Scot were arguing as to the merits of their respective countries.

"Ah, weel," said Sandy, "they tore down an auld castle in Scotland and found many wires under it, which shows that the telegraph was knoon there hoondreds of years ago."

"Well," said Pat, "they tore down an ould castle in Oireland and, begorra, there was no wires found under it, which shows that they knew all about wireless telegraphy in Oireland hundreds av years ago.

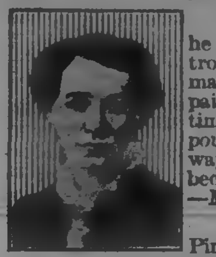
How to avoid Operations

These Three Women Tell How They Escaped the Dreadful Ordeal of Surgical Operations.

Hospitals are great and necessary institutions, but they should be the last resort for women who suffer with ills peculiar to their sex. Many letters on file in the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., prove that a great number of women after they have been recommended to submit to an operation have been made well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Here are three such letters. All sick women should read them.



Marinette, Wis.—"I went to the doctor and he told me I must have an operation for a female trouble, and I hated to have it done as I had been married only a short time. I would have terrible pains and my hands and feet were cold all the time. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and was cured, and I feel better in every way. I give you permission to publish my name because I am so thankful that I feel well again."—Mrs. Fred Behnke, Marinette, Wis.

Detroit, Mich.—"When I first took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so run down with female troubles that I could not do anything, and our doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. I could hardly walk without help so when I read about the Vegetable Compound and what it had done for others I thought I would try it. I got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and a package of Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash and used them according to directions. They helped me and today I am able to do all my work and I am well."—Mrs. Thos. Dwyer, 969 Milwaukee Ave., East, Detroit, Mich.

Bellevue, Pa.—"I suffered more than tongue can tell with terrible bearing down pains and inflammation. I tried several doctors and they all told me the same story, that I never could get well without an operation and I just dreaded the thought of that. I also tried a good many other medicines that were recommended to me and none of them helped me until a friend advised me to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. The first bottle helped, I kept taking it and now I don't know what it is to be sick any more and I am picking up in weight. I am 20 years old and weigh 145 pounds. It will be the greatest pleasure to me if I can have the opportunity to recommend it to any other suffering woman."—Miss Irene Froelicher, 1923 Manhattan St., North Side, Bellevue, Pa.

If you would like special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Rice and Cheese

Boil a cupful of rice in a quart of salted water with two tablespoonsful of butter. Season with salt and pepper, add three tablespoonsful of grated cheese and cook until the cheese is dissolved. Or mix plain boiled rice, well salted, with rich white sauce and a liberal amount of grated cheese. Or put steamed rice in a shallow dish in layers, alternating with grated cheese, with or without tomato sauce. Heat in the oven with or without a crust of buttered crumbs. The rice may also be scalloped with layers of slices of hard-boiled egg and white sauce.

Renewing Black Silk

Old black ribbon or soft silk may be renewed nicely as follows: Soak in a bowlful of warm water to which is added a dessertspoon of ammonia to every pint of water, and 1 tablespoonful of good black ink. After the materials have been soaked they should be placed on a clean piece of old sheeting spread on a table, and slowly smoothed with a piece of sponge in one direction. They should then be left, covered with the cloth, over night, then pressed on the wrong side with an iron that is not too hot.

You may be deceived and possibly you will not detect this imitation until the tea-pot reveals it. Demand always the genuine "Salada" in the sealed aluminum packet, and see that you get it, if you want that unique flavour of fresh, clean leaves properly prepared and packed.

HOW HOUSEKEEPERS MAY HELP TO SAVE NATION'S WHEAT SUPPLY

One of the lessons that Canadians have to learn from Europe is that white bread is not the bread for war time; that when the supply of wheat is low, bread must be made of other grains than wheat; also that in the milling of the wheat the manufacturer must put a greater proportion of the grain into flour and less into cattle feed. By including a higher percentage of the whole grain in the part manufactured into flour, in the process of milling, as the government of Great Britain has required, and may soon be the regulation in Canada, we would save from one-eighth to one-ninth of a barrel of wheat flour per capita in the year. A further saving may be effected by the addition of some rye or corn flour to this wheat flour. Every pound of flour saved means more bread for the army.

But until the system comes into general use, or until the supply of white flour already manufactured is used up, every woman in her own home can do some patriotic saving by supplementing her supply of white bread with breads, biscuits, etc., made from the flour or meal of other grains, or from the whole wheat or graham flour or bran. The constant use of these coarser breads might not agree with some people, but as a rule they will be found more healthful than the finer white bread. The recipes given herewith, together with general instructions for bread-making in the home, suggest a variety of ways of saving the nation's wheat supply.

RAISED BREADS

Raised Brown Bread

Two cups of corn meal
Quarter of yeast cake
Two cups rye flour
Half cup of molasses
One teaspoon of salt
One-eighth teaspoon of soda
Quarter cup lukewarm water
Two cups boiling water.

Pour the boiling water on the corn meal. When lukewarm, add dissolved yeast cake and remaining ingredients. Beat well, let it rise over night, beat again and pour into greased bread pans. Bake in a moderate oven from one and one-half to two hours.

Rolled Oats Bread

Two cups boiling water
Half cup molasses
Half tablespoon salt
One tablespoon of butter
One-half yeast cake dissolved in half cup lukewarm water.
One cup of rolled oats or oatmeal
Four and a half cups flour.

Add boiling water to oats and let it stand for one hour. Add the molasses, salt, butter, dissolved yeast cake and flour. Let rise, beat thoroughly, turn into buttered bread pans, let rise again, and bake.

Rye Bread, No. 1

Two cups scalded milk
Two tablespoons butter
One tablespoon sugar
Three cups of flour
Two teaspoons salt
One-half yeast cake dissolved in three-quarters cup of lukewarm water.
Three cups rye flour.

Put butter, sugar and salt in mixing bowl; add scalding milk, and when lukewarm add dissolved yeast cake and white flour. Let rise to a spongy consistency, add rye flour and knead. Let rise again, and shape into loaves or rolls. Place in greased pans, let rise until double in bulk, and bake.

Rye Bread, No. 2

One cup scalded milk
One cup boiling water
One teaspoon lard
One tablespoon butter
One-third cup brown sugar
One and a half teaspoons salt.
One-quarter yeast cake dissolved in one-quarter cup of lukewarm water
Three cups white flour.
Rye meal to make stiff dough.

To milk and water add lard, butter, sugar and salt. When lukewarm add dissolved yeast cake and flour, beat thoroughly, cover, and let rise until light. Add rye meal until dough is stiff enough to knead. Knead thoroughly, let rise to double its bulk, shape in loaves, place in greased pans, let rise until double in bulk, and bake.

Entire Wheat Bread

Two cups scalded milk
One-third cup of sugar or half a cup of molasses.
One-quarter of yeast cake dissolved in one-quarter cup of lukewarm water.
One and a half teaspoons salt
Five cups of siften entire wheat flour.

Mix milk, sugar or molasses, and salt. When lukewarm add yeast cake dissolved in warm water, and flour. Beat well, let rise until nearly double its bulk. Beat, turn into greased bread pans, let rise until nearly double its bulk, and bake for about one hour in a moderately hot oven.

Graham Bread With White Flour No. 1

Two cups scalded milk
One-third cup molasses
Two teaspoons salt
One-quarter yeast cake
Quarter cup lukewarm water
Two cups white flour
Four cups graham flour.

Mix milk, molasses and salt. When lukewarm add dissolved yeast cake and both white and graham flour, sifted. Beat well; let rise until almost double its bulk; beat again, and place in greased bread pans or shape as biscuits. Let rise until nearly double bulk and bake in an oven which is a little cooler than for white bread. Allow about one and a quarter hour for loaves and thirty minutes for biscuits.

Graham Bread With White Flour No. 2

Two and a half cups of hot water or milk
One-third cup molasses
One and a half teaspoons salt
One-quarter yeast cake dissolved in one quarter cup of lukewarm water.
Three cups white flour.
Three cups graham flour.

BUTTERMILK CHEESE

A cheese very similar to cottage cheese may be produced from buttermilk.

As soon as the buttermilk is drawn from the churn it is placed in a vessel surrounded by warm water and heated to 80 degrees F., at which temperature it is left without stirring for one hour. The buttermilk is now heated to a temperature of 130 degrees F. to 140 degrees F., being only stirred slightly during the heating. It should now stand for one hour without stirring to allow separation of the curd. The whey is drawn off with as little agitation as possible and the curd drained in the same manner as described in making cottage cheese. While draining, the curd should be stirred occasionally to facilitate the escape of moisture and to maintain an even distribution of the same throughout the curd. After the curd has drained sufficiently, which will usually require about twelve hours, the process is completed as in making cottage cheese.

If the Review is not being received regularly, kindly notify the office at once. Telephone 189.

THE FEES ARE TOO LOW FOR THE REGISTRARS

A deputation of Provincial registrars waited on Premier Hearst at Toronto to urge that the scale of fees attached to their department be increased so as to allow an increase in stipend commensurate with the increase in the cost of living. At the conference it was pointed out that few registrars were getting as much as $1,500 yearly. Premier Hearst promised to seriously consider the request.

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—The War-time Eelection Act brought down in the Commons yesterday by Hon. It provides for the disfranchisement of all men of German, Austrian or Turkish birth who have been naturalized since March 31, 1902. Exception is made of such men as have sons or grandsons in the Canadian forces. Conscientious objectors are also disfranchised.

Women Enfranchised

It is roughly estimated that the bill will enfranchise at least seven hundred to eight hundred thousand women. There are more than four hundred thousand Canadian overseas soldiers, and on average they should have at least two relatives each entitled to vote. This would be nearly half the British born female population.

The citizens who will be disfranchised are relatively few in number, and few in Ontario will be touched. Most Germans in Ontario, born in the Fatherland, have been naturalized more than fifteen years. It will largely hit the Germans and Austrians of the West. There are also many of German extraction in the West from Russia who will be affected.

According to the census figures of 1911 the total foreign born population of Canada was 752,72. Of these 404,841 came from Europe; 303,380 from the United States, and 40,946 from Asia. Of these, the foreign-born from Austria-Hungary was given as 121,403; Germany, 39,577; Turkey and Syria, 4.758; and Bulgaria, 1,666.

The males, twenty-one and over from Austria-Hungary in 1911 were 57,750, Of these 23.846 were naturalized and 33,904 were not naturalized. However, most of these have probably since been naturalized. The total male Germans over twenty-one born in Germany are given in 1911 as 20 6333. Of these in that year 12,001 were naturalized and 8.663 unnaturalized.

The Ontario Figures

The German males in Ontario twenty-one and over, born in Europe, were given in 1911 as 7,871, Of these, 5,143 were naturalized. The Austrians in that year, twenty-one years and over, were set down as 10,420, of whom only 1,049 were naturalized. In the four Western Provinces the number of males of voting age born in Austria-Hungary were given as 44 489. Of these just about half, or 22,095, were in that year listed as naturalized. The German males of voting age were given as 11,305, of which 6,221 were naturalized.

On the other hand, to come at it a different way, of the total males in 1911 in Alberta, twenty-one years and over, qualified by age and citizenship no less than 24.92 per cent. were foreign born. This would include American citizens. Of Saskatchewan's voting population 23.01 were foreign-born, and of Manitoba's 17.20. In British Columbia 9.48 per cent. were foreign-born. In Ontario the percentage of foreign-born qualified votes was only 2.90 per cent.

THE NEW FRANCHISE ACT

Estimated That About 4000 Women Will be Given Vote in West Peterboro'---Few Disenfranchised.

The new franchise Bill, if given effect by Parliament as is probable, will have a far reaching effect in the riding of West Peterborough. It will exclude from the running any man of whatever party who is not wholly and unreservedly in favor of conscription.

About two thousand residents of this riding have enlisted since the war broke out in the different battalions that [illegible] still in training camps in Canada. It is estimated that the number of female relatives of each of these will average two. Each mother, wife (or widow), sister or daughter of an enlisted man is to be given the right to vote at the next election. This means an addition of at least 4000 voters to the poll lists of the riding.

The clause in the act which disenfranchises aliens will not be felt here to any extent. It applies only to those who were born in enemy countries and it is thought that not more than one hundred of the present voters in the riding will be deprived of the ballot. Canadian affairs are to be managed by Canadian people. No foreigner will be able to open a rear fire on the Canadian soldiers.

What The Mail Says.

Discussing the bill editorially the Mail and Empire says:

It would be treason to our men at the front to arm our Delbruck citizens with the ballot for the approaching election. Our brave men have enough to do to fight the enemy in front of them, and they depend upon Parliament to keep the enemy that is behind them from stabbing them in the back. We are to have a war-time election with war-time issues. We must have a war-time franchise. The hearts of too many naturalized Germans and Austrians in the country are now with the Kaiser. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier had not believed that to be the case, if he had not calculated that we [illegible] equally out of sympathy with our soldiers, and if he had not known that the French-Canadian people generally have been prejudiced against recruiting by disloyal demagogues, he would not have called for a referendum to decide whether or not we should have conscription.

Calls It Partisan.

The Globe says: The War-time Election Bill is a party measure. The attack on the political rights of a large group of foreign-born Canadians is tempered by their exemption from combatant service, but the principle of the Bill is wrong. It is inconsistent with national honor and British traditions. When men of alien birth were given their naturalization papers they were also given the full privileges of Canadian citizenship. It was a contract to which the good faith of the country was pledged. The Bill will cancel the chief article of the contract, the franchise, without proof that the voter has forfeited it by conduct unbecoming a patriotic Canadian.

THAT PENSION INCREASES

Government Has Not Yet Decided on Any Changes

Ottawa, Sept. 7.— The Dominion Government has not decided upon a 60 per cent. increase in pensions to meet the increase in the cost of living. Sir Thomas White, in the Commons drew attention to a despatch from Toronto quoting officials of the Great War Veteran's Association as stating that they had received assurances from the Cabinet to that effect.

"I desire to say that there is no foundation for the report in question," said the Finance Minister. "The amount of the increase in pensions has not been determined and no intimation or statement has been given or made by the Government respecting such an increase."

"ENGLAND WILL AVENGE"

London, Sept. 7.—There was a sad funeral procession of 98 naval victims of Monday night's air raid. The cortege was two miles long. Warrant officers sent a wreath which carried the inscription. "Rest in peace. England will avenge."

AT THE COURT HOUSE.

Work on Renovating the Structure Is Progressing Rapidly.

Work on the Court House is progressing very well, and the huge interior is rapidly filling up with the walls of the various offices. This morning the vault for the office of the Crown Attorney was placed in position, as well as the iron door with combination lock.

The court room is being gradually covered over, and the large iron supports are in position.

Messrs. Finney and Gordon are well satisfied with the way that the material is coming to hand, and the manner in which the work is proceeding.

Peter Scott has peddled his flivver. Now bring on Clonie Tait!

Walter Obernesser says that if Hamilton promoters don't get busy, Toronto will steal a march by staging a Pete Scott-Tait bout. If Toronto folks are soft enough to pay Tait's price ,they are quite welcome to the scrap, thank you, says Hamilton.

The National and American Leagues are suffering from a dearth of playing managers, of whom there are very few anywhere these days. It is not so long ago that managers took an active part in the game, but that custom is rapidly becoming obsolete. In the big leagues today, Jack Barry, of the Red Sox, is the only playing manager. The others do their directing of field operations from the bench, much like present commanders of armies, conduct battles far behind the actual scene of operations. In the International League, only three playing managers are left. They are: Dan Howley, of Montreal; Larry Lajoie, of Toronto, and Mike Doolan, of Rochester. In the American Association Joe Tinker, manager of the Columbus club, and Roger Bresnahan, are the only managers who are active. George Stovall, of Vernon, was the only playing manager at the start of the Pacific Coast League season.

Won't Drop Football.

At most of the big colleges and universities which include football in their athletic curriculum, the gridiron game is now becoming the principal topic of conversation. For, despite the fact that most of the great institutions are suffering from a lack of high-grade fooball material because most of the stars have answered the call to the colors, a number of the leading institutions have decided to go through with the schedule they have mapped out for this fall. Penn State, University of Southern California, Colgate Syracuse, Washington and Jefferson, Ohio State, Michigan Aggies, Indiana, Washington State College, University of Texas, West Virginia, Nebraska, Wisconsin and Illinois will all be seen in gridiron struggles this year. Of course, there is the possibility that some of them will have to abandon the game for lack of material. The authorities at these institutions believe that football provides excellent training for embryo soldiers, and that everything possible should be done to encourage the game and keep it alive. For this reason the squads at several of the leading institutions will soon begin to assemble. Many of them have good material left over from last season, but all of them have important holes to fill, and numerous aspiring and perspiring young athletes will labor mightily during the remainder of the month in the hope that they may be chosen to fill the vacancies existing. The season commencing in mid-September will continue for nearly three months before all the schedules have been played and the rubber nose-guards and other paraphernalia are packed away until next year.

George Horton's Victory Over Cribb.

George Horton and George Cribb fought a furious thirty-minute battle near Bristol, England, on September 5, 1807, in which Cribb was defeated. Like many other fighters of that period, Horton was a Bristol man and a butcher by trade. His first fight was with a big sailor, noted as a bully, and his victory led him to take up fighting as a profession. George Cribb was a brother of Tom Cribb, who later won the championship of England. Tom was the second for his brother, and was so angered by his downfall that he immediately challenged Horton. The fight was arranged, and was witnessed by the elite of the sporting world. Lord Byron, the poet, and numerous dukes and lords being among those present. Tom Cribb had a comparatively easy time with Horton. The latter was a handsome young fellow, and after the bout Cribb told Lord Byron. "I hated to muss him, he's so pretty." He was far from pretty when Cribb got through with him, however, and the future champion revenged his brother with interest.

A LAST CHANCE FOR HARVESTERS

Owing to the unprecedented need of farm laborers in Western Canada and the lateness of the harvest, arrangements have been made by the Canadian Northern Railway for an additional excursion on Sept. 10 and Sept. 12th from all points west of and including Ottawa, Ont., at the rate of $[illegible] to Winnipeg, plus half a cent per mile beyond. This will be positively the last opportunity of taking advantage of a reduced fare to the West where high wages and every prospect of three months' work prevail. For tickets and all information, apply to Thos. Mark, town agent, or General Passenger Department, C.N.R., Toronto, Ont.

CANOEISTS CATCH DEER BUT LATER LIBERATE IT

While Messrs. Calman Tackaberry and Grenville Langstaff of Kemptville were paddling up the Rideau near that village recently, a deer swam across the river in front of them. They gave chase but the deer reached shore first, where it became entangled in a wire fence and before it could extricate itself the young men caught it. After having it in captivity for about an hour they released it and watched it disappear across the fields, jumping six-foot wire fences with ease.

These three artists have all established a most enviable reputation individually, and to hear them together will indeed be a treat for the muisc lovers of Peterboro.

They have decided to have popular prices only, as the object is not to make money, but to give to the local public a concert that will be entertaining, elevating, and instructive, and be something to remember throughout the season.

This will be the only opportunity of hearing either of the Hollinshead brothers this season, as they leave within a few days for a long tour which will prevent their appearance in Eastern Canada this year. Tickets may be had at the music stores and the Conservatry.

PETROGRAD WILL NOT BE TAKEN

GERMANS WILL NOT ADVANCE FURTHER IN RUSS. TERRITORY

Operations Will Probably Cease With Successes at Riga---Further Progress Would Call for Building of New Roads and Depots---Kaiser Distributes Decorations at Riga

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Copenhagen, Sept. 8.— Leading German military critics consider that with the capture of important naval bases at Riga and Duenamends operations on the Riga front have virtually been ended says a Berlin despatch to the National Tidendo. It is considered too late in the year to advance further as this would require the building of new roads and the establishment of depots. On this account the despatch says it is unlikely that Field Marshal Von Hindenburg will permit the troops to continue the advance with Petrograd as the objective.

Kaiser at Riga

Amsterdam, Sept. 8.—Emperor William has arrived at Riga, a Berlin despatch reports. He reviewed the troops and distributed decorations.

Quiet on Western Front

London, Sept. 8.—In patrol fighting on the Ypres front last night the enemy suffered considerable casualties, north-east of St. Julien says today's official statement. In the neighborhood of Gavrelle a successful raid was carried out by a small party of our troops. Langemarck was heavily shelled by the enemy yesterday evening and there was some hostile artillery activity at other points later in the night. No infantry action developed.

French Take Prisoners

Paris, Sept. 8.—During the night several attacks undertaken by the enemy in Lorraine east of Rheims, north of Courcy and in the region of Corny were broken up by our fire. We made successful incursions into the German lines near Epine De Chevregny and north of Hill 344. On the right bank of the Meuse we took prisoners. There was violent artillery fighting on both banks of the Meuse. Along Forges Brook and in the region of Avercourt patrolling operations were unusually active. Everywhere, also the night was calm.

Hun War Craft Repulsed

Petrograd, Sept. 8.—German war craft have again been sighted in the gulf of Riga and have been shelled by the Russian coast batteries, the war office announced. Russian torpedo boats discovered a German submarine, and enemy ships, apparently trawlers, were observed in Irbinska. They were forced by the Russian batteries to retire. No further advance by the Germans on the Riga front is reported in today's official communication. Russian troops have been reconnitered by the German cavalry.

James D. O'Brien, a well known farmer of Downeyville, is lying in a very serious condition at St. Joseph's Hospital as a result of injuries received at Burketon Station last evening.

From what can be learned Mr. O'Brien was returning from the Toronto Exhibition and intended to go home via Lidsay, and was to take the train at Burketon. For some reason he mistook the station before Burketon as his getting off place and when he attempted to get off the moving train fell and sustained injuries to the skull.

He was brought to Peterborough and taken to the hospital.

Mr. O'Brien has many friends in Peterborough and they hope to hear of his early recovery. He has one or two sons at the front.

$1235 CHEVROLET IS CAPITAL PRIZE CAR

Review will Give the New '1918 Baby Grand' Model in the Big Contest---Car will be on Display in a Short Time---Campaign is now Open---Vote Standing Monday.

Everyone starts with 5000 votes given with the nomination blank. Each candidate will receive in addition to the regular schedule 50,000 votes with their first subscription. The schedule now in effect will be decreased 20 per cent after three weeks from tonight, Sept. 29. This is the most important time of the contest. "Make hay while the sun shines." Be the leader Monday. Turn in your votes before 9 tonight.

The Grand Prize

The Review has just completed arrangements with the Chevrolet motor Car Co. for a Five Passenger "Baby Grand" Touring Car. This car sells here for $1235 and will be on display at the Manning Garage within a short time. The Manning Garage will give the regular service on the car, the same as that given to all who purchase cars from this popular agency.

Earnest Efforts Will Win

"Onward with hope, forward without fear."

"Onward with hope." Hope that you will accomplish your purpose that you will be the winner of the $1235 automobile or that you will be one of the fortunate nine to win a prize in the Review's great circulation campaign.

"Forward without fear." Fear no one. Your cause is just. You are acting fair. When the contest is over you will feel, whether you win or lose, that you have not neglected an opportunity or have anything to reproach yourself for.

That is the spirit to have, the stuff that helps make winners. Have confidence in yourself, your friends will then have confidence in you. If you show them that you must have the automobile they certainly will help you make a whirlwind campaign.

Be enthusiastic and liven things up. You must keep moving to win. Each day will mean something to you till Oct. 27. You will be surprised how quickly the time slips by. Do not waste any of it. Take advantage of every minute you have and remember that every vote gained is a step toward victory.

Start out now with the determination not to lose a single vote that might be yours. See everyone you can.

Don's be a Quitter

There's one sure thing about this campaign and that is—the one who wins the automobile, or any other of the splendid prizes, won't be a man with cold feet. Providence must hate a quitter, for things in this world are so fixed that a quitter never gets anywhere— except in the soup. Take for instance the man who is faltering in the Review campaign because, "I'm afraid someone will defeat me." He can be dead sure that "someone" will. Someone always defeats the man who is afraid he will be defeated.

Then there's the man who says "I haven't the time." The capital prize winner will be rewarded on the basis of about $11,000 a year. It is the testimony of history, reinforced by everyday experience, that the big things are accomplished by the busy men and women. The idle man never gets anywhere. There are few people in Peterborough who are "too busy" to add a few hundred to their income.

And the man who says, "I've talked it over with my friends and they advise me not to continue in the race." And the "friends" are right. The man who asks his friends to advise him whether to fight or run away gets the kind of advice he is looking for—and always runs away.

And the man who says: "I don't like some of the people who are candidates and so I will stay out." This is the "reason" most frequently given — and it is invariably the refuge of the flow who is afraid to fight, and afraid to say so. The nominee of a political party who would decline to run for office because of objections to some of the candidates on the opposition ticket would be laughed at. The campaign candidates are competitors not partners

HELP YOUR FAVORITE TO WIN

The nominations in The Review's great circulation contest appear today for the first time. Patrons of The Review are invited to have a voice in deciding who shall be the winners of the splendid prizes the candidates are working for, and your subscription, whether renewal or a new subscription, will give your favorite a certain number of votes in the big contest. NOW is the time to help the candidate whom you wish to see win the Capital Prize Car. The most votes of the contest are being given in the first period. Choose your favorite and help her win. MAJOR NELSON AWARDED COVETED MILITARY CROSS

For Conspicuous Gallantry in an Engagement at Lens---Medal for Members of Canadian Medical Corps

(By Stewart Lyons.)

Canadian Headquarters in France, Sept. 8.—Acting Major Blair Nelson, while in command of a machine gun company during the recent attack southwest of Lens showed such resourcefulness and initiative powers that be has been awarded with the military cross. His machine gun positions were subjected to an intense barrage early in the action which killed one of his officers and put two guns out of action. He at once took charge of all three sections, moved the guns forward out of the barrage and reopened fire with excellent results. He also had damaged the guns repaired temporarily and put them into line to repel counter attacks. His resourcefulness, aggressiveness and cool courage were an inspiration to all ranks.

For special meritorious service under fire on August 16 and 17 while collecting the wounded, military medals have been awarded the following members of the Canadian Army Medical Corps: Corporal Leslie Owen Brown, Lance Corpl. Gordon Adams and Privates William Moore, Charles Edward Glover, William Frederick Whitmere, Richard Stanley Bassett and James Freeman McLellan. A Brigade of veteran Ontario troops gave a big tattoo last night similar to that put on at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto.

PETERBORO'S FAIR NEXT WEEK

The Peterborough Exhibition will open here next Thursday, and it is expected that it will be one of the best in the history of the Fair. Through a mistake in sending out the Government list of fairs, Peterborough's date was given at September 20, 21 and 22. If you have friends living in any of the surrounding towns or villages that usually spend the days et the Exhibition here, write and tell them that it is on September 13, 14 and 15.

The attractions this year will be greater and better than ever. The fireworks display will be a really good one, and the Model Trench protected by wire entanglement and filled with soldiers will be the centre of much interest at this time.

The exhibit of live stock promises to surpass other years in a great many classes, and many of the prize winners at other fairs will be here to try to cop the red ribbon from the best of the local herds.

The horse races will be more keenly contested than ever this year, and already the best of the speed boys are getting their horses in shape for the events, which are billed to be run off. Many of the fastest horses from Orillia, Port Hope, Millbrook, Cobourg and Lindsay are all getting ready to be here next week.

Do not forget that next Thursday, Friday and Saturday are the days for our Fair.

TEMPERANCE ACT IS WEAKENED BY SENATE

Amendment Made to Doherty Bill Renders the Law More Difficult of Enforcement Than Original Draft Provided.

amendment they had struck out a clause adopted by the House of Commons, the entire effect of which was to make it an offence for anyone to use his Majesty's post-office as an instrument for the violation of constitutionally enacted provincial law.

The effect of the Senate's refusal to enact this law, he said, was that it would be lawful to use the post-office to circulate printed or written matter, the circulation of which by any other means would be in violation of the law of the province. The action of the Senate, said Hon. Mr. Doherty, so far as he could ascertain, seemed to be based on the misapprehension that this bill, as originally passed, prohibited the transmission of newspapers containing advertisements of liquor in "dry" provinces.

As to this Hon. Mr. Doherty

Ottawa, Sept. 8. — The House of Commons, after a brief discussion concurred in the Senate amendments to the "Doherty Bill" regarding the sale of intoxicating liquors.

Explaining these, Hon. Mr. Doheray said the Senate had amended the bill in three particulars. By the first for violations of the Act to be instituted not only in the province whence liquor had been sent in violation of the Act, but likewise at the place to which the liquor was so sent.

The rejection of the provisions, said Hon. Mr. Doherty, must materially weaken the law by placing serious difficulties in the way of its enforcement. He asserted that he would certainly endeavor to have these provisions passed at a proper opportunity in the future, and under this reserve and to save the other valuable clauses which the Senate had left untouched, he moved that the Senate's amendments be accepted and the bill reported as amended.

pointed out that the bill did not contain any such provision nor any such prohibition of newspaper circulation, but that this was purely a matter of provincial legislation and that whether this came into existence or not depended upon the provinces themselves.

The Senate, said Hon. Mr. Doherty had also stricken out a provision adopted by the Commons last year and again this year, making it possible

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 8, 1917

BARGAINING WITH QUEBEC.

The Quebec anti-conscriptionists having failed to stop by threats and intrigue the enactment of the Military Service Act now pin their hopes on a Laurier victory in the approaching general election. They are perfectly confident that if Laurier is elected conscription will be killed in Canada, and are losing neither time nor effort to ensure if possible a solid Quebec representation for Laurier in the new Government.

The alliance of Quebec anti-conscriptionists with the Liberal conscriptionists of the other provinces which is being attempted suggests that a satisfactory bargain has been made by the "machine" with Laurier's supporters in Quebec that a Laurier victory at the polls will be followed by a less active Canadian participation in the war.

MISS ALLAN'S FAREWELL.

Miss Dorothy Allan will make what is practically her farewell appearance before the musical public of Peterborough Monday night, and if any musician in the city is entitled to a cordial reception on such an occasion Miss Allan certainly is. Peterborough is justly famed the Dominion over as a musical centre and no one has ever done more to help establish that fame firmly than has the talented young soprano who has been something more than a local favorite for the past five years. Miss Allan has sung in all the leading centres of Canada and in no place where she appeared did she fail to receive press notices that had the true ring of genuine appreciation. Any one who brings creditable publicity to their home place is a valuable asset to any city. The worth of Miss Allan's public service in this regard cannot be over-estimated.

Peterborough's claim to credit for the achievements of Miss Allan are strengthened by the fact that she is a graduate of a local institution, having been almost entirely trained by her own father, Mr. John Allan, who for the past five years has been the efficient organist of St. Paul's Church, and whose pupils have won honors and taken high places in the local and outside musical world in all branches of the art. Four months of her training was spent with the Italian Maestro Giovanni Crelic, trainer of the world renowned Caruso.

OBJECTIONS TO THE BILL.

The Liberal papers so far to hand are a unit in their opposition to the new franchise bill now before Parliament, and this, too, regardless of how the papers in question stand on the conscription issue. The bill is denounced as a purely partisan measure designed to retain the Government in power. If it is all of that it is not more so than that of the Liberal papers that by their stand confess that but for the proposed law the conscription which they profess to favor would have little show of endorsation at the coming election.

The main objection that is urged against the bill is based on the clause which deals with the enfranchisement of the femal relatives of soldiers overseas. Leading Liberal journals take the stand that all the women of the Dominion are entitled and should be permitted to vote at the next Federal election. The Toronto Star, one of the most ardent advocates of conscription of them all puts the matter thus: It may be that a woman has a male relative who is in poor health, or for some reason disqualified for active service. For this misfortune she is to be punished. Her relatives may be exempted because it is decided that they can do more useful work at home than at the front. Many women whose relatives are farmers or mechanics will be ruled out for this reason—disfranchised because their men-folks are loyally obeying the law of the land.

The woman who is not allowed to vote at the coming election is deprived of nothing. No such right has ever been conferred upon her, no such privilege has ever been enjoyed. The gift of the provincial franchise does not necessarily carry with it the use of the federal franchise.

The woman who will vote is to be given a special privilege as a recognition of the sacrifices she has made in the war. Her's is to be a special opportunity to render material aid to her relatives on the fighting line.

The Star is unduly solicitous, we take it, for the women whose husbands, brothers, sons or fathers are still safe at home. It makes special reference to the relatives of the farmers and mechanics who will be exempted from military service under the operation of conscription, "disfranchised because their men folks are loyally obeying the law of the land."

It is unfair to talk of any woman being deprived of the franchise seeing that the right to vote at a federal election has never been given her. Such woman, too, is less likely to worry than is her newspaper champion. There are not many women in Canada but who would gladly forego the right to cast a vote in a Dominion or any other election if in place of that privilege her male relatives are spared the strenuous life in the battle line in France.

THE NEW BILL.

(Toronto Telegram.)

Party motives can be recognized as being the same on both sides at Ottawa. Therefore party motives should be ruled out of the further discussion of the war-time franchise issue. The only question to be considered is the public effect of the war-time franchise proposals. The first public effect of these proposals is to temporarily magnify the political power of the men and women who have borne the burden and heat of Canada's battle of liberty. The first public effect of the Meighen proposals is to temporarily minimise the political power of European and other men and women who have completely or partially escaped the burdens of war. The legislation that produces such a thoroughly desirable public effect can be traced to a patriotic motive rather than a party motive.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

Whatever those initials "I.W.W." are intended to represent the present condition of a member of the order seems to warrant the motto "I will worry."

• • •

Now that the ex-Czar is living in a flat, his enemies with experience in that line can leave him to the tender mercies of the janitor and wish him nothing worse.

• • •

The women of Canada never dreamed of their own importance in the eyes of men until they were given a place in the country's political life.

• • •

Sugar may leave a sweet taste in the mouth but the present price has a different effect.

• • •

Why should individuals or newspapers whine about the price of food when there is so much real cause for worry.

• • •

Some writer has invented the term "cuers", as applied to the game of billiards. Judgment from the Orillia Packet is anxiously awaited.

• • •

Labor is patriotic. The Montreal anarchists are not workingmen.

The followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier are opposed to making a bad matter better.

• • •

It is still painfully apparent that the man domiciled himself in a glass house carries a few rocks in his pockets for ammunition against his neighbors.

History has a fashion of repeating itself. Winter is coming on and another invading force is likely to be snowed up in Russia.

• • •

A man caught in the draft swore that he was too dishonorable to serve in the United States army. Canada has so far failed to record such a case of outspoken veracity.

• • •

There's nothing in a name after all. Quebec is a village in Durham, England, and it has sent every available man to the army.

Somehow or other there is something about that name Choquette that suggests the merited method of suppression.

HOW THE VOTERS' LIST WILL BE PREPARED UNDER NEW ACT

Ennumerators will be Appointed to Secure Names of Voters and Old Records will be Used as Basis—Relatives of Women Must be Overseas

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—Persual of the text of the new War-Time Election bill makes possible the following outline of the manner in which Ontario voters' lists will apparently be prepared:

The Dominion Cabinet will appoint an army of enumerators. There will be one enumerator for each polling district. He will take, as the basis of his list (except in cities and county or district towns having a population of 9,000 or over) the 1916 voters' lists prepared under the old Provincial Act. To this he will add only the names of such females as are now to have the vote, but he will strike off the names of persons who are now disqualified. He will place the letter "F" after the name of every female—a provision which promises to cause confusion with another "F" used in voters' lists, which means "Freehold" voter.

Can Use Old Lists

In places of over 9,000 souls the enumerator can apparently use the old list as a basis if he likes, but he is given a free hand to add to the list any persons, male or female, who he finds qualified within his district, that is, he makes a complete new enumeration to all practical extent and purposes. He does this by going to the buildings within his territory and making enquiries, just as an assessor or census man would do. He is required to allow no names of a naturalized subject upon his list unless the latter can produce his naturalisation papers, but can issue a certificate to a man who claims to have lost his papers, and that man's vote may be counted if there is a recount and he can prove his case to a judge. If a man refuses to answer an enumerator's questions, or "by his manner shows that he was born in an enemy country," his claim to vote shall be rejected unless he satisfies the deputy returning officer that he is qualified. The enumerator prepares and posts up his list and his duty in connection with the preparation of them is at an end. But he has other duties. He must designate a place and time where and when electors may conveniently find him during at least two successive hours on every day except Sunday of the ten days next before the polling day and at any time while the poll is open on polling day. This will give an opportunity to people who say their names have been wrongfully omitted from the list to appear before him, and while he cannot place such names upon the list, he can, after an examination on oath give the persons he finds qualified a document which will enable them to vote when they present it to the deputy returning officer.

Provision For Women

There is a provision for swearing women at the polling place, the oath requiring them to state their relationship to a soldier on which their right to vote is based.

While the new Act uses, in the main, the old Ontario Franchise Act and suspends the new one, it takes advantage of the voters' registration boards which are established in places of over 9,000 by the Ontario Franchise Act of 1917. It constitutes these as Boards of Appeal, the chairman to be nominated by the Governor-in-Council. These boards will revise the lists as prepared by the enumerators. The members and clerk thereof "shall be paid such reasonable remuneration or disbursements as the Governor-in-Council may allow."

Must Be Overseas

The bill makes it clear that women whose relatives are in the United States army or in the Canadian army and not overseas do not get a vote, as do those whose relatives are with the Canadian or British forces abroad. This means that the calling out of a class under the Conscription bill will not give their female relatives a vote unless the soldiers in question have gone overseas before the election is held.

WE ARE A RACE OF IMITATORS

"Can you tell me where I can find a piece of silk to match this sample?" asked the little man of the floorwalker.

"Impossible to match it now," replied the floorwalker. "Since the war we have run out of that dye. But we have something just as good."

"Nothing just as good," said the little man, dryly. "Our neighbor, Mrs. Klingbolt, has a fancy gown made of this kind of material, and my wife wants one just like it. No substitute will do. If Mrs. Crabmire—that's my wife—can't show Mrs. Klingbolt—well, she doesn't want any at all."

"Someone always wants what the other person has," said the floorwalker sagely. "You know, it's the sincerest form of flattery."

"I wish she'd abide by my choice," said the little man, "but that is the last thing my wife would do. I don't feel, however, that in imitating the gown my wife is doing anything that the rest of us aren't adept at. We all imitate.

"You yourself are wearing a two-button sack coat because fourteen tailors in mass meeting assembled decided that two-button sacks were the thing to fasten on the male public. If they had said six button, or no button at all, you and I would take their word for it. So they simply sent out two decoys wearing these two-button sacks, and we common guys, ultimate consumers, see them and rush pell-mell to our tailors to imitate the fashion. Am I right?

"I see that my neighbor, Pashmore, has a new seven-passenger Chugoux town car, and I sell all my liberty bonds and compel my rich uncle to give me some of the money that he was saving for me till his demise. Then I spring my Chugoux on Pashmore some fine morning, and prove that I'm just as good a man as he is.

"If your best friend has just moved into a new apartment with five rooms and seven baths are you satisfied if you have but four rooms and six baths?

"A girl hears that her chum is going to be married and have eight bridesmaids. She resolves that she is going to have at least nine, if her poor father goes bankrupt over the taxicab hire."

"And did you ever notice," observed the floorwalker, "in a restaurant, that the man who happens to sit next to you will lorder the same thing you've got, nine times out of ten?"

"We're a race of imitators," said the little man.

"You've said it," agreed the floorwalker.

EDITOR'S MAIL

THE BOW WOWS.

Editor Review: It is to be hoped that the City Council instead of rescinding the dog bylaw will place yet tighter restrictions on dogs running at large.

I can readily understand how a man may become attracted to a dog but if he does keep one let him keep it at home, not running around the streets. Dogs have increased the cost of living by destroying sheep and committing other deprecations. Besides they eat vast quantities of food that could be used by man or other useful animals.

DOWN WITH THE DOG.

Are You In Favor?

To the Readers of The Review:—If after you have considered the main points of a County Road System and what is accomplished by its adoption, it might be interesting to know whether you are in favor of our County adopting a County Roads System or not. If you are opposed to the scheme would it not be a god plan to say so? State your objections and give us a chance to deal with them.

To receive Government Aid in connection with our highways, the Government requires the County Council to pass a Bylaw in which they designate certain roads as County Roads. They also must appoint a Superintendent. This Superintendent is the employee of the County Council, is answerable to them and subject to being dismissed by them. The salary of the Superintendent is arranged by the County Council. The Government, however, paying forty (40) per cent of the amount, whatever it is. The average salary paid to the Superintendents in the Province is $1500.00.

The Government assists the County in an advisory way, both in organizing Engineering and Auditing this without any change to the County. The Government furnishes frees blue prints and specifications of County Bridges.

The building of higher standards of highways is encouraged and the Government pays forty (40) per cent of the entire cost of building. This Subsidy includes payment toward good draining, surfacing, etc., both labor and materials. It also includes the purchase of machinery.

In other words for each Three hundred (300) Dollars advanced by the County the Government pays two hundred (200) dollars, and the total amount is spent in the County. When it is considered that out of thirty-seven Counties which might adopt such a system that thirty-four have already done so, that should be a good recommendation for the Act.

Recently a number of questions were submitted to the various Counties, which have adopted a system and without an exception they commend the new way. Now, if in our County we have something better than the other Counties which have adopted the new system, should we not let the rest of the Province know? If not, should we not get our share of the money which is being distributed by the Province to assist in road improvement. The Province has distributed $2,500,000 among the counties having adopted County Systems. If we had adopted a County System, our share of this amount would have been over $100,000.

PIKE POLE FISHING IS LATEST NOVELTY

Fishing with a pike pole is the latest thing in sport at Bobcaygeon. The other evening when a party of fishermen were coming in, desirous that their splendid catch should look its best, dipped the string into the water to wash them off: zip, went the cord, and down, down to the bottom went the "Muskies." The major portion of the next hour was frittered away dragging the bottom for the fish, but the job was given up for a bad one.

Later another pair of friends were lucky in hooking the string with a pike pole. Of course, any fish you get out of the water is your own, isnt it?

RUCTION IN SENATE.

Senator Choquette Charged With Using Seditious Language.

Ottawa, Sept. 7.—Senator P. A. Choquette was the central figure in one of the most turbulent debates which the Canadian Upper Chamber has witnessed for many a day. He was charged with "preaching sedition for words used in support of a motion which he moved this afternoon, was named by Speaker Bolduc for persisting in repeating the objectionable statement, and was threatened by Sir James Lougheed, the Government leader, with a resolution calling for his suspension for a period from the House. He denied having used seditious language, and was met by Sir James Lougheed with the charge. "You are so disloyal you don't know what sedition means."

WOMEN OF CITY CO-OPERATE IN CONSERVATION OF FOOD

Meeting of Representatives From All Local Societies Held Yesterday Afternoon---Adopted Resolution to Work in Unison With Resources Committee.

The representatives of all the Ladies Patriotic, Church, and Social societies met yesterday afternoon in the Council Chamber for the purpose of completing an organization to carry out the ideas of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Resources Committee in regard to the conserving of food supply and the preventing of food waste. The attendance was a very representative one and about seventy-five were present.

Mr. J. A. Aylmer, representing the local resources committee, briefly stated the object in calling the meeting. It was to inaugurate a thrift campaign in the city by getting the cooperation of the ladies who will be able to undertake an educational campaign among those who have not as yet given the matter a thought. The necessity of conserving the food supply in Canada and the United States in order that the Allied troops will have plenty to eat, was dwelt on. If the people will voluntarily install economy in their households the necessity for rationing will be done away with.

Mr. Joseph Wearing also made a few remarks on the assistance that had been given to the farmers by city men going out to help in gathering the crop. The success that attended the home gardening that was inaugurated by the resources committee was dwelt on and nearly every one had a little more of some vegetable than could be used in the individual home and the surplus went to feed the soldiers. He strongly advocated a thrift educational campaign in every household.

Mrs. W. R. Morris then took charge of the meeting and with Mrs. (Dr.) Neal and Mrs. Arthur Stevenson gave a brief outline of the organization of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Resources Committee at Toronto. These three ladies were the delegates from Peterborough for this convention. The ponts brought out by the Food Controller as well as other speakers were outlined to the meeting. At the conclusion of the addresses Mrs. James Kendry moved, seconded by Mrs. Bugg,

Resolved: That this meeting composed of the presidents of all the Women's societies in the city cooperate with the work of the Food Controller through the Organization of Resources Committee and its Woman's Auxiliary. This was carried unanimously.

A committee was appointed to select a president who will summon meetings from time to time.

The main organization will be carried out through the different societies now in existence in the city.

WORK PLANNED AT THE Y.W.C.A.

NEW ACTIVITIES IN EVERY DEPARTMENT OF POPULAR INSTITUTION.

Plans are now being completed for the opening of the Fall work in the Young Women's Christian Association. Numerous enquiries are being made at the office regarding the various classes. The gymnasium department promises to have even a larger enrolment than last year.

Dr. G. S. Cameron will be in charge of the St. John's Ambulance course in first aid and home nursing. Those intending to join these classes should register immediately. There will be a central nursing division formed of those having diplomas in first aid and home nursing in connection with the St. John's Ambulance work.

In the educational department a class for the study of literature and expression will be conducted by Miss Winnifred Parker, formerly teacher of these branches in the Hambourg Conservatory of Music, Toronto. Class and private lessons will be given in vocal culture, reading and dramatic art. Miss Parker has a wide experience both in teaching and in concert work, and numbers among her pupils in Toronto several successful professional readers.

THE RETURN PARADE.

The cheers and tears and laughter
Have ended with the day,
And what shall be hereafter
There is no one to say.

The day and all its beauty
Have faded in the past,
And there is only duty
To spur them on at last.

They hold within their keeping
Our honor, pride, and trust;
The waiting and the weeping
Is left for those who must.

And when that day hereafter,
Shall see the triumph come,
With cheers and tears and laughter
We'll hail our heroes home.

A FAIR CROP OF APPLES REPORTED AT COBOURG

Oshawa, Ont.: Early fruit being shipped to western markets in baskets; apple buyers very active; weather conditions good.

West Durham: Along lake shore winter apples will be about 20 per cent of a normal crop, but back from the lake crops will be much lighter. Winter apples only about half grown and will need most of October to develop normal size and colour. Duchess will hardly be properly coloured before the 10th instant. Wealthy should be ready by the 17th or 18th.

Cobourg, Ont.: Early apples coloring well. In uncared for orchards crop very light and of poor quality. Fair crop of good quality in well cared for orchards. Weather cool and cloudy.

REV. CARPENTER BIDS FAREWELL

Rev. Charles Carpenter preached his farewell sermon in Christ Church on Sunday evening, August 26th, a large congregation being present. His discourse was based on the words "Be thou faithful unto death and I will give thee a crown of life."

In his six years of service in Campbellford Mr. Carpenter has won not only the respect but the esteem of our citizens generally. In his closing words he referred to the kindly feeling existing between all denominations and urged his people to foster that spirit as it is always conducive to helping along the common cause for which all denominations are striving—the extension of God's kingdom in the earth.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter leave Campbellford with the most kindly wishes of all. He has been most faithful in his efforts to build up the work of his parish, in which endeavour he met with much success. At the same time he has shown a breadth of sympathy in matters pertaining to the general welfare of the community. He was for three years a member of the Board of Education and last year was President of the local branch of the Bible Society.

Mr. Carpenter's removal to Toronto opens for him a wider field of usefulness, to which he will bring talents well fitted for the work. His future career will be watched with interest by the people of this locality, all of whom will join us in wishing him unlimited success in his new field of labor.—Campbellford Herald.

Rev. Carpenter was in charge of St. John's here several years ago.

For 20 Long Years She Had Suffered

"It Certainly Was a Lucky Day For Me When I Got Tanlac She Says

"I had tried in vain so long to find relief from my suffering that I had almost lost hope of ever getting anything to help me," said Mrs. Christiana Hunter in an interview with a Tanlac representative a few days ago. Mrs. Hunter is the wife of William Hunter, caretaker of the Stanley Apartments, Bloor and Sherbourne streets, Toronto. She also has a great many friends in Hamilton, Ont., where she resided for a number of years before coming to Toronto.

"I had one of the worst cases of stomach trouble, it seems to me, a person could have," she continued, "and there was hardly a day in twenty years but what I suffered from indigestion. My appetite just seemed to leave me entirely and I never knew what it was to sit down to the table and enjoy a good meal. I was really afraid to eat because I know how I would suffer afterwards and I hardly ate enough, it seems to me, to keep a baby alive. What little I did eat disagreed with me and I had an awful burning, heavy feeling in the pit of my stomach nearly all the time. I would bloat up terribly from gas on my stomach and during the past five years I have had several attacks of acute indigestion and would almost die. I was laid up in bed two or three weeks at a time with each attack before I could get strength enough to get up. I had fallen off until I was scarcely more than a frame and was so weak I couldn't walk a block without getting so exhausted and out of breath I could hardly stand up. My nerves were just completely shattered and I would have such dreadful nervous spells at times I thought I couldn't live.

My husband had taken Tanlac with fine results and advised me to try it. I had very little idea it would help me but to please him I sent down to Tamblyn's and got a bottle and it certainly was a lucky day for me. I am now on my second bottle and it certainly has done me a world of good. My stomach is now in better shape than it has been in twenty years, my appetite is fine, too, and I can eat just anything I want without a bit of trouble afterwards. Honestly, I can't remember the time when I enjoyed eating like I do since I began taking Tanlac. My nervousness is gone entirely and I feel stronger and better in every way. Before I took Tanlac I was so tired and worn out all the time I never felt like going any place and now Mr. Hunter and I go out most every night. I feel sure from my experience with Tanlac that there's nothing as good for troubles like I had and I think it is really wonderful how it has helped me.

Building For To-morrow

THE prudent man looks ahead and provides. Preparedness forestalls defeat and, when reverses come, provides a haven of refuge. The young man who carries an Endowment Policy with the Manufacturers Life Insurance Company is building for to-morrow. He knows that if he lives to his allotted span, he is systematically providing for his unproductive years. If he dies, he is leaving his dependents in a position where they will not be compelled to seek charity. There is no better way of building for to-morrow than by an Endowment Policy.

Did I Charge For Those Goods Sold On Credit?

You and your clerks sometimes forget to charge goods sold on credit. You sometimes lose charge slips after they have been made out. These mistakes and losses cost money. A National Cash Register will prevent such losses and save money.

The N.C.R. system of handling charge accounts will operate with the cash register. Upon the written slip the register prints the kind and the amount of the sale and the initial of the clerk who made it. This slip is then filed in the N.C.R. credit file—in the individual customer's account compartment—each account is always up-to-date, no posting, no book-keeping. This system is as important to a modern retail store as the cash register or telephone.

You need such a system as this to take care of credit accounts. It will safeguard you.

Help to Save Canada's Fruit Crop

A Practical Thrift Suggestion

This year, as never before, every quart of Canada's fruit crop should be used to the very best advantage. Though it all ripens within four months, it can be made to supply every table, every day in the year, at moderate cost.

Canning and preserving, done at home at the time when each fruit is cheapest, provide in delicious and economical form the daily fruit so necessary in a wholesome diet. Fruit put up at home is much cheaper than that which you buy, and the slight increase in its cost, due to the higher price of sugar, is small compared with the mounting cost of other foods.

Successful preserving and canning are by no means difficult, either, if you are careful to boil everything, and use

Redpath SUGAR

In Canadian homes, for the last Sixty Years, REDPATH Sugar has been the standby for preserving. It is always absolutely pure, and can be depended upon to do everything that sugar can do to ensure success.

Buy it, according to the quantity you need, in 2 or 5 lb. Cartons, or in 10, 20, 50 or 100 lb. Bags.

FOWLER'S PEBLO GLASSES

YOUR EYES!

WITHOUT thinking of the seriousness of it, hundreds of people neglect their eyes when they are badly in need of attention. It is so simple to have early troubles corrected, that it seems too bad to let the eyes grow worse through careless neglect. Dr. Fowler's careful scientific eye test will tell what your eyes need and he guarantees satisfaction in every case.

Frequent Headaches

People with thin blood are much more subject to headaches than full-blooded persons, and the form of anaemia that afflicts growing girls is almost always accompanied by headaches, together with disturbance of the digestive organs.

Whenever you have constant or recurring headaches and pallor of the face, they show that the blood is thin and your efforts should be directed toward building up your blood. A fair treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do this effectively, and the rich, red blood made by these pills will remove the headache.

More disturbances to the health are caused by their blood than most people have any idea of. When your blood is impoverished, the nerves suffer from lack of nourishment and you may be troubled with insomnia, neuritis, neuralgia or sciatica. Muscles subject to strain are undernourished and you may have muscular rheumatism or lumbago. If your blood is thin and you begin to show symptoms of any of these disorders, try building up the blood with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and as the blood is restored to its normal condition every symptom of the trouble will disappear. There are more people who owe their present state of good health to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than to any other medicine, and most of them do not hesitate to say so.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The prominence of the War Time Elections Act disfranchising foreign-born Germans and Austrians naturalized in Canada within the last fifteen years makes interesting a summary from the 1911 census regarding the foreign population. It is apparent that the effect of the new law will be more especially felt in the west.

According to the census volume the following figures show the German and Austrian-born male population in the different provinces above 21 years of age, with the percentage of naturalization in each case.

In Ontario foreign-born male Germans over 21 number 7.871, of whom 65 per cent are naturalized. Austrians in the province total 10,420, of whom only a little over nine per cent. are naturalized. In the other provinces the figures of the classes indicated above 21 years are as follows:—

In Other Provinces

British Columbia— Germans, 2,013; naturalized, 36 per cent. Austrians, 4,605; naturalized, 12 per cent.

Manitoba— Germans, 1,864; naturalized, 67 per cent. Austrians, 15,287; naturalized, 63 per cent.

Nova Scotia—Germans, 230; naturalized, 39 per cent. Austrians, 740; naturalized, 9 per cent.

Quebec— Germans, 969; naturalized, 50 per cent. Austrians, 1,906; naturalized, 34 per cent.

New Brunswick — Germans, 81; naturalized, 65 per cent. Austrians, 63; naturalized, 39 per cent.

Alberta—Germans, 3,170; naturalized, 53 per cent. Austrians, 9,996; naturalized, 46 per cent.

Saskatchewan — Germans, 4,258; naturalized, 62 per cent. Austrians 14,601; naturalized, 59 per cent.

Jack Miller, an old Norwood boy, who will be remembered as one of the star players on the old hockey team of that viallage and who went west some years ago where he took up ranching, recently staged a 'stampede" at his ranch at Hand Hills Lake, Alberta, in aid of the Lonebutte Red Cross Society According to the account given in the Hanna (Alberta) Herald, approximately 3000 people attended the stampede and $1,800.00 were realized for the Red Cross Society. As the affair was maneged entirely by Mr. Miller, it is quite evident from the success of the event that he has lost none of his old time popularity and enthusiasm.

WHY Does Your Head Ache?

Headaches, sick or other kinds, don't happen to people whose livers are busy and whose bowels are as regular as a clock.

Thousands of folks who used to have headaches say this is the way they removed the cause:

One pill at bedtime, regularly. Larger dose if there's a suspicion of biliousness or constipation.

In the Commons at Ottawa Sir Sam Hughes said Canadian casualties had recently been very heavy. Sir Edward Kemp said official figures would be given out Monday.

Government newspapers state today a battle royal is promised in Ottawa over the Franchise Bill. The Government will apply the closure rule if the debate is unduly protracted.

FARMERS---
Protect Your Interests

There is great danger from fire during the threshing season. We respectfully offer the following suggestions as precautionary measures.

1—Use coal as fuel if possible.

2—Do not thresh when a heavy wind blows into your barn.

3—Be sure that an adequate supply of water is close at hand in accordance with the conditions of your insurance policy.

4—See that the engine is at least 26 feet from the nearest building or stack.

6—Allow no smoking about your buildings at any time.

7—Remember that any thresher not using a proper screen or spark arrester is liable for imprisonment and fine.

By keeping these points in mind you may save yourself and the company heavy losses.

The sole head of a family or any male over 18 years old, who was at the commencement of the present war, and has since continued to be, a British subject or a subject of an allied or neutral country, may homestead a quarter-section of available Dominion Land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, or Alberta. Applicant must appear in person at Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-Agency for District. Entry by proxy may be made on certain conditions. In certain districts a homesteader may secure an adjoining quarter-section as pre-emption. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties—Reside six months in each of three years after earning homestead patent and cultivate 50 acres extra. May obtain pre-emption patent as soon as homestead patent on certain conditions.

A settler after obtaining homestead patent, if he cannot secure a pre-emption, may take a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate 50 acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Holders of entries may count time of employment as farm labourers in Canada during 1917, as residence duties under certain conditions.

When Dominion Lands are advertised or posted for entry, returned soldiers who have served overseas and have been honorably discharged, receive one day priority in applying for entry at local Agent's Office (but not Sub-Agency). Discharge papers must be presented to Agent.

Salmon Prices For This Season

OTHER LINES OF CANNED GOODS ARE HIGHER THAN BEFORE.

Of primary interest to the grocery trade during the week was the announcement of prices for the 1917 salmon pack. It was generally expected that prices would be high, and in this there was no disappointment. Owing to the disappointingly small pack there will be only a percentage delivery by the packers. In the case of one-pound sockeye tins there will be only nine per cent. of orders delivered, while in sockeye half-pound tins there will be only forty per cent. delivery. On cohoe salmon there will be a ten percent. delivery on one-pound and forty per cent. delivery on half-pound tins. On pink salmon there will be the best delivery of any of the brands, namely fifty per cent. on one-pound and 100 per cent. on half-pounds.

Rumors of an embargo on the export of bacon from Canada are not taken seriously by those connected with the provision trade. It is pointed out that Great Britain needs the bacon and that in all probability some central buying agency will be established similar to that in operation for the purchase of Canadian cheese. Egg production has been heavier during the past week, but has not been sufficient to make the price recede. Butter prices remained unchanged. Pasture is now in excellent shape and production of creamery butter and cheese should be greatly facilitated throughout Ontario.

INTERESTING BRIEFS.

The Senate has adopted a graduated war profits tax which will amount to approximately one-third of excess profits.

Sixty thousand employes have been added to the roll of the United States Ordnance Department since the declaration of war.

Thieves broke into a Yonkers jewelry store just across from the police station and escaped with 2,000 valuable rings.

Sugar refiners have agreed to allow all importing to be done by a central committee appointed by Food Controller Hoover.

Cobb Captures All The Honors

DETROIT STAR IS STILL LEADER IN AMERICAN LEAGUE.

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Ty Cobb apparently is determined to capture all of the honors of the American league. Averages released today, including the games of Wednesday, show the Detroit star is leading league in batting with a mark of .386, having 194 hits. Which indicates that he will pass the 200 mark again. He tops the list in two base and three base hitting, is second in scoring, and fourth in base stealing.

Leading pitchers participating in 29 or more games, rated according to earned runs per game, show Cicotte of Chicago leading with 23 won and 11 lost, an average of 1.58 earned runs.

SIX HOSTILE SUBS SUNK BY MERCHANT VESSELS

Two of Latter Lost in Engagement---Report Reaches Washington From Paris

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Washington, Sept. 11.—Six hostile submarines are believed to have been destroyed off the coast of France on September 5, when they attacked a fleet of merchant ships of which the American steamer Westwego was one. Two merchant ships were lost. A report from Paris to this effect reached the Navy Department today.

The merchant fleet of which the Westwego was one was en route to Europe from the United States when attacked. The vessels were under convoy, but no details of the fight were included in the reports received. No loss of life was reported nor were the names of the two ships sunk included in the despatch. The Navy Department has cabled for additional information.

The Westwego, an oil tank steamer, was built in Germany in 1914 for Roumania under the name of Steaua Romena. Later her registry was changed to American and afterward her name was made the Westwego. The vessel was of 3039 tons net and she carried a crew of 42 men.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

The government is still moving out of the capital to oppose Korniloff's forces. Gen. Ne Russian says that all Kerensky's cabinet have resigned to give him a free hand in dealing with Korniloff.

CITY WILL STORE COAL TO PROVIDE FOR EMERGENCY

Aldermen Decide to Rent Shed for Storage--Supply in Sight has Already Been Dispos-of--Conference with Local Dealers To-night.

Ald. Dobbin introduced the chief subject of interest to the citizens generally, namely, the question of buying an additional supply of coal for the Municipal Coal Yards. The chairman stated that they had taken orders for all the coal on order and the question was "Shall we order more coal." The citizens were ready to pay in their money but the city did not want to enter into competition with the dealers if they could supply the citizens.

Ald. Smith knew that local dealers were refusing to take orders for coal from citizens. Even when the money was offered to them.

Ald. Stratton stated his experience with the coal men. He had divided his business up as in former years and some of them had told him to get a double supply from some other dealer if he could. However he had got it all except from one dealer and that was only five ton.

Ald. Weir stated that the dealers were filling the orders of their customers first. After those had been attended to they would have a chance to attend to others, if the coal comes along. They had been guaranteed as large a supply as last year from the mines. Last year they handled more coal than ever before. He thought that the coal situation was handled exceptionally well last year.

Ald. McIntyre was very strong for ordering more coal. The people should be supplied, if it was possible for the city to get the coal.

Ald. Stratton was in favor of calling a meeting of the coal dealers before ordering any more coal.

Ald. Weir stated that if the dealers had thought that the city was going to deliver coal from the cars they would have seriously objected to the bylaw before the Municipal and Railway Board. The dealers had no objection to the city storing some coal for emergency.

Ald. Stratton was in favor of storing a quantity of coal for an emergency.

Ald. Dobbin stated the particulars regarding the price that the city was paying for coal at the mines and what it was costing on the track here. The city would start in the morning to deliver the first car of municipal coal.

Mayor Duffus thought that the dealers should be talked to about the supply before going any further with the delivery of coal from the cars.

City Treasurer Adams stated that orders for 300 tons had been taken and paid for and if he had continued to take orders that 600 would have been sold. The capacity of the cars coming was uncertain until they arrived.

Ald. McIntyre was of the opinion that the city would be up against a coal famine again. Let the city get the coal.

After considerable discussion it was decided to rent Rehill's sheds for three months for the purpose of storing some coal. The city will get an option for an additional three months. The rent is to be $35.00 per month which includes the use of scales and telephone.

It was also decided to have a conference with the dealers tonight at 8 o'clock and discuss the situation before ordering any more coal.

Russian Traitor on Way to Capital, Where Situation is Regarded as Grave---Former Commander-in-Chief Refuses to Lead Army Against the Rebels.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Sept. 11.—According to reports from the winter palace where the Government Council was in session this afternoon, A considerable force of supporters of General Korniloff already have passed Luga on their way to Petrograd. The government refuses to make a statement but Foreign Minister Torestchenko informs the Associated Press that he believes the Korniloff forces consist of only a few hundred men. The town and railroad station at Luga are in Korniloff's hands.

By order of Premier Kerensky railroad track between Luga and Petrograd has been torn up in places, gangs being engaged on the work all night. On the Petrograd side of Luga are forces which so far have stood firm for the Government.

The Government last night made repeated efforts to induce general Alexieff, former commander-in-chief of the Russian army to take the command against Korniloff, but met with refusal. Members of government state that there is no prospect whatever of Korniloff submitting.

More Desert to Korniloff

Members of the Provisional Government today discussed as an alternative or completement to the Directory the formation of a Permanent National Assembly on the lines of the Moscow conference which is to be summoned immediately.

All of Peterborough county is interested in the utcome of the Review's Prize Campaign.

Each and every worker is being urged by their many friends to make the next few weeks banner ones in this campaign.

In the age of our grandfathers mastery of the three R's was considered quite sufficient, although it must be conceded that this somewhat limited foundation was laid with commendable care and thoroughness. Education was regarded as a fad for the few who might be blessed with sufficient means to indulge in such a luxury than as a necessary preparation for the responsibilities confronting the young man or woman called upon to make his or her way in the world. There was a reason for this that we of today are inclined to regard as short-sighted. Conditions are vastly different. Competition was not keen. The strife for existence had not reached quite the stage that now is so much in evidence on every hand.

Was Developed to Be "Somebody."

The youth who went into the factory or the store or the office learned a trade or a profession from the ground up. He was carefully schooled by those in authority with the hope and the expectation that some day he would become a valuable and valued factor in the organization, however modest or pretentious in its scope.

Perhaps those were the "happy days" to which our elders delight to refer, while depreciating the changes that have taken place. Possibly the people of those times were happier because everything moved along placidly and the hurly-burly attitude everywhere in evidence today was unknown.

Retrospection is valuable only when it opens the way for something better. And the one concerned with the present and its pressing problems will find little inspiration in the knowledge that once opportunity sought out the man, and not man the opportunity, as is now the case.

Opportunity Does Not Slumber.

It is true that opportunty still knocks at the door of every man, but there is no slumbering on the doorstep, no insistent clanging of the bell until the answer is obtained. It is a case of touch and go—and the young man or woman who embraces opportunity is not content to stand at the door awaiting its arrival. Rather, it is a case of hastening down the road to get there first.

The battle nowadays is to the strong, the race to the swift; and preparation—education—is the power that gives strength and speed to the contest for preferment in every line of activity that is worth while.

Notice to Contestants.

Votes will be published in tomorrow's issue of the Review. Turn in your votes before eight o'clock each evening and be the leader. Show your friends you are a sure-enough candidate. They are watching your progress. Be the pacemaker—the pacemaker always has the best of it.

RUSS. REVIVAL A FACTOR IN WAR BOUND TO BE REMOTE

London Times Reports the Situation as Grave ---Says Korniloff is no Traitor, But Had no Other Course Left Him.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 11.— The Russian crisis overshadows all else in the news and editorial columns of the morning newspapers. The Times says that the outlook is very dark and that it affects the war on every front for the Allies begin to realize that even in the most favorable circumstances the revival of Russian military efficiency is bound to be remote. The Times declares that General Korniloff is not a traitor and says that if his ultimatum to the Petrograd authorities on Saturday was tantamount to dictatorship it was evidently because he felt there was no alternative left.

The Times adds: "Kerensky has failed to restore order and stability in the army because he long had been in a false position. His provisional government has been at the beck and call of soldiers and workmens delegates, whose pernicious influence almost brought Russia to ruin. Committees will never save Russia, but in a very short time they will wreck the revolution if they are not deprived of the power to interfere."

UNWRITTEN LAW WINS IN COURT

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 11.—Lieut. Douglas Malcolm, who was being tried for the murder of Anton Baumberg, a Pseudo Count, was today found not guilty by a jury at the Old Bailey Police Court. The case which had been characterised as a "Dream of Passion" was the first to be tried here in which the "Unwritten law" was the sole defence. A coroner's jury had returned a verdict of "justifiable homicide." After hearing Lieutenant Malcolm plea that he had killed Baumberg "In defense of his wife's honor." The case was one of the most sensational in many years.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 11, 1917

WOMEN WHO WILL VOTE.

A misunderstanding has arisen in some quarters regarding the position of the female relatives of returned soldiers under the War-time Election Act. Some people seem to think that the mothers, wives and sisters of returned and discharged soldiers are not to have the vote. This is an entire mistake. The female suffrage clauses of the Act apply to the relatives of all the officers and men who have been overseas. Not only this! The mothers, wives and sisters of soldiers who have not yet been overseas, but who embark before election day, will also enjoy the privilege of casting ballots. All the women called upon to make the real sacrifices of the war are to have a part in the selection of the incoming Parliament — a Parliament which will in large measure hold in its hands the fate of the men at the front and of the Dominion for which they fight.—Toronto News.

LOVE'S LABOR LOST.

THE LIBERAL newspapers that are so gallantly taking up the role of champion for the women of Canada, with the new Franchise Bill as a text, have their labor for their pains. It is another sad case of wasted effort. Those for whose benefit the campaign is designed are not disposed to be grateful, as the newspapers are attempting to thrust upon them something for which they have not asked.

In the first place, it is misleading to set up the claim that any particular class of women are disfranchised by the new bill. It is imposible to deprive any one of something that they never posessed. The gift of the provincial franchise bestowed upon the women of Ontario did not carry with it the right to vote at the Federal elections unless the Dominion Parliament by special enactment chose to confer that right. This point is clear.

The women of the Dominion have been thoroughly canvassed with regard to the Federal franchise. Every branch of the Daughters of the Empire and the Local Council of Women discussed this matter thoroughly on advice from headquarters. They were asked for their opinion as to whether it would be advisable to give women the Dominion franchise for the coming election. The matter was plainly laid before them. Conscription was to be the main issue. The sympathy of the majority of the women for the soldiers was beyond question, their anxiety to win the war was conceded.

The problem was, however, as to whether the majority would vote for or against compulsory military service. By a large majority the organized women of Canada, those whose united efforts had secured the provincial franchise in so many provinces, decided that it would not be advisable to risk the issue in this crisis by giving the franchise to thousands of new voters. Even those who were in favor of conscription were willing to forego the right to vote rather than endanger the cause for which they had done so much.

That was the general sentiment of the women of Canada. In the local field the women's organizations were practically a unit, and the matter has been carefully discussed at their meetings for weeks past. The women of Peterborough never expected to get the Dominion franchise at this time. The new bill was no surprise to them in this regard and they have no quarrel with its provisions.

What did surprise the local women, and a pleasant surprise it was, was the granting of the franchise to the relatives of the soldiers who may be overseas before the election is held. The women realize that the cause in which their sympathy is enlisted is strengthened by this measure. The women who will vote can be depended upon to use the franchise in behalf of the men in the battle line. Conscription is in no danger from this enactment. Any women in Canada disposed to vote with the antis have been deprived of all opportunity to do so.

Our contemporary can take note of the above facts and govern itself accordingly. It cannot hope to make friends among the class whom it wrongly represents as having been disfranchised, when they themselves invited the very conditions of which the partisan press so lamely complains. No candidate for Parliament can hope to make capital for himself on the same issue.

NOT TALKING, BUT DYING.

THE MEN in the fighting line in France do not stop to reason. They are not questioning the wisdom or disputing the orders of those placed in authority over them. They do not stop in the middle of a charge to discuss the fine points in the laws of modern warfare. Constitutional themes, finely spun, are not claiming their attention. They are fighting, doing, and, unfortunately, too many of them are dying, the deaths of heroes it may be, but it is, after all, grim death in ghastly form just the same.

At Ottawa, the men to whom has been entrusted the well-being of the soldiers, are wasting time in useless and purposeless talk. The partisan is active mending his own little political fences while his charges in Flanders drop in their tracks. The country's time is being wasted in idle debate that results in nothing. And meantime the fire of war rages.

Extraordinary times call for extraordinary measures. Freedom of speech is guaranteed Britishers, whether in private life or in Parliament, but this freedom may regenerate into license at such a juncture as the present. The will of the majority must prevail. It will not be defeated by tornadoes of talk. If nothing short of it suffices, then the closure may yet save the situation.

THE FELINE AT LARGE.

THE TORONTO STAR springs something new in the way of political intelligence. The Quebec Legislature is to be called together in special session to deal with the conscription issue. Something sensational is to transpire. A platform, marvellous in its way, is to be drawn up, upon which the Nationalists of Quebec and the conscription and anti-conscription Liberals from all parts of the Dominion can stand in a new brotherhood of political harmony. That accomplished, Premier Gouin is to take the place of Sir Wilfrid Laurier as leader of the Canadian Liberal party, when the regenerated hosts are expected to triumphantly march to victory.

There is no denying the fact that the Liberal party is today in more desperate case than it has ever known in all its somewhat checkered career. Sir Wilfrid Laurier's stand has embarrassed the faithful in every province save his own. The candidates nominated before the break find the ground cut from under their feet. In constituancies still looking for standard-bearers, none but the rash are willing to take a chance. Even in West Peterborough the plugging for the nomination that was noticeable a few months ago has suddenly ceased.

The leaders of the party are too astute as politicians to enter the coming fray without a brave attempt to rehabilitate their forces. Something must be done, there must be scheming and wire-pulling, if the party is to survive the battle. Perhaps The Toronto Star has let the cat out of the bag, and the latest plot is before the people.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier is no longer to be banked on as leader. The party cannot throw him overboard, for this would mean the loss of the support of Quebec, and without Quebec the Liberals have not a ghost of a show. To supplant him by another of the same race would be an easy compromise. Premier Gouin is the logical selection for the place. He has not been so outspoken on conscription as the chieftain who has broken up his own following. Sir Lomer Gouin has been quoted as saying that if the majority of the Canadian people declared for conscription, Quebec would fall in line and accept the inevitable.

It is not improbable that the Quebec Legislature in special session will attempt to patch up a truce with the other factions in the party. But is Quebec, that has so emphatically placed itself out of the running, so far as the war is concerned, to be trusted further? The sentiment that has been aroused against that province in other sections of the Dominion is not to be easily quieted. It has long been recognized that when Sir Wilfrid Laurier retired from the leadership the place was to go to some Liberal from an English-speaking province. It will be many a long day before a French-Canadian leader will be found acceptable to the majority of the people of Canada, not to speak of the members of the Liberal party themselves. The youngest Canadian now on earth may live to see that day, but even that is a matter of doubt.

A FEAR THAT IS GROUNDLESS

Some Ratepayers have opposed the adoption of a County Roads Scheme because of the fear of creating a high priced organization—an organization which would cost out of proportion to any benefit derived. The expense of the organization under the present method has never seemed very great, thought if it were possible to discover just what it does cost to administer the present road law, we are convinced we would be amazed.

The organization required, if a County System is adopted is simple and effective.

A County Superintendent is apointed who has charge of the system under the direction of the County Council. The average salary paid by the counties which have adopted a County Road System is $1500.00 a year; but as the Government contribute 40 per cent. of the amount, the cost to the County would average but $900.00.

The Superintendent is the only salaried officer necessary. The further organization adopted is part of the working force, and while these are foremen appointed, these men are paid for actual hours put in.

The allowances to Pathmasters on the mileage which would be under the charge of the Superintendent would go a long way paying the Superintendent's salary while the advantage of having a man who knows how to build roads, who is responsible for the building of roads, and who will build continuous stretches of standard roads, would be very great.

Every section of the County would benefit by having some good roads as sample roads, and these are possible if a competent Superintendent has charge of the construction.

The organization is not cumbersome, but is efficient and satisfactory and should appeal to all who consider the question of a County Road System.

Albert Brown Joins Noted Galaxy

In inducing Paul Kester to write a romantic play for him the brilliant young actor Albert Brown was indeed joining a noted galaxy, for no dramatist of the day has provided plays for a greater number of celebrities. In "The Love of a King" which Mr. Brown will present here on Sept. 19, he is said to have surpassed his best efforts of the past which include the celebrated romantic play "When Knighthood was in Flower." From that play Julia Marlowe made a fortune which enabled her to later give her sumptuous revivals of Shakespeare, but she is only one of the famous people who have starred in Mr. Kester's plays. His first piece was written in 1892 in collaboration with Minnie Maddern Fiske and throughout the romantic movement of the 'ninties was very ac- famous artists who have since passed tive in producing dramas. Among the away that produced works from his pen were Madame Modjeska, Madame Januschek, Madame Rhea, Ada Rehan and the younger Salvini, whose promising career came to such an untimely end. In addition to Julai Marlowe the living stars who have produced pieces from Mr. Kester's pen with almost unvarying success have been E. H. Sothern, Fred Terry, Julia Neilson, Annie Russell, Bertha Galland, Mrs. Langtry, Walker Whiteside, Marie Tempest and Margaret Anglin. It was the latter actress who produced Mr. Kester's last play prior to "The Love of a King." It was known as "Beverley's Balance" and showed that he was almost as adept in modern comedy as in the field of romance.

Mr. Kester has a strong belief in the future of Albert Brown as a romantic star. His work in the modern pieces he has played of late have shown him to be possessed of rare technical versatility, and above and beyond this Mr. Kester sees in him an emotional personality which is the most valuable of all assets to the actor.

Wit and Wisdom

"If you want a comfort in the house get one of those instantaneous heaters. It keeps the whole family in hot water all the time."

"Don't need it. My wife attends to that."

Riggs (facetiously)—This is a picture of my wife's first husband.

Diggs—Silly-looking guy! But, say, I didn't know your wife was married before she met you.

There is a certain man who takes a great interest in his household. The other day, just before he left his office he telephoned to his wife to ask whether she wanted him to bring anything home.

"Yes", said the wife, "I wish you would stop and get some tea. And you might as well, while you're about it, get a set of china, too."

"China?" gasped the husband.

"Yes. Of course, we've got some, but cook says there's not enough to last the week out."

Reported Injured

An old negro went into a drug store in Richmond and said: "Boss, will you please suh, call de Colonel on de telephone?"

"Yes," and he called the Colonel. The old darkey said: "Colonel, dat er mule done stall right in de main street right in front of de store."

"Yaas suh! I done tied strings around his ears, but he didn't budge.

"What's dat? What's dat? Yaas suh, I build a fire under him, but it didn't do nothin' but smorch de harness.

"No suh! No suh! I ain't heard yet."

The geography lesson was about to begin, and the subject of it was France.

Accordingly, the teacher started off with the question: "Now, in this present terrible war, who is our principal ally?"

"France," came the answer from a chorus of voices.

"Quite right," said the teacher, beaming. "Now can any of you give me the name of a town in France?"

A small boy at the back of the class almost fell over in his eagerness to tell. "Somewhere," he said breathlessly.

Gave Herself Away

"Did the postman leave any letters, Mary?" the mistress asked on returninf from a visit one afternoon.

"Nothing but a postcard, ma'am."

"Who is it from, Mary."

"And do you think I'd read it, ma'am?" asked the girl with an injured air.

"Perhaps not, but any one who sends me a postcard is either stupid or impertinent."

"You'll excuse me, ma'am," returned the girl loftily, "but it's a nice way to be talking about your own mother!"

Followed Instructions

Tommy had begged hard to come down stairs for a little while after dinner and at last his mother had consented.

"But remember, dear," she said, "you must be a good little boy and not say anything about poor Mr. Roadhog's nose. He was in a bad motor accident and hurt his face."

Tommy waited impatiently till his mother sent for him to go to the dining room. Then he walked in and instantly fixed curious eyes upon Mr. Roadhog's face.

"Mummy," he said in a very audible whisper, "how could I say anything about his nose? He hasn't got one!"

Sir Douglas was, some few weeks ago, in a great hurry to get to a certain place. He found his car, but the chauffeur was missing. So Sir Douglas got in the car and drove off by himself. Then the driver appeared and saw the car disappearing in the distance.

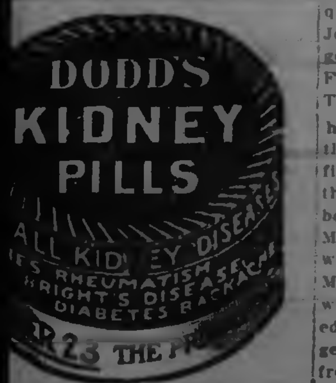
list of American heavyweight ons begins with Tom Hyer. will be just seventy-six years t Sunday since the gallant hieved the right to call hime premier fighting man of the orld. Rough-and-tumble fightardly to be dignified by the of pugilism, was popular on this side of the Atlantic in the latter part of the eighteenth century, but it was not unil the dawn of the nineteenth century that ring pugilism was introduced. The first contest in accordance with the English prize-ring rules was pulled off in 1816, with Jacob Hyer and Thomas Beasley as the combatants. They fought only a few rounds to a draw. Old Jacob had a son named Tom, who developed into a promising fighter, and on September 9, 1841, he fought John McCluster, known to the sports as "Country McCloskey," at Caldwell's Landing, N.Y. The bout was for the championship of America, and attracted a big crowd, each man having his devoted adherents who were willing to wager their all on the result. McCloskey was a slam-bang fighter, but Hyer was trained in ring science and he pounded McCloskey unmercifully for 101 rounds before he would give in and abmit defeat. Hyer was acclaimed a hero, and for several years he reigned the undisputed king of the fistic gladiators. It was not until 1847 that a man was found to oppose him. This was Yankee Sullivan, a middleweight who had gained an excellent reputation. They were matched for $10,000 a side, and the scrap was pulled off in Maryland. Although Sullivan lasted only eighteen minutes, he put up a game battle and after it was over Yankee had to be carried to a Baltimore hospital for repairs. Both Hyer and Sullivan had saloons in New York, and before they met in the ring they had engaged in a barroom brawl, from which Sullivan had emerged with blackened optics and a cauliflower ear. After the Maryland affair Hyer was thrown into jail and was kept locked up until Sullivan was well enough to leave the hospital. Hyer was next matched to fight John Morrissey, one of the pugilists who made his headquarters at Sullivan's place, but John forfeited $100 and followed the gold rush to California. At San Francisco Morrissey met George Thompson, an English boxer, who had trained Tom Hyer for his battles, and they were matched for the first real prize fight ever held in the Golden State. Thompson had the best of it, but lost on a foul. When Morrissey returned to the east he was again matched with Hyer, but Morrissey's crowd at the ringside was so threatening that Hyer refused to go on. After that Hyer could get nobody to meet him, and retired from the ring.



One Peeved Magnate

One pretty well peeved person, at this writing probably is Harry Frazee, the theatrical man who is the principal stockholder in, and president of, the Boston Red Sox. When he and his associates purchased the club from Joe Lannin last winter it was with the firm expectancy that a team that had won three flags and as many world's series in five years would come right back and cross in with another. And the fact that the Boston club ownership's share of the world series money in those three falls had been a little better than $310,000 made it look like a tempting proposition to the newcomers.

Now the probabilities are that Mr. Comiskey will rake in the shekels that Mr. Frazee had counted on, which is rather saddening to the Bostoians. It is said that the Red Sox home receipts have fallen off this season, also, to some extent, and that Frazee is now anxious to sell. A transfer now would give the club its fifth set of owners in eight years.

Veterans Come Back

This appears to be the big year for the hoary old veterans of baseball. Never before has there been such a premium on the old fellows. With the various clubs in danger of losing their most valuable young men in the draft the manager or club owner thinks twice before he turns one of the old timers adrift. Managers are signing the old boys rather than releasing them.

Before the season started every one had become reconciled to the fact that the National league would have to get along without its most picturesque character, Honus Wagner. Honus really retired in good faith, but the Pittsburg club found it needed him more than it thought. He was coaxed back into the fold, and here at forty-three is playing a smashup game at first base for the Pirates.

When the season started such old fellows as Chief Bender, Ed Walsh, Bobby Wallace and George Gibson were supposed to have permanent leases on the baseball boneyard. But here in September all are drawing big league pay. Bender just now is pitching as brilliant as at any time in his career, while old Mack Gibson was catching sterling ball for the Giants before he met with his mishap.

Rumors are flying thick and fast that Percy Haughton and other stockholders in the Boston Braves will sell out when the season is over. Any bidders?

Jack Lilivelt, once with the Yankees, is going to join the ranks of chicken-raisers— the real poultry kind. He has quite the game. We hope the only rocks he'll encounter will be Plymouth ones.

Grouchy Gus Says: "Squeer how a man who is supersensitive about a draft from an open window, will sit in a boat on the bay day after day, with a north wind blowing on him right from the ice works, sustained by the hope that some day or other he'll land a black bass weighing somewhere between five pounds and a ton."

TWENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY OF CORBETT-JOHN L. FIGHT

It was just twenty-five years ago September 7, 1892, that James J. Corbett beat the supposedly unbeatable John L. Sullivan, and thus draped on his pompadoured bean the crown symbolic of the heavyweight championship of the world. Those who were at the ringside in New Orleans on that great day are now growing gray or bald, but they still remember with a thrill the victory of science over strength. Not that John L. depended upon brute force alone—he had a head and could use it—but Corbett had a better head, and also a pair of highly educated feet that could take his upper works from where they were to where they wern't in about the shortest time on record. Corbett really won by two feet that day, for in the early rounds his dancing, prancing tootsies on several occasions took him out of the way, by the merest fraction of an inch of smashing blows that would have strtched him out for the count if they had landed squarely. Sullivan was a lumbering elephant; Corbett a calm, cool, collected athlete. Sullivan did not land a blow until the end of the second, when he managed to put over two on the face that made Corbett more wary than ever. The third round was a footrace, with Corbett playing hare to Sullivan's hound. The crowd, thinking that Corbett was scared, hooted and jeered and John L.'s supporters began to make plans for spending their winnings. In the fifth Corbett stopped running long enough to land some blows to the tumtum that made John L. groggy. In the eighth Sullivan got over a stiff one to Corbett's heart but he got back half a dozen blows in exchange. Sullivan landed again in the tenth, a hard one to the face that gave Corbett a black and bloody eye. As each round started, John L. would chase and Corbett would run, but the champion tired quickly, and then Corbett turned agressor. As the battle progressed through the 'teens, Sullivan more and more showed signs of extreme exhaustion. He was worn out by chasing Corbett, and could barely stagger after that agile athlete. In the twenty-first rounds Sul- his guard. Corbett, alert for the op- livan was so worn that he dropped portunity sent in punches to the face until Sullivan went down for the count.

WORLD'S SERIES EASY FOR GIANTS

From this distance it looks as if New York Giants now have a much better chance of winning the world's series than they had a week ago. The reason is because the Red Fox are now a long way off from the White Sox, and stand but little chance of overhauling Eddie Collins and Co. The belief is that the Red Sox with Leonard, Shore, Ruth, Foster and Mays, would stand a much better chance of trimming McGraw's All-Stars than the White Sox pitchers. For that reason many would like to see the Red Sox meet the Giants, and give them a real lacing. The Boston pitchers have been through the ordeal of a world's series and generally are at their best for the blue ribbon event. The Chicago pitchers have yet to receive the test. For the good of the American league, it is well that Chicago looks like the winner, but the A.L. does not appear to have the same chance of again grabbing the world's title, with the White Sox as its representatives. This is purely a Canadian view of the situation, gained from keeping an eye on the work of the boxmen of both Sox clubs. But it can't be denied that pitching goes a long way in a short series like that indulged in for the championship of the world, and the hurling department is the Red Sox stronghold.

Is W. Johnston Saving His Arm?

THE FAMOUS STAR DOES NOT LIKE BEING WITH A LOSING CLUB.

Many a base ball fan is wondering if Walter Johnson is saving his trusty pitching arm in anticipation of being sold to some other club before the season of 1918 rolls round.

The famous speed-ball merchant, who for a number of years has held the place once occupied by Joe Wood as the speediest pitcher in the game, has not been using the "smoke ball" as frequently this season as in the past. Instead he has resorted to a slower curve ball and the change has been so noticeable as to cause comment all around the American league.

Playing with a losing club is discouraging at best, and the records for 1917 show that the Washington Senators have been anything but good run-getters for any of their pitchers. Perhaps the smoke-ball artist figured that he owed it to himself and his club to nurse the wonder pitching arm along during a season when pennant chances were out of the question. At any rate, the batters have not been hunting the "bucket" as frequently this years as they did in past seasons when Johnson took the mound.

Forty per cent. of the ammunition in the eastern, western and southern army departments is defective, and much is from ten to seventeen years old, says a San Antonio despatch

WALTER HOLKE LEADS AT FIRST

Last season Walter Holke, first baseman of the Giants, performed the unusual feat of leading two leagues in batting the one year. When he went to the Giants from the Rochester club of the International circuit the schedule of that league was nearly completed, and he was its batting champion. He stopped right out in the National league and for 30 odd games with the Giants hit .351. This was a much better mark than that hung up by Hal Chase, who was awarded the batting crown because he had played the season through with the Reds, while Holke hed only performed at the Polo grounds in some thing like a fifth of the scheduled number of games.

When the Giants went south this year the question of Holke's hitting offered much food for speculation. Some maintained that he was a natural .300 hitter. tOhers professed to believe that his spectacular walloping of 1916 was but a flash in the pan.

The manager of the Giants, John J. McGraw by name, sat in on the argument several times, and declared that if his first baseman hit .270 he would be very well satisfied. So very well satisfied Mr. McGraw must be.

Hitting Over .280

Holke is hitting well over .280 thus far this season. This is quite a bit back of the pace he set last fall, but is high enough to make him the best hitting first sacker in the National league for 1917. Such knights of the swat as Hal Chase and Jacob Daubert are trailing in his wake.

The best part of Holke's work with the stick is that it has grown better as the season has progressed. He did not hit very hard in the south or in the early games of the National league season.

Holke has a peculiar crouching style at the plate, He stands far back and leans over, grasping his bat far down on the handle. He has a nice free swing, and has the faculty of chopping the ball over the infield.

He bats from the left side nearly all the time. Once in a whole he turns around against a southpay. McGraw has discouraged this habit, however, believing that a left-handed batter can hit left-handed pitching well enough, if he will look it over and not try to kill the ball.

Changed to Port Side

When he first went east to the Giants four years ago Holke hit right-handed. It was after he had gone to the Rochester club that he started experimenting in hitting from the other side. When he finally mastered this style of batting he came along and led the league.

There has never been any question of Holke's ability to field his position. He is a remarkably sure man on thrown balls, and plays grounders well. In fact, today he comes close to being an ideal first sacker. His one fault is a tendency to become confused on the bases at critical stages of close games. He does this in the field at times, too.

Any one who has ever talked with Holke knows that he has a keen mind. It cannot be said that his bad plays are due to lack of brains. They are probably due to lack of experience in big league play, and in another season will no doubt be things of the past only.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF VOTE STANDING

The comparative vote standing of the contestants in The Review's Prize Voting Contest is published for the second time today. The names have been arranged without regard to the position to which they are entitled by the votes to their credit.

The fact that a name appears in the list of nominees does not necessarily imply that the person is an active candidate in the contest. It is the duty and purpose of the contest department to announce the nominations that have been made. In many instances people have been nominated by friends who hope to see them win the race for the Great Prizes. Many of these nominees will engage in the contest actively, while others will remain "in the hands of their friends."

It is the right of the patrons of The Review to decide who shall win. It is within the province of the subscribers to vote for anyone, and these votes will be credited as ordered, without regard to such person as an active candidate or not. The public will do the voting, and the judges will decide who are the winners at the close of the contest.

For the purposes of the contest, any person who has been voted for is a candidate in the contest. The votes will stand as credited to the end of the contest. They are not transferable and they are not subject to cancellation except for reasons of irregularity.

The vote standing today shows that many people have divided the votes up to the present. Votes have been issued on all subscription payments made at The Review office since the opening of the contest, in many instances by subscribers who paid in person. These votes have been credited in every instance according to the wishes of the subscribers, and this practice will be followed throughout the contest. Several people have been voted for in this way, although they have not sent in any subscriptions themselves.

You should enter the contest today. Send in your name. Send for a receipt book. Call at the contest office and talk it over.

Would Walked The Floor For Hours

Nerves Were So Shattered Harold Roy Couldn't Sleep at Night

"Tanlac has given me a new lease on life said Harold Fitz Roy, a well known mechanic residing at Vineland, Ont., in a conversation with the Tanlac representatives at Parke & Parke Drug Store, Hamilton, the other day.

"My system had gotten into such a badly run-down condition, he continued, and my appetite was so poor I couldn't eat much of anything. Heavy foods of all kinds disagreed with me so that I could live on nothing but a little milk and toast and cereals. My liver was sluggish and I was very billious all the time. nerves were so frayed I couldn't sleep well, and many a time I got up in the middle of the night and walked the floor for two or three hours trying to quiet my nerves so I could get a rest. Every bit of energy and ambition seemed to be knocked clean out of me and I was so tired and worn out in the mornings it was all I could do to get out of bed and put on my clothes.

"One day a friend of my wife's told her that she had derived much benefit from using Tanlac, so she got me a bottle to try and, really by the time I had used up half my first bottle I was feeling better in every way than I had in a long time. I am now on my second bottle of Tanlac and if it continues to benefit me like it is at present it won't be long before I will be as well and strong as ever. My liver is now acting all right and I don't feel billious at all, my digestion is so much improved I can now eat ham and eggs and preserves for breakfast and anything else I want without their giving me any trouble. I am getting on so well now I don't hesitate to speak a good word for Tanlac whenever I can.

Commons carried Government's closure motion on war times elections act 48 to 23.

Speakers in Parliament said the time is not ripe in Ontario for complete woman's suffrage.

The French and British late statements indicate that all is fairly quiet on the western front.

The booty so far accounted for since big battle between Italians and Austrians includes 80 guns of medium caliber, 93 trench mortars, 323 machine guns and 1197 rifles.

Farmer Gets Writ Against Lindsay

Mr. Joseph Meehan, of North Ops, has, through his solicitor, Mr. L. V. O'Connor, issued a writ against the town of Lindsay to prevent the deposing of sewage in the river.

It is claimed by Mr. Meehan that sewage matter has accumulated to such an extent along the river front at his farm that conditions have become intolerable, and is a source of danger to his cattle, who suffer from the accumulation.

Mr. Meehan, it is claimed, has, through his solicitor, drawn the council's attention to the matter on several occasions, the last communication being forwarded in October 16th, but no action it is asserted, was taken in the matter.

CANADA

Military Service Act, 1917

Explanatory Announcement by the Minister of Justice

THE MILITARY SERVICE ACT has received the assent of the Governor-General and is is now part of the law of the land. It will be enforced accordingly, and the patriotism and good sense of the people can be relied upon to support it. Resistance to its enforcement, however, by word or act must and will be repressed as resistance to any other law in force must be.

Reinforcements under the Military Service Act immediately required

It is the intention of the Government immediately to exercise the power which the Act confers and to call out men for military service in order to provide reinforcements for the Canadian Forces. This is necessary since the military authorities report that the reserves available or in sight for reinforcement will shortly be exhausted unless this step be taken.

First call limited to men between 20 and 34 who were unmarried or widowers without children on July 6, 1917

The present call will be limited to men not in the schedule of exemptions who were unmarried or widowers without children on 6th July, 1917, are at least twenty years of age, and were born on or since 1st January, 1883. Of this Class all those will be entitled to conditional exemption whose services in their present occupations, agricultural, industrial or other, are essential in the national interest, and whose business or domestic responsibilities are such that serious hardship would ensue if their services be required. Conscientious scruples based upon a prohibition of combatant service by the articles of faith of the religious denomination to which men belong will also be respected. The men first required to serve will consequently be those who can be called upon with the least disturbance of the economic and social life of the country.

Civil Tribunals to deal with exemptions

Questions of exemption will be determined, not by the military authorities or by the Government, but by civil tribunals composed of representative men who are familiar with local conditions in the communities in which they serve, who will generally have personal knowledge of the economic and family reasons which those whose cases come before them have had for not volunteering their services and who will be able sympathetically to estimate the weight and importance of such reasons. Provincial Appellate Tribunals constituted from the existing judiciary of the respective provinces will be provided to correct mistakes made by Local Tribunals, and a Central Appeal Tribunal for the whole of Canada, selected from among the present Judges of the Supreme Court of Canada, will be constituted in order that identical principles may be applied throughout the country. In this way every man may rest assured of the fair and full consideration of his circumstances and the national requirements both civil and military.

Proclamation will announce the day

A proclamation will issue calling out the bachelors and widowers referred to and fixing a day on or before which every man must report for service to the military authorities unless he has before that day made an application for exemption.

How to apply for exemption

Applications for exemption may be made by written notice on forms which will be available at every post office, and will be transmitted free of postage. They will not, however, be required to be made in this way, but may be presented by the applicants in person to the exemption tribunals. The cases of those who have given written notice in advance will take precedence, and appearance in person will therefore be likely to involve considerably more inconvenience and delay to the men concerned, so that it is recommended that advantage be generally taken of the facilities for written application.

Exemption Tribunals in all parts of Canada

The local exemption tribunals will be constituted with the least delay possible, consistent with the selection of representative individuals to compose them, and the instruction of the members in their duties. There will be more than one thousand of such tribunals throughout Canada, each consisting of two members, one of whom will be nominated by a Joint Committee of Parliament, and the other by one of the Judges of the existing Courts. Every effort will be made by the wide distribution of tribunals, and by provision where necessary for their sitting in more than one place, to minimise the inconvenience to which men will be put in obtaining the disposition of their cases.

A Registrar will be appointed in each Province, who will be named in the proclamation and to whom enquiries may be addressed. Each Provincial Registrar will transmit to the appropriate tribunal the applications for exemption which have been submitted in advance of the sittings, and men who have sent these in will not be required to attend the tribunals until notified to do so. Other applicants should attend personally on the tribunal without notice.

How to report for service

Men who do not desire to claim exemption will report to the military authorities for service either by mail or in person at any time after the issue of the proclamation. Forms of report by mail will be found in all post offices, and, like applications for exemption, will be transmitted free of postage.

Early report advantageous

No man who reports for service will, although he may be medically examined and passed as fit, be required to go into camp or join a battalion until after a day fixed by the proclamation sufficiently late to permit of the disposition by the local tribunals of most, if not all, of the applications for exemption which may come before them. Thus no advantage will be gained by delaying or disadvantage incurred by prompt report for service on the part of those who do not intend to apply for exemption.

Facilities for immediate medical examination

Immediately upon the issue of the proclamation, medical boards will sit at every mobilization centre for the examination of men who report for service or who, subject to their right within the time limited to apply for exemption, desire to have their physical fitness determined in order to allay any doubt as to their physical condition, or to know definitely and in advance whether there is a possibility of their services being required. Certificates of physical unfitness issued by these Medical Boards will be accepted without any further investigation by exemption tribunals when they sit. Men found physically fit who have not reported for service may nevertheless apply for exemption on any of the prescribed grounds, including even their physical condition if dissatisfied with the Medical Board's conclusion.

Notice to join the colors

As reinforcements are required, notice to report at the nearest mobilization centre will be given from time to time to the men found liable and passed as fit for service. Disobedience of such notice will render the offender liable to punishment, but punishment for failure to report for military service, or to report subsequently for duty when called upon, will be imposed ordinarily by the civil magistrates; offenders, however, will remain liable for the performance of their military duties notwithstanding any civil punishment which may be imposed and will be liable to military punishment in cases in which civil proceedings are not taken.

Watch for the Proclamation

Notice of the day appointed for the making of a claim for exemption or for report for military service will be published as widely as possible, but, as no personal notice can be given until the individuals called out have so reported themselves or claimed exemption, men possibly concerned are warned to inform themselves with regard to the day fixed, since neglect may involve the loss by them of important privileges and rights.

OLD LANDMARK IS TAKEN DOWN

The famous "Golden Lion" which for nearly fifty years has been the trade mark of Mr. Robt. Fair's store was taken down this afternoon. Safety for the public necessitated the removal of the sign which made George street famous in the days of the late Thomas Bradburn.

J. J. Turner and Sons completed the removal of the old lion without mishap. The wood was crumbled with age and was in pieces when it reach the ground.

MISS ALLAN'S FAREWELL

Music lovers of Peterborough enjoyed a real treat last night in the vocal recital given by the city's most popular and most admired artist, Miss Dorothy Allan. The seating capacity of the Collegiate Hall was taxed to its limit with an appreciative and enthusiastic audience and many people were obliged to stand throughout the concert.

The occasion marked the farewell appearance of Miss Allan, who, through her beautiful voice and splendid personality, has won a warm place in the hearts of all of the people of this city who have been fortunate enough to hear her sing. She will long be remembered as Peterborough foremost, most talented and admired vocalist, and it is the desire and hope of many that the privilege to hear her again in the future will be granted. Miss Allan's voice was heard to splendid advantage in all of her numbers last evening and she proved herself to be an artist of real ability. She possesses excellent singing tone, splendid power and volume, wonderful expression and an admirable stage presence. The sympathy and feeling with which she rendered some of her numbers brought tears to the eyes of many of her listeners, and the ovations given her were well deserved, and an expression of the pleasure with which her songs were enjoyed. Many beautiful bouquets of flowers were presented to the singer.

Miss Allan's first number, "Robert toi qui j'aime," by Meyerbeer, was one of the features of the program. The beauty of voice was well displayed, and the exquisite tone quality and the ease and art shown in the rendering of this difficult number in French demonstrated that the singer not only possessed a fine voice but had been trained by a master musician.

"Oh, Virgin Rose," by Marshall, proved a most enjoyable contribution, and the rapturous melody of the song was indeed well brought out by Miss Allan's full and tuneful voice.

In "Break o' Day," by Sanderson, Miss Allan excelled herself, bringing out the brilliant and cheery passages in extraordinary fashion.

The second number of the program was contributed by Mr. Arthur Milton, who won himself a warm place in the hearts of his listeners. Mr. Milton has a fine bass voice of great range and quality, and his manner of expression proved highly pleasing. He was roundly applauded, and to say that his songs were much appreciated is putting it mildly.

"Blow, Blow, Thou Winter Wind," by Sargeant, was his first selection. The rage of the storm was vividly depicted in this song by Mr. Milton's robust and brilliant voice, and the ovation given him proved the appreciation of the audience.

"Bid Me Discourse," by Bishop, was one of Miss Allan's most appreciated numbers, and the soft lyric tones of her voice in this well-known classic were very pleasing. In "Jealousy," by Woodford-Finden, Miss Allen dipslayed strength and power as well as pathos and sympathy.

"Mountain Lovers," by Squire, proved an ideal selection for Mr. Milton, as did also "The Sailor's Grave." The latter was especially well rendered, Mr. Milton's voice being particularly adapted for the feeling in the song. He was roundly applauded for this number, and an encore selection was insisted upon.

The last group of songs contributed by Miss Allan were delivered with splendid charm and grace, each selection being well suited to her voice. "The Last Rose of Summer" thrilled the audience, and the expression of the lines was particularly clever. "The March of the Cameron Men" brought forth a hearty ovation, and Miss Allan responded with "Rule, Britannia" in her own inimitable style. With the singing of God Save the King this most enjoyable of musical recitals was brought to a close. The audience seemed reticent to leave, and would have been glad to have waited much longer to listen to many more numbers by the capable and talented artist.

The proceds of the musicale were donated to the St. Paul's choir Honor Roll fund. The program here follows:

No Need For New Senator Now

Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., sent the following telegram to The Review this afternoon:

Please contradict that rumor of a senatorship for me as likely to be offered immediately. While I understand the possibility it is quite likely that there will be no need for it in the event of a general election at any rate.

New Scale Williams Piano

Read what he says of this famous "Truly Canadian" Piano:

It affords me great pleasure to express my encomium of praise for the splendid qualities of the New Scale Williams Piano we are using on our Western Tour.

Possessed of brilliancy of tone ideal for the needs of a pianist, your instrument also embodies a lovely singing tone of velvety softness when needed, affording ideal support to my voice in both fortissimo and pianissimo passages.

I am observing its magnificent durability in the midst of constant moving in bitter cold weather, which it sustains constantly by keeping in perfect tune.

SWEDEN PLEADS "NOT GUILTY"

Says Government Had No Knowledge Of Despatches Sent By Huns

London, Sept. 11.—The Swedish legation broke silence in the issuance of a formal statement on the American revealations as to use of Swedish diplomatic messages by the Germans, as follows:

"It is quite unthinkable that the Swedish Government was officially cognizant of the alleged communications. It is equally improbable that the Foreign Minister was personally aware of the matter."

The Swedish Minister to England, Count Wrangel, returned to London early today in order to visit the Foreign Office and communicate with Stockholm.

KEEP VEGETABLES

The storing of vegetables is an economy for those who grow them in sufficient quantity for the needs of the family.

To care for the surplus vegetables in many cases requires nothing more than the use of existing facilities in or near the home.

When considerable quantities of vegetables are grown it is frequently advisable to construct permanent storage facilities in the form of a storage room in the basement of the dwelling or under an outbuilding, or to build an outdoor cellar of wood or masonry.

If permanent facilities are not available the root crops can be kept in outdoor pits or banks, requiring no cash outlay except for labor.

Cut this out now and save it.

IRON WORKERS ARE SUSPENDED BY FEDERATION

Clash Between Carpenters and Iron Men Over Pile Driving

The action of the Executive Council of the American Federation of Labor in suspending the structural iron workers from membership is causing comment in Toronto labor circles. At the last convention of the A. F. of L. there was a big fight on between the carpenters and the iron workers over the pile-driving work. The carpenters claimed that the driving of wooden piles was their work, while the iron workers claimed the same right. The adjustment committee of the A. F. of L., after hearing both sides for several days decided thtat the work properly belongs to the carpenters. This opinion was shared by the majority of the delegates at the convention. The iron workers were given 90 days to comply with the law. This they refused to do, hence their suspension. Now this order carries with it that local unions of the iron workers cannot be seated in the central bodies or at state federations in the U.S.A. It also means that the locals in Canada cannot be recognized by the Trades Congress of Canada.

WISE CHICKENS POINT THE WAY

Hundreds of Kansas wheat growers have made hundreds of dollars out of one flock of chickens. The chickens belonged to a Kansas farmer. He noticed during the spring that when these were turned out in the morning they made a bee line to a straw stack and engaged in vigorous scratching for several hours before leisurely returning to their yard. He investigated and found they were eating $2.50 wheat that careless threshing had left in the straw. He hunted up a threshing outfit and put the entire stack through the machine, getting 150 bushels of wheat that he sold for $425.

The publication of the story set every farmer in the grain belt to investigating his strawstacks, and in hundreds of instances there was found enough wheat to make it very profitable to thresh the straw over again. During the summer threshing outfits that ordinarily lie idle at that season have found profitable employment all that time re-threshing old straw on a contract that provided that each should take half the wheat recovered.

This wastefulness will not be repeated this summer in the threshing about to begin. Care in the operation of the thresher will get nearly every grain the first time the straw goes through. Only when the machine is fed too fast is there danger of wheat being missed. The Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture says that the reports received indicate that careless threshing methods have lost several millions of bushels to wheat growers each year.

STREET LIGHTS TO BE PLACED

Council Committee Fall In With Requests of Many Residents

The Fire, Water and Light Committee met last evening and dealt with a number of matters that had been referred to the members for attention.

Mr. A. Swartz whose goods were damaged when the hose of the street flushers broke, wrote the committee stating that the amount offered him in settlement of his claim, $47.28, was not enough and asking that the sum be raised to $60.55.

Some of the aldermen thought the amount originally offered was a fair settlement and on a motion the matter was referred to the City Solicitor.

The Peterborough Utilities Commission had advised the chairman that they would like to abolish all the direct current arc lamps and install an incandescent service instead. RUSSIANS CAN RESTORE ORDER

KORNILOFF'S ACT REGARDED AS TREASON BY THE GOVERNMENT.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Petrograd, Sept. 10.—Members of the Russian Cabinet today told the Associated Press that the Provisional Government regarded General Korniloff's pronounciament as an act of rebellion which must be ruthlessly oppressed. The Government, it was added, believed it had enonugh loyal troops and the support of Russian people to enable it to put down the Korniloff movement.

ANOTHER TRAITOR

Petrograd, Sept. 10.—An official statement says that General Lokomsky also proved a traitor by refusing to take command of the Russian armies in succession to General Korniloff. The soldiers and workmen, the statement adds, has ordered all the army organizations to obey the Provisional Government against the conspiracy.

Must Have Reason For Boosting Coal

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 11.— Coal dealers and the colliery companies of Vancouver received a sharp reminder Saturday that prices of coal may not be increased arbitrarily without very good reasons. Nicol Thompson, the Provincial representative of C. A. MacGrath, Dominion Fuel Controller, received and made public a letter from Mr. MacGrath, in which the latter said:

"Coal prices have with some of your dealers gone up 50 cents a ton. It seems to me that those responsible for this increase, knowing there is a fuel controller, should have first taken the matter up with him, submitting evidence as to justification for such increase before making it. I must emphatically object to such action and would appreciate your quickly getting all the facts in order to determine if the increase is to be permitted to remain. You are at liberty to make any use you wish of this message."

Many Vancouver coal dealers have raised coal prices and some are selling at $8.50 a ton. Others put the price up to $9.00.

AUTOIST FINED $10 AND COSTS

At the Police Court yesterday a case of considerable interest to the auto owners was heard by the Magistrate. Timothy J. Collins was charged with reckless driving and it was incidentally brought out that his recklessness caused him to run into another motor car driven by Mrs. Nicholls. The accident occurred at the corner of Charlotte and Stewart street and Collins ran into Mrs Nicholls' car when she was turning south on Stewart street. Mrs. Nicholls had the right of way as Collins is said to have been at Dr. Neal's when Mrs. Nicholls made the turn.

Mr. F. D. Kerr who appeared for Collins put up a strong plea for his client but the Magistrate decided that the defendant was guilty of reckless driving and imposed a fine of $10.00 and $12.60 costs.

THE DOG PLAYED NO FAVORITES

Dog culture and the training of canines for various purposes has long been advocated by many people. Dogs have been used as messengers, medical reliefs, and so forth, but not until recently have their actions ever reflected on a sporting event.

At the recent women's western golf championship at Flossmoor a new use of the dog was discovered. To be sure, it was a mean, despicable, unsportsmanlike and everything else sort of use, but at the same time the principals of the action had no hand in the episode.

It happened when Miss Marjorie Edwards of Midlothian played Mrs. J. Worley of Aurora. The dog in question was a young collie, a playfull little thing much petted by the ladies. That collie had the time of its young life gamboling about on the links all week, being hit by golf balls and being chased by domestics affiliated with the menial duties about the club. Getting tired of local surroundings at last, the purp became ventnresome ond advanced into the previously unknown regions of the twelfth fairway. There Miss Edwards and Mrs. Worley were pursuing their balls in conflict, each intent on ending the competitive spirit rampant in the other. Miss Edwards' approach trickled up toward the green. With a squeal of joy the dog bounded at the gutty, grabbed it in his mouth, and was off, gyrating in mad circles, endeavoring in some way to connect the white sphere with the extremity of his tail. Miss Louise Fergus of Glen View, standing on the twelfth green, viewed with horror the unseemly action of the pup and frantically called to hm to drop the ball. The dog did not seem to understand just what Miss Fergus meant, but so commanding was her tone that he trotted obediently over to the lady and laid the ball repentantly at her feet on the gree.

Miss Edwards thought this action was the cutest thing, but Mrs. Worley was unable to see the joke, and was further provoked when on the thirteenth hole, after a particularly good shot just off the green, Mr. Pup happened along again, scooped up her ball this time and, with the evident intention of showing no partiality, trotted off ond dropped the pellet behind a trap, giving the Aurora player a difficult lie. Subsequent investigation was unable to prove that Miss Edwards was owner of the dog.

The ball had to be played from where it was deposited both times, due to the fact that the dog was an outside agency and that both balls were in motion at the time when interfered with. There is a new field open for any professional who is kind-hearted and would like to train dogs. No club can afford to be without one.

Little Basil was allowed to sit up to the table with his fond mamma on the occasion of a little luncheon party. His manners were generally very pretty, and mamma was horrified when she caught the child stuffing his food into his mouth with his knife.

"Basil," she cried reprovingly—"Basil, where's your fork? You ought to use your fork!"

"I know, mamma," said Basil plaintively; "but this one leaks awfully."

Wit and Wisdom

Sarcasm.

"You'll simply have to take what we've got," she said to the man her husband had unexpectedly brought home to dinner.

"That's all right," said the man. "Ever since we've been married I've been trying to convince Jim that this is just our home, not a delicatessen store."

The Attraction.

Small Boy (proudly)—My sister's in the movies.

Ditto Girl (scornfully)—Huh, my ma's there all the time.

He'd Be Too Polite.

"What dirty hands you have, Johnny," said the teacher. "What would you say if I came to school that way?"

"I wouldn't say nothing," replied Johnny. "I'd be too polite."

The Boy's Clever.

Teacher — Willie, who was that who prompted you? I distinctly heard someone whisper that date.

Willie — Excuse me, miss, but I expect that it was history repeating itself again.

He Is Willing.

A tramp asked a gentleman for a few pence to buy some bread.

"Can't you go into any business that is more profitable than this?" he was asked.

"I'd like to open a bank, if I could only get the tools," answered the tramp.

The Ambitious Bride.

Bill — Hello! Home from your honeymoon trip already?

Gill—Oh, yes.

"Rather short, wasn't it?"

"Oh, yes. My new wife seemed rather anxious to get home and try her cooking on me."

Local Pride.

"What is the name of this street?"

"This is Broadway," replied the proud citizen of Dubbsville.

"Ah! Named in honor of the famous thoroughfare, I presume?"

"Why, sir, this is the famous thoroughfare!"

Neither.

Jones—Say! When a fellow calls on a girl, should he leave his hat in the hall or take it into the parlor?

Mudge—Well, if the girl is living in a boarding house, and the hat is worth anything, I think he had better hang on to it.

A Present.

Mrs. Stigy—Dear, the baby has swallowed a penny. What on earth shall I do?

Mr. Stingy—Oh, well, let him have it. Next Thursday is his birthday, anyway.

"She can never remember anything," said he. "It's awful."

"My wife was just as bad," said Brown, "till I found out a capital recipe."

"What is it?" asked Jones, eagerly.

"Why," said Brown, "whenever there's anything particular I want the missus to remember I write it on a slip of paper and gum it on the looking glass."

Jones is now a contented man.

A LAST CHANCE FOR HARVESTERS

Owing to the unprecedented need of farm laborers in Western Canada and the lateness of the harvest, arrangements have been made by the Canadian Northern Railway for an additional excursion on Sept. 10 and Sept. 12th from all points west of and including Ottawa, Ont., at the rate of $12.00 to Winnipeg, plus half a cent per mile beyond. This will be positively the last opportunity of taking advantage of a reduced fare to the West where high wages and every prospect of three months' work prevail. For tickets and all information, apply to Thos. Mark, town agent, or General Passenger Department, C.N.R., Toronto, Ont.

MARKET NOTES

Advances have been recorded on jams, baking powder, lobsters, tapioca and sago, herbs, sulphur, tobacco, tomato soups. A decline was recorded on porridge wheat, which comes as a welcome change in the steadily upward trend of the market. Manitoba flour was another commodity in which a decline was registered, a clean drop of $1 a barrel taking place. This was induced by reason of a 20c decline in wheat. Apparently, through inspired sources, the idea has gained currency that the price to be established for Manitoba wheat is to be $2.20 per bushel. And prices in the market forthwith dropped to that level before the official announcement has been made. Sugar is in weak market, due to the establishment of a lower price in the United States for best sugar. Declines are looked for in the Canadian market. Business with the grocery trade is reported very good.—Canadian Grocer.

The schoolmaster was trying to make conversation with the new pupil to put him at his ease and asked him, among other things, what was his favorite poem.

"'Excelsior,'" was the response. "I recite it every time we have company."

"Does your father ask you to do it?"

"Yes, sir," said the boy. "He says he thinks it keeps us from having much company."

"You are exquisite," he raved. "Your eyes are lustrous, your complexion divine. Do you think you could be contented as a poor man's wife?"

"No," replied the girl, frankly. "I'm pretty enough for the movies if I'm as pretty as that."

Vision Your Sons, Mothers of Canada!

Vision them at early morning when through rising mists, there bursts a hurricane of fire---

See your valiant boys --- calm, grim, but cheerful --- "stand-to-arms" until the Hun's "morning hate" dies away.

Picture them at breakfast, the meal that must bring them the bodily sustenance to carry them through the strain of another day.

Then think of what might happen if, one morning, there was no breakfast---no food to be had, and the word went down the lines that Canada had failed them.

Vision all these things, and then—As Women of Canada—Mothers of Men—Answer this Call to Service.

Canada must send to Her Own, and to the Allies Fighting Forces, more wheat, more beef, more bacon, and more of such other foods as are non-perishable and easily exported.

Canada can do this, without depriving her own population of a fair share of any of these foods if You Women will but help.

All we ask of you is, that instead of buying so much white flour (if you do your own baking) you vary your baking by using one-third oatmeal, corn, barley or rye flour. Or, if you buy your bread, that you order a certain proportion of brown bread each day.

Second, instead of using as much beef and bacon as formerly, you vary your family's diet, by substituting for beef and bacon such equally nutritious foods as fish, peas, lentils, potatoes, nuts, bananas, etc.

Third, and this is most important—positively prevent the waste of a single ounce of food in your household.

They Must Be Fed

Statistics show that, everyday, in Canada, sufficient food is thrown into garbage cans, to feed the entire Canadian Overseas Army.

Travellers have often remarked that many a European family would live well upon the quantity and quality of food wasted in some Canadian homes.

Such waste is shameful at any time; but in these times it is criminal.

Our only hope is that with these truths before you, and in view of the vital issues at stake, we may count upon your earnest co-operation in stopping this appalling waste; and in substituting other foods for the wheat, beef and bacon that must be sent overseas.

Next week a Food Service Pledge and Window Card will be delivered to you. The Pledge is your Dedication to War Service. The Window Card your Emblem of Honour.

Woman's Auxiliary, Organization of Resources Committee, In Co-operation with The Hon. W. J. Hanna, Food Controller.

CIVIL WAR BREAKS OUT RUSSIA

TWO MORE GENERALS JOIN THE STANDARD OF RUSSIAN REBEL

Kerensky Appoints New Commander-in-Chief of Army---Korniloff Says He Has no Ambition but to Save His Nation from German Foe.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Petrograd, Sept. 12. — Generals Denikine and Valuyoff, commanding the southwest and western fronts respectively, have joined General Korniloff, according to an announcement in the Petrograd newspapers given out by a semi-official news agency. Major General Bonchbrupovitch has been appointed commander in chief of the Russian army in succession to General Korniloff.

No Personal Ambition

In two manifestos published here General Korniloff disclaims all personal ambitions but declares he is anxious only for the salvation of mighty Russia from its traditional foe, the German race. He swears to lead the nation on the road to victory and asks the people to flock to the temple and pray to God to perform the miracle of saving the fatherland. Korniloff places blame for his rupture with the Government on Premier Kerensky whom he denounces for the incapable government, weakness and indecision.

Kerensky In Command

Petrograd, Sept. 12.—Premier Kerensky will assume the position of Commander in Chief of all the Russian armies until the Korniloff revolt is crushed.

Vice President Nekrasoff in an interview today says the political situation is entirely favorable to the Government.

Judge Huycke Makes His Nomination For Members of Military Tribunals---Two to Serve in City and Nine in County.

Judge Huycke has selected and forwarded to Ottawa the names of the members of the Exemption Board in Peterborough County, the boards that will dispose of all claims for exemption under the military service act. There will be eleven such boards, two in the city and nine in the county, at the places mentioned below. Another member of each Board will be nominated by the non-partisan committee selected by Premier Borden and Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Judge Huycke in his selections acted on the instruction of the Department to name men from the various districts instead of appointing a number from the city or any other particular locality. A glance at the names below is all that is required to convince anyone that the men named are worthy of the high trust that has been committed to them.

Of the local men Mr. Bradburn has a son at the front. Mr. Aylmer is chairman of the Speakers Patriotic League and ever since the breaking out of the war has been an active worker in the cause, a leader in all patriotic duties and generous in the matter of contributions.

The names of those chosen with the centre at which each will serve are as follows:

Conflict Has Come at Last in Russia

Government Troops Give Battle to Korniloff's Troops Advancing on Petrograd and Latter Are Worsted.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Petrograd, Sept. 12. — Within thirty miles of this city Korniloff's advance guards have clashed with Kerensky's government troops, and the present reports are that after hand-to-hand fighting the government soldiers drove off the Korniloff forces with heavy losses.

The government today declared Moscow in a state of war. Grand Duke Michael Alexandrovitch, brother of the deposed Czar, who was named as regent when Nicholas abdicated, was today placed in close arrest with other relatives of royalty. He has been under surveillance since last week in connection with the discovery of the counter-revolutionary plot.

REV. J. R. PATTERSON TALKS ON FOOD CONSERVATION

Interesting Meeting Held Last Evening in Collegiate Hall---Ladies Take Part in Discussing Problem That so Nearly Concerns Them.

Rev. J. R. Patterson, pastor of the Simpson Avenue Methodist Church in Toronto, a former chaplain in the 83rd Battalion and well known as a patriotic worker, delivered an instructive and entertaining address in Collegiate Hall last night on the food problem. The meeting was held under the auspices of the Auxiliary of the Resources Committee and Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., a member of the committee appointed by the Legislature, presided and explained the object of the gathering before introducing the speaker of the evening.

Mr. Patterson said that five lines of defences are required to win the war, the men who carry the guns, the men in the navy, the producers of food, the munition makers and other workers and the housekeepers. What is needed is sacrifice and discipline such as the Germans are making and are forced to submit to. He went fully into the work that the women of the country are being called upon to do and encouraged them to persevere in the canvas which is to be inaugurated, when pledges will be circulated to secure the co-operation of every woman in the city.

An Interesting Discussion.

The address lasted nearly an hour and was interesting throughout. It contained valuable suggestions and was lighted up with brilliant flashes of wit that kept the audience in good humor. An interesting discussion followed, lasting as long as the speech of the evening itself.

Mr. E. E. Ingall started the discussion by aluding to the recommended use of corn bread. The Americans have a corner on the supply of corn, and he asked if anything was being done to facilitate the importation of that grain. He was told that the duty on corn would probably be removed.

Dr. Harvey called attention to the danger attending a sudden change of diet and stated that the chemically-prepared foods used in Germany were playing havoc with the nation's digestion.

Mr. Patterson assured the audience that there was little danger of Canada ever being reduced to a diet of such foods.

Mrs. W. R. Morris explained clearly that all the Food Controller asked for was a saving of 25 per cent. in the use of white flour, beef and bacon. No real sacrifice was entailed in such a menu. The audience were asked to look for the advertisements that will appear in the daily papers four times a week and which will explain the food question clearly.

"Why," asked Mrs. Peter Campbell, "does the Food Controller permit the use of ice cream, when the cream is needed to make cheese for export?"

This was a poser for a time, but later Mr. Gillespie maintained that ice cream is a valuable food in itself.

Mr. J. A. Aylmer and Rev. W. L. H. Rowand took part in the discussion, the latter saying that the educational value of the campaign was a recommendation in itself.

Teach Children Thrift.

Mrs. James Kendry said that thrift should be taught in the schools, the children to be instructed as to what it meant if they wasted even the crusts of their bread. It was stated that the local auxiliary have already made such a recommendation to the Department, and action is expected.

One of the ladies present voiced the general sentiment when she stated that the great trouble in the campaign for economy in the use of food was not the opposition of the women but of the men, who would insist on full rations.

A vote of thanks, moved by Mr. Ingall and Dr Harvey, was tendered Mr. Patterson, and the gathering broke up after singing the National Anthem.

TEN MORE CARLOADS OF COAL TO BE PURCHASED BY THE CITY

Fuel Will be Stored to Provide Against Shortage in Winter Months, For Benefit of the Small Consumers.

The conference of the coal dealers of the city and the Mayor and Aldermen brought out some interesting information last night. The dealers were represented by Mr. Robt Hicks, Mr. H. Taylor and Mr. A. Low.

The dealers seemed to be anxious that the council should store some coal and attend to some of the orders of the smaller users or those who cannot afford to put in a large supply at one time, and have this supply on hand in the winter months when the shortage most likely will occur.

All of the dealers stated that they were not accepting orders but were trying to see that their customers were served.

Mr. Hicks did not like the idea that the city should deliver off the cars in competition with the dealers. He did not understand that it was the original intention of the city to do this. He always thought the idea was to store coal for an emergency. He thought that the city was putting a too low price on the coal if delivery was to be made in small lots.

After a discussion of the subject which lasted over an hour the Fire Water and Light Committee met and passed a resolution instructing the ordering of ten further cars of coal, principally nut and stove.

The matter of purchasing coal bags was left with the Chairman and the Chairman of the Finance Committee with power to act.

Ald. Smith and McIntyre both stated that they were unable to get coal for their own use and Mayor Duffus stated that he only got his in the day previous.

Ald. Dobbin informed the committee that the orders on hand amounted to 300 tons, but they would have amounted to double that if the city had continued to accept the orders and money.

During the discussion Mayor Duffus was informed by Mr. Hicks that there was a shortage of wood around Peterboro as compared with other years. It was the opinion of the members that a good emergency supply of coal will be placed in the Rehill sheds for the winter months.

GERMAN TROOPS ARE AGAIN DRIVEN BACK WITH HEAVY LOSSES

Failed in Attack Launched Against British This Morning---French Break Through To Third Line of Hun Defence and Make Clean Sweep of Enemy.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 12—German troops this morning attacked the British trenches east of Hargicourt, Field Marshal Haig reported today from British headquarters in France. NOW IS THE TIME TO JOIN THE CONTEST

Most Votes Are Given During the First Period---The Capital Prize Car May Now be Seen at Manning's Garage---A Fine Reward For Someone.

Yesterday was a banner day for nominations, more being received than during any other day since the contest was announced. While the contest opened last Saturday, the nominations did not close then. Opportunity will be presented for people to enter the contest at any time. The early subscriptions count the most votes, so those who start to work at once will have an advantage over the later nominees.

Nominate a Friend

Readers of the Review who do not intend to engage actively in the campaign, may confer a favor on friends by placing them in nomination. Among the acquaintances of nearly everyone there is some particular person especially qualified for a contest of this kind. The Review wants this kind of people in its contest.

It requires only a little energy and determination to make a winning candidate. Many start in with the qualifications, but lose them after a short while. It is those who have in their energy and determination to stick out the race who will win the valuable prizes.

An Important Point

One lady came to the contest office yesterday and asked for five receipt books. "Five," said the contest manager. "and what are you going to do with five receipt books?" The candidate said that she had figured out that the prizes would be won by those who worked hardest at the beginning of the contest and she wanted to give the books to friends so that they could help her.

THE NEW CAR

The Review's Prize Car —A $1235 Baby Grand Chevrolet arrived in the city last night. It can be seen now at the Manning Garage and during the Exhibition it will be displayed at the grounds. The car is a beauty in every respect. Don't fail to see it,

This candidate had figured wisely and others will do well to bear in mind that early subscriptions count the most votes. And also that friends should be urged to take receipt books and assist in securing subscriptions.

Report Often

Candidates are urged to report their subscriptions every day. The subscriber will be anxious to receive his paper and the sooner you report the earlier his name will be added to the list. Then, too, the subscriber will be anxious to save his coupons for you and to follow your success in the great contest.

Do you wish to know how to win the valuable prizes in the Review's great voting contest?

Of course you intend to enter the race, or give hearty support to one of your friends.

If you belong to the first division, if you have resolved to engage in the friendly competition for the best prize ever offered in this section of the state you will naturally plan your campaign in advance.

Perhaps the Review may be able to assist you with a few words of counsel. There are some things which you cannot afford to overlook, whether you are young or old.

First there is no virtue in any undertaking which counts for more than "promptness."

"Do It Now" has won many a battle—and it is the best motto for a voting contest, or for any other campaign, excepting the motto, "Do It Right."

Delays are always dangerous to any undertaking. The man who delays his start in any race handicaps himself just to the extent of the delay.

The vote standing will be published again on Friday. Now is the time to boost for your favorite candidate.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH WEDNESDAY, SEPT. 12, 1917

MUST DEFEAT LAURIER.

"There would have been a coalition Government to sponsor the Act and carry on the war, but for the fact that Sir Wilfrid would not give his personal support to compulsory service. He is unprepared to say that even if, after an extended further trial of voluntarism, it should fail, he would be prepared to support the raising of reinforcements by selective draft.

"This, of course, puts Sir Wilfrid Laurier wholly out of touch with the people of Canada from whose homes men have gone to risk life and all they have and are in this war.

"They cannot support him in this attitude. And because of the kind of support that this attitude will draw to him, they must oppose him and compass the defeat of the forces that will gather behind him.

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier, like many others, appears to have the view that his is a private war in which anybody may quite properly decide for himself whether he will take part or remain neutral. It will scarcely do to entrust the government of the country in the midst of a war to men committed to such a view as this. Those who do not regard this as a private war in which only those need engage who choose to do so, but who maintain that Canada is at war and that the nation should act accordingly and call upon all men to perform their duty and elect representatives that will carry out that policy."—Montreal Star.

LAST NIGHT'S FOOD MEETING.

THE FOOD QUESTION in all its aspects was fully debated at the meeting in the Collegiate Institute Hall last night when Rev. J. R. Patterson of Toronto delivered an admirable and entertaining lecture on the subject of economy in the kitchen. The whole spirit of the address and the subsequent discussion was a protest against waste, and the educational value of the discussion is not to be over-estimated. The facts brought out are worthy of consideration, even in the time of peace. Waste is reprehensible at any time, and a campaign in favor of economy is always in order.

There are, however, many ramifications in the food question. A discussion on a single phase opens an avenue that leads to half a dozen others. It is impossible to have the cake and eat it, too. Saving in one item may simply diminish the supply to that extent without increasing it in another.

It is barely possible, too, that in some cases the public are needlessly alarmed and that they are nursing imaginary grievances against the powers that be. As an illustration, one of the men at the meeting last night, speaking of the use of corn bread, stated that the United States had a corner on the supply of corn, and asked if anything was being done by the Food Controller to facilitate the shipping of corn to this country. He was told that the duty on corn would be removed, that at least it should be.

The fact in this case is that there is no duty on corn. Any required for food for man or beast in Canada is admitted free to this country, a vastly different arrangement from that in force in the early days of the National Policy, when the distiller could get all the corn he wanted for the making of whiskey, duty free, while the farmer who wanted the grain to feed his stock was forced to pay a tax. There is nothing further that Mr. Hanna can do in this regard to encourage the use of corn instead of wheat in bread-making.

Everyone who has given the matter thought recognizes the fact that the countries at war are threatened with a shortage of food. This is due, not to any scarcity in Canada or in the world for that matter, but to the lack of shipping facilities. Canada has just reaped the most bountiful harvest in the country's history, and it has been saved in Ontario with comparatively little loss. The granaries of Russia are bursting with wheat, and the same is true of Argentine and other wheat producing nations. To get the supply where it is so urgently needed now is the problem.

The whole tenor of the teachings of the Food Controller is that we in Canada eat perishable food in order to save the rest for the Allies. The only way the supply can be conserved while awaiting a chance to ship it is by cold storage. That being the case, there is no justification for assailing the cold storage men as robbers, when all that they are doing is to help out with the general scheme of food distribution.

"Conserve the calves" is an alliterative slogan that has been born of the present campaign. It sounds all right on the face of it. But the farmer who sends his milk to the cheese factory or who sells it in the city cannot raise calves. Milk for that purpose is required. It all resolves itself into a question as to whether it is more advisable to make cheese or beef, to give milk to human beings or to animals as food, whether it is the part of wisdom to raise calves rather than children.

The only farmer who can raise all the calves born on his estate is the one who sends only his cream to market, and the number of such farmers is limited. Again, we are confronted with the question of supply and demand that crops up at every stage of the discussion.

Under present conditions it seems hardly necessary to do anything to promote the cheese industry. The warehouses of Canada are already filled to capacity with cheese ready for shipment when the facilities are available.

The public should not lose sight of the fact that the sending of so much food abroad lessens the home supply and so tends to raise prices. The result is inevitable. The campaign in which the men and women of Canada are engaged is a worthy one, but it calls for sacrifices that no power on earth, be that power a food controller or any other dignitary, can possibly avert.

WHEN CLOSURE IS NEEDED.

TO LIKEN the application of closure in Parliament to the barbarous methods of the Huns, as some papers do, is the veriest twaddle. Closure is designed to limit debate so as to keep an otherwise helpless opposition from defeating the will of the majority by talking a measure to death. The Opposition at Ottawa had only one hope of defeating the new Franchise Act. It could, by obstruction, by a dreary use of words, so prolong the discussion that the life of Parliament would come to an end before a vote was reached, and the bill would die a natural death.

It is nothing unusual for deliberative bodies to set a time limit on the debate on an important public question. This action is invariably followed in the United States, that greatest of all democracies, where freedom of speech is supposed to prevail to the utmost. In the American Congress, when a public matter of more than usual interest is before the members, the committee on rules set a time limit on the speeches. On that committee the party in power have control, so that anything they may decree is really the will of the majority, to which the minority must submit, something the irrepressibles at Ottawa refuse to do. Majority rule should prevail in Parliament just as it does in an election, at least until the entire system is changed.

Closure is designed to prevent filibustering and to save the time of the country. The men in the trenches are in need of assistance, which cannot be extended while a faction at home persists in talking against time for no other object than party advantage. Any man in a specified period should be able to declare himself on any question. No new light is shed by the reading of dry reports for the purpose of attempting to weary the other side into surrender.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

THE GREAT virtue of the Franchise Bill is that it will prevent the election of an anti-war party.

• • •

AN EMERGENCY supply of coal in the city sheds will be as comforting as a balance in the bank.

• • •

THERE IS no politics in the Children's Aid Society. Faithful public service is always recognized.

• • •

IN SOME public bodies in the city there is a gratifying absence of men attempting to make stepping stones of others to reach places higher up.

• • •

PERHAPS, after all, the German autocracy do want peace. They are beginning to talk as if they had at last realized that some one has blundered.

• • •

THESE ARE trying times, certainly, not only for the men in the trenches, but for the women in the kitchen.

• • •

EVEN IF the American soldiers are given to the use of tobacco in every form, Liberty welcomes them to her aid, being no prude.

• • •

LET THE LIBERALS at Ottawa calmly reflect how many offences they have committed in the name of free speech and they should welcome closure as a measure of salvation.

• • •

THE VOICE may appear to come from the lay figure, but those who are turning the crank are carefully concealed. (Some of the aldermen will see the point.)

• • •

"IT TAKES MONEY to win an election," sadly remarks our contemporary. It does. It always did and will, as the prospective candidate with $40,000 already in the pot, will be ready to admit.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Successful Concealment.
(Ottawa Journal-Press.)

A Buffalo paper thinks even the most highly seasoned politicians of Canada must have a feeling of humiliation as they think of the "angry, bitter, vitriperative political campaign" they have stirred up when the whole world is admiring the work of the Canadian troops. Some of the highly seasoned ones may feel like it, but they never show it.

Strong Medicine Needed.
(Detroit News.)

Russia needs a terrific blow to unify her in the conviction that fighting kaiserism is as noble a work as overthrowing czarism. She needs to learn that if her new-born liberty is to live, Kaiserism must die. Perhaps Riga's fall may convince her, perhaps she will need the supreme humiliation of victorious Uhlans riding down the Nevsky Prospect in Petrograd to weld her jangling doctrinaires into a unit of resistance to the enemy knocking at her gates.

What is More Important.
(Toronto Globe.)

The Winnipeg Free Press says that two western cabinet ministers have definitely refused to enter a union government for reasons apparently satisfactory to themselves. But their reasons may not be satisfactory to the country.

The Root of the Evil.
(Buffalo Express.)

One Washington correspondent hears that elimination of the Hohenzollern dynasty is not a part of the president's ideas of the essential conditions of peace. If not, it should be. There is no use in stopping wtih half-way measures.

A Rising Young Artist.
(Middleport, Mich., Gazette.)

A delightful tea social was given Friday evening at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Mansell, our talented harness maker, and a pleasant evening was had. Miss Jennie, the accomplished daughter of the house, who studied music by correspondence for a number of years, played quite a number of melodies as mother poured the tea.

Dairymen to Meet

SOME THOUGHTS ON READING

(By F.M.D.)

A library has been likened by more than one writer to a cemetery, wherein lie buried in hopeless oblivion the labours of countless thousands of the thinking men and women of past centuries. And there really is something very saddening in the thought that from the output of the world's best writers so small a modicum survives the storm and stress of time. We may glance along the shelves of any library and find the same tale unfolded, that what the great public yearns for is not the wisdom of ancient or modern philosophers, not the researches of travellers or scientists, but the works of present-day writers of fiction. No amount of suasion will turn people from their quest. Wilfully or otherwise, they refuse to grasp the salient fact that they can find in other branches of literature reading matter that is quite as interesting, quite as entertaining, and ten times more helpful than the best novel that was ever penned.

Why Fiction is Popular.

The reason for this lamentable state of affairs is, of course, easy to explain. If there is one thing more than another, that men and women are interested in, it is the doings of their neighbors. Fiction provides a mental picturization of human character and for this reason more than for any other readers clamour for it. The inhabitants of this city are probably just as good as the inhabitants of any other city, possessed of just as high ideals and capable of climbing to as lofty heights of intellectual culture, but something certainly needs to be done to show them the folly of spending so much time in the reading of ephemeral literature.

How such a feat is to be accomplished it would be hard to determine, but when one can point with unerring finger at the cause surely the better nature of those with whom the remedy lies should provide the cure. For adults the cure lies with themselves, for children the cure lies with their parents. Putting on one side the needs of tired workers, of which class Peterborough has assuredly its fair quantum, there are hundreds of others, with no claim to be placed in the same category, who indulge in fiction to the utter exclusion of any other form of reading. They never dream of engaging in anything else, and would laugh to scorn the statement that there is no surer method of reducing the brain to a fallow condition than persistence in such a course.

A Word for the Young.

I have been writing heretofore of adults, but a word or two is needed in regard to those of tender years. Many of the boys and girls who come to our library carry away with them books that cannot but be helpful to them in the acquisition of knowledge. The percentage of those who systematically indulge in nothing but fiction is small. The Public Library is undoubtedly the place for the young and the more they throng to it the better the library authorities are pleased. The pity lies in the fact that so many who might embrace the opportunity of using its privileges do not take advantage of it. The reason for this is also not far to seek. It lies in the criminal neglect of the parents who seem to think they have done all that parental responsibility calls for in seeing that their children go regularly to school. As to their obligations in respect to proper home training they have no regard whatever, and the result is seen in the throngs of young girls and boys who perambulate the streets at night or loiter around the doors of the moving-picture theatres waiting for some kindly-disposed person to hand in their fares for them. The schools are doing all they can to turn the thoughts of children in the right direction, but they cannot perform miracles. Teachers cannot exercise supervision over their pupils after school hours. This is entirely within the province of the parents and unfortunately, there are many who seem totally unmindful of the obligation that rests upon them.

Intellectual Rotation.

A few words more in regard to the reading of fiction and this article will close. Nobody but a fool would contend that the reading of novels is altogether harmful. On the contrary, the reading of good fiction is a very excellent thing. It informs the mind and tends to inculcate good manners. But the reading of fiction to the exclusion of every other form of literature is to be absolutely condemned. Philosophy, Biography, History, Travel, Literature, the Fine Arts, Useful Arts, Nature Science, these are the studies that broaden the mind and strengthen it; these are the rotations of crops that tend to produce fruitful harvests. For, it is much the same with human brains as with the fields. We all know that a constant succession of wheat or barley or oat crops impoverishes the most fertile lands. Surely he or she is a wise man or woman who applies the same methods to the mind as the sensible farmer does to his fields.

EDITOR'S MAIL

ANOTHER DOG LOVER

Editor Review—I read a letter in your evening paper signed "Down with the Dog", and later another in reply from a "Dog Lover." I know neither of the writers, but I would certainly prefer the friendship of the "Dog Lover" to that of the other man.

There can be no greater punishment to an active dog than confinement by a chain in a limited space. Lack of sufficient exercise brings on disease and usually ends by making the dog sick, sullen or vicious.

Like all animals, dogs know much more than they are believed to know by anybody except those who love and understand them, and feel their treatment, whether kind or harsh, much more keenly than most people think.

I would ask you, dear sir, to reproduce the following eulogy on the dog by Senator Vest. It is not only a worthy tribute to our dumb friend, but one of the most touching and beautifully phrased addresses I have ever read. Trusting the poor dogs may soon have their liberty. Yours

DOG LOVER NO. 2.

Senator Vest's Eulogy on the Dog

"Gentlemen of the Jury: The best friend a man has in this world may turn against him and become his enemy. His son and daughter that he has reared with loving care may become ungrateful. Those who are nearest and dearest to us, those whom we trust with our happiness and our good name, may become traitors to their faith. The money that a man has he may lose. It flies away from him when he may need it most. Man's reputation may be sacrificed in a moment of ill considered action. The people who are prone to fall on their knees and do us honor when success is with us may be the first to throw the stone of malice when failure settles its cloud upon our heads. The one absolutely unselfish friend a man may have in this selfish world, the one that never deserts him, the one that never proves ungrateful or treacherous, is the dog.

"Gentlemen of the Jury: A man's dog stands by him in prosperity and poverty, in health and in sickness. He will sleep on the cold ground, when the wintry winds blow and the snow drives fiercely, if only he may be near his master's side. He will kiss the hand that has no food to offer, he will lick the wounds and sores that come in encounter with the roughness of the world. He guards the sleep of his pauper master as if he were a prince.

"When all other friends desert, he remains. When riches take wings and reputation falls to pieces he is as constant in his love as the sun in its journey through the heavens. If fortune drives the master forth an outcast into the world, friendless and homeless, the faithful dog asks no higher privilege than that of accompanying him, to guard him against danger, to fight against his enemies, and when the last scene of all comes and death takes his master in its embrace and his body is laid away in the cold ground, no matter if all other friends pursue their way, there by his graveside will the noble dog be found, his head between his paws and his eyes sad, but open in alert watchfulness, faithful and true even to death."

AFTER SIX YEARS OF SUFFERING

Woman Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Columbus, Ohio.—"I had almost given up. I had been sick for six years with female troubles and nervousness. I had a pain in my right side and could not eat anything without hurting my stomach. I could not drink cold water at all nor eat any kind of raw fruit, nor fresh meat nor chicken. From 178 pounds I went to 118 and would get so weak at times that I fell over. I began to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and ten days later I could eat and it did not hurt my stomach. I have taken the medicine ever since and I feel like a new woman. I now weigh 127 pounds so you can see what it has done for me already. My husband says he knows your medicine has saved my life."—Mrs. J. S. BARLOW, 1624 South 4th St., Columbus, Ohio.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound contains just the virtues of roots and herbs needed to restore health and strength to the weakened organs of the body. That is why Mrs. Barlow, a chronic invalid, recovered so completely.

It pays for women suffering from any female ailments to insist upon having Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

VOTE FOR YOUR FATORITE

The fact that a name appears in the list of nominees does not necessarily imply that the person is an active candidate in the contest. It is the duty and purpose of the contest department to announce the nominations that have been made. In many instances people have been nominated by friends who hope to see them win the race for the Great Prizes. Many of these nominees will engage in the contest actively, while others will remain "in the hands of their friends."

It is the right of the patrons of The Review to decide who shall win. It is within the province of the subscribers to vote for anyone, and these votes will be credited as ordered, without regard to such person as an active candidate or not. The public will do the voting, and the judges will decide who are the winners at the close of the contest.

For the purposes of the contest, any person who has been voted for is a candidate in the contest. The votes will stand as credited to the end of the contest. They are not transferable and they are not subject to cancellation except for reasons of irregularity.

The vote standing today shows that many people have divided the votes up to the present. Votes have been issued on all subscription payments made at The Review office since the opening of the contest, in many instances by subscribers who paid in person. These votes have been credited in every instance according to the wishes of the subscribers, and this practice will be followed throughout the contest. Several people have been voted for in this way, although they have not sent in any subscriptions themselves.

A very few subscriptions separate the leading candidates.

ROOM FOR MORE CANDIDATES.

The contest is only just starting. There are many who would enter the race today if they realized that the chances of victory are as good as the contest office knows them to be.

You should enter the contest today. Send in your name. Send for a receipt book. Call at the contest office and talk it over.

DEALERS ARE WARNED NOT TO RAISE PRICE OF COAL

Fuel Controller McGrath Says That Only Moderate Profits Will be Allowed---Will Act in no Uncertain Manner.

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—C. A. Magrath, Canadian fuel controller, has issued the following warning:

"The coal dealers, I am sure, understand they are not to increase prices without first making representations to me as to the grounds on which they would justify such a step. The Department of Labor is keeping in touch with the coal situation so far as prices are concerned, and if any evidence is received as to what might be regarded as improper charges, it will be promptly communicated to me, and I shall act in no uncertain manner."

Deal Fairly

"I wish to say," added Mr. Magrath, "that I have every confidence in the desire of the coal dealers of Canada to deal fairly with their customers, and particularly those of small means."

Ordinarily prices of coal advance in the Fall, the time when the small consumer who cannot afford to purchase in advance, lays in his supply. Mr. Magrath proposes to protect as far as possible the small consumer from unnecessary advances, hence the warning he is now issuing, and his determination to act drastically if action is necessary.

Fair Profit.

"I recognize the fact," continued Mr. Magrath, "that selling coal is a perfetcly legitimate business, and that men engaged in that business have in the great majority of cases been conducting it an absolutely legitimate way. My policy, as fuel controller, has been to interfere as little as possible with the business of the coal dealers, beyond encouraging them in every possible way to get in a sufficient quantity of coal to meet the needs of their particular localities. I am confident that most of them are as fully alive as the rest of us to the duty of mutual helpfulness in these abnormal times, and have no thought of charging prices that will yield them more than a fair profit."

Be Generous

"I wish to appeal, however, particularly to the dealers in our towns and cities, where large quantities of coal are handled in small lots, to deal in a generous manner with the small users of coal and add as little as possible to the heavy burdens they are now carrying. I feel that these people should get their coal at the lowest possible rate consistent with a very moderate profit to the dealer, and I have no reason to doubt that this will be the policy of the dealers. The householder must have the coal, and advantage should not be taken of his necessity. On the other hand the householder should co-operate in laying in his supply as soon as possible. Coal is something for which he has to find the money."

SHORTAGE OF LABOUR PUT STOP TO WORK ON SEWERS

Impossible to Even Get a Foreman and There Are No Workmen to Be Had---Other Board of Works Matters.

The Board of Works met last evening and cleared the file of a great many letters that have been hanging fire for some time

Mr. C. Brisbois of Burnham street appeared before the board and stated that the new sidewalk on Sophia street, while it had been constructed with the level of the street had been built too high for his property and it would be necessary to do considerable filling. He asked the council to consider him. The Board decided to visit the property this morning and see what can be done. They will also view a similar difficulty in front of E. Wand's property.

Sewer Work Off.

City Engineer Parsons informed the Board that it was impossible to get a competent foreman to take charge of the work on the sewers. It was also impossible to get laborers.

In iew of this statement the work of building sewers was put off indefinitely, and the Chairman and the Engineer will see that the ground and material is so placed that accidents will not occur.

The Bell Telephone Co. were given permission to erect poles on Sophia street as approved of by the City Engineer.

The City Engineer submitted a plan showing two plans that would remedy the difficulty with the G. T. R. spur into the Quaker Oats plant at Driscoll Terrace. The plan to make a change in the curve met with favor and the Board ordered the plan sent to the Company with a resolution.

The application of the Delaval Company for the closure of a street right through their property was next dealt with. The Alderman and the Mayor seemed to want to assist the company in every way and at the same time protect an entrance into the city property to the west. Most of the members favored a lease of the land to the company. The matter will be dealt with by Aldermen Weir, McIntyre and Dobbin and the City Clerk will be asked to accompany the committee.

[illegible] of the residents of the River Road north of Smith street on the east side of the river for a coating of oil on the road was of necessity turned down as the road is a boundary and it is too late to consult with Douro about it.

The Board will visit Sophia street and see what can be done with filling the ditches that the residents complain of.

City Engineer Parsons reported on the work necessary to repair Stewart street north of McDonel street. Mr. Ritchie, who presented the petition, will be notified of the report.

William Waugh asked that an approach be made to his property at 556 Homewood avenue. Mr. Success had a similar request for his property at 130 Dufferin street and they were both left with the City Engineer.

Robt. Harrison was given permission to remove a basswood tree on Water street by the City Engineer and the Board approved of the action.

Mr. Christopher, 319 Margaret Ave., was given permission to remove two trees (Carolina poplars). The City Engineer stated that the planting of this species of trees should be discouraged.

The North Monaghan Council had notified the council about the bad condition of Monaghan Road and the City Engineer informed the committee that the Street Railway was responsible for the delay in not laying the rails. The Hydro Electric Commission will be notified.

Ald. McIntyre and Langford were successful in having a resolution passed ordering that Water street north of the . T. R. tracks to the end of the street car line be oiled.

City Engineer Parson informed the Mayor that work on the concrete walks in the West end would be started in a few days.

Bolivar street in front of Mr. Pilling's residence is low and after every rainstorm a pool of water is left there. Ald. Taylor was successful in having an order passed grading the street from Park to William.

The matter of the dangerous condition of a culvert top on private property off McDonel street was drawn to the attention of the council by Ald. Duncan. The city is not liable so no action was taken.

City Engineer Parsons presented an itemized statement of the expenditures of the different departments under the control of the Board. This was thoroughly digested by the members.

HAVE PLENTY OF OFFICERS

EVEN NON-COMS. MUST REVERT IN ORDER TO GET OVER TO FRANCE.

London, Sept. 12.—Canada's army in England and France has plenty of thoroughly trained officers. In the mean time at least no more commissions will be granted to anyone, and it is understood that promotion from the ranks has been temporarily suspended. The Canadian Cadet School, which such candidates passed through, is closed for the present.

It is practically impossible now for any Canadian officer in England to get transferred to duty in France. Even non-coms. desiring to move to the front must revert to the ranks.

Recent returns to Canada have greatly relieved the number of surplus officers, and the Canadian military authorities, it is understood, hope to employ here all the eligible officers coming from Canada in the future.

It is stated that Ottawa has asked for the recall to Canada of those civil servants still overseas who came with the first Canadian contingent.

Price Of Wheat Fixed At $2.21

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—Wheat prices for this year's crop have been fixed by the United States and Canada after a conference between representatives from the United States and Canadian Board of Grain Supervisors. Prices are based on wheat in Canada at Fort William and Port Arthur, and in the United States at Duluth and Minneapolis.

Canadian prices are:—No. 1 Manitoba Northern, $2.21; No. 2 Manitoba Northern, $2.18; No. 3 Manitoba Northern, $2.15; No. 1 Alberta Red Winter $2.21; No. 2 Alberta Red, $2.18; No. 3 Alberta Red, $2.15.

Prices for other grades in Canada will be fixed as soon as sufficient information is obtained by the Board of Grain Supervisors on the new crop. Millers are authorized to pay up to one cent above maximum prices for diversion charges.

OBITUARY

JAS. D. O'BRIEN

The funeral of the late Jas. D. O'Brien took place yesterday morning from his residence on the 10th concession of Emily at 10 o'clock. A large number of friends from Ennismore, Peterboro, Ops and Lindsay, were in attendance, besides hundreds from his own township. The cortege was one of the largest ever seen in Emily township. Over one hundred rigs, besides twenty-five or thirty autos followed the remains to St. Luke's church, Downeyville, where high mass was celebrated by the parish priest, Rev. Father Galvin. Rev. Father Maguire, formerly of Emily, and Rev. Father McAulay, of Peterboro, were also in attendance, both of the latter clergymen being at the house, where they recited prayers for the dead. After the ceremony the remains were interred in St. Luke's cemetery, Downeyville. He is survivel by his wife and nine children. The daughters are Sister Agnes Tracy of St. Agnes convent, Rochester. Mr. Tucker had lived a retired life for a great many years. He was one of the oldest members of Peterboro Lodge of Free Masons.

CHIEF HOWARD ELECTED HONORARY MEMBER OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

The Children's Aid Society met yesterday afternoon in the Bank of Montreal Chambers, the President, Mr. E. A. Peck presiding. There were present Mrs. Montgomery, Mrs. Stocker, Mrs. Hopwood, Mrs. Sanderson and Mrs. Gibbs Messrs. Pennefather, Edgar, Howard, Powell, Adjt McElhiney, Dr. D. C. King and Rev. Father Phelan.

Mr. George W. Powell, agent of the Society, made a verbal report of over 100 visits that he had made since July first among the wards of the Society in the county. He also informed the members of the very satisfactory condition of the arrangements at the Shelter and congratulated Mrs. Reid on the way she handled the little ones intrusted to her care. There are at present six children at the home.

Made Honorary Members

Letters were read from Messrs. J. E. L. Goodwill, W. A. Howard and H. L. Beal resigning from the executive. These resignations had been in the hands of the Secretary for some time and action could not be taken earlier. The resignations of the three members were accepted and as an appreciation of the great services rendered to the Society by Mr. Godwill and Chief Howard they were elected Honorary members of the Society and Honorary members of the executive, on a motion of Mr. Pennefather and Edgar.

Mr. Joseph Wearing the secretary took occasion to thank the members for their kind resolution of sympathy in his recent bereavement. He also paid great tribute to the excellent work being done by the new agent Mr. Powell.

Mrs. Hopwood brought up a question of lending the boxes of the society to the Lindsay branch, but the resolution against lending the boxes was adhered to.

In this connection Mr. Edgar brought up the question of how the War Veterans had been turned down in their application for the use of the boxes and [illegible] been given the use of them later.

This was explained by President Peck. He had allowed the use of the boxes to the Red Cross, not being aware that a resolution was on the books against the practice. He would personally explain to the War Veterans at the first opportunity just how the mistake occurred and that the sympathy of the society was with their movement.

HOLLINSHEAD
who appears at the Conservatory this week, endorses the
New Scale Williams Piano

Read what he says of this Famous "Truly Canadian" Piano:

It affords me great pleasure to express my encomium of praise for the splendid qualities of the New Scale Williams Piano we are using on our Western Tour.

Possessed of brilliancy of tone ideal for the needs of a pianist, your instrument also embodies a lovely singing tone of velvety softness when needed, affording ideal support to my voice in both fortissimo and pianissimo passages.

I am observing its magnificent durability in the midst of constant moving in bitter cold weather, which it sustains constantly by keeping in perfect tune.

PATRIOTISM

Patriotism, like Charity, should begin at home. The man who is willing at any time to protect his country against foreign foes, should be willing AT ALL TIMES to protect his Family against such common foes as Poverty, Privation and Suffering.

A Life Insurance Company cannot take the place of a Husband

BUT—

It can preserve the family from want.
It can lighten their load of care.
It can build a barrier against adversity.
It can strengthen the foundation of the home.
It can certify to a man's affectionate regard for his family.
It can place his widow beyond the need of marrying for support.
It can add to a man's years by freeing him from anxiety.
It can enhance the respect and esteem of the public and of his wife and children for him.

ELECTION BILL PASSES HOUSE

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—By a vote of 46 to 4 early yesterday the house of commons rejected an amendment to the second reading of the franchise bill offered by Sir Wilfrid Laurier to the effect that no right to the suffrage now enjoyed by any class of his majesty's subjects under provincial legislation should be abridged by the Dominion parliament.

After the defeat of the Laurier amendment Hon. Wm. Pugsley offered an amendment deprecating the disfranchisement of loyal subjects and expressing the conviction that the franchise should be extended to all patriotic women of Canada.

Mr. Pugsley's amendment was voted down, and the second reading then passed by the following vote: Yeas, 47; nays, 31; a government majority of 16.

SEPTEMBER IN ALGONQUIN

September is one of the most delightful months of the year in the "Highlands of Ontario," and Algonquin Park offers attractions that are not found in other districts. It is situated at an altitude of 2000 feet above the level of the sea, assuring visitors of pure bracing air that rejuvenates body and mind. A few days here is better than ounces of tonics and saves doctors bills. The territory is also easy of access via the Grand Trunk, 200 miles north of Toronto and 170 miles west of Ottawa. The "Highland Inn", a charming caravansera, affords most comfortable accommodation at reasonable rates. The Inn is heated by steam when necessary. Grate fires for cool evenings add cheer to the indoor pleasures. The cuisine is all that can be desired and will please the most fastidious. Good fishing in the many lakes in close proximity to the hotel has been experienced all this season, and many fine catches have made the heart of the angler glad. A fine clay tennis court offers a means of more strenuous physical exercise. The "Highland Inn" is operated by the Grand Trunk Railway and will close for the season on September 30th, so make your reservations early and enjoy the few remaining weeks. Handsomely illustrated descriptive literature telling you all about it, from and Grand Trunk Agent, or write Miss Jean [illegible], Manager, Highland Inn, Algonquin Park, Ontario.

A quiet and interesting wedding took place at Lindsay yesterday, when Grace Amelia, third daughter of Chief of Police and Mrs. Short, was married to Orville L. A. Culbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Culbert, Colborne street, Rev. Mr. Coon officiating.

LANG—HARDWICK.

A very pretty wedding took place at the Murray Street Baptist Church this morning when the pastor, Rev. J. R. Following the wedding the deacons, recognizing the fact that Mr. Robert Lang, M.A., was the first soldier to be married in the church building, took the opportunity of expressing their good wishes through one of their number, Dr. J. B. Mann, who stepped forward as the couple were promised husband and wife and in well chosen words spoke of the large place the young couple have in the hearts of the people of Murray Street and at the same time presented the bride with a sheaf of roses.

Mrs' Lang has been for years on the teaching staff of the Sunday School and Mr. Lang, who has joined the Royal Flying Corps, is a graduate of McMaster University, Toronto.

CHIEF HOWARD'S RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED BY THE COUNCIL

Goes into Effecr at Once and Investigation of Charges Against him are Dropped—Ald. Duncan Anxious to Hear the Evidence Even After the Chief was Deposed-

The investigation into the charges made against Fire Chief Howard did not materialize last night as his resignation was presented and accepted before any evidence was taken.

Mayor Duffus in calling the members of the Committee of the Whole together stated that he presumed that all of them were aware of the reason of the meeting ,to investigate certain charges that had been made against Fire Chief Howard. He had never called a meeting with more regret than he did this one. The Council at the last meeting had passed a resolution asking him to inform the Chief that charges bad been made against him and requesting that he make answer to them.

The Mayor stated that when he returned from the military camp he had heard certain rumors of misconduct on the part of the Chief but had refused to believe them. The Aldermen had heard stories and the citizens were pressing for an investigation and the resignation of the Chief. He had had no proven facts on which to base a letter outlining the charges to be presented to the Chief to answer and in order to write the missive he had taken the mover and seconder of the resolution into his confidence and certain outside parties were called in after which the letter was written. He wished it distinctly understood that the rumor that was current that he "was furthering the charges against the chief" was absolutely false. He was very reluctant to accuse any man particularly one at the head of a department. However the facts must be cleared up and if none of them were proven he would be the first to support a resolution honorably acquitting the Chief.

At this stage Ald. Duncan drew the attention of the Mayor to the number of people that were in the Council Chamber' He thought that they should be allowed to hear the evidence.

Mayor Duffus remarked that the Chief should also be present, or represented, to hear the evidence.

Ald. Dobbin stated that the Mayor had very ably given the reason for the meeting. Before going on with the investigation he would like to ask the members, if they would consider the Chief's resignation if it was presented and let the matter drop. An investigation would stretch out further than the Council bad any idea of. If the committee would consider the resignation it might be tendered. It did not make any difference whether the Chief was exonerated or not, he would have to go. He could no longer hold the discipline of the department and the citizens never would be satisfied.

"Will you accept his resignation?" asked Ald. Dobbin.

Ald. Duncan wanted to know if the Chief had handed in his resignation and Ald. Dobbin replied by asking for an answer to his question'

Ald. Duncan insisted on an answer to his question and Ald. Dobbin then stated that it would be tendered if accepted. He was quite willing to investigate but there was nothing to be gained by satisfying the curiosity of the public.

Ald. Duncan had felt it his duty as an Alderman to move in the matter at the last council meeting and when he moved to dispense with the services of the Chief, he did so with the idea of letting that official get quietly out of town without any trouble. He felt for the family but had not got the backing of the council and while he was willing to accept the resignation he thought the investigation should go on as the public demanded it.

Ald. Dobbin stated that he had of Elm street, a member of the 93rd Battalion, who was killed in action on August 28th.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Petrograd, Sept. 13.—M. Skobeleff, Minister of Labor in the Kockney cabinet and member of the Council of Workmen and Soldiers' Delegates, announced through the Russian officials news agency today, that General Korniloff's adventure had collapsed and that the army at his headquarters has surrendered.

Offered to Surrender.

London, Sept. 13. — General Korniloff, former Commander-in-Chief of the armies and leader of the rebellion against the Provisional Government, has expressed his willingness to surrender on certain terms, says dispatch from Petrograd to Exchange Telegraph Company. The Provisional Government, however, demands his unconditional surrender.

PAY PRESIDENT FOR WORK DONE

CHANGE IS SUGGESTED IN HEAD OF DOMINION TRADES CONGRESS.

Toronto, Sept. 13.—In local labor circles it was intimated that among other things that will come up at the Congress next week in Ottawa will be an effort to make the position of president of the Trades Congress an honorary one and save about $2000 a year.

The members of the unions in Toronto, or at least many of them, say that they had better results when the president was paid for work actually done. It was pointed out by a local leader that the policy of President Watters on many things during the year was not acceptable to the rank and file.

"The labor movement in this country," said another, "will not be successful until the members learn that they must know no party but their own." This, it is alleged, President Watters forgot many times during the past six months when taking the platform and declaring that he spoke for labor.

"We cannot have the president on one platform declaring against conscription and the secretary on another declaring that labor in Canada would support it," declared another.

The delegates who will attend the congress from Toronto declined to discuss these matters, except to say that they will act when the proper time comes.

GEORGE GRANGE NEW FIRE CHIEF

At a special meeting of the City Council held last night the report of the Committee of the Whole accepting the Chief of the Fire Department's resignation was presented and approved.

It will be necessary for Mr. Grange to get a discharge from the Militia Department as he is in charge of the local Armouries.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1917

THE SUFFRAGE QUALIFICATION

In view of the fact that some in some provinces there is woman suffrage and in other provinces not, the only course of the Dominion Government, unless it was prepared to adopt woman suffrage wholesale — for which some of the eastern provinces are not yet ripe—was to come to a compromise between no woman suffrage at all and the whole thing. In a wartime measure this compromise is best found in giving the franchise to the female relatives of the soldiers who have gone abroad. Such a plan has the advantage that it to some extent affords compensation for the inability of many soldiers in the field to cast their votes. It also makes up for the loss of the personal influence of the men abroad, which would have been exercised, were they at home, in favor of the parties to which they respectively belonged.—Hamilton Spectator.

CHIEF HOWARD RESIGNS.

WHATEVER may be said of William A. Howard, whose resignation as chief of the fire department was accepted at the meeting of Council last night, there never has been any question as to his efficiency in his chosen profession. He came to this city when the fire brigade was little less than a reproach to a municipality of the size of Peterborough, and has built up a department that ranks with the best in Ontario. He did this, too, in face of the opposition which any public official meets with when he recommends expenditure in his department. The insurance rates under Chief Howard's regime have been reduced by nearly fifty per cent. and in this respect alone the chief saved thousands of dollars a year to the ratepayers of the city. He was always active in educating the public in the prevention of fires and in all other matters pertaining to his department. The discipline at the firehall has been excellent, and all the arrangements perfect.

Chief Howard always took an active interest in public questions, and in the work of various societies. In this way he made himself enemies, for there is a general sentiment that resents a public official taking a part in anything outside of his regular duties.

Even the friends of the chief among the aldermen recognized the fact that the circulation of the rumors against him during the past few weeks had impaired his usefulness for all time in his present position. Personally he was determined to fight the matter to a finish and to insist upon a full investigation, but friends finally persuaded him to reconsider his decision.

The majority of the aldermen have cleared themselves from the suspicion of malicious persecution in this matter by refusing to carry on an investigation, even after the chief's resignation had been accepted. No purpose would have been served by such a course. What it would have meant would have been the pandering to the morbid curiosity of those who rejoice in nothing so much as in the downfall of another.

"Let him that is without sin cast the first stone" is a precept which still stands on the Divine statutes. It seems, however, that there are still Pharisees ready to compromise on brickbats.

THE SITUATION IN RUSSIA.

GEN. KORNILOFF, the former commander-in-chief of the Russian army, a man who was expected to vindicate the honor of his nation, is now in open revolt aginst the provisional government of the new republic. It must be said that there was some justification for his outbreak. The administration of Premier Kerensky has proved inefficient. He has failed to restore either order among the masses or discipline in the army. The hands of the military leader were tied, and the battle was going against him. Kerensky has lent an ear to every faction in the country and the result has been confusion and indecision.

What Russia really needs today is a military dictator, a strong man who quails at nothing. Kerensky is practically a dictator now, since the cabinet has resigned, probably by request, in order to leave him with a free hand. He has assumed the very position which General Korniloff is seeking. The man who can carry the army with him is the man who will succeed. So far, the odds seem even.

Outside of Russia, up to yesterday, public sentiment seemed to favor Korniloff and his cause. But now the rumor is circulated that what he really aims at is a restoration of the monarchial form of government, and that he intends to place on the throne a relative, or at least a close associate of the deposed Czar, a man now in exile with the leader. If there is any truth in this report the cause of Korniloff will lose supporters in his own country as well as among the people of the other Allied Powers.

A REMARKABLE TRIBUTE.

WHETHER OR NOT the Western Liberals who suggested a change of leadership as a condition precedent to union were "playing the game," one thing is certain—their suggestion has shown Sir Robert Borden where he stands so far as the Conservative party is concerned. No man in public life ever received a more striking tribute of affection and esteem than he did from the hands of the Conservative caucus.

Even those members and senators who disapproved of his negotiations were convinced—having heard his cause—that be was right. He frankly informed them of his negotiations for a union government and insisted that it was necessary if the full driving power of Canadian patriotism is to be exerted. To that end he was willing and would be glad to efface himself or serve in the ranks. A majority of the members are quite as convinced as to the necesity for union of our war forces, and if they would not hear of Sir Robert's retirement it is because they regard him as the only man in Canada equipped for leadership. Since the war began, and particularly since his visit to the front, service to the boys at the front has been an obsession with him. Always industrious, he has since then become a slave to duty.

Oblivious to political gain or loss, he has gone his way with an eye single to the most vigorous prosecution of Canada's part in the war. He has not stopped to make partisan speeches or even reply to partisan attack. He has always endeavored to impress upon his supporters that the fate of individuals, parties or governments is of small consequence in these days. Only one thing matters, viz., that Canadian effort should be continued at the maximum until victory is won and peace is assured.

Wit and Wisdom

Mash the Peas

It was the first week that the Smiths who had fallen heir to considerable property, had been in their new home. Mrs. Smith was giving a dinner party with the fond hope that from this occasion she would be fairly launched in society. "Lena," said Mrs. Smith to her new cook, "be sure to mash the peas thoroughly tonight." "What, ma'am?" exclaimed the amazed cook. "Mash the peas?" "Yes, that is what I said. Lena, mash the peas," repeated the mistress. "It makes Mr. Smith very nervous at dinner to have them roll off his knife."

The Reason

A sturdy Scot, 6 feet 5 inches in heigh, is a gamekeeper near Stafford. One hot day last summer he was accompanying a bumptious sportsman of very small stature when he was greatly troubled by gnats. The other said to him:

"My good man, why is it that the gnats do not trouble me?"

"I daursay," replied the gamekeeper, with a comprehensive glance at the other's small proportions, "it will be because they havna seen ye yet!"

The Peeler's Fall

Police Constable X. Y. Z., when going his round in Dublin, set his foot on a piece of orange peel, and came down heavily on the footpath. On getting up he exclaimed angrily:

"I'd give something to know who put that skin there."

"I'll tell you if you give me a penny," said a newsboy who was near at hand.

"Here you are, my boy," handing him the penny.

"It was nobody else but the peeler", said the youngster as he disappeared round the corner.

ORANGEMEN WILL DEMAND PLEDGE FROM CANDIDATES

No Man Supported Unless he Favors Conscription and is Otherwise True to the Order—Long Manifest Issued

The Joint Legislation Committee of the Orange Order in British America has issued the following manifesto:

Favored Militia Act.

"Early in the war this Order declared itself unanimously and most emphatically as in favor of the enforcement of the Militia Act or some form of compulsory service, and said that the first call should be on young men with no one depending on them, and the next call on single men in families which have made no personal sacrifices in the war. Parliament has passed a Military Service Act which meets our demands. We further asked that all military fit men be prevented from leaving Canada until the close of the war, and that steps be taken to have returned to this Dominion all military fit men who had left the country to escape service. Both of these requests have in a measure been granted by the Government.

"We earnestly desired that there should be no election until after the war' Those politicians who oppose all further Canadian aid to Britain and who seek purely party ends, even if their plots should mean the dismemberment of the British Empire, have joined forces with all the alien enemies of the land and have apparently succeeded in forcing Canada to a general election.

A Pledge.

"An election being thus forced on the country by the scheming politicians, aided by every disloyal element, we most earnestly appeal to every officer and member to vote only for such members seeking reelection as remained faithful to our ideas and voted for the Military Service Act, for the proposed Act for the prolongation of the present Parliament until after the war, as all parties in France and Britain have so far done, for the bill giving soldiers the vote and for the War-Time Elections' Act, which in general meets our requests regarding alien enemies.

"In all other constituencies our votes should only be given to the candidates who will give the following pledge:

"If elected, I pledge myself to support the Military Service Act as it passed Parliament, and to give every assistance to its enforcement throughout the Dominion, and I further pledge myself to support every measure necessary and possible for the Dominion to put in force to support our beloved sovereign until victory, thorough and complete, has been secured by the allies."

"The candidate who refuses to give such a pledge does not deserve the votes of loyal Canadians. We believe the members of all other patriotic organizations will join us in insisting on such a pledge by candidates who seek our support."

"We must continue to urge on the Government that military fit men from the countries of our allies (and we believe there are quite a few men of military fitness of all these nationalities scattered throughout Canada), should be compelled to join our overseas forces for transference to their own military forces, in which they would have had to serve had they not left their native lands for Canada, but if this is not practicable then other appropriate steps should be taken for the attainment of this end.

List from Overseas.

"We again ask the Dominion Government to secure from time to time from the British Government a list of men and women in Great Britain and Ireland who have by word, writing, or other overt act impeded or tried to impede the British Government in the conduct of the war, and that all such persons be excluded from this country as undesirables.

"We once more urge on the Government—first, that all immigration from enemy countries to Canada be prohibited except under such terms as a treaty of peace at the close of the war may provide.

2nd. We ask that people born in enemy countries, and their children, be debarred from entering Canada through neutral or friendly countries.

3rd. We strongly insist that naturalization be denied all people after residing in Canada until they can read and write in the English language and until their loyalty to this Dominion is beyond all donbt.

"Let the Premier, Sir Robert L. Borden, and the candidates for your constituency know what you think on these matters.

"Wm. Lee, Grand Secretary, M.W. Grand Orange Lodge of British America. D. D. Ellis, M.D., Grand Master, M.W. Grand Orange Lodge of British America.

"This manifesto is endorsed by the Joint Legislation Committee of the Order.—E. H. McLean, Chairman.

EDITOR'S MAIL

BOW, WOW.

Editor Review: I note in your issue of a couple of days ago that a lover of dogs comes out strong in their favor and incidently takes a shot at the writer of a previous letter, who thought that the safety and life of the bright little children in our fair city was worth more to the community than all the dogs in our midst.

One would think that after the awful experience of the past season that no citizen would wish, much less suggest, that dogs should be let loose again on our streets. Looking at it from the moral standpoint also it is most unfair to the children that have to use our streets. Why doesn't some person come forward and ask that most useful of all animals, the cow, should be allowed to roam our streets? The percentage of people who keep dogs is very small, therefore why should the large majority of the citizens have to be troubled with canines running at large to please the wishes of a few?

CHIEF HOWARD'S

not talked with the Chief except so far as was necessary as chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee. The charges had not been discussed.

Mayor Duffus asked that some action be taken on the suggestion of Ald. Dobbin.

The Resignation Discussed

Ald' Stratton stated that the city's interest must be protected. A paid official of the council had been charged with certain things and they should be investigated but if he tenders his resignation, the council would then have nothing whatever to do with the charges. He was quite willing to accept the resignation.

The Chief Done For.

Ald. Smith had gone into the matter of the charges very fully. He had not heard all the statements or charges in the letter to the Chief. He doubted whether the evidence submitted would be sufficient in a court of law. The chief was entitled to a fair hearing and the evidence should be taken under oath. Public sentiment was against the Chief, whether he was acquitted or not, and he would no longer be useful as head of the Fire Department. He did not know whether a single charge could be proved or not. He moved that the resignation be accepted.

Ald. Saunders seconded the motion.

Ald. Dobbin then tendered the resignation of the Chief which read to take effect in a month as required under his agreement in the bylaw'

The committee wanted it made "At Once" and the Chief was communicated with by phone and agreed to make the resignation at once, after which the motion accepting it was carried.

Ald. Duncan then asked if any of the council wanted to hear the evidence which was ready. He thought that the citizens should hear it.

Ald. Smith pointed out that none of the evidence would be taken under oath and would not be sufficient to make him cast a vote in favor of discharging the Chief. There was a certain element after him all the time. Charges had been made against him from time to time but turned out wrong upon investigation. There was no good to be accomplished in hearing the evidence. If the chief was exonerated the public would not be satisfied.

Ald. Duncan was quite ready to submit the evidence before a judge if there was any doubt about it.

Ald. Duncan and Taylor moved that the evidence be heard but the other members did not fall in with the idea and thus ended another chapter in the history of the fire department.

The thirty or forty citizens who heard the proceedings departed without a murmur.

FIRST DRY YEAR IN TORONTO IS AN UNQUALIFIED SUCCESS

Amount of Liquor Consumed and Number of Arrests for Drunkeness Have Fallen off —License Commissioners Satisfied.

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Lieut.-Col. H. J. Grasset, Chief of Police, pronounced the first year of prohibition an unqualified success. 'So far as the arrests are concerned the results show that prohibition has been a success, and I should say it has been a success and a benefit in many other ways. "I m told that the storekeepers report more business and better trade than before prohibition. Assaults and violences have shown a big decrease. Crimes generally have shown a falling off; whether you can put it down to prohibition is another matter. A great many men who give the police trouble are working, and getting high wages; and the general prosperity is more flourishing than in normal times. Therefore, there is not the tendency for men to commit crime'"

Although drunkenness has fallen off so considerably the city has collected roughly $100,000 in fines during the year. Commitments for illegal selling number roughly 275, of which about 200 paid their fines, totalling $50,000, the remainder went to jail.

Fines for drunkenness totalled about $43,000.

4,310 Arrests as Against 11,463.

The number of arrests for drunkenness during the year shows a decrease of about sixty per cent., as compared with 1915-1916. From Sept. 16, 1916, up till Wednes. only 4,310 people have been arrested for drunkenness, while in the previous year the number was 11,463.

Benefits Ahead of Expectations.

"The benefits that have resulted from the Ontario Temperance Act have been far in excess of our expectations," declared J. D. Flavelle, chairman of the Board of License Commissioners.

There has been a great decrease in the amount of liquor that has been consumed in the Province. Figures given by the distillers and the breweries show that their sales have greatly fallen off."

W. S. Dingman, vice-chairman, stated that there were now more licensed hotels in the Province than before the Act. There were now 1,328 standard hotels whereas there were formerly but 1,219.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

Weather Indications.

It's getting time for us to watch
World's series games. We know
Because the wintry winds today
Have started in to blow.

It's time to watch the Sox and Giants,
And root with might and main;
We know it is, because it has Begun to snow and rain.

It's time for us to go and stand
Three hours or so in line
Outside the gate. We know it is—
The weather isn't fine.

It's time to gather in the stand
And watch our nose turn blue,
And stamp our feet and blow upon
Our finger ends. A-choo!

Now if Bezdek will scout around for a couple of hard hitters for us, say, next season, he'll make the other teams hustle for the pennant. His fielders are in good shape, but what the Pirates lack is effective work with the willow.

The National Commission, so rumor has it, is going to devote a share of the world's series money to war charities. That sounds pretty good to the fans.

The use of the "licorice ball" and the "shine ball" by pitchers in the American League, has been prohibited by President Johnson. All violators will suffer a suspension of five days. Death to the fancy baseball stuff!

Chief Bender's improved pitching has made him mighty popular lately with the Philadelphia fans' There's still a lot of pep in the ancient redskin.

Grouchy Gus Says:

"The fellows who sit in the bleachers and grab off the balls that are fouled into the stand should be drafted at once. They'd make a fine regiment to catch bombs and throw them back at the Germans."

Honus Wagner, after a brief comeback this season, will lay down his mitt and his bat and quit for good when the season is over, and the fans are mighty sorry to see him go. The famous Dutchman tried mighty hard, but age will tell, and he has slowed up in his fielding, which used to be quicker than lightning, and he says he has lost his batting eye. So he's going to give up playing for good. First-baseman Mollwitz, recently purchased by the Pirates from the Kansas City Club of the American Association, is ready to take up work under Manager Bezdek, and Honus will take a seat on the bench. It is possible that Honus will be employed as chief scout for the Pirates next season, but he will no longer be in the first line outfit.

Perhaps the only municipal racing plant in the world is that at Doncaster, England, where, before the outbreak of the war, the historic St. Leger Stakes, worth $35,000, was run every year. This was one of the great classics of the English turf, and its annual recurrence, on September 11, was the signal for the gathering of England's foremost devotees of the turf. The town moor, on which the St. Leger is run, has been the scene of horse-racing for over three centuries, and during all this time the meetings have been held under the control of the municipal corporation Doncaster, therefore, has been a heaven for taxpayers, for the municipality, conducting the races on strictly business lines, cleared on an average of $60,000 a year' For centuries Doncaster has been the most prosperous town in the kingdom. It stands among English cities having no borough tax at all. Up to the outbreak of the war, Doncaster had a great surplus in its municipal treasury, said to have amounted to some three million dollars. St. Leger week at Doncaster always attracted tremendous crowds, owing in part to the annual sale of yearlings, the biggest sale of race horses held in England.

It was on September 11, 1891, that Austin Gibbons attempted to wrest the world's lightweight championship laurels from Jack McAuliffe. The contest took place at Hoboken, N.J., and was for $2500 besides the title. The police stopped the bout in the sixth round, but McAuliffe despite the interference, was declared the victor by a wide margin.

The editor and business manager of the Philadelphia Tageblatt have been arrested for attacks on the Government's war policies. The personnel of the company will also be arrested.

Alexander Berkman, anarchist who was arrested by Federal authorities, managed to arrange $25,000 bail. No sooner had he been freed, however, than he was arrested by New York detectives on a charge of participation in the slaying of three people at the Preparedness Parade in San Francisco last spring.

Snider Suffered Most All His Life

Feels Better Since Tanlac Overcame Trouble, Than He Has in Thirty-five Years.

"I'm feeling better today than I have in thirty-five years, and it's all due to the good work of Tanlac," said James A. Snider, of 17 Jackson street west, Hamilton, recently. Mr. Snider has the distinction of being one of the fastest coopers in Canada, but was forced by ill health to give up his trade. He has now returned to work, however, and is employed by the Paardeburg Chapter, I. O. D. E. Mr. Snider is well known both in Hamilton and vicinity, and, although sixty-nine years of age, he has the appearance of a man many years younger. Continuing his statement, Mr. Snider said:

"A medicine that will make a person my age gain in weight and relieve him of troubles of thirty-five or [illegible] wonderful. I had been suffering from a bad stomach nearly all my life. I had no appetite and just had to force myself to eat. At times I felt like there was a hundred-pound weight on my stomach, and I was almost doubled up with misery. Gas would form from what I ate and make my heart flutter, and I often had dreadful smothering spells. I have had the best treatment both in the United States and Canada, and have taken all kinds of medicines. I would feel a little better for a day or so, and then feel as bad or worse than ever.

"Tanlac did for me just what others say it has done for them, and I want to make this statement because I feel like it may help lots of people who are in the same fix as I was. Why, before I took Tanlac I had rheumatism in my knees and the pain was so severe I couldn't straighten up, and now the rheumatism is nearly all gone and I can walk as good as anybody. It has put my stomach in good condition, the gas has stoped forming, and I don't have any more of those awful smothering spells. My food agrees with me and I know it is building me up because I have already gained several pounds and have just finished my second bottle of Tanlac. All the pain is gone now, and I want to say again I feel better than I have in thirty-five years. I can't say enough in praise of Tanlac, and I'm going to tell everybody I can about the good it has done me."

AUBURN STREET WILL BE OILED

BUT NO MORE OIL CAN BE PURCHASED FOR STREETS THIS YEAR.

At the Committee of the Whole Council last night a letter was read from Robt. Read and a number of the residents of Auburn street asking that the road be oiled as it is very dusty since the gravel carrying autos used it.

It was moved that the street be oiled, but Ald. Weir made serious objection as it would necessitate another car of oil and the appropriation was exhausted.

The motion to oil with the oil now on hand carried.

MANUFACTURERS IN FAVOR OF TAXATION OF WHEALTH

Ottawa, Sept. 13.— A delegation representative of manufacturers throughout Canada and headed by S. R. Parsons, Toronto, president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, waited on the Prime Minister today and submitted the following resolutions, passed by the executive council of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association:

1. We, the members of the executive council of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, hereby pledge ourselves loyally to support the Military Service Act, even at the cost of much inconvenience and loss arising from present labor conditions, and to do everything in our power to make possible the complete carrying out of the provisions of the Act.

2. We further express our [illegible] opinion that, at the present time, when not a moment should be lost in providing necessary reinforcements for our brave troops at the front, it is essential that the Cabinet be re-organized along lines that will secure the fullest possible measure of national unity and co-operation. We believe that a larger proportion of business men than heretofore should be included and that there should be adequate representation of the manufacturing interests of the country as well as agriculture and labor.

3. We further recommend to our members throughout the Dominion that in view of the grave issues and responsibilities confronting us as a nation that the they submerge purely party politics and make sure that candidates in their different ridings at the forthcoming elections are first and foremost men who will without fear or favor support such a Government in its efforts for the winning of the war above every other consideration.

Favor Income Tax

4. In view of extraordinary war expenditures, we further place ourselves on record in favor of a financial policy which, while adequately providing for the initating maintenance, [illegible] out danger of same being crippled or strangled will place a reasonable tax upon the enterprises and wealth producing power of the country through channels of commerce, finance, and all other avenues, so that each individual or unit will bear a fair and proper share of the burden. In this connection we are of the opinion that in addition to ordinary sources of revenue, an income tax properly adjusted and applied is a fair method of reaching the end desired.

Street Orator Lodged In Jail

Montreal, Sept. 13.—The anti-conscriptionist oratory of Ferdinand Villeneuve came to a sudden termination last night, a few minutes after he had addressed a gathering of antis in Lafontaine Park in very inflammatory words. He was quietly arrested at the corner of Amherst and Robin streets and taken away without any disturbance at the meeting. His arrest was announced shortly afterward.

It was not for his speech tonight that Villeneuve was taken into custody by the authorities, but for previous addresses, though his address tonight was especially violent. He said that when the time was ripe it would be far better for the Canadian people to raise the flaming flag of a free republic over the Parliament Buildings at Ottawa than to stay under the tyranny of the Union Jack. If this could not be done, he said, American aid would be called in, as the Stars and Stripes would be a much better flag than the Union Jack.

Alphonse Bernier, just after learning of the arrest of Villeneuve, declared that "the English Flag is the most corrupt flag in the world.

JUVENILE S.O.E. LODGE FORMED

SEVENTEEN YOUTHFUL PATRIOTS CHARTER MEMBERS OF ORGANIZATION.

An event of unusual interest took place last evening, when a Juvenile Lodge of the Sons of England was instituted and fittingly celebrated.

Bro. Harry Beal, District Deputy, occupied the President's chair, and conducted the initiatory ceremonies supported by Bros. Follis, Waram, Wood, Smith, Lemmon, Roberts, Kingdon, Buntin, Wyatt.

There were 17 boys in line for initiation, they forming the charter members of the new Lansdowne Juvenile Lodge.

The following are the officers elected:

Worthy Pres.—Rene Follis.
Vice Pres.—Cecil A. Church.
Sec.—J. Ralph Turner.
Chaplain—Clifford Smith.
1st Comm.—Louis V. Batchelor.
2nd Com.—J. W. Batley.
3rd Com.—Stanley Church.
Inner Guard—Clayton Turner.
Outside Guard — Gordon B. Thomas.

Advisory Committee From Senior Lodge.

Worthy Chief Advisor—Bro. W. Waram.
Vice—Bro. A. Follis.
Sec.-Treas.—Bro. A. Kingdon.
Auditors—Bro. C. Wood and Bro. W. Shiner.
Trustees—Bro. F. Smith and Bro. B. Lemmon.

New President Speaks.

Business being finished the members adjourned to the dining room, where a banquet had been prepared to celebrate the occasion. After full justice had been done to the delicacies, Bro. Waram called upon each newly elected officer to make his maiden speech which was in every case excellent and to the point.

Brothers of the Juvenile Branch of Lansdowne Lodge S. O. E. B. S.: I thank you for the honor you have done me in electing me your first president. I will endeavour, with your help, to be worthy of the confidence you have placed in me. I hope you will all rally round me, and give me your support by your presence at all the meetings. Let us uphold the principles, that our mother country is fighting for at this time and cherish the memories of those who have fallen, and those who are still fighting for righteousness, liberty and justice. I thank the members of the men's lodge, for the help they are giving us and I hope we shall be able to help them in return for their kindness to us.

I have nothing more to say at this time, trusting our lodge will meet with success, in numbers and usefulness.

All of the officers responded, as they were called and each one was enthusiastically received.

Mr. Chas. Coleman entertained the boys with several humorous songs and was heartily encored.

Bro. R. Waram then presented badges to the newly initiated members as a gift, after which the happy occasion was brought to a close at 10 p.m. by the singing of the National Anthem.

The installation of officers will take place on Friday evening, Sept. 21st.

One convict was shot and three guards stabbed in an uprising at the Illinois State Prison at Joliet.

THOUGHT IT WAS TOO EARLY

But Subsequently Found She Made Money

This was the experience of a lady citizen last spring, who, although taking advantage of early snaps in summer ready-to-wear, did so in fear that later on in the season prices would drop. This was not the case, however, as prices soared away up, and the customer in question found that by purchasing early she saved considerable hard cash, and secured first quality goods as well.

This very satisfactory experience can be repeated tomorrow at H. J. Zacks, 422 George street, opposite the Examiner, where ladies are offered $25 to $35 coats for $14.95, for tomorrow only. There are desirable goods in exclusive styles and will add distinction to their wearers. There are plenty of them, but no two alike. It is not too soon to take advantage of these bargains, only made possible by Mr. Zack's securing them in Montreal for spot cash at phenomenal reductions, for ready-to-wear prices, like all commodities will continue to rise until the end of the war. Consequently later on the early buyer will find in comparing the then prices that she is considerably in pocket, as well as having a stylish garment. Read Mr. Zacks' advertisement on another page—buy now.

This up-to-date store also carries a large assortment of ready-to-wear of all kinds as well as high class millinery, etc.

GUILD OF ORGANISTS ELECTS ITS COUNCIL

A meeting of the council of the Canadian Guild of Organists was held at St' James' Parish House, Toronto, Tuesday morning, with the president, Dr. Albert Ham, in the chair. The following were elected as members of the council: Albert Ham, president; Arthur Dorey, Ottawa; Percival J. Illsley, Montreal, and H. F. Torrington, Toronto, vice- presidents; J. W. Bearder, Ottawa; Arthur Blakeley, Pasadena, Calif.; A. H. Egg, Montreal; G. E. Holt, Toronto; Ralph Horner, Winnipeg; F. G. Killmaster, London; J. E' F. Martin, Montreal; W. H. Montgomery, Calgary; H. E. J. Vernon, Toronto; C. E. Wheeler, London; A. E. Whitehead, Sherbrooke; F. L. Willgoose, London.

Dr' Ham congratulated the members on the progress of the guild during the past eight years, saying he was convinced that great good was being done toward raising the status of the musical profession generally, and especially that of organists and choirmasters. The guild was fortunate, he added, in having on its council men of such integrity and high musical attainment who, he felt sure, would always insist that the organization should stand for only that which was good, both musically and ethically. He announced that his Grace the Duke of Devonshire, had consented to be the honorary patron in place of his Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught, wh, with the late Duchess, had taken so much interest in the progress of music and art in Canada.

On account of prevailing war conditions ,It was decided to defer the annual convention of members. Congratulations were offered to Mr. F. G. Killmaster, Mus.Bac., organist of St. Paul's, London, on his having joined the overseas forces. A hearty welcome to Toronto was extended to Mr. H. A. Fricker, Mus.Bac., the newly-appointed organist of the Metropolitan Church and director of the Mendelssohn Choir. On the close of the meeting, the president invited the members and Mr' Fricker to luncheon at the Queen's Hotel.

Immediately after the close of the Exhibition the rehearsals for the fifteenth annual season of the National Chorus, under the direction of Dr. Albert Ham will begin at the Conservatory of Music, Toronto.

SPEECH LIMIT IS 20 MINUTES

Ottawa, Sept. 13. — No arrangement has yet been made with regard to the imposition of the closure on the committee stage of the franchise bill. There are three clauses in that measure and by the rule as it stands it appears that each member is limited to twenty minutes speaking on the whole measure, though he must confine his remarks to the special clause before the House. He might desire to move amendments on all of the clauses but would not be permitted to do so. On the other hand, the Secretary of State who is sponsor for the bill and who might be willing to accede to amendments, can only speak once also.

It has been suggested that the 20 minute rule apply to each clause, and that members be permitted to talk on each. Whether this arrangement will be reached will depend on the action of the house this afternoon.

An interesting point has arisen in connection with the soldiers' voting bill. It appears that there is no provision for its aplication on bye-elections. If the contention that the Government will benefit in the general election through the soldiers votes, is correct, then it would seem to be to the advantage of Liberals to protest certain seats and force further bye-elections in which the soldiers' vote would not figure. It is possible that some change may be made in the Act to overcome this possibility.

Cities Have No Power To Act

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Under the order-in-council, which deals with the hoarding of foodstuffs to enhance prices, a City Council must secure returns from the dealers, forward the evidence to Ottawa, and if the Minister of Labor sees fit he may appoint a commissioner to investigate. The finding of the latter will then be forwarded to the council for reference to the Attorney-General. The city acted under this order-in-council in regard to potatoes and other products, but nothing came of the volume of returns that were made. It is quite evident that milk is in a different class from other foodstuffs which can be kept in cold storage.

Is Repealed

"That order-in-council," declared Mayor Church "is obsolete. It was annulled when Mr. Hanna was appointed food controller. It doesn't get over the fact that sections of the act dealing with combines for the restraint of trade are enforcible by the Attorney-General of the Province. In the United States such prosecutions are being made, but in Canada these combines can flourish like a green bay tree. The municipalities have no power. It is vested in the Attorney-General. That is the law, and it always has been the law."

ACUTE FOOD PROBLEM

Newfoundland Needs 400,000 Barrels of Flour From Canada

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Newfoundland's most immediate food problem is to secure delivery of 400,000 barrels of flour for the next twelve months Salt. beef and salt pork, to the quantity of 60,000 barrels, are also needed. The colony is wholly dependent upon imports from the United States and Canada for its wheat flour, five sixths of which comes from Canada, as also does seven-eighths of its fresh meat. The two important commodities, salt beef and salt pork, however, are supplied almost wholly by the United States.

There is to be close co-operation between Newfoundland and Canadian food administrations.

At The Conservatory Of Music

The entertainment provided at the Conservatory Hall last evening by Messrs. Redferne and Harold Hollinshead of Toronto proved a most interesting and artistic affair. The hall was well filled by many of the city's representative musical people and judging from the applause given after each number, the entire program was very much appreciated.

The program was, indeed, one of high order. Mr. Redferne Hollinshead, known as "Canada's greatest tenor," upheld his reputation in splendid fashion. He is a singer of ability and his voice is exceptionally pleasing. His beautifully musical lyric tones were heard to fine advantage in "Vestila gnibba" from Paghacci and his expression of the song was very fine.

Mr. Harold R. Hollinshead, was well received in his character impersonations which were very clever. "King Robert of Sicity" was delivered with great effect and the audience demanded an encore to this excellent recitation. Mr. Hollinshead is one of the best character delineators heard in Peterborough in a long time and he also proved himself a talented baritone. In the duet "Excelsior" Messers. Hollinshead scored a big triumph.

Mr. Richards Tattersall, contributed a number of piano selections making a decided hit with his audience. He is an artist of rare ability, and played in equsite fashion, "Hungarian Rhapsody No. 1" by Liszt and "Schergo in B flat Minor" by Chapin. His numbers were roundly encoured and proved real features of the evening.

Everyone who enjoyed the privilege of being present at the affair were unanimous in declaring the entertainment a big success, and it is hoped that programs of this high order and character may be heard more often in Peterborough.

Agony Will End By Next Week

Ottawa, Sept. 13.— Parliament will prorogue by the end of next week. This is the plan of the Government, and there seems no reason now why it should not be carried out. The Franchise Bill will reach the Senate by Saturday, and with the C.N.R. bill and soldiers' voting bill out of the way, it should be disposed of in time for an early prorogation.

Draft Claims Attention

The Government desires particularly the closing of Parliament that it may devote its attention to preparation for the enforcement of conscription — a tremendous undertaking. The Board of Selection, which chooses half the members of the exemption tribunals, has been notified to have all the names ready by September 25. The county court judges are already busy naming their half. With the exemption tribunals named, the necessary proclamation will be issued. Everything should be ready for calling out the first class, namely unmarried men and widowers, without children, between the ages of 20 and 34, by the first week in October.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASES ARE INCREASING

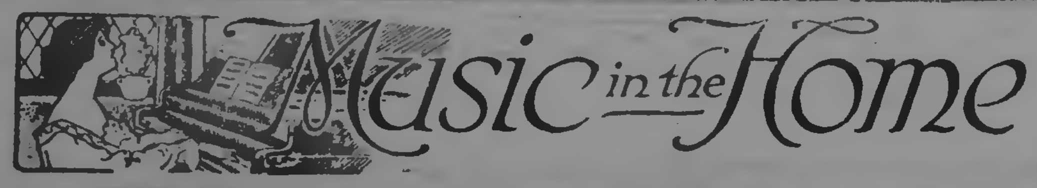
According to reports from the Provincial Health Department, there have been a fairly large number of cases of infantile paralysis in the province during the months of August and September. Word has just been received that seven cases reported at Cornwall and the three reported from Toronto on September 1st, makes ten for this month so far. In August, there were thirty-six cases of which four were in Toronto. Three deaths occurred in August.

An outbreak of typhoid fever has occurred in Brantford, where fourteen cases were reported on September 8th.

For a Broken Heart.

He—I understand you have been attending an ambulance class. Can you tell me what is the best thing to do for a broken heart?

She—Oh, yes. Bind up the broken portion with a gold band, bathe in orange blossom water and apply plenty of raw rice. Guaranteed to be well in a month.



Music in the Home

BUYING PIANOS ON INSTALMENTS

Directly of interest to our readers are the editorial expressions of such a widely circulated home paper as the Ladies' Home Journal. In its February issue that publication devoted a page of eight paragraphs to different aspects of buying on the installment plan, which closed with the sentences: "A mere hard matter-of-fact existence is no longer sufficient. The mere feeding of the body, the clothing and housing of same, are not all that is necessary. The higher nature of a man and of a woman and of a child must be cherished and developed, and that which contributes to true culture and spiritual development may rightfully be considered a necessity. A natural love for music, for instance, should be gratified; and if the material necessities are being met by the family income one need not hesitate to resort to the installment opportunities to secure a piano. There is, of course, a limit to this argument, but that limit is only bounded by common sense and judgment."

MAGGIE JIGGS NEEDS MUSIC.

Maggie Jiggs, whose "beaming" countenance is looked for every night by thousands of newspaper readers in those "Bringing Up Father" sketches, does not always radiate a serene and happy atmosphere in the Jiggs household' Her autocratic rule not only makes things uncomfortable for poor Jiggs, but shows up to disadvantage in contrast to that of the Czar of Russia who has abdicated.

Maggie's complete mastery of the situation in all circumstances dispels any hope of a revolution in that home. The absence of team-work in the Jiggs family is due entirely to lack of music in the home. If they would only buy a piano, a talking machine, a fiddle, a mouth organ, or even bagpipes, the Jiggs' home life would be revolutionised. Music in some form would mellow Maggie's feelings, and Mr. Jiggs would find his home a little bit of heaven on earth. Then he wouldn't want to go over to Dinty Moore's at nights. Dinty would want to come to his place. Music is a necessity.

British women have adopted a uniform which dispenses with skirts on account of its convenience, greater safety and economy.

$1250 FOR NEW OPERA

Sir Thomas Beecham's offer of £250 for a new English opera has provoked a pretty little rejoinder from Frederick Corder. He wants to know why, if Sir Thomas has already four English operas in course of preparation, he wants to offer a prize for a fifth, especially as he asserts that he does not believe a work of the kind exists without bringing discredit on the cause of English music. Mr. Corder says that he knows of four other native works which, in his opinion, answer requirements, but that several years ago he vainly endeavored to interest Sir Thomas Beecham in one or all of these works merely so far as to spend a few minutes in glancing at the libretti or the synopsis of the same. He ends his letter by saying: "Why, when he wants an opera, does he do any and everything except go to a man who was educated for that class of work and simply order what he wants?" This, to an outsider, appears to be the situation Sir Thomas Beecham wants another promising English opera, in addition to the four he has up his sleeve. He thinks the only way to get it is to start a competition. Mr. Corder thinks this is an unsatisfactory way of getting what he wants and says he knows of four operas, any of which he thinks worthy of Sir Thomas' attention. Surely it is not impossible to meet both parties. Commenting on the offer, the London Musical News remarks: "Let Mr. Corder produce his operas, let Sir Thomas examine them, and it is not unlikely that both of them will be satisfied."

THE MEADOW LARK.

The twering fir is bathed in dew,
And countless gems are clinging there;
A joyous lark amid the blue
Sends rippling music down the air.
And when or boughs that droop apart
Each bead of crystal pulses bright,
His song has touched the dewdrop's heart
And made it quiver with delight.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM OF FRANCE.

"La Marseillaise," the French National Anthem of France, is probably the most inspiring song of its kind ever written. As sung by Frances Alda and the Metropolitan Opera Company chorus of mixed voices, reproduced on Victrola Record 64693, it is magnificent. Hear it played in the Victrola Parlors of Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Ltd. B. H. Britton, District Manager, 421 George Street.

English women refrain from wearing mourning and when soldiers come home on short leaves of absence there are no outward signs of feminine grief.

It is estimated that 10 per cent, of the sickness among women in England is brought on by excessive cigarette smoking.

Isn't This True?
When you "feel mean"—dull, tired, nervous, bad digestion, no appetite—
Don't you find out, afterwards, that your bowels were not acting freely and naturally?
Due, of course, to a liver gone on a strike.
Take two or three pills—once. After that, only one, until your're all right.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS

Occasionally there is a man wise enough to think poetry without writing it.

The more a woman talks to a man the less he is inclined to sit up and take notice.

At times the still small voice of conscience seems to come from the big end of a megaphone.

Any man who is able to dodge unhappiness is just about as happy as it is possible for man to be.

If a man occasionally tells a woman how pretty she looks she will forgive most of the other lies he tells her.

As a member of the Canadian Girls' News association, Miss Florence Spence fords rushing mountain streams and scales forbidding peaks in search of elusive news items and photographs which she sends to the home town newspapers.

They Shall Not Pass

The Immortal Cry of Canada at the Second Battle of Ypres.

The defence of Ypres following the first ghastly gas attack April 22, 1915, exalts all history. By it our men were transfigured and the undying, imperishable Soul of Canada revealed.

In the name of these Heroes of Ypres, Festubert, Givenchy, Vimy Ridge, Lens, The Somme, Verdun---aye and the Deathless "Old Contemptibles"---we beseech you, Women of Canada, to Dedicate Yourselves and Your Families to War Service by signing the Food Service Pledge.

The sacrifice is not great. We merely want you to substitute other foods for part of the white bread, beef and bacon your family now eat.

"What follows almost defies description. The effect of these poisonous gases was so virulent as to render the whole of the line held by the French Division practically incapable of any action at all.

The Stand of the Canadians

"The left flank of the Canadian Division was thus left dangerously exposed to serious attack in flank, and there appeared to be a prospect of their being overwhelmed and of a successful attempt by the Germans to cut off the British troops occupying the salient to the East.

"In spite of the danger to which they were exposed the Canadians held their ground with a magnificent display of tenacity and courage; and it is not too much to say the bearing and conduct of these splendid troops averted a disaster which might have been attended with the most serious consequences."

From
Sir John French's Seventh Dispatch,
General Headquarters,
15th June, 1915

Thou Shalt Not Want

The Undying Pledge of Canada's Mothers to Her Sons.

When baking use one-third oatmeal, corn, barley or rye flour. Or, order some brown bread from your baker each day.

Substitute for beef and bacon such equally nutritious foods as fish, peas, lentils, potatoes, nuts, bananas, etc.

Third, and this is most important--- positively prevent the waste of a single ounce of food in your home.

Next week a Food Service Pledge and Window Card will be delivered to you. The Pledge is your Dedication to War Service---The Window Card is your Emblem of Honour.

Sign the one and display the other.

Cured His RUPTURE

I was badly ruptured while lifting a trunk several years ago. Doctors said my only hope of cure was an operation. Trusses did me no good. Finally I got hold of something that quickly and completely cured me. Years have passed and the rupture has never returned, although I am doing hard work as a carpenter. There was no operation, no lost time, no trouble. I have nothing to sell, but will give full information about how you may find a complete cure without operation, if you write to me, Eugene M. Pullen, Carpenter, [illegible] Marcellus Avenue, Manasquan, N. J. Better cut out this notice and show it to any others who are ruptured—you may save a life or at least stop the misery of rupture and the worry and danger of an operation.

VOTE FOR YOUR FATORITE

The fact that a name appears in the list of nominees does not necessarily imply that the person is an active candidate in the contest. It is the duty and purpose of the contest department to announce the nominations that have been made. In many instances people have been nominated by friends who hope to see them win the race for the Great Prizes. Many of these nominees will engage in the contest actively, while others will remain "in the hands of their friends."

It is the right of the patrons of The Review to decide who shall win. It is within the province of the subscribers to vote for anyone, and these votes will be credited as ordered, without regard to such person as an active candidate or not. The public will do the voting, and the judges will decide who are the winners at the close of the contest.

For the purposes of the contest, any person who has been voted for is a candidate in the contest. The votes will stand as credited to the end of the contest. They are not transferable and they are not subject to cancellation except for reasons of irregularity.

The vote standing today shows that many people have divided the votes up to the present. Votes have been issued on all subscription payments made at The Review office since the opening of the contest, in many instances by subscribers who paid in person. These votes have been credited in every instance according to the wishes of the subscribers, and this practice will be followed throughout the contest. Several people have been voted for in this way, although they have not sent in any subscriptions themselves.

A very few subscriptions separate the leading candidates.

ROOM FOR MORE CANDIDATES.

The contest is only just starting. There are many who would enter the race today if they realized that the chances of victory are as good as the contest office knows them to be.

You should enter the contest today. Send in your name. Send for a receipt book. Call at the contest office and talk it over.

ITALIANS TAKE SANS GABRIELE

SWEDEN LIKELY TO TAKE PART IN WAR ON SIDE OF ALLIES

Recent Exposure Brings to Climax Issue Between Aristocrats and Common People---King Gustav and his German Consort May be Forced to Abdicate.

New York, Sept. 14.—Edwin B. Jorkman, a prominent Swedish writer says Sweden may be forced into war on the side of the Allies as a result of the recent exposures. He also considers a revolution likely in his country followed by the abdication of King Gustave and his queen who is a cousin of the Kaiser.

Will Affect Trade

The German imports from Sweden of Food and raw material and for material for the manufacture of munitions will be seriously curtailed or cut off altogether when the full effects of the State Department's revelations concerning Swedish intrigues in Latin-American are felt by the Swedish people.

[illegible] Swedes Were Deluded

The tendency of the Swedish officials to assist Germany's cause against the interests of the Swedish nation itself is shown as much in the unneutral Swedish activities in Mexico City as in Buenos Ayres. The revelation that Sweden's official and financial classes have been working for Germany at the expense of the common people of Sweden, will in the end, greatly assist the spread of democracy in Sweden.

At a time when Sweden's ships were being sunk by German subs and Swedish subjects were being murdered by the U-boat pirates, Swedish Diplomats are shown to have been conspiring in secret to further this very ruthlessness.

Aristrocrats to Blame

Sweden is the only neutral country contigious to Germany that has an official and aristrocratic class modeled in part after the Russians. It was the short sightedness of this class that caused Norway to secede from Sweden in 1915. These Prussianizes Swedes are disapoointed imperialist who long to recover Finland, wrested from Sweden by Russia over one hundred years ago. At this time the capitalized element in Sweden is pro German because it has made large sums during the war selling goods to Germany. The official and capitalistic element in Sweden is solely responsible for the present Swedish diplomatic scandal.

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Is Formally Opened By Mayor Duffus Auto Parade Of Citizens To Grounds

Fine Display of Exhibits by Local Merchants, Manufacturers and Farmers—Vegetables Grown by Y.M.C.A. Boys One of the Features—List of Prize Winners Among Juvenile Amature Gardeners.

This afternoon the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was formally opened by His Worship Mayor Duffus, His Honor Judge Huycke, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., and Mr. R. J. Soden.

Shortly after 1 o'clock there was a gathering of autos and other vehicles at Central Park and, headed by the 57th Band, a march was mad to the grounds, where short addresses were delivered by the above gentlemen.

The grounds presented a very busy appearance and every booth had a host of customers. The St. James Methodist Church ladies did a lively business at the noon hour, serving meals, while Knox Church ladies, the Canadian Kitchener League, the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham, the Wives' and Mothers' Club, all were kept going serving refreshments.

In the auto section were displays by The Ford Co., The Maxwell, The Studebaker, The Briscoe and The Chevrolet. At this latter tent The Review contest car is to be seen. The Smith Form A Truck is also exhibited by Myaor Duffus along with the Fords.

The exhibit of dairy supplies is excellent and everything up to date is exhibited by the De Laval Separator Co. and the Empire Separator Co. The electrical goods are shown in displays by Alexander & Miller and Grant & Thorpe.

In the Main Building Heintzman & Co. have an up-to-date display of pianos, pianoplayers and graphonolas. Cressman & Co. have an exhibit of sewing machines especially designed by The White Co., as well as an exhibit of talking machines.

The Brantford Scales Co. also have a display of computing scales and other labor-saving devices.

Oak Hall have a tent displaying all the latest ideas in men's wear and have a very attentive bunch of attendants.

The flowers and vegetables are attracting a great deal of attention. The growing of vegetables by the younger people has added a new attraction to this department, and some fine exhibits of potatoes grown by school boys are to be seen.

The Peterborough Floral Co. have a very attractive display of funeral and wedding designs. A nifty part of this is the dainty table service with decorations.

Jordan Bros. have a fine display of designs as well as a monster exhibit of decorative and table ferns.

The exhibit of live stock is good in all classes. Durhams, Holsteins, Jerseys, Polled Angus and Ayrshires are the dominant classes in cattle. The sheep section was well classed and caused not a little trouble to the judges.

The horses were a good show by themselves and were the centre of interest.

The showing of hogs, while not up to former years, is not at all a bad one. Considerable interest is being taken in the judging of Durham bulls of all ages. For two successive years Mr. Bert Garbutt has won the cup, and if he should win this year he will hold it for good.

ELDON FARMER LOST BARN, CROP AND MACHINEYY

ON THURSDAY, WHEN A SPARK FROM THRESHER STARTED A FIRE.

A disastrous fire occurred on Thursday afternoon on the farm of the late Mr. Lucy, 10th con. of Eldon, when the large barn and all the grain together with a separator went up in smoke.

Threshers were at work on the farm, and it is believed a spark from the engine was responsible for the blaze. The fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save anything. While the fire was raging, a spark ignited a log barn across the road and it was also destroyed. There was no insurance on the barns or contents.

Petrograd, Sept. 14.—It is officially stated today that three or four Ministers have resigned from the Kerensky Cabinet in order to give the Premier a free hand in dealing with Korniloff and his fellow conspirators. General Shoots Himself

Petrograd, Sept. 14.—After being received by Premier Kerensky at Winter Palace and informed of the fate which awaited him, General Kroimoff, commander of the Korniloff troops which were sent against Petrograd, returned to his lodgings and shot himself. The wounds were not fatal.

Washington. Sept. 14.—An unofficial report reaching here today indicated that Premier Kerensky was determined to inflict heavy penalty as a warning against future uprisings but a certain element of the contitutional democrats and even many leaders of council of workmens and soldiers delegates, Kerensky's closest political friends, advocate leniency.

It is considered probable that one early move of the new Government may be to abolish the Duma which has given some evidence of favoring a return to Monarchy and has opposed many democratic reforms of the revolution.

ITALIANS TAKE SANS GABRIELE

SWEDEN LIKELY TO TAKE PART IN WAR ON SIDE OF ALLIES

Recent Exposure Brings to Climax Issue Between Aristocrats and Common People---King Gustav and his German Consort May be Forced to Abdicate.

New York, Sept. 14.—Edwin B. Jorkman, a prominent Swedish writer says Sweden may be forced into war on the side of the Allies as a result of the recent exposures. He also considers a revolution likely in his country followed by the abdication of King Gustave and his queen who is a cousin of the Kaiser.

Will Affect Trade

The German imports from Sweden of Food and raw material and for material for the manufacture of munitions will be seriously curtailed or cut off altogether when the full effects of the State Department's revelations concerning Swedish intrigues in Latin-American are felt by the Swedish people.

[illegible] Swedes Were Deluded

The tendency of the Swedish officials to assist Germany's cause against the interests of the Swedish nation itself is shown as much in the unneutral Swedish activities in Mexico City as in Buenos Ayres. The revelation that Sweden's official and financial classes have been working for Germany at the expense of the common people of Sweden, will in the end, greatly assist the spread of democracy in Sweden.

At a time when Sweden's ships were being sunk by German subs and Swedish subjects were being murdered by the U-boat pirates, Swedish Diplomats are shown to have been conspiring in secret to further this very ruthlessness.

Aristrocrats to Blame

Sweden is the only neutral country contigious to Germany that has an official and aristrocratic class modeled in part after the Russians. It was the short sightedness of this class that caused Norway to secede from Sweden in 1915. These Prussianizes Swedes are disapoointed imperialist who long to recover Finland, wrested from Sweden by Russia over one hundred years ago. At this time the capitalized element in Sweden is pro German because it has made large sums during the war selling goods to Germany. The official and capitalistic element in Sweden is solely responsible for the present Swedish diplomatic scandal.

Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Is Formally Opened By Mayor Duffus Auto Parade Of Citizens To Grounds

Fine Display of Exhibits by Local Merchants, Manufacturers and Farmers—Vegetables Grown by Y.M.C.A. Boys One of the Features—List of Prize Winners Among Juvenile Amature Gardeners.

This afternoon the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition was formally opened by His Worship Mayor Duffus, His Honor Judge Huycke, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., and Mr. R. J. Soden.

Shortly after 1 o'clock there was a gathering of autos and other vehicles at Central Park and, headed by the 57th band, a march was mad to the grounds, where short addresses were delivered by the above gentlemen.

The grounds presented a very busy appearance and every booth had a host of customers. The St. James Methodist Church ladies did a lively business at the noon hour, serving meals, while Knox Church ladies, the Canadian Kitchener League, the Women's Patriotic League of Ashburnham, the Wives' and Mothers' Club, all were kept going serving refreshments.

In the auto section were displays by The Ford Co., The Maxwell, The Studebaker, The Briscoe and The Chevrolet. At this latter tent The Review contest car is to be seen. The Smith Form A Truck is also exhibited by Myaor Duffus along with the Fords.

The exhibit of dairy supplies is excellent and everything up to date is exhibited by the De Laval Separator Co. and the Empire Separator Co. The electrical goods are shown in displays by Alexander & Miller and Grant & Thorpe.

In the Main Building Heintzman & Co. have an up-to-date display of pianos, pianoplayers and graphonolas. Cressman & Co. have an exhibit of sewing machines especially designed by The White Co., as well as an exhibit of talking machines.

The Brantford Scales Co. also have a display of computing scales and other labor-saving devices.

Oak Hall have a tent displaying all the latest ideas in men's wear and have a very attentive bunch of attendants.

The flowers and vegetables are attracting a great deal of attention. The growing of vegetables by the younger people has added a new attraction to this department, and some fine exhibits of potatoes grown by school boys are to be seen.

The Peterborough Floral Co. have a very attractive display of funeral and wedding designs. A nifty part of this is the dainty table service with decorations.

Jordan Bros. have a fine display of designs as well as a monster exhibit of decorative and table ferns.

The exhibit of live stock is good in all classes. Durhams, Holsteins, Jerseys, Polled Angus and Ayrshires are the dominant classes in cattle. The sheep section was well classed and caused not a little trouble to the judges.

The horses were a good show by themselves and were the centre of interest.

The showing of hogs, while not up to former years, is not at all a bad one. Considerable interest is being taken in the judging of Durham bulls of all ages. For two successive years Mr. Bert Garbutt has won the cup, and if he should win this year he will hold it for good.

ON THURSDAY, WHEN A SPARK FROM THRESHER STARTED A FIRE.

A disastrous fire occurred on Thursday afternoon on the farm of the late Mr. Lucy, 10th con. of Eldon, when the large barn and all the grain together with a separator went up in smoke.

Threshers were at work on the farm, and it is believed a spark from the engine was responsible for the blaze. The fire spread so rapidly that it was impossible to save anything. While the fire was raging, a spark ignited a log barn across the road and it was also destroyed. There was no insurance on the barns or contents.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1917

PATRIOTIC SUFFRAGISTS.

Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, president of the National Equal Franchise Union, has performed a highly patriotic service. She has set an example to the rest of the country. In a remarkably effective letter to the press in support of the War-time Election Act she accepts the principle of sacrifice as the basis of extensions in the franchise. She says that she and other loyal women are willing that the female relatives of soldiers should have the exclusive right to cast their ballots in the coming contest. She takes this stand because of Teuton perfidy, and the inadvisability of enfranchsing foreign women until the enemy is beaten. She thinks that the Government is right in enfranchising women of obvious loyalty. She adds that other loyal women who have not male relatives of military age are willing to wait for the vote in order to prevent women slackers from casting their ballots in the pending contest. Mrs. Hamilton shows that she has the sense of proportion. She knows that women will never get the vote or any other privilege if Germany is not beaten. She puts the greater issue before the less, and in so doing The Daily News believes, she represents the great majority of intelligent women throughout the country.—Toronto News.

IMAGINARY INJUSTICE.

THERE SEEMS to be an impression among the workingmen of the city that the Military Service Act will be applied to their affairs in private life and that their positions are to be made less remunerative as a result. Some of them believe, especially those engaged in the manufacture of munitions, that after they are called out the Government can send them back to the factories and set them to work again, not at their present wages, but at the soldier's compensation of $1.10 a day.

All such fears are groundless. There is nothing in the Act that makes any such provision. It is true that with the law in operation every man of military age is regarded as a soldier, but this is only to the extent that he is subject to call when the services of the men in his class are required. If he fails to pass the physical test he will be relegated to private life again, where it may be that his services are as urgently required by the state as they are at the front. No one has ever been justified in the assumption that the Act is in any way designed to reduce the present scale of wages in any line. If the Government has energy to expend in this regard it is more likely to be applied to a reduction in the cost of the average man's living expenses.

The claim is also made in some quarters that the disfranchisement of the aliens is of a piece with the Boer policy which precipitated the South African war. There is no analogy between the two cases. Aliens in the Transvaal were practically barred from the franchise for all time, and this in a time of peace. The object of President Kruger was to prevent such aliens from voting out the system of taxation by which they were compelled to bear the heavy end of the burden of public expenditure. This policy prevailed in a time of peace. The aliens in Canada today, at least those who have not been naturalized for over fifteen years, are deprived of the right to vote only for the duration of the war which the Empire is waging against the nations in which these aliens were born. In the meantime there is no unjust discrimination against them in the mater of taxation.

THE UNWRITTEN LAW.

FOR THE FIRST time in the history of English criminal courts a defendant, charged with taking the life of a man who wrecked his home, has been acquitted by a jury of his peers. The unwritten law has at last found a place in British jurisprudence. The marvel is not so much that this should be the case as that the verdict in question, instead of arousing general uneasiness, appears to meet with universal approval.

The [illegible]

The law of the land is being more and more administered with an eye on the ends of justice rather than upon precedent and other legal formalities.

The burglar who enters a man's house to steal his silverware, his jewels or his money, can be shot down with impunity. The sanctity of the home and the honor of womanhood should be regarded as the highest trust committed to the charge of any man.

The unwritten law is likely to win more and more the support of public opinion. The man with money may buy his way out of legal meshes, but nothing has yet been devised to save the offender from the revolver of the outraged husband.

POLICE WORK IN HAMILTON.

A PARAGRAPH that is going the rounds of the press these days advises Canadians who contemplate murder to inveigle their intended victim to Hamilton before taking his life, the chances being that the author of the crime will never be detected by the police of that city.

Four men who were with the late Dr. MacRobbie at the time of his death, are now awaiting trial on a charge of murder. The coroner's jury has returned their finding. Nothing seems to have been established clearly except that Dr. MacRobbie was dead and that his death was neither natural nor the result of his own act. Some one had done him to death with an iron bar, but the identity of that person has not yet been established.

The jury went out of its way, it would seem, to compliment the detective who worked up the case. Some police officers achieve honor by hard and efficient work, while others have it thrust upon them by juries and such. The work of the detective in arresting the four men who were in the building at the time the doctor was found dead was what struck the jurors as particularly brilliant. Think of how much more brilliant that work would have been if there had been a score or so to arrest instead of a scant four.

It all seems to be a question of numbers. The Hamilton police can make arrests with the best of them. Getting the right man seems to be a secondary consideration, so long as they lay hands on every one in sight. And while the coroner's jury praises such stunts the officers will continue to live under the delusion that their work is at least up to the average.

SELLING BACON TO ENGLAND.

CONSIDERABLE surprise was caused a few weeks ago when the announcement was made that the British authorities would purchase no more bacon from Canada, and, as usual in such cases, no reason was given for the order. On the face of it, it looked unfair that Britain should take this course with Canada while continuing to buy bacon as usual from the United States.

The step decided upon was a cold, matter-of-fact business transaction. The United States was ready to extend practically unlimited credit to the British in the purchase of bacon. It now seems that the same policy is to be adopted here and that a credit of seventy-five million dollars is to be established, so that the probability is that England will continue to buy Canadian bacon as usual.

This is a matter of vast importance to the country, not only to the manufacturers, but to the producers and the workingmen. If the embargo remained in effect, live hogs would be shipped to the United States and the Canadian plants would be obliged to reduce their working forces or close down altogether. That is the one argument required to support the credit that was referred to in the despatches of yesterday.

FROM THE OUTSIDE it looks as if the Russians had enough to fight without fighting themselves.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

As to Marriage.
(Buffalo Express.)

The Czar of Russia is married to a German woman who is said to have wept at every German defeat. He lost his throne. The King of Greece was married to a German woman, to whose influence is credited the ignoble part of Greece in the early stages of the war which cost Constantine his throne. The King of Sweden is married to a German woman, to whom is credited the base part which Sweden has been playing in serving the Kaiser. Next?

A Modern Jack's Beanstalk.
(Lewiston Journal.)

That's probably a true story from Oxford county, that a small boy, playing in the corn field, hung his hat on the top of a corn stalk. The corn grew so high in the night, the boy couldn't reach his hat in the morning. They left it there and now his father can't reach it.

Unfortunates.
(Ohio State Journal.)

We have two classes of unfortunates in this old vale of tears and laughter—those who can't get their minds on their work and those who can't get theirs off it.

No Enthusiasm.
(Brantford Expositor.)

George C. Martin, former chairman of the Eastern Canadian Passenger Association, made a strong attack on government ownership of railways at a Toronto Fair luncheon last week. In the course of his remarks, he said: "Public ownership tends to incompetence all round, kills initiative, and there is no incentive for work or invention under such ownership." Two or three clapped their hands, but the rest received the statement in silence.

ODDS AND ENDS FROM THE AMERICAN PRESS

One Blessing of Rain.
(Kansas City Star.)

A new blessing which rain brings to Kansas has been found. Among other good things rains make the motor thieving industry harder to carry on. A big car stolen from Winfield one night last week was found stuck in the mud near Arkansas City the next morning.

Jens Jensen ban sorry for Count Luxburg yust now, but the Count ban the Swedish equivalent for a notorious ass anyhow.

ONE WAY TO WIN THE WAR

To win the war it is absolutely necessary to defeat Germany's plan of starving Great Britain and the Allies by her illegal use of submarines. The British fleet is blockading Germany and Austria. The Allied armies have established a supremacy over the armies of the Central Powers. Hindenburg's plan of fighting a defensive war on land, while the submarines reduce Britain to starvation and submission, must be defeated.

To do this it will be necessary for Canada and the United States to increase their exports to Britain of the great staples—wheat, beef and bacon. England can convoy and protect supply ships from the North American Continent, but cannot spare ships to send to more distant parts of the world like Australia, New Zealand, Argentine and India. The available [illegible] must be conserved. Two or more voyages across the Atlantic can be made in the time taken to reach Australia. Many countries, notably Argentina, formerly available to supply meat and breadstuffs to Great Britain, are unable to do so this year, even were ships available, owing to crop failures.

It is now calculated that Great Britain, France, and the other Western European Allies, and the men at the front will require a total of 971,000,000 bushels of wheat. Great Britain and the allied European countries can produce but 394,000,000 bushels, leaving 577,000,000 bushels to be supplied by import. The normal consumption of Canada and the United States, the only countries readily available in the present food crisis, would permit the export this year of not more than 207,000,000, according to the latest crop reports. That means a shortage of 370,000,000 bushels for Great Britain and the Allies and a shortage for the soldiers in the field.

If the 370,000,000 bushels shortage had to be provided entirely by Canada and the United States, Canada's proportion would be 25,900,000 bushels, or one-half normal consumption. Canadians must make up as large a proportion as possible of their share by substituting other foods for wheat, or the German starvation campaign will succeed. To help do this the Food Controller asks the people of Canada to save 12,000,000 bushels of wheat by economizing flour. This will still leave 13,900,000 bushels of this share to be secured from more distant countries.

Similarly with beef and bacon, the other exportable staples. If we do not substitute other foods, of which we have an abundance, we cannot win the war.

Canada must be worthy of the men of Ypres, Courcelette and Vimy Ridge.

WEEKLY REPORT ON CROPS

According to weekly reports submitted to the Ontario Department of Agriculture, weather conditions during the week have retarded the completion of grain harvesting; but, although some oats are yet out in the shock, the fields generally have been pretty well cleaned up of all spring grains.

Fall wheat seeding is later than usual owing to the delayed harvest, but next week promises to be very busy in this regard, and it is expected that a large acreage will ultimately be got in soon enough for a fair catch. More than usual of the new fall wheat this season is being sown on stubble land, as not so much sod as usual has been turned under owing to the late harvest.

Corn has made considerable growth of late, although not doing very well on heavy soils. The ensilage varieties are not cobbing so well as usual.

Recent rains are bringing potatoes along well, and they are much freer from disease than was expected.

Roots are growing vigorously, and large yields are confidently expected.

The second cutting of clover promises a good yield. A large return of seed is also expected from this crop.

Apples are scarce, and the situation is commanding much attention. In Prince Edward and Dundas counties prices for fall varieties of the Duchess type, No. 1's and 2's, f.o.b. nearest shipping point, are quoted at $3.50 a barrel, while No. 3's bring $3.00. Winter apples will be very difficult to obtain.

Live Stock.

Owing to excellent pastures live stock are in fine condition. Market prices are firm for all classes of animals, but there is comparatively little doing in the way of sales. The demand for poultry is increasing.

Pastures were never better for the time of year, and the milk flow is relatively good. However, with the high price of grain, mill feeds, etc., dairymen are not satisfied with the prevailing price of cheese at the factories.

Fodder supplies will be fuller than usual, except in the case of corn.

Labor Scare Over.

Although some farmers are still looking for temporary assistance, and most of the urban help has gone home, the agricultural crisis in this Province has been met and passed most satisfactorily. However, threshing, ploughing for and seeding fall wheat, drain tiling, and taking up roots will keep the remaining days of the outdoor season very busy on most farms. Tractors and larger horse teams are looked to as the chief agencies to help out in the big fall ploughing campaign now in progress.

Champion Pumpkin.

While there was no pumpkin class provided for Victor Brooks of 235 Princess street, brought in a mammoth pumpkin which was a full wheelbarrow load and should receive special mention. This is doubtless the largest single vegetables shown at the whole fair and is a credit to its producer.

In addition to the Y.M.C.A. Garden Club, composed of the younger boys, the Association, under the direction of its president, G. H. Gillespie, M.P.P., has placed over fifty older boys on farms during the past season.

Thanks are due to all who contributed prizes, especially Messrs. Thomas Barrie and W. J. Oke for special generosity, to the Peterborough Fair Management and the city newspapers; to Messrs. J. E. Smith and S. E. Ellis, who have given much time in judging the garden plots; to the boys themselves who have given up vacations to become "Soldiers of the Soil."

SCALES WHICH NEVER GUESS

The Brantford Computing Scale Company's splendid exhibit of scales and meat slicers at the Fair is a revelation as to what is possible in such store accessaries. Any merchant would consult his own interests by installing the Brantford Automatic Scales, which never guess. Their service appreciably reduces the cost of business operations as they compute with mechanical unfailing accuracy the selling price at whatever the price per pound may be. They are in fact, time and money savers, give mutual satisfaction to both customer and dealer and eliminate errors and disputes.

The Brantford Slicer attracted considerable interest. Every grocer and butcher needs one. It cuts with a neatness and precision which avoids waste and delights the most fastidious buyer.

These machines are made by the Brantford Computing Scale Company of Brantford, the largest and best equipped factory of its kind in Canada. They not only assemble, but manufacture complete, by Canadian workmen.

HELP FOR WORKING WOMEN

Some Have to Keep on Until They Almost Drop. How Mrs. Conley Got Help.

Here is a letter from a woman who had to work, but was too weak and suffered too much to continue. How she regained health:—

Frankfort, Ky.—"I suffered so much with female weakness that I could not do my own work, had to hire it done. I heard so much about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that I tried it. I took three bottles and I found it to be all you claim. Now I feel as well as ever I did and am able to do all my own work again. I recommend it to any woman suffering from female weakness. You may publish my letter if you wish."—MRS. JAMES CONLEY, 516 St. Clair St., Frankfort, Ky.

No woman suffering from any form of female troubles should lose hope until she has given Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

This famous remedy, the medicinal ingredients of which are derived from native roots and herbs, has for forty years proved to be a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

All women are invited to write to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., for special advice,—it will be confidential.

Men with long heads are capable of using them on short notice.

PROVINCIAL PLOWING MATCH IS TALKED OF FOR PETERBOROUGH

THIS COUNTY CAN SECURE ATTRACTION IS GUARANTEE IS PUT UP AND LAND SECURED.

While in attendance at the Central Canada Exhibition at Ottawa this week Mr. J. Lockie Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, Toronto who is the Secretary of the Ontario Plowmen's Association, had a conversation with Mr. H. B. Cowan, of Farm and Dairy and informed him that the directors of the Association desire to hold the next provincial plowing match in eastern Ontario, and that they would be open to consider an application from the city and county of Peterboro for the holding of the match. This match would include not only the usual plowing match, but the tractor demonstrations as well. In view of the greatly increased interest being taken in the use of tractors for plowing, these tractor demonstrations are drawing immense crowds. There is a possibility that Ottawa will try to secure the match.

Were the match to be held in Peterboro it would be necessary to guarantee $600 or $700 towards the expenses of the competition. This year the match is being held at Brantford. It is understood that the city of Brantford alone has given $500 towards the expenses. A difficulty in the way of holding the match in Peterboro might be found in the securing of enough suitable land near the city to ensure the large crowds being properly accommodated. Upwards of one hundred acres of good land would be required for plowing and demonstration purposes. While this would not all have to be in one block it would require to be so close together that the crowds could easily pass from one field to the other. A meeting of the County of Peterboro Plowmen's Association is likely to be held soon when the matter will be given consideration.

Sharp Practices.

Says a sport writer in the New York Sun: "Rumors of a sharp practice on the turf are in circulation. The gossips insist that several incidents at Belmont park last week warranted drastic action by the stewards of the meeting. Naturally the turf solons must move slowly. They cannot afford to jump at conclusions. But if evidence is produced that horses and riders have been manipulated for the purpose of fooling the public the guilty persons should be ruled off without further delay. Clean racing has become immensely popular in New York. The jockey club has stood for honest sport at all times. Undesirables who try to arrange matters to suit themselves are hard to detect, but in the long run the men who govern racing in the state of New York will hunt them down. In short, the stewards at Belmont park are not shutting their eyes, but they must be in possession of incriminating proof before they can take final action."

COBB MAKES $50,000 A YEAR.

Ty Cobb will soon be pulling down $50,000 a year, but not from baseball. With the Detroit team's departure for the east it was announced Cobb had accepted a contract from a St. Louis brewing company to act as salesman in Georgia at a salary of $1300 a month. With his reported bseball salray for six months, $12,500, his income would be $27,500. He has an automobile business in Royston, Ga., his home. This, added to royalties on moving pictures in which he has appeared, will soon make his yearly income $50,000.

Wit and Wisdom

The Best Car.

Mr. Newrych, thinking that a motor car was essential to his position, decided to obtain one at a certain place recommended by one of his friends.

"I want a good, reliable car," he said to the manager on his arrival next day.

"Yes, sir; we have the best in the trade."

"I want the best on the road," commented Mr. Newrych.

"There it is!" exclaimed the manager, pointing to a certain car. "I should be pleased to take you for a trial spin in it," he added.

"All right," said Mr. Newrych, and they started.

Everything went all right for about a mile and then the machine gradually slowed down until finally they stopped. The manager jumped out and made an examination.

"Wonderful! Wonderful!" he exclaimed.

"What is the matter?" asked Mr. Newrych.

"Why, there's no blessed engine on this car!"

"Then what in the world has it been going on?"

"Simply its reputation, sir—simply its reputation!" proudly replied the manager.

The Thrifty Scot.

Pat found himself hard up and without a flake of tobacco in his pouch. Suddenly he spied a very evident Scotchman coming along and, unable to resist the temptation, he approached Sandy. But a brilliant thought struck him.

"Might I trouble ye for the loan of a match?" asked the Irishman.

"Ay?" answered the Scotchman and gave him just one.

"Faith, now," cried the artful Irishman, "if I haven't come out without any tobacco, and all the shops shut."

"Ah,' said the Scot, reaching out his hand. "In that case ye'll no be needing that match."

Soldier's Sarcasm.

He was a slightly wounded soldier and for over an hour he had been listening to the orations and questions of an old dame who should have been giving the undertaker a job instead of worrying mankind.

"And did you get wounded?" she at last popped the inevitable question.

"Was I wounded?" exclaimed the exasperated Tommy in surprise. "No, mum, not at all. You see, there's a careless chap in our company and the night I got hurt he'd bin eatin' oranges and throwing the peel all over the battle field; so, of course, when I went to see "Alg ter ask if the night were dark enough ter 'ave some fireworks, blow me if I didn't slip on one of them bits o' peel an' cut me finger on a salmon tin!"

If a man is incompetent he usually charges it to bad luck.

There's a slump in the market when you try to dispose of experience that cost you dear.

ST. JOHN'S GIVES THANKS AND PRAISE FOR HARVEST

Beautiful Service Held Last Night---Anglican Clergymen of the City Taking Part---Choral Service of Usual High Order.

The congregation of St. John's church observed yesterday as a day of thanksgiving for another bountiful harvest now being gathered in all over the world except in countries over-run by armies of destruction. The church was beautifully decked with corn, vegetables, fruit and flowers, the result of loving labour by a large band of workers on Tuesday and Wednesday.

At the Choral Evensong last night the congregation rose at the entrance of clergy and choir at the south-end through a corn decorated arch to the hymn "Praise, O Praise, Our God and King," heartily sung by all. The office was finely sung by the Rev. Walter Archbold, D.D., the lessons read by the Rev. James Price, rector of South Peterborough, and the second portion of the service by the Rev. W. H. Write, rector of St. Luke's.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Canon McNab of S. Albans Cathedral, Toronto, on the subject of "Feeding the five thousand." The reverand preacher said in part: The duty of thanksgiving does not sufficiently enter into our lives. Many people sit down to meals and rise up again without a thought of thanks to the Bountiful Giver, and yet the fact was always with us, that a world failure of crops would at once bring us face to face with terrible famine.

Corn never grows wild. It is a great gift of God to man, and must be cultivated. Very little more than one year's supply for the world could be grown in any season, and it was devoutly to be hoped that the world generally was more thankful at heart than appeared on the surface.

With all the wonderful discoveries of science as applied to every day life no one could cause life to appear in one blade of grass, or one grain of wheat. The preacher appealed for more thought of prayer and praise, from which expressive action would undoubted spring.

The singing was hearty all through the service; responses, psalms and hymns, ably led by the large choir were taken part in by the whole congregation.

The work of the choir was very good, as is usual in St. John's church, and Mr. R. J. Devey may well be proud of such a fine body of singers, entirely voluntary in its composition, who give evidence of their ability by practicing and singing standard anthems and works seldom attempted by choirs with professional assistance.

The anthem during the offertory was Barnbys "Sing to the Lord of Harvest," the solo sung by Miss Quartermaine. After the third collect, as a special act of praise, the chorus, "The Marvellous Work" from Haydn's "Creation" was beautifully sung, by the whole choir, Mrs. W. G. Perks singing the soprano obligato.

The day's thanksgiving services were brought to an appropriate close by the singing of hymn 388." We plough the fields and scatter, "The Good Seed on the Land." After the service a social hour was spent in the school house, the choristers entertaining the visiting clergy.

BUSTLE LORE

The threat—for it cannot be regarded as a promise, is made that the wearing of the bustle is to be received, which recalls the old days.

Husbands and other household bipeds were requisitioned to inflate these "improvements" to milady's figure, just as they (the bipeds) were employed to button or hook up her ladyship's back at a later period.

The dictionary described these monstrosities as "a sort of cushion worn in the rear to improve the figure and prevent the skirt from interfering with the feet in walking." The primitive bustle was often composed of old newspapers. The word bustle is probably derived from the French "bosse" (pronounced buss") hump.

Going back a little further, in the early '70s, we find the period of the "Grecian bend," contemporaneous with the "waterfall."

If the ladies decide to wear bustles again, why they'll simply wear them. No more man will stop them! That abomination the stepless car was built to accommodate the hobble skirt. We may have to widen our sidewalks to meet the new conditions, and the street car advertiser will have to think of some new ones to print on his placards.

Tara was visited by a disastrous fire early yesterday morning, which did damage to the extent of about $18,000. Seven business places, including the British Hotel and two residences, were totally destroyed.

Edward M. Walsh, Jr., and Theodore B. Lyman, student aviators at the San Diego, Cal., Military Aviation School, were killed yesterday when their planes collided about 500 feet above ground.

THIRD READING ON VOTER'S BILL

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Sept. 14.—The third reading was given the Military Voters' Bill this morning and the measure passed by what Senator Cloran, in opposing the bill, declared was "a small packed majority" of the Senate. Later he withdrew the word "packed" on the insistence of Mr. Speaker. Senator Cloran declared that "Good Liberal members of the House had been replaced by specially reliable Tories, despite the political truce supposed to exist in Canada since the war started."

Goes To Hospital With Stiff Knee

GORDON CARTER WRITES TO A FRIEND OF INJURIES HE HAS SUSTAINED.

The Recording Secretary of Court Peterborough No. 29, C.O.F., under date of August 27:

Dear Sir:—

Just a line to let you know where I am and how I am getting along.

I was admitted into No. 1 Canadian Hospital on Aug. 13th and transferred to England on the 18th and arrived at the Royal Herbert Hospital, Woolwich, on the morning of the 19th about one o'clock.

I was filling sand bags in the trench when I slipped and gave my right knee a bad twist and they have me in bed with "Synovitis" knee. It is not so very painful now only my knee is stiff and when they start to bend it the band begins to play and that happens every morning but I am in hopes it will come alright

I am quite comfortable here. The Red Cross Society look after us pretty good and so do the Canadian chaplains.

Hoping to soon be up again, I remain,

VOTE FOR YOUR FAVORITE

The fact that a name appears in the list of nominees does not necessarily imply that the person is an active candidate in the contest. It is the duty and purpose of the contest department to announce the nominations that have been made. In many instances people have been nominated by friends who hope to see them win the race for the Great Prizes. Many of these nominees will engage in the contest actively, while others will remain "in the hands of their friends."

It is the right of the patrons of The Review to decide who shall win. It is within the province of the subscribers to vote for anyone, and these votes will be credited as ordered, without regard to such person is an active candidate or not. The public will do the voting, and the judges will decide who are the winners at the close of the contest.

For the purposes of the contest, any person who has been voted for is a candidate in the contest. The votes will stand as credited to the end of the contest. They are not transferable and they are not subject to cancellation except for reasons of irregularity.

The vote standing today shows that many people have divided the votes up to the present. Votes have been issued on all subscription payments made at The Review office since the opening of the contest, in many instances by subscribers who paid in person. These votes have been credited in every instance according to the wishes of the subscribers, and this practice will be followed throughout the contest. Several people have been voted for in this way, although they have not sent in any subscriptions themselves.

A very few subscriptions separate the leading candidates.

ROOM FOR MORE CANDIDATES.

The contest is only just starting. There are many who would enter the race today if they realized that the chances of victory are as good as the contest office knows them to be.

You should enter the contest today. Send in your name. Send for a receipt book. Call at the contest office and talk it over.

SOLDIERS TO-DAY FOLLOW FOOTSTEPS OF JOAN OF ARC

An officer in a British dugout in France called for a volunteer to carry a bomb forward to destroy Trench No. 2 of the enemy. The task meant death to the man who undertook it and the soldiers were given time to think the matter over.

One of these young men realized that he was on historic grounds and the story of the famous martyred patriot, Joan of Arc, arose in his memory. He recalled how the invader was in France five centuries ago and the all but imbecle King was helpless in the hands of the intrigriers in his own court as he was powerless to save his country from the alien foes. A peasant girl, Joan of Arc, received, or believed she had received, a mission from heaven to redeem her native land. She rode at the hear of the rejuvenated French troops to battle and led them to victory. Her crown was not a royal diadem, but the badge of martyrdom. The adulation showered upon her by the emancipated people was short lived and Joan of Arc was burned at the stake, the victim of jealousy.

Such an example of unselfish heroism appealed to the young Britisher in the trenches and he volunteered for the duty that meant death. He crawled to the objective, the second line of defence, exploded the bomb, accomplished that which he had set out to do and died with the foe who perished in the explosion.

This is the plot that is so beautifully worked out in the photoplay, "Joan, the Woman," which opened the season at the Grand Opera House last night and which will be repeated tonight and tomorrow with a matinee each day. The pictures are excellent, the story is clearly explained at every stage. There are views of trench life today and vivid representations of battle scenes in the days when Joan of Arc saved France, when men fought in hand to hand encounters. There are armies marching on horse and foot under forests of spears and with flying banners. Everything is true to life and to the records of history. The play is an insight into the history of the fifteenth century, a startling contrast to the time when France and England were foes instead of allies.

Everything Spick and Span.

The Grand Opera House has been renovated throughout and is bright with paint and other evidences of the decorator's art. The floors have been painted and new carpets laid in all the aisles. The house is now more than ever entitled to the reputation it has always held among the patrons and profession as one of the best appointed places of entertainment in Ontario, Toronto not excepted.

The same old favorites are in the orchestra with Mr. Albert Nicholls as pianist and leader. Theatrical seasons come and go but the only incident that marks the passing of time in the Grand Opera is the fact that Drummer "Bob" Beach is finally reduced to the necessity of wearing spectacles, an adornment that eminently becomes his countenance.

High Praise To Albert Brown

WILL APPEAR IN "THE LOVE OF A KING" AT THE GRAND WEDNESDAY.

Mr. Albert Brown has established himself so well in the regard of Montreal theatre-goers that his appearance in a new play is of unusual interest, and especially so when he chooses this city as the scene of its first performance, and when in subject matter and characterization it presents a marked contrast to the line of plays and parts in which this talented star has appeared here in recent seasons. "The Love of a King," the romantic historical drama which was given its premiere at His Majesty's yesterday afternoon, is from the pen of Paul Kester, a successful and experienced American playwright, and is based upon the morgantic alliance upon which King George III. is supposed to have entered with a charming Quakeress, Hanna Lightfoot, before his accession to the throne.

Mr. Brown's performance of George, Prince of Wales, afterwards George III., is a thorough consistent and telling study, which shows that this facile actor is quite as much at home in the delineation of character as he is in the lighter roles which he has made familiar to Canadian audiences for the past half-dozen seasons. In the earlier scenes, his sole fault is that he fails at some moments in completely sinking his personality, and at times there are flashes of the Albert Brown of the farces and comedies. As the serious and romantic interest develops, however, this tendency is overcome, and in the last act, where the blind and insane old king revisits, in a half-lucid interval, the garden which witnessed the beginning of his life-romance, Mr. Brown's work was a most sincere, moving and eloquent effort.

Speaking of Albert Brown, who will appear in "The Love of a King," at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday, the Montreal Gazette of September 4 says:

Ready For The Season

Preparedness is the word at The Peterborough Shoe Store, and 1917 Fall season finds this popular footwear establishment in the best position ever to handle its rapidly-growing trade. The Fall Shoes shown are in all the new shades of kid, browns, chocolates, greys, etc., and made up with the style and height of heel to suit every fancy. To keep up the reputation of the store for extra values the prices are made so low as to be a most attractive feature of every pair of shoes in the place, and as a very special inducement there is a fine line of Misses' English Walking Boots at a bargain price, to open the season with a rush. Don't miss the place — 291 George St. New Lundy Block.

SLACKERS WILL BE SET TO WORK NOT SENT TO JAIL

Men Who Refuse to Obey Call to the Colors will be Required to Render Strenuous Service to the State--How Millitary Act will be Enforced.

There will be no jail terms for the men who neglect to report for service or apply for exemption under the Military Service Act, according to information from a Government official. Instead, those who ignore the forthcoming proclamation and are caught, will be tried and sentenced to the best and hardest work they can do for this country.

Moreover, it is stated, if a man is found to be physically fit, he will not merely be placed in line with the men who answered the call, but will likely be allowed less time to train and sent to the trenches faster than would have otherwise have been the case.

Just what procedure will be employed in enforcing the Act is a matter still under the consideration of Government officials, but the following outline is said to be the method which will be employed.

How Slackers Will Be Met.

Every man who reports himself for service or makes an application for exemption by mail—as will be provided for when the forms are printed and distributed—will receive in return for his application, a counterfoil to the effect that he has complied with the provisions of the Act. The postmaster of the town or city in which such application has been made will be the official to issue the counterfoil credential. If application is made in person before a tribunal the latter officials will issue the counterfoil.

Besides this method the Government will secure the active assistance of municipal organizations, the Post Offices and all such agencies which may be of service. And to supplement these special inquiry offices will be opened wherever deemed necessary, all for the purpose of finding out those men who ought to have presented themselves for service or have not claimed exemption.

"Then," stated Mr. Osler today, "arrangements will be made to draft into the service in whatever capacity their physical condition will allow, all those men who refuse to answer the procalamation. Those fit for the trenches will be sent there—possibly sooner than the rest, by way of punishment."

Premiums on Promptness.

"While the Act imposes the penalty of imprisonment this does not mean that men will be sent to jail if they contravene it," he continued. "They will be used in whatever capacity is best for the country."

It should be pointed out, Mr. Osler stated, that the men who report as they should under the proclamation, will not be called out any sooner by reason of their reporting than those who hang behind. In fact it is quite likely, he said, that the men who report first will get more time to settle up their affairs.

Mr Osler states that the officials at Ottawa are making great progress in the organization necessary for the administration of the Act. "It's a big work and requires a great deal to be done."

In reply to a question he stated that the administration of the Act was entirely free from political color; otherwise he would have nothing to do with it.

No other Provincial Registrars have yet been appointed.

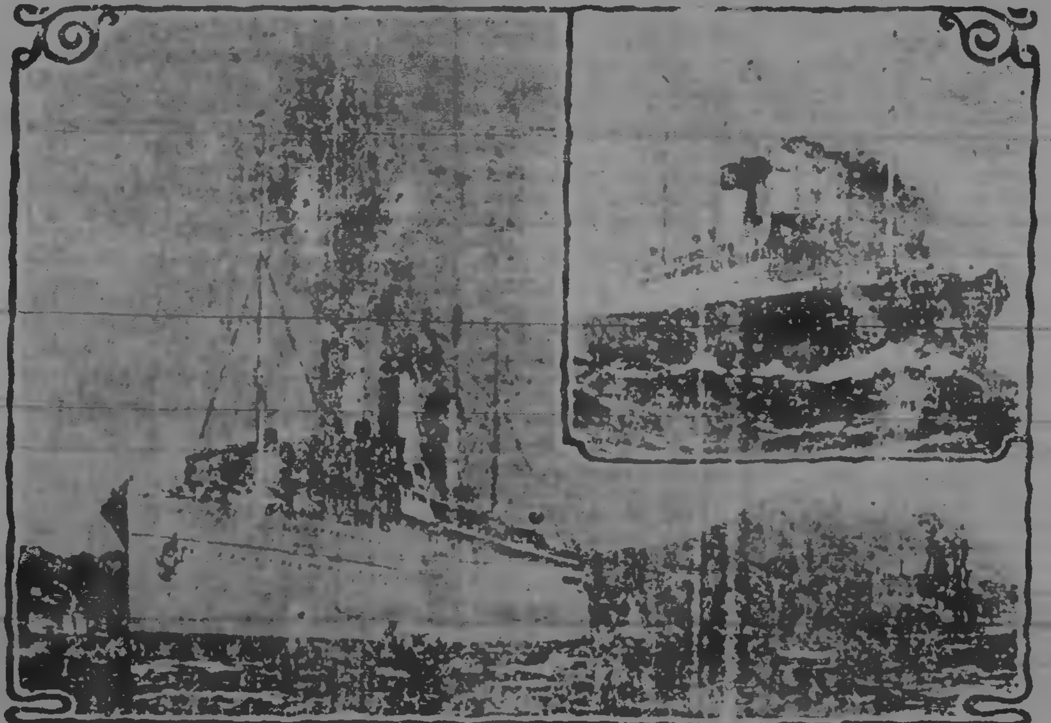
IN SPITE OF THE KAISER



(1) C. P. O. S. Pacific Liner which made a speed record a few weeks ago.
(2) C. P. O. S. Atlantic liner.

THE claim made by Kaiser Wilhelm and his satellites that the British merchantile fleets are disappearing from the ocean seems particularly ludicrous in the case of the fleet most closely associated with Canada, namely that of the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, which so far from diminishing has actually increased its tonnage since the beginning of the war by nearly 30%. No fewer than 15,000 men are employed with approximately 60,000 dependents, and the numbers are steadily increasing.

Taking the Atlantic fleets first. At the outbreak of the war the steamships of the Allan Line and Canadian Pacific Co. (now known as the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services) numbered 35, with a gross tonnage of 313,000 tons. The value of these fleets to the British Empire in war-transport work has been inestimable, and the earliest possible advantage was taken of it by the British Government. Almost from the moment of declaration of war on the 4th August, 1914 a large proportion of the joint fleet was requisitioned, including the larger and newer vessels then in service. Two of the newest and largest of the Allan Line steamers were immediately put into commission as armed merchant cruisers. "The Empress of Russia," "Empress of Asia," "Empress of India" and "Empress of Japan" were immediately fitted out as armed cruisers. Many of the other vessels of the joint companies previously engaged on the passenger trade between Europe and Canada were brought into Trooping Service or employed in transporting supplies and ammunitions, not only across the Atlantic but all over the oceans of the world from the Far West to the Far East. Notwithstanding this great call on the Canadian Pacific and Allan Lines' resources these companies have been able without break to carry on regular passenger and freight business, maintaining an uninterrupted service of mails and passenger and freight traffic westbound, as well as carrying home eastbound large supplies of troops, stores, ammunitions of war. From the outbreak of war down to the present day the Canadian Pacific and Allan vessels engaged on trooping and similar work have transported no fewer than 700,000 troops and passengers from or to Canada, the Mediterranean, India, China, Egypt, Gallipoli, Mesopotamia, or across Channel, or on the Pacific. Up to the same moment the companys' vessels since the outbreak of war have steamed over 1,230,000 miles and have carried eastbound and westbound over three million tons of cargo, munitions, supplies, etc. These figures indicate no mean contribution to the "carrying on" of the war, and constitute a splendid tribute to what Canada, Britain's Nearest Dominion has tried to do to help the Mother Country in her hour of need. Add to this the fact that these ships have been carrying in practically every case large quantities of munitions made in the Canadian Pacific Angus Shops, the value of the contribution of the companies under notice and of the great parent company—the C. P. R.—received still greater emphasis. The Canadian Pacific Fleet, although suffering but a slight diminution of tonnage by the act of the King's enemies, has been gradually increasing by purchase or building so that to-day the combined fleets of the Allan Line and Canadian Pacific number [illegible] steamers, with a gross tonnage of 411,000 tons whilst further orders have been placed for four more of still greater tonnage. Services are being steadily maintained carrying mails for the different parts of the Dominions and the outer European ports of the Allied countries. Every means within the power of the Canadian Pacific is being used to maintain export trade and the importation of necessaries alike for the use of the armies in the fields, and for the people at home.

The recent assumption by the Canadian Pacific Ocean Services of the entire management in control of the operations of the Allan Line recalls the fact that the Allan Line was one of the first companies, if not actually the first to effect a direct service between Great Britain and Canada. The founder of the Allan Line was Captain Alexander Allan who in 1822 sailed from Glasgow to Quebec in the brig "Jean," in search of cargo for his vessel. In 1852 the sailing vessel of the Allan Line were replaced by steamships in the Canada British trade. As showing the progressive tendencies of these hard headed and tenacious Scottish founders of the line, it is worthy of note that the Allan Line has been pioneer (A) in the adoption of steel in the construction of its vessels; (B) in the adoption of the turbine as a mode of propulsion; (C) in the adoption of twin-screws on its steamers; and (D) bilge keels as a means of checking oscillation.

The founder's family, now headed by Col. Sir Montague Allan, C.V.O., and his cousin, Mr. H. A. Allan always adopted a progressive policy, with the result that steady increase in the size and speed of steamers has been witnessed whenever additions to the fleet were made, and these adjuncts have done much to stimulate the demand for passenger and cargo accommodation on the Atlantic service to Canada.

Manila, in the Philippines, has also been of late brought into the service as one of the numerous ports of call in the East and the company is steadily but surely working up a strong and useful service on the Pacific which cannot but be of the greatest advantage to the Pacific trade in general. On the Atlantic, the C. P. R. instituted its own directly owned and controlled fleet of steamers in 1903 by the purchase of the Atlantic vessels of the Elder Dempster Beaver Line a service which has grown to its present proportions and which now includes some of the finest passenger and cargo carrying vessels plying between Canada and the Mother Country.

WANT WHEAT CONSERVED

Misunderstanding Over Service Pledge Cards For Saving of Foods

Toronto, Sept. 14.—Dr. Abbott, of the Ontario Resources Committee, in whose charge is the distribution of the pledge cards, stated that the food service pledge was not a thirft or economy campaign. It is simply one of substitution, the saving of wheat and flour for export to the Allies by the substitution of other foods. Dr. Abbott added that his chief concern was not that the people should spend less on the table or that they should save food. It was that they should conserve the specific foods for which the Allies have a great demand and which can be expected.

"The people of Canada must reduce their consumption of wheat 25 per cent, and my object is to secure pledges from the housewives that they will assist," he said.

If you are suffering from dyspepsia, indigestion or sour stomach you should try a mixture of Salol Pepsin and iridin.

This is said to be the formula of Dr. Banta's famous prescription which gave him a world-wide reputation.

FOOD CONTROLLERS TROUBLES

More than once the alleged disparity of meat prices in St. Paul and Winnipeg has been brought to the notice of the Canadian Food Controller.

Some weeks ago a Winnipeg paper published a sensational statement, purporting to show that meat prices in St. Paul, Minn., were from forty to fifty per cent. lower than in Winnipeg. For this purpose, the paper in question quoted prices from special advertisements of St. Paul "cut-rate" provision shops. In all cases the period of sales in these shops was limited to either four or five hours. It follows that the quantity to be sold was limited, that the cut-rates were merely part of the usual advertising expedient common on both sides of the boundary. The large merchant is often content to make no profit, or even to stand a loss on specially limited lots of merchandise, if by so doing he can obtain publicity. The prices thus fixed have no bearing whatever upon current market prices. The amount of reduction depends solely upon the dealer's desire for indirect returns.

In this particular instance the Food Controller immediately telegraphed the Winnipeg and St. Paul boards of trade. The answers received showed that in the items of sirloin steak, choice porterhouse, choice pot roast, spring lamb legs and rib roast beef the St. Paul and Winnipeg prices were almost identical, thus completely refuting the contention advanced by the newspaper in question.

As the erroneous despatch had obtained very wide currency before it was corrected, the work of the Food Controller was injured, temporarily at least.

In further confirmtaion of figures published on August 22nd, showing the close correspondence of market prices in Winnipeg and St. Paul, the Food Controller received a telegram from the editor of the St. Paul Despatch giving the actual meat prices in that city on August 17th, with clippings from The Despatch of that date containing "cut-rate" advertisements.

Herewith are given in parallel the regular St. Paul prices as telegraphed to the Food Controller and the "cut-rate' prices as advertised in a St. Paul newspaper:

	Regular price	Cut-rate price
Sirloin Steak	28c	15c
Choice porterhouse	35c	18c
Choice pot roast .	15c	10c
Spring lamb legs .	30c	15c
Rib roast beef ...	18c	12½c

It will be seen that the "cut-rate" prices are all about 50 per cent. less than the regular quotations. It is obvious that the former do not in any way affect the question of comparative current prices in the two cities.

TIMELY RECIPES

The following recipes have been used in the kitchens for more than a hundred years and attest to the skilful housewifery of many famous women:

Liza Peach Leather.

Wash ond stone a peck of freestones and press them through a sieve. Add one pound of light brown sugar to every four quarts of pulp. Boil this three minutes by the clock. Spread the paste on platters and put in the sun daily until the paste curls up and lets a knife slip under. Dust white sugar and a little powdered cinnamon over the rough side, then cut in strips and roll up. This will keep in a dry place for several months, ond if the weather is hot the sun will dry the paste in three days.

Philadelphia Catsup.

"Philadelphia Catsup—the Best," reads the inscription in quaint handwriting in the old receipt book treasured by a Quaker family. It is so simple that we are glad to bring it to the attention of everyone who likes catsup and who does not?— but dreads the tedious ordeal usually prescribed to make it.

The Best Catsup — Cut enough ripe tomatoes in quarters to make a gallon when passed through a colander to remove the skin and seed. To the pulp add one and one-half pounds of brown sugar, four large onions chopped fine, two tablespoons each of ground cloves, one box mustard, four tablespoons of salt and one tablespoon of red pepper. Simmer this in a porcelain kettle until it thickens, and when well cooked down add one quart of scalded vinegar. Simmer thirty minutes longer and bottle ond seal. This will be dark colored from the spices, but exceedingly rich.

Liver Dumplings.

Liver dumplings is a dish often mentioned in the writings of the Stowe and Beecher family and are still made by housekeepers everywhere who pride themselves on being "good cooks."

Boston Dumplings. — Cook liver, chop it fine, season with salt, pepper, onion and parsley. Make a dough just as you would for baking powder biscuit but mix the seasoned meat in with the flour. Make the dumplings into balls and roll each one in flour. When the stock is boiling drop them in and cook for twenty minutes. Have bread crumbs browned in butter waiting and when the dumplings are in a turneen sprinkle these over them. Thicken some of the stock, strain it and serve with the dumplings.

CHEESE CROQUETTES.

Three tablespoons of butter, one-quarter cup of flour, two-thirds cup of milk, the yolks of two eggs, one cup of mild cheese cut in very small cubes, half a cup of grated cheese, salt and pepper, a few grains of cayenne. Make a thick white sauce, using butter, flour and milk; add the yolks of eggs without first beating, and stir well until mixed; then add grated cheese. As soon as the cheese melts remove from the fire, fold in cheese cubes and season with salt, pepper and cayenne. Spread in a shallow pan and cool. Turn on a board, cut into small squares or strips, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs again. Fry in deep fat and drain on brown paper. Serve for a cheese course.

KORNILOFF HAS BEEN ARRESTED

SECOND DAY OF FAIR MARKED BY RECORD BREAKING ATTENDANCE

Huge Crowd of Delighted and Enthusiastic Visitors—High Grade Stock, Agricultural and Industrial Exhibits—Horse Racing, Fireworks and Midway Attractions.

The directors of the Peterborough Exhibition have scored the greatest success since their organization. The Fair this year exceeds all previous years not only in the number and quality of the entries, but in attendance. Up to last night there were 2,000 more paid admissions than on the first day of the Fair last year, and the attendance today was excellent. Beyond a doubt this will be the directors' banner year in every respect.

Hundreds thronged the grounds yesterday afternoon, the visitors from the rural districts being in the majority. In the evening the citizens had their innings. Street cars, loaded until only standing room was left, discharged load after load at the entrance to the grounds, and the ticket sellers were overworked handing out the pasteboards. The street car service was excellent, and Supt. McCann is entitled to the thanks of the community for the provisions made for the accommodation of the Fair visitors.

In the Trench.

The soldiers' trench, a replica of a line of defence in real warfare, was the central point of interest for the visitors in the evening just as it had been during the day. Sergt. P. Victor and other members of the Veterans' Association explained the layout to the crowds that thronged it and politely answered all the questions that were propounded.

"This is not a bad place to live," remarked a young lady as she glanced into one of the dugouts, which really did look like a cosy retreat. "The soldier does not seem to have a hard time of it, after all."

There is a vast difference between a trench at the Exhibition grounds built for demonstration purposes and one in actual warfare. If the young lady quoted above could get a glimpse of a trench in which men stood waist deep in blood-stained water, a trench filled with the dead and dying, with shrapnel whistling overhead and shells bursting on every hand, she would probably be convinced that the soldier's lot is something more strenuous than a picnic or a visit to a fair.

Other Night Attractions.

Of course, the fireworks display was the chief card last night for young and old alike. This part of the program was excellent, as pyrotechnics of all shapes and sizes sizzled through the air, a background of heavy clouds rendering the display all the more brilliant.

The Midway was, as usual, at Peterborough Fairs, free from objectionable features, although what purpose may have been served by the exhibition of a girl addicted to cigarettes may be open to question. The snakes may have been venomous in their native state, but modern invention has found a way for rendering such reptiles harmless by extracting their fangs.

All of the booths did a thriving business. One of the main attractions was the superb display of flowers and the selections heard in the music hall. All of the buildings were admirably lighted and the appointments everywhere demonstrated the fact that the directors are well versed in every detail of staging an exhibition.

Cinches the Cup.

Mr. Bert Garbutt, of Smith, again won the prize for the best Durham bull and now holds for ever the cup donated by his brother, Mr. J. H. Garbutt for this class. Bert won the cup three times in succession.

GALES PREVENT THE PLACING OF THE SECOND SPAN IN POSITION.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Quebec, Sept. 15.— Engineers of the Quebec bridge, prevented by gales from raising the central span this morning, waited impatiently for better conditions as the gales continue at present.

The engineers will hold a conference this afternoon to decide whether it will be safe to elevate the span tomorrow morning. Every day that slips by renders the chances of getting the span in place this year more remote owing to tides.

Turning the Tables on Their Conquerors of Last Week--Korniloff and Lomosky are Under Arrest---British Make Slight Gains on Belgian Front.

Petrograd, Sept. 15. — Russian forces yesterday defeated the German troops on the road to Pskoff on the Riga front and occupied the towns of Kronberg, Keltsen and Sisseral which had been held by Germans.

British Advance.

London, Sept. 15.—British troops last night made a slight advance on the Belgian front east of Westhook, and improved their positions according to a British official statement issued today. A strong German detachment, which attempted to regain the ground captured by the British earlier in the day northeast of St. Julien was dispersed by artillery fire.

On Serbian Front.

Paris, Sept. 15.—The official report says:

"Army of the East, Sept. 13.—The enemy attempted reconnaisances on the Serbian front and against our positions northwest of Monastir, but was repulsed. We captured some prisoners. Artillery fighting is reported in the sectors of Monte and Monastir. Around Pegradec our troops are entrenching themselves in the ground captured recently. In this region we have taken a total of 378 prisoners, including 10 officers. We also captured four mountain cannon, one 37-millimeter gun, eight machine guns and a considerable amount of war material, including more than one thousand rifles and six hundred cases of ammunition."

SUBS. ON AMERICAN COAST

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

An Atlantic Port, Sept. 15.—British steamer Bat arrived here today and reported that early yesterday morning a wireless "SOS" call was heard stating that the ship from which the message came was being shelled by a German sub. the location being 65 miles east of the Nantucket light ship.

Additional information that a submarine was in the Western Atlantic was brought by another British liner which arrived here today from an English port. Officers of the liner said they had been instructed to watch out for U-boats when nearing the American coast. The vessel which sent the S.O.S. had a name ending with "Abby" of which there are several in the Atlantic trade.

FOUR SUSPECTS HAD OVER $1300 IN THEIR POCKETS

Chief Thompson and His Men Make Eleven Captures of Suspected Pickpockets---Victims of Light Fingered Gentry at Fair Yesterday.

Chief Thompson and Detectives Newhall and Meagher rounded up part of a gang of alleged pickpockets yesterday afternoon. The local authorities deserve all the praise possible for the cleverness in which the men were arrested. The quartette Thomas Flynn, Olon Foley, Sam Sarting, and Frances Davis were all remanded to jail for a week by Police Magistrate Dumble this morning.

From the different Fairs that have been held reports have been received of the operations of pickpockets and Chief Thompson had given special instructions to his men to watch all strangers who acted any way suspiciously. During the afternoon four reports of losses of money rolls were received. One man lost $55, another $50 and others smaller amounts. At once a signal was givend and soon one man was sought but he had given the slip to the two officers and got to the C.P.R. station and was going aboard when nabbed by the detectives.

Later Chief Thompson secured an auto and sent Detective Meagher and Newhall to the C.T.R. station to try and get the other suspects but on the officers arrival there one of the suspects spied the officers and quickly gave the signal to the others and a getaway was made down Bethune street. One or two citizens kept tab on the movements of the men and a telephone call was soon received by the police to call at a local hotel. Chief Thompson walked down and into the bar and placed the two men there under arrest.

Both seemed indignant and remarked, "We are guests of this house." "You will be my guests for a while," was the Chief's reply and very soon the news of the other man being arrested just outside the door was heard.

At the police station a careful search of the prisoners was made and $1300 or thereabouts was found in their possession. On Flynn $525 was found in five different rolls and secreted in different parts of his clothing. Sarting nearly succeeded in secreting a roll of $200 in the cell before he had been given a careful going over by Sergt. Reid.

The local police, who have taken their finger prints are quite confident that they will find the men much wanted in different places.

The other members of the gang escaped in an auto and are thought to be headed for Toronto and the police there will await their coming.

FURLOUGH FOR JEWISH SOLDIERS

It is rumored in district orders for the information of all concerned that furlough may be granted to all soldiers of the Jewish faith, who may wish to attend the Jewish high festivals of New Year's and the Day of Atonement, commencing from four o'clock p.m., the 16th, until a.m. of the 19th, and also from noon, the 25th, to a.m., the 27th.

FRANCHISE BILL PASSES BY MAJORITY OF 21 VOTES

Closure was Applied and Debate was One of Warmest of Season--Germans to be Naturalized.

Ottawa, Sept. 15.—At the close of one of the warmest debates of the session the Commons early this morning passed the War-time Elections Act by a majority of 21. The operation of closure brought the fight to an end shortly after two o'clock, and the vote upon third reading was taken almost immediately afterwards. It was well that closure was in effect, for there was enough party feeling running around loose, particularly in the evening sesion, to have started a real Parliamentary "Donnybrook" if anything in the nature of a free-for all can be called parliamentary. The nine hours of 20-minute speeches was full of interest, but it was a curious fact that the three commanding features of the long session had little if any bearing upon the Franchise Bill.

The first flare-up came in the afternoon when Dr. Neely of Humboldt, who later moved an amendment to strike out the disfranchising provisions of the bill, made a bitter attack upon the Government for giving the conscription Liberals a "raw deal."

RIGHTS OF GERMANS.

Premier Borden made a statement in response to an appeal by W. F. Weichel, of North Waterloo, that the Government was going to grant naturalization to persons of German birth who had been many years in Canada and who until recently believed that in taking the oath of allegiance they had become British subjects. This would not, of course, in view of the Franchise Bill, give [illegible] to vote.

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 15, 1917

THE TEMPERANCE ACT.

There can be no two opinions among observant good citizens of Ontario as to the average of advantage to the country and to individual citizens and individual homes through the operation of the Ontario Temperance Act. Even the seemingly over-heavy fine which is provided as a minimum penalty for violations of the Act is defensible by reason of its potency as a deterrent of offences. The average man thinks twice before rendering himself liable to a $200 penalty, while he would be quite ready to "take a chance" if he realized that, if he should be caught, the magistrate before whom he would be required to appear would be apt to indulgently or good-naturedly accept his assurances of contrition and "let him off with a nominal fine." — Brockville Times.

WOMEN WITH THE VOTE.

ADDITIONAL PROOF is at hand to prove that the women of Ontario who were most active in securing equal suffrage for the provincial elections, were opposed to the idea of the same being extended to the women of Canada at the present election. They reached this conclusion after a careful consideration of the question. They knew that in any province where women vote, it is those of alien birth who turn out to the polls in greater numbers than those of Canadian or British birth. The result of such a vote was not hard to forecast.

A letter signed by Mrs. F. H. Torrington, Mrs. Albert Gooderham, Mrs. E. A. Stevens and Mrs. L. A. Hamilton, and referring to the War-Time Election Act, is going the rounds of the press. The ladies subscribing to the letter represent the National Equal Franchise Union, the Daughters of the Empire, the National Council of Women and the Ontario W. C. T. U. The letter follows:

> "In response to a request from the Government, early in August, women leaders of several organizations undertook to glean from throughout the Dominion an expression of opinion as to the advisability of granting the full Federal franchise to women at the present juncture.
>
> "The result of numerous enquiries convinced these women that, considering the peculiar conditions which prevail at the present time in certain provinces, and the uncertainty of the results in granting a full franchise, it would be desirable that a limited franchise should be given as a war measure, in order that Canada may do her full part in the war and remain true to her sacred trust to the Canadian men now fighting the Battle of Freedom.
>
> "While the fighting men of Canada have made Canada's name glorious for all time through the great sacrifices they have made, it has at the same time become evident during the past three years that the women of Canada are willing to make any sacrifice for the winning of the war."

That letter would seem to be all that is required to silence the charge made by the party press that there has been any unfair discrimination in this matter. The women have been accorded the treatment that they asked for. They are not complaining, hence there is no point or weight to the contentions of their self-constituted champions. The women whom it was designed to prevent from voting would vote against the men in the trenches, and the action of the Government is justified.

Our contemporay, fighting desperately in a corner, bewails the fact that the slacker is allowed to vote while the alien is barred. Whatever may be said of the former, no charge has ever been made, no evidence produced to show that he is in active sympathy with the foe. Moreover, the slacker is subject to the draft while the alien is not. There is no logic in such an argument. The cases are far from parallel.

THE MUCKRAKER these days is looking for a field in which to give his fancy free rein.

A MARKET FOR POTATOES.

THERE IS NONE so illogical as the man or party whose cause is weak. A few months ago, when it was proposed by the Opposition that an embargo be placed on potatoes the members of Parliament from the Maritime Provinces, upon which the Canadian consumers were depending to a large extent for their supply, vigorously objected. They took the ground that nothing should be done to interfere with the trade of the New Brunswick farmer when he had a chance to make high profits on his crop.

Times have changed. There is a bountiful crop of potatoes in Canada. Now Mr. Carvell, M.P., on behalf of his agricultural constituents, asks that the duty on potatoes be removed so that the Americans will take the same course with regard to potatoes from Canada. This will open the American market to the Canadian farmer and tend to keep up the price in this country.

The American duty on potatoes is 25 cents a bushel, with a countervailing duty of 10 per cent. The Canadian duty is 20 cents a bushel.

A few months ago a local contemporary objected to the shipment of potatoes from Canada. It contended with little show of reason that Canadian potatoes were selling for less in Cuba than in the home market, a pipe dream of commercial paradoxes that afflicts at intervals all advocates of free trade. It insinuated that even the farmers of Peterborough County were daylight bandits every time they came to market with a few bags of potatoes, even though they sold their produce in open competition with producers the county over.

It will be interesting to watch in which direction the George Street feline will jump when the Carvell proposition comes under its notice.

THE HUNTER IN DANGER.

THE DEER HUNTING season will soon be here with its invariable list of accidents, men shot because the man whose hands take their lives was simple enough to mistake his victim for a deer or other quadruped. Two tragedies were reported from the woods of Quebec yesterday. A man who evidently should never have been trusted with a gun or other deadly weapon, saw two human beings in the forest and at once jumped at the conclusion that they were bears. Two shots, and the services of an undertaker were required.

There is something defective, either in the vision or the mental makeup of a man who sees anything like a resemblance between a man and a bear, not to mention a deer. Even if Bruin assumes the upright attitude of the human biped, the resemblance is still lacking. When the last record is read to a trembling world there is a surprise in store for those who listen when it is made known how many crimes have been committed in the hunting wilds with mistaken identity as an excuse.

The hunter who kills another on any such false impression has no place in the woods. There are institutions designed for the restraining of such dangerous characters as these.

Wanted---Chair On Psychology

It is to be hoped some charitably disposed millionaire will endow a chair of German Psychology at the Provincial Universitiy. The study of the German mind would be more interesting than astronomy, the rotation of crops or any other phenomena.

Bismarck's dictum that the Prussian army should leave nothing in the wake of war but eyes to weep, has been observed with shocking precision during the past three years by the Kaiser's legions. The rest of the world is taking notes as the war progresses, with, perhaps, the mental resolve "I will repay," but at the same time with some little understanding of this policy of brutality. But the mental attitude which passeth all understanding is illustrated in the terms upon which some German pacifists would end the war. For instance, George Gothirns, a member of the German Reichstag, and an ardent advocate of peace, puts forward the propositoin that all the belligerents and neutral nations should share the cost of restitution and reparation, that Great Britain should NOT be paid me[illegible] rine losses, but Germany should be paid for loss of trade during the war.

Mr. Gothirns is a free trader, and was an honorary member of the English Cobden Club, and was supposed to be a big, broad-minded man, but his peace offer displays a quality of mind which should be scientifically examined. If he is not a bluffer, he is too simple for words.

The German notion that the Kaiser is God's chosen, that the rape of Belgium was justice itself, that the killing of Edith Cavell and Captain Fryatt would strike terror into the hearts of the British, that the Lusitania holiday was worthy of a school holiday, are all questions in psychology deserving at least as much study as the reason why some insects have three horns.

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Review: Does "A Dog Lover" know that it has been shown by human experience that a man who is inordinately fond of dogs is invariably cruel to women?

Look about and see if this statement is not almost universally true. Which is the better man one who loves and is kind to wife and family or one whose highest gratification comes from the fawning grovelling attention given by a dog? The whole essence of the love of the dogs seems to be the flattery which is absorbed by the dog lover as the proper deference to be given to him under all circumstances. The dog to a normal man is usually a nuisance and it would be a public benefit if he could be entirely excluded from our cities. In the country a good shepherd dog might be of some use, but the country is now denuded of sheep because of the prowling vicious animals that make it impossible to pasture sheep or young calves, which we so much need to reduce the cost of living. Whenever a dog can be usefully employed and is not a nuisance or menace to the majority he should be utilized like a horse or other animal, but never as a fawning sycophant to cater to the egoism of the dog lover.

A DOG DISCRIMINATOR.

GROCERS RUSH TO GET SUPPLY OF THE SALMON

Interest in the wholesale grocery trade during the week centred around the activity in canned salmon. With the recent announcement of prices by the packers there was a scramble on the part of retailers to get all available stocks of last season's salmon pack. As a result many of the wholesalers were entirely cleaned out of their salmon stocks during the week. Intimations have been made by the Food Controller that the recent embargo did not apply to canned string beans or golden wax beans. Wholesalers are accordingly proceeding with the sale of this commodity.

The embargo on the export of Canadian bacon is beginning to cause more concern than at first evident when the announcement was made. It was felt by packers that bacon was needed in Great Britain and that some means would undoubtedly be devised through a purchasing commission to secure supplies from Canada. Packers have been left in doubt about the probable outcome and accordingly have been casting around for a development of the local market. Shutting off the export trade would undoubtedly mean lower prices in Canada. Good production of butter and eggs is being made at the present time, but prices are holding steady.

Advances have been recorded in mincemeat, olive oil, package peas, bicarbonate of soda, canned haddie, while declines have been recorded in lima beans and Rangoon beans. Two sugar refiners reduced their price during the week to the level of the other refiners. There is every indication that lower prices will come in the Canadian market in the not distant future. Flour prices held steady. Announcement of the decision of the Board of Grain Supervisors with respect to the price of wheat has been awaited with keen interest. Trade in grocery lines shows signs of more briskness during the week, but business is becoming more of a hand-to-mouth nature. — Canadian Grocer.

A party from the west of England was being shown over the British museum and in one of the rooms the keeper pointed out a collection of antique vases which had been recently unearthed.

"Do you mean they were dug up?" echoed one of the party.

"Yes, sir."

"What—out of the ground?"

"Undoubtedly."

"Perhaps some little pains have been taken in cleaning them, but in all other respects they were found just as you see them."

The countryman turned to one of his companions, and, with an incredulous shake of the head, whispered:

"He may say what he likes, but he shall never persuade me that they dug up ready made pots out of the ground."

The Business Woman

Today, more than ever before, is woman's opportunity. Many new occupations are now opened to her, which, before the war, she was deemed unfitted to fill. And truth to tell she has risen to the opportunity, and now shares many business responsibilities in former times confined to men. But, as women are subject to more frequent fluctuations of health than men, many will be handicapped early, if they regard their health requirements too lightly.

The nervous strain, long hours and prolonged mental or physical fatigue thin the blood and weaken the nerves. Such conditions as women are now called upon to undergo can only be endured by a full-blooded constitution. This is as true for men as for women, only weaker women suffer soonest. The woman worker, in any line, requires her blood replenished frequently. She needs new, rich blood to keep her health under the trying conditions of business life, and to fortify her system against the effects of overwork. This applies also to the woman in the home, who, perhaps, has more worries and anxieties than usual. So let all girls and women take heed and renew their blood promptly at the first approach of pallor, lack of appetite, headache or backache. This can be best and most effectively accomplished by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which make new, rich blood and thus help womankind so perfectly. No woman need fear failure of health if they take these pills occasionally to keep them well, or give them a fair trial if they find themselves rundown.

You can get Dr. Williams Pink Pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

His legs were briar scratched.
His clothes were blue, but a nut-brown hue

Why didn't you patch with a color to match.
They chuckled, "Why not in blue?" —

And he blushed rose-red while he bashfully said:
"That ain't no patch; that's me!"

Leading Fair Exhibits

HEINTZMAN & CO. PIANO EXHIBIT

Mr. B. H. Britton local manager for Heintzman & Co., Limited, with spacious and admirably equipped modern Peterborough show rooms in Heintzman Hall, Royal Bank building, corner George and Hunter streets, presented a very attractive exhibit of Ye Olde Firme's world-famous pianos (Baby Grands, Uprights and Player Pianos), as well as unexcelled Sonoras and "His Master's Voice" Victrolas. This superb exhibit was conceded to be one of Peterborough Fair's features, and all day Friday and this morning proved a centre of interest for thousands of both town and country visitors. Mr. Britton was acceptably assisted by a capable staff of salesmen in demonstrating the various instruments on display.

Many flattering criticisms were expressed of this reliable firm's exhibit of "Quality First" pianos, so popular either for home or professional use. The new Parlor Grands shown are of wonderful power and possibilities, with limpid and sympathetic touch and delicate and refined expression: they please all who have a love of music, and are possessed of great volume of rarified tone. The New Art Uprights were also admired as instruments high above accepted standards in fact pianos that are all music and of the richest possible tone, while both styles are beautiful as to case, presenting a peculiar art finish and construction, graceful and irresistibly attractive. The Heintzman Player-Piano was also heard to splendid advantage; it stands in a class distinctively its own, and has won unstinted all-round praise the continent over.

It should be borne in mind that the greatest professional artists commend the Heintzman Piano as their choice, either for solo accompaniment or for piano recital; and, in Peterborough, the piano chosen for the Dorothy Allan recital, on Monday night, and for the Hollinshead Concert Company, at Conservatory Hall, Wednesday night, was the Heintzman—a beautiful "art upright classic," furnished by Mr. B. H. Britton, the company's local manager. Representatives of two of the musical institutions — Prof. Allan and Mr. Gliddon—spoke very highly of the excellence of the Heintzman and Co. instruments used on these occasions.

Artists' preference for the Heintzman & Co.'s piano for concert work should recommend this instrument as one eminently desirable for home use. It can be secured on terms which make buying easy.

Citizens and visitors are cordially invited to visit Heintzman Hall, Royal Bank Building, corner George and Hunter streets, and inspect the large stock of instruments and latest records always on hand.

THE STUDEBAKER AND MAXWELL CARS

The models shown by the Gillespie Garage, Aylmer street, consisted of a Studebaker Touring Car, a Maxwell Touring Car, and a Maxwell Roadster.

Representatives claimed that no car in the world combined the roominess and comfort of a Studebaker for the price, and that in power and staunchness, the Studebaker has also demonstrated its superiority. It seems the average price of over 100 makes of cars, exceeds the Studebaker by 3.46 horse power. In the matter of power the Studebaker also claims to be 10 per cent. ahead of the average of all of these.

The Maxwell car is a fast-growing favorite, not only because of its excellent value, but also because of its claim to possess every feature that constitutes motor service and satisfaction. With the business farmer the Maxwell made a strong impression and the low selling price appealed to him, as also did its expert mechanism, capacity and endurance.

The Gillespie Garage on Aylmer street, opposite the Peterborough Creamery, owned by Mr. G. A. Gillespie, is one of the newest of motor car service stations in the city. Visitors will find a hearty welcome awaiting them there whenever they come.

NO MORE HOME DRUDGERY.

Mr. Alexander was kept busy all day Friday and this morning demonstrating to thousands of wonder-stricken visitors at the Fair how to do away with oil lamps about the home, and to eliminate the drudgery of washing, churning and carrying water. This can be accomplished by purchasing "Delco-Light," a complete electric light and power plant. It is easy to install and will furnish electric light or power in one's home or buildings 24 hours a day. It needs only a few minutes attention once or twice a week, and gives light or power instantly when and where wanted.

Wouldn't you like to have the time you now spend in chopping feed, pumping water for stock and turning the grindstone for more productive labor in the fields

You can do these things if you put Delco-Light to work for you.

Delco-Light Saves Time and Labor.

With a small electric motor run by Delco-Light current you can operate all appliances formerly run by hand, such as the grindstone, fanning mill, churn, cream separator, or washing machine. You can do away with the work of carrying water by having a water system operated by Delco-Light. You can have a bathroom.

The Cost of Current is Low.

You can have all these conveniences at a low cost. Delco-Light will supply you with electric light and power for less than it costs in most cities. It will produce a maximum amount of electric current from fuel. It will run on kerosene, gasoline or gas. It will produce four times as much lights from a gallon of kerosene as will an oil lamp.

The agents for this wonderful modern invention are Alexander & Miller, electrical contractors, George street, Peterborough.

THE EMPIRE MECHANICAL MILKER.

Two outfits were on exhibition of the world-known "Empire" Mechanical Milker. This milker is furnished in double and single units, and is run from a 1 1-2 h.p. engine and upwards. Its pump and tank are very simple, and its pulsation is located on the pail lid. It is operated through a three-quarter inch galvanized pipe, which runs along in front of the cows, and is regulated by a gauge to give the desired amount of power. The buckets are of non-corrosive silver and will not rust.

Many of these Mechanical Milkers are in use in Peterborough County, and leading dairymen and farmers

WAR VETERANS ARE ORGANIZING

RETURNED SOLDIERS IN LINDSAY RAISING FUNDS FOR CLUB ROOM.

A Lindsay branch of the Great War Veterans' Association has been organized in town, says the Warder, and it is understood that certain parties have misconception as to its object and have circulated stories which are positively lacking in confirmation. For the benefit of those parties who are always in terror that something awful is going to befall the corporation when anything out of the ordinary transpires it might be stated that this organization is purely local and controlled by local men. The Great War Veterans' Association is known from one part of the Dominion to the other and is under legitimate supervision in each town where it has been established. Its object is to erect a club-room where returned veterans can be entertained and given a reception or other hospitalities at all times.

The tag days which are to be put on here during the fair are for the purpose of realizing sufficient funds to build such a place and all monies collected will be placed in the hands of reputable citizens who will form a committee to act in harmony with a like committee of the War Veterans. There is no union on the part of the Lindsay branch any more than what might be termed a fraternal feeling.

the money collected in Lindsay will be kept here and the cause is a most worthy one that bears the closest scrutiny. It has been investigated by a committee appointed by the Town Council and passed upon by them as being worthy of the people's support. Any person speaking against the Lindsay War Veterans' Association is not conversant with the working of it and have only gossip as their authority for their reckless statements.

The Lindsay Association will hold a public concert Thursday night in the armouries, admission free. They will, it is understood, hold tag days on Friday and Saturday next.

WE ARE A NATION NOT A COLONY

LOCAL RESIDENT PUTS QUESTION UP TO OTTAWA CITIZEN.

A "Subscriber" in Peterborough has the following letter in the Ottawa Citizen:

Is Canada a Nation?

Editor, Citizen:—Would you be so kind as to answer the following questions in your letter column and settle an argument?

Is Canada a nation or just a colony of Britain?

Would a National Government be under the domination of the Imperial government any more than the present party system or not?

To this the editor of the Citizen replies as follows:

Mr. J. S. Ewart, Canadian constitutional lawyer, says in Kingdom Paper, No. 7; "Practically Canada is independent. Theoretically and legally she is a colony. A completely independent countrw is one which not only can do as it likes, but can act without the supervision or assent of any other country. Canada falls short of perfect independence—of nationhood. Her constitution is a British statute and when we want some amendment of the constitution we have to ask the British Parliament to be good enough to amend its statute." Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in the presence of the Prince of Wales, now King George, (July 1908) at a banquet tendered by Lord Grey at Quebec, to the representatives of the self-governing dominions said: "The fact that we are a colony does not alter the truth of the statement which I have made before you. The inferiority which may be implied in the word colony no longer exists. We acknowledge the authority of the British Crown, but no other authority." A national government would not be under the domination of the imperial government any more than is a party government.

RAISING CONSCRIPTS.

Men For the Army Will Be Raised in Instalments.

It is hoped the military exigencies of the situation will not render it necessary to call the whole 100,000 men to the actual colors immediately. It is hoped the withdrawal of these men from civilian life will be made by instalments. Just what these instalments will be will depend upon the military situation from time to time.

The forms filled in would be brought together in the office of the registrar appointed for the purpose, and then distributed to the tribunals.

In order to minimize the strain on the machinery of the Act, medical boards for the examination of men will be established in Toronto and elsewhere within a week or ten days, and men can go there in advance of the proclamation and determine their fitness for service without prejudicing their claim for exemption.

HONOR MR. AEMILIUS JARVIS.

British Navy League Presents Him With Service Decoration.

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Mr. Aemilius Jarvis, whose services on behalf of the Navy are well known, has been advised by the secretary of the Navy League, London, England, that he has been awarded the Special Service Decoration. The decoration is the highest honor of its kind bestowed upon a civilian, and Sir John Eaton is perhaps the only other Canadian who holds the same distinction.

Two of Mr. Jarvis' sons joined the colors in the early days of the war. One of them, Lieut. "Bill" Jarvis, gave his life at St. Julien; the other, "Will" Jarivs, is still fighting.

When British naval reservists were anxious to return to England to join their ships soon after the outbreak of hostilities, Mr. Aemilius Jarvis without hesitation placed his office at 103 Bay street at the disposal of the naval authorities and rendered great service in helping the Jack Tars to get back to England.

Growing Interest In The Services

In spite of other attractions in town, a good sized audience listened attentively to Evangelist Harold Harper as he spoke on the much discussed subject of Baptism. He spoke of the baptism of our Lord upon the Cross, when He underwent the waves and the billows of the wrath of God.

Following this he dealt with the Baptism of the believing sinner, into the body of Christ. This, said the speaker, takes place when the sinner trusts Christ as Saviour, and every believing sinner is baptized into the body of Christ and is thus united to Christ and to every other believer.

Continuing, he next spoke of the believer's baptism in water, showing fourth his identification with Christ in this death, burial and resurrection. Mr. Harper said that an ordinance to be valid must be commanded in the Gospels, practised in the Acts and expounded in the epistles. This is characteristic of Baptism.

Finally he dealt with the Baptism of the unbeliever in the Lake of Fire where everyone who neglects the Gospel must spend eternity.

There will be a public baptism Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Bethany Tabernacle where a number of believers in the Lord Jesus Christ will be baptised at 7 o'clock. Mr. Harper will speak in Gospel Hall his subject being, "An Unavoidable Question." The meetings will continue all next week as the interest is growing. All are welcome.

The offer, recently printed in the clandestinely published paper, La Libre Belgique, is designed to perpetuate the reasons for Belgium's national hatred against Germany.

Ex-Sheriff Now Endorses Tanlac

Hon. A. R. Anderson Says Money Couldn't Buy the Good It Has Done Him.

"Money could not buy the good Tanlac has done me, and I gladly recommend it for what it has done in my case," said Hon. Archie R. Anderson, of Houston, Texas, ex-Sheriff of Harris county, recently. Mr. Anderson is unquestionably not only one of the best known, but one of the most popular men that ever held public office in the "Lone Star" State. After serving as deputy sheriff of Harris county for twelve years, Mr. Anderson was elected chief of police of the city of Houston. He had occupied this office only a short time when the sheriff of Harris county died. Mr. Anderson's friends persuaded him to make the race for the unexpired term of sheriff, to which he was easily elected. He was honored with re-election seven different times, and served the people in this important office for fifteen consecutive years. Four years ago he cast his lot among the people of Houston and is a large property owner and foremost citizen of this interesting and prosperous city.

"I was in a rundown condition," continued Mr. Anderson, "and had no appetite at all. I could hardly sleep at night, and never felt like getting up in the mornings, I was so tired. I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach and was continually belching up undigested food. I had to take my coffee without sugar, as when I drank it with sugar I would just belch for hours. I would bloat and swell up like I was poisoned and suffered with neuralgic pains of the worst sort, and nothing seemed to help me only in a temporary way. I just can't tell you how I did suffer for the past four years and up to the time I began taking Tanlac a few weeks ago.

"When I read the testimonials of some who had been relieved of trouble like mine I just felt like I couldn't make a mistake by taking Tanlac, and it has done even more for me than I had expected. I began to feel better after taking my first bottle, and have just now started on my third, and I'm a different man already. I sleep like a log now and eat just any and every thing I want without the slightest discomfort afterwards. I am glad to endorse Tanlac because it does the work, and I'm telling all my friends just what I'm telling you. I never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac. I am willing for you to publish my statement and let every suffering person who may wish benefit by my experience with this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by Warne Drug Co., Ltd., and in Havelock by A. C. Denike.

OBITUARY

BABY ST. PETERS.

The infant child of Private and Mrs. Joseph St. Peters died early this morning at the family residence, 11 Harvey street, after a short illness. The funeral will take place on Monday morning at 10 o'clock to the Little Lake Cemetery.

FRANCIS WEIR.

Francis Weir, one of the oldest and most highly esteemed residents of the city, died at his home in Ashburnham this morning in his ninety-fourth year. All his faculties remained unimpaired to the last.

The deceased was born of Irish parents, who resided in County Fermana, Province of Ulster, Ireland. His father, Robert Weir, was major of the Enniskillen Dragoons, and his mother's maiden name was Catharine Graham.

She was a descendant of the Scottish Covenanters. His parents came to Canada in the yera 1820 and for a time resided in Cobourg, where Mr. Francis Weir was born, in May, 1823. That summer Mr. Weir's parents moved to Otonabee where they resided until their death. His parents, too, lived to a good old age, his father being 91 years and eleven days old when he died.

In religion Mr. Weir was a Methodist, and in politics a strong and active Conservative.

In July 1840 Mr. Weir, with George Donaldson, Johnston Cooney, John and James Armstrong and others, organized Loyal Orange Lodge No. 49 on the Erskine farm and he has been a constant member ever since, never failing to attend a Twelfth of July celebration.

He was one of a family of ten who lived to get married, five boys and five girls, of whom he was the eldest. He was one of the men who helped to make this country what it is. He bore the burden and the heat of the day.

The late Mr. Weir is survived by his widow, one son Fred, of California, and three daughters, Mrs. George Ward and Mrs. James McDonald, both of Ashburnham, and Mrs. David Graham of Otonabee. Mr. John Graham Weir, the well known farmer of Otonabee, is a brother.

The funeral will be held from the family residence Monday afternoon. Religious services will be held at the house at 2.30 by Rev. R. A. Whattam and the funeral to Little Lake Cemetery at 3 o'clock.

ADVANCES MADE IN SOME LINES

HARDWARE TRADE IS VERY UNCERTAIN OVER OTHER QUOTATIONS.

In the majority of instances where price changes were recorded during the week they were in an upward direction. In two instances there were declines, notably in lead pipe, lead waste pipe and in soldering coppers. Advances were made effective on whip stocks, whip lashes, farriers' knives, chandelier hooks, steel squares, sleigh bells, lace leather, push pins, pushless hangers, expansive bits. Low price quotations on galvanized sheets may again be moved up to the point where they were when decline took place some two weeks ago. A recent ruling with respect to payment of duty may make higher prices necessary. There was a much firmer tone in the market for ingot copper and tin during the week. Pig lead remains unchanged in a somewhat easier market. There is an acute situation on Canada plates there being practically no stocks available either in the Toronto or Montreal markets. Prices are purely nominal. Stocks are on order from the manufacturers, but there is no assurance when they can be shipped. Business in hardware lines continues seasonably good.—Hardware and Metal.

McGRATH TO FIX PRICE OF COAL

FUEL CONTROLLER HAS ORDERED A PROBE OF DEALERS' BOOKS IN WINNIPEG.

Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—"We shall see to it that there are no extortionate prices charged for coal," declared C. A. McGrath, Dominion fuel controller, who is in Winnipeg.

He told the coal merchants they must make no change in the coal prices without his consent and should not have made the recent increase of fifty cents a ton until asking his permission. They could either cancel the increase or could go on selling coal at the increased price, pending an examination of their books, and if it were found that the increase was not justified they would have to refund the increase. The merchants agreed to the latter course.

You don't like the cheap tea you are using. Do you?

Pretty Poor Tea, Mother

Before the war so increased the cost of living, many people used to drink better tea than they are now using.

Perhaps, this is true in your case?

Of course, you are not drinking poor tea because you like it, but because you think it necessary to save money.

But are you really saving anything?

Cheap, common teas only make about 150 cups to the pound. You are lucky if you can stretch them out to 185 or 200.

On the other hand, Red Rose Tea easily makes 250 cups. It goes further because of its fine quality, consisting chiefly of Assam teas, the richest and strongest in the world.

You may almost doubt if so many cups of tea can be made from a pound of even such good tea as Red Rose, but you can readily prove the economy of Red Rose without waiting for a package to be used up. Just use a few leaves less of Red Rose for a brewing than you use of common tea—the result we are sure will please and surprise you.

Kept Good by the Sealed Package

RED ROSE
TEA IS good tea

MEN OF THIS DISTRICT AWARDED DECORATIONS

District orders today contain the names of the soldiers who went away with units from the 3rd Military District, and who have been awarded decorations and meals by the allied powers for distinguished services during the course of the present campaign. Several 21st. men have won the Military Medal, among them being Sergt. F. T. Batterson, Lance-Corporal H. Beaudoin, Pte. L. Boswell, Sergt. H. Brown, Sergt. A. Hoddinott, Corporal R. Lever, Corp. J. G. McNab, Sergt. F. D. Runge, Pte. W. H. Sharpe. Several men of the 59th Battalion and 38th hava been awarded decorations, and in all thirty-eight men from the district have been decorated.

Congress has tentatively approved the granting of allowances varying from $5 to $50 a month to the dependents of enlisted men.

DO NOT DESERT OUR SOLDIERS

The Allied Armies must have men, but the armies must have food. It is still true that an army fights upon its stomach. Victory will eventually go to the army that can hold out the longest; holding out depends entirely upon food. The Allied Armies have established supremacy over the armies of the Central Powers. Germany is now fighting a defensive war on land in the hope that her submarines will reduce Great Britain and France and Italy to starvation and submission before the collapse of her own armies.

Germany knows there is a world famine in wheat; Germany knows there is a world shortage of beef; Germany knows the world's supply or bacon is fast decreasing; Germany knows that if she can prevent wheat beef and bacon from reaching the European Allies she has a gambler's chance of snatching victory from the Allies or of negotiating a compromise, and to her, an advantageous peace.

The countries to whom the European Allies look for the minimum supplies of food to keep them going are Canada and the United States. While it is true that Australia produces more food than she needs, and while New Zealand, the Argentine and India have exportable supplies of foodstuffs, these foods are not readily available to the Allies because of the lack of shipping. A ship can make nearly three round trips between British and Canadian ports in the time that it would take to make a round trip to Australia, New Zealand or India. She can make two trips in the time it would take to go to the Argentine. Moreover, the hazard of bringing food from the Argentine is very great; and as far as wheat is concerned, there is none now to be had because their last crop was a failure.

What Canadians and people in the United States are asked to do is, eat less white bread, less beef, and less bacon; and in addition, to stop wasting food. Every Canadian household is to be asked to sign a Food Service Pledge.

FORD CARS AT OLD PRICE.

Mr. Jos. J. Duffus, Ford dealer, received a letter from the Ford Motor Company this morning, stating that the new literature and advertising matter for Ford cars has been held up until such times as the Directors of the Company decide as to whether or not they will have to make a raise in price. The writer of the communication states that he assumes there will be an increase.

Mr. Duffus states, however, that he has a limited number of cars in stock, which will be sold at the old price, $495 while they last.

FORD EXHIBIT.

In the tent which included the Ford exhibit, there was on display the regular five passenger Ford touring car, the beautiful Ford Sedan for winter use, and a Ford delivery car.

In addition to this there was the one-ton truck, which, together with the new Bell car which was on exhibit, possibly caused more interest than any other exhibit in the show.

The one-ton truck will fill a long felt want from a standpoint of hauling and delivery.

The new Bell car which is up to date in every particular interested thousands of visitors. It is equipped with the new double cowl body, which is seen only on cars ranging in price around $2000. It has the famous Borg & Beck clutch and is equipped with oversize tires with Non-Skids on the rear and extra rim for spare tire. The rear axle is of the full floating type and there is every indication that this new up to date car will have a big sale.

TIME AND MONEY SAVING STOVES AND RANGES

R. G. Sturgeon & Co.'s timely exhibition of the newest inventions in time and money saving stoves and ranges—combination fuel, gas and oil—proved of exceptional interest to thousands of visitors, to whom economy, utility and convenience in the home were demonstrated in a convincing manner. Perhaps the most attractive feature of this exhibit was the "Pennant Jr., Two Fuel Range, which burns any kind of gas, coal or wood, using the same oven for either fuel. There is no fuss, no muss, no work or worry by having to shift sooty grates or top burners. Only one stove in your kitchen for winter or summer which is always ready for coal or gas or both simultaneously.

The operation of this wonderful range is simplicity itself. When changing from one fuel to another all one has to do is to place in the oven the gas spreader pan under range, and the gas oven is ready. Take it out and there is an oven for coal or wood. That's all there is to do. Both coal and gas can be used at the same time if needed. Many use the gas for any short service rather than open up the coal fire. This is the handiest and most complete range made and it is a guaranteed baker with either fuel. In the winter when warmth is needed coal or wood can be used, while in summer gas can be burned, and thus avoid unnecessary heat.

The splendid "Good Cheer" range, for the farm, with electric lighted oven, also won popular approval. This range is perfect in appointments and operation. Has no lack of cooking surface. No baking in the dark, no blackleading, and no stooping. The oven is elevated, the range is an economizer in fuel, has six holes in its plate, a 30 inch fire box and commodious hot water reservoir.

Other high grade exhibits were: "Quick Meal" oil stoves and ovens, comprising all the latest ideas in construction and service; and ideal electric washers and wringers.

Then there was the famous "Briscoe" car with its half a million dollar motor, many of which have been sold in this district this year, and into the merits of which hundreds of enquirers were in evidence.

R. G. Sturgeon & Co. are Peterborough representatives for the "Briscoe" car and above ennumerated household commodities and visitors and citizens are cordially invited to inspect the same at their show rooms on Charlotte street at any time.

TUNEFUL "FLORA BELLA" HERE NEXT WEEK

Many Catchy Song Numbers.

"Flora Bella," which has been announced for the attraction at the Grand next Saturday, Sept. 22, Matinee and night, is one of the most sparkling musical comedies to be presented here this season, when the Flora Bella Company will offer the piece for your approval, with a cast of 50, including an exceptionally talented chorus. "Flora Bella" is more than the usual musical comedy, and the play is worked out in accordance with the best dramatics. "Flora Bella" is also a scenic production, and carries a carload of electrical and scenic effects, the first and third acts show the home of Prince Demidoff, and the second act the Gilded Galf cabaret, Petrograd. "Flora Bella" contains seventeen musical numbers, ranging through snappy dancing, syncopation and dreamy waltzes. The chorus is pretty and beyond the dreams of the average musical comedy. As a whole, "Flora Bella" is all that a musical comedy should be. It breathes a life of music, comedy and gayety. The book of "Flora Bella" is by Felix Doerman, revised and adapted by Cosmo Hamilton and Dorothy Donnelly.

FARMERS---
Protect Your Interests

There is great danger from fire during the threshing season. We respectfully offer the following suggestions as precautionary measures.

1—Use coal as fuel if possible.

2—Do not thresh when a heavy wind blows into your barn.

3—Be sure that an adequate supply of water is close at hand in accordance with the conditions of your insurance policy.

4—See that the engine is at least 26 feet from the nearest building or stack.

6--Allow no smoking about your buildings at any time.

7-Remember that any thresher not using a proper screen or spark arrester is liable for imprisonment and fine.

By keeping these poiots in mind you may save your self and the company heavy losses.

LABOR TO ASK FOR PLACE IN PEACE CONFERENCE

Long and Interesting List of Matters to be Discussed at Meeting of Dominion Trades Congress in Ottawa Next Week.

The delegates to the convention of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, which opens in Ottawa next Monday, will have a busy session, and a hot one, judging from the indications at the present time. It is reported that President Samuel Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, will attend the convention, bringing a message from the trade unionists of the United States on the war, as representative of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor. The convention of the American Federation of Labor meets in Rochester in November.

Huge Delegation to Parliament

From discussion among the delegates it is quite apparent that some of the views expressed by President Watters during the past year do not coincide with their own. It is expected that the delegates from Quebec may have views on certain subjects which will meet with strenuous opposition from delegates from Ontario and other Provinces. The House of Commons at Ottawa apparently will be in session next week, when the congress convenes. It is possible that the whole delegation may decide to ask for a meeting with Sir Robert Borden and the Cabinet Ministers on some important questions.

The Food Question

There does not seem to be the slightest doubt from talk among delegates that the question of the prices of foodstuffs in Canada will be discussed thoroughly. The British fraternal delegate councillor, J. Winstone of the South Wales Miners, is likely to provide the delegates with some interesting data regarding the way food prices are regulated in Great Britain. Food Controller Hanna and his activities will be thoroughly reviewed at Ottawa.

Labor on Peace Delegation

There are many resolutions which have been sent to Ottawa to come before the convention. One is that the Dominion Government be urged to appoint labor representatives on the Canadian delegation which will take part in the peace conference when the terms of settlement of the great struggle are to be agreed upon. Another one asks the Dominion Government to cease recommending candidates for titles, as it is against the spirit of democracy.

Last year the Toronto convention increased the Executive Council of the Congress to five members. Formerly it always had been three. The report of the Executive Council to the Congress at Ottawa this year should be one of the most important in the history of the Congress. Many of the delegates are wondering what questions the report will bring up on the floor of the Congress, and are speculating as to whether the Executive Council can bring in a united report upon the questions with which they will deal. The Council is in session at Ottawa this week drafting the final report.

Strong Body Added

One of the pleasing features which the secretary will be able to report, is the re-affiliation of the Maintenance of Way Employes, with over 5,000 members. This was decided at the Detroit convention of the maintenance of Way men, held during this month.

Will They Abolish Office?

The annual pre-convention suggested changes are well under way. One which has been revived is the idea of making the position of president a honorary one by abolishing the annual salary of $2,000 and paying the president for actual work done between conventions. At the Toronto convention it was proposed to make the position of secretary-treasurer permanent in character as far as the position is concerned, and it was also proposed to make the position of ex-president an honorary one, similar to the suggestion which is being talked of again. The proposal was defeated at last year's convention by a great majority.

One Officer Needed

It has been generally conceded for years at the conventions of the Congress that it was necessary to have tinually during the year were at the disposal of the Congress. President Watters has held that position for over six years. Secretary Draper has told the Congress that he will not accept the office of secretary-treasurer if it is made a permanent office, in which a man must devote his whole time to the exclusion of all other business.

Once More Canada Must Stand in the Gap. Once More Must Hold the Lines of Communication

As, when at Ypres, Canada's Gallant Sons stood in the Gap and held back the Hunnish Hordes---and shed Immortal Glory on Canada's fair name---

So, in their homes, Canada's Noble Women are now called upon to Stand in the Gap and hold back the spectre of hunger from our troops.

The men "out there" must have sufficient food. Only certain kinds of food are suitable for export.

And so we ask you to Pledge yourself and your family to eat less of these foods, so that there may be sufficient of them for export.

For example---if you do your own baking use one-third oatmeal, corn, barley or rye flour with your white flour. If you buy from a baker, order some brown bread each day.

Substitute for beef and bacon such equally nutritious foods as fish, peas, lentils, potatoes, nuts, bananas, etc.

And---this is most important---positively prevent the waste of a single ounce of food in your household.

Next week a Food Service Pledge and Window Card will be delivered to you. The Pledge is your Dedication to War Service---The Window Card is your Emblem of Honour.

Woman's Auxiliary, Organization of Resources Committee, in Co-operation with The Hon. W. J. Hanna, Food Controller.

Practical Housekeeping Hints

THE FOOD VALUE OF FISH

People have got more or less into the habit of eating fish on Friday only. Fish are just as appetizing and nourishing on Tuesdays and Thursdays as on Fridays, and if you and your neighbors will buy fish any day in the week, you will get cheaper fish and better fish. Hundreds of carloads of fish are exported from Canada because the people living here do not appreciate the value of fish as a food, and do not buy it as often as they should.

Fish supplies the body with material for building and repair, and with energy for heat and muscular work. The value of any food to the body is reckoned upon its yield of digestible nutrients, chiefly in the form of protein, fat, starch and sugar. The demand for it frequently depends upon its cost.

Like meat, eggs, and milk, fish yields a great deal of protein (the chief body-building material), and in many cases at considerably less cost, e.g.,

One pound of protein obtained:

From salt mackerel at 10c per pound will cost 61c.
From fresh codfish at 10c per pound, will cost 90c.
From halibut, at 18c per pound will cost $1.18.
From sirloin steak at 35c per pound will cost $2.13.
From milk at 12c per quart will cost $1.82.
From eggs at 50c per dozen will cost $2.80.

The energy value of a food is reckoned in calories. The calorie is the unit of heat or energy generated in the human body by the assimilation of a certain amount of food. In other words, the heat necessary to raise four pounds of water one degree Fahrenheit is one calorie; or, the amount of energy required to raise one pound one foot, is one calorie.

The energy value of fish, especially of the oily fish, compares favorably with other foods:

10c worth of salt codfish at 15c per pound gives 360 calories.
10c worth of fresh haddock at 10c per pound gives 335 calories.
10c worth of sirloin steak at 35c per pound gives 380 calories.

Generally speaking, fish has about the same digestibility as meat, the non-oily kinds being more easily digested than the oily ones.

The caloric rating of different foods is not an absolute measure of their value. A better test is the proportion absorbed by the human body as tissue and blood-building elements. From this point of view fish foods rank very high.

PURCHASING.

The fish appears on the market in the form of fresh, salt, dried and smoked, shredded, frozen and canned fish.

In purchasing fresh fish, see that the eyes are bright and prominent, that the flesh is firm, and the gills red.

PREPARATION.

When fresh fish are prepared by scaling or skimming, they should be wiped with a clean, dry cloth, and placed in a dry place. If put in cold water, food substance will be dissolved, and so lost.

Before boiling, salt fish must be soaked for several hours in cold, unsalted water to remove some of the salt. This water should be changed several times, or, better, place the pan containing the fish under a tap, which is allowed to drip, thus ensuring constant change of water.

Frozen fish must be placed in cold water to have the frost drawn out. When this is completed, clean and prepare as any other fish, and cook in any desired form. This kind of fish is just as nutritious as any other fish, and its cheapness should make it more widely known.

FIERCE FIGHT FOR CAMPHOR

There are few things which demand a heavier toll of lives than camphor. The reason for this is that the mountainous parts of the island of Formosa, from which the world gets most of its camphor, are inhabited by head-hunting savages, whom the successive invaders of the island have been unable to subdue.

These savages are alive to the value of the camphor trees and fiercely oppose all attempts to get possession of the forests. Their hostility makes the gathering of camphor a most hazardous occupation and one in which a loaded rifle is the most indispensable tool.

Since the Japanese took the island after their successful campaign against China in the 'nineties, they have been carrying on a carefully conceived plan of gradual penetration of the valuable camphor regions. They make paths six feet in width through the virgin forests. At intervals of every 120 yards stands a guardhouse, and every fourth or fifth guardhouse is a small fort, entrenched and defended by barbed wire entanglements. Telephonic inter-communication, machine guns and all the resources of Western military science are employed and the lines are pushed gradually forward.

The Lot Of Street Railway Men

According to a bulletin issued by the federal bureau of labor statistics less than 10 per cent of the regular motormen on surface street railway lines in the larger cities of the United States in 1914 earned less than 24 cents an hour, 24 per cent earned less than 26 cents, 43 per cent less than 28 cents, [illegible] per cent less than 30 cents, 85 per cent less than 32 cents and [illegible] per cent less than 34 cents.

These figures are drawn from a study of 101 companies in eighty-one cities made by special agents of the bureau. Nearly all companies have a sliding scale of wages for motormen and conductors based on length of service. The annual increase generally is about 1 cent an hour, and some companies continue such increases for ten or more years.

As a rule, conductors are paid the same rate of wages as motormen. The length of service for conductors, however, does not average so high as for motormen. Of the regular conductors working for the same companies 13 per cent earned less than 24 cents an hour, 33 per cent earned less than 26 cents, [illegible] per cent less than 28 cents, 67 per cent less than 30 cents, 88 per cent less than 32 cents, and 99 per cent less than 34 cents.

In the group of cities for which data were obtained by correspondence the median rates were: Motormen, regular and extra, surface, 25 and less than 26 cents an hour; conductors, regular and extra, surface, 25 and less than 26 cents an hour.

Some companies pay certain men for more hours than are actually worked. The extra man complains of the irregularity and uncertainty of the work given him and the length of time he must wait to get a regular run. A few companies guarantee a minimum earning to their extra trainmen. (The chief complaint of the regular man is the length of service required per diem, and more especially the long hours over which the work may be spared by one or more periods off duty in his day's work. One of the great problems that confronts the street railway company is so to arrange its car service as to accommodate the variation in traffic.

Because of the breaks (times off duty) in the day's work the time between which the day's work is begun and ended frequently far exceeds the hours on duty.

Street railway operation as an industry knows no rest day. The roads are in operation seven days a week. Individual employes do not all work every day however, but are absent because of one cause or another. Occasionally a road makes provision for regular days off, but the general rule is that men are allowed time off duty on request.

An important factor bearing on efficiency is the change in the labor force during the year, commonly known as the "turn-over." The change in personnel varies materially in different companies. Of ninety-six companies reporting the per cent of turn-over of motormen the turn-over in five companies was 100 per cent or more. The turn-over for conductors in twelve out of ninety-six companies was 100 per cent or more.

LABOR MEN ARE WELCOMED TO OTTAWA BY PREMIER BORDEN

Sir Robt. Borden Congratulates Them on Splendid Part Taken in War---Hon. T.W. Crothers Not Popular with Some Delegates.

Yesterday's Results

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—Something of a storm arose at the preliminary session of the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress today when Hon. W. T. Crothers, Minister of Labor, rose to speak. One of the delegates rose and said: "I do not see Mr. Crothers's name on the program." I do not think we should waste time by listening to that Honorable Gentleman." After some argument, Mr. Crothers was allowed to proceed.

Sir Robert Borden welcomed hte delegates and congratulated Canadian Labor on the Magnificent part it had played in the present war.

President Watters replied to the attacks made on him recently and said while there were many differences of opinion in regards to methods of prosecuting the war, labor should and must bridge the divisions and above all stick together.

BRITISH SEAPLANE DROPS BOMBS ON HUN DESTROYERS. ENEMY TRAWLERS ARE SUNK

Engagement was Fought off the Coast of Belgium Near Zeebrugge, Saturday--Official Statement Says Two Trawlers Were Sent to Bottom---British Airmen Score Again.

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

London, Sept. 17.—A British naval seaplane on Saturday dropped bombs on German destroyers and trawlers along the Belgian coast near Zeebrugge, hitting one destroyer and sinking at least one trawler.

An official statement issued by the Admiralty today says: "Naval aircraft made a bombing raid Saturday on enemy shipping between Blankenberghe and Ostend. Bombs were dropped on destroyers and trawlers or drifters. One large destroyer was hit amidships, and one, probably two, of a group of four trawlers was sunk.

"In the evening, during a late patrol, one of our seaplanes was attacked by two seaplanes, which were engaged by our escorting airplanes, and one was shot down in flames, the other being chased toward some enemy destroyers. About 10 a. m. yesterday our patrol engaged a formation of the enemy aircraft, destroying one, and probably two."

FOOD PLEDGES ISSUED TO-DAY

The campaign for the conservation of food was launched for fair in the city today when the members of the Auxiliary of the Resources Committee began the distribution of the card pledges among the residents. There are four thousand copies for distribution and every householder in the city will be asked to sign one and to live up to the creed of the committee.

In a display advertisement on another page of this issue it will be seen that these cards have already been signed by some of the leading ladies in Canada, including Lady Borden, Lady Laurier, Mrs. W. J. Hanna, the [illegible] and Mrs. N. W. Rowell.

The ministers of the city have been asked to preach sermons advising economy in the use of food. This request was received too late to be given effect yesterday, but several local pastors announced that they would make that problem their theme at one of their services next Sunday.

At the public schools today every pupil was given a circular issued by Food Controller Hanna and on which appeared a copy of the pledge housekeepers will be asked to sign.

The results of the campaign that was opened today will be published from time to time, and advertisements will be printed several times a week setting forth the latest decrees of Controller Hanna.

The following is a copy of the pledge:

> Realising the gravity of the food situation and knowing that Great Britain and our Allies look to Canada to help to shatter Germany's threat of starvation, I pledge myself and my household to carry out conscientiously the advice and directions of the Food Controller, that requisite foodstuffs may be released for export to the Canadian divisions, the British forces and people and the Allied armies and nations.

Every signed card will be placed in the window of the house where the pledge is to be lived up to.

FATEFUL CENTER SPAN FLOATED TO POSITION IN QUEBEC BRIDGE

Transfer was Made Without Hitch—Workmen Prepare to Hoist it into Place

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Quebec, Sept. 17.—The second attempt to complete the great cantilever bridge near Quebec was begun this morning when the center span was towed from Sillery Cove, where it had been constructed, on pontoons to a position immediately underneath the spot in the main structure it was intended to occupy. The span was maneuvred into mid stream from its shore position by six harbor tugs with the well known wrecking steamer, The Lord Strathcona, in attendance in case extra help was needed

The trip from the shore to midstream was apparently managed perfectly and after getting the span headed for the bridge site it was allowed to drift slowly down the river on the tide, the tugs working hard to keep its head in the right direc- [illegible]

From observation on shore it appeared that the span was put in place ready for hoisting with unerring good judgment by the tug commanders. The trip from the Cove to the bridge took about one and a quarter hours.

No time was lost by the bridge help, who had floated down on the span, in connecting up the supports with huge hoisting chains attached to eight six ton jacks on the floor of the bridge 150 feet above

Worst Yet to Come

The engineers and workmen are proceeding very cautiously this time. At 12.30 the span had been raised only eight of the one hundred and fifty feet.

An engineer then said: "The easiest work is over. The rest will grow increasingly difficult from now on till the finish.

HUNS FOUGHT AS NEVER BEFORE

GENERAL SIR ARTHUR CURRIE WRITES A LETTER TO CAPT. BURNHAM.

Capt. J. H. Burnham, M.P., has received the following letter from Lieutenant-General Sir Arthur Currie commanding the Canadian troops in France:

Canadian Corps Headquarters,
France, 31st August, 1917.

Dear Captain Burnham:

Please forgive me for taking so long before acknowledging your kind letter of congratulations written in June. It was very good of you to remember me so kindly, and I deeply appreciate your thoughtfulness.

I know you will rejoice with me over the recent success of our Corps The fighting for Hill 70 was the hardest and most successful in which we have ever been engaged. Besides gaining ground of great tactical value,, we inflicted losses on the enemy which I am confident were at least three times those suffered by ourselves. I have never known the Bosche to fight so hard or so determinedly before. He counter-attacked us no less that thirty-five times, threw against us the very best troops in the German Army, but all to no avail.

I am glad to note that you are exerting all your influence to keep the corps at full strength. From here I cannot make head or tail out of the political situation in Canada. It seems to me that our Country is about to be divided as never before. Such a thing is very deplorable, and those who are encouraging the breach are assuming a very grave responsibility. Surely wiser counsels will prevail, and such action taken as will ensure that our Country play its part unto the end.

With many thanks, and with best wishes always. I am, ever yours faithfully,

(Sgd.) A. W. CURRIE.

Mrs. Besant At Large In India

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Bombay, India, Sept. 17.—According to a private telegram, Mrs. Annie Besant, head of the Sophical Society and George Arundale and B. Wadea, two male associates, have been released from internment by the Madras Government. The restrictions placed by the Indian Government on Mrs. Besant and her associates were the sequel to a violent home rule agitation which evoked a storm of adverse comment in the press of India.

DR. GEORGE BURNHAM ANSWERS LAST CALL

Well Known Physician and Resident Suffered Paralytic Stroke a Short Time Ago and Never Rallied—Useful Life Ended.

The community as a whole will regret to learn of the death of Dr. George Burnham, who passed away at his home on Water street, this afternoon at three o'clock. Deceased gentleman had been confined to the house with heart trouble for several weeks and suffered a paralytic stroke recently. Yesterday his condition was so critical that prayers for him were offered in St. John's Church.

He was a son of the late Rev. Zechariah Burnham and was born in Peterborough about 75 years ago. His 2 brothers, John and Zechariah, predeceased him many years ago, and his wife passed away in 1916. His nearest surviving relatives is a nephew, Capt. Geo. Burnham, son of the late Zac Burnham, now overseas.

DR. GEORGE BURNHAM

TWO MORE 93rd MEN HAVE BEEN KILLED IN ACTION

Ptes. Godfrey and Roberry are Numbered With Gallant Dead

Two more former members of the 93rd Battalion have been killed in action.

Pte W F Godfrey.

Mrs. Maud Godfrey, 266 Dublin street, was notified this morning that her husband, Pte. W. F. Godfrey had made the supreme sacrifice on Sept. 3. No further particulars were given.

Pte. G. W. Roberry.

Mrs. Lillian May Roberry was the other resident to receive bad news from Ottawa. Her husband, Pte. George W. Roberry, was killed in action September 6. The family formerly lived at 51 Hunter street but recently moved to Otonabee where the telegram was delivered by Mrs. McElhiney.

The Late Lieut. Toms.

Mrs. E. Toms, 508 Chamberlain street, has received the following letter in regard to the death at the front of her son, Gunner Toms:

France, Aug. 19.

It is with the deepest sympathy that I write to you about the death of your son, and am only sorry, too sorry, I neglected doing so sooner, but owing to operations I have not had the opportunity.

It was on the afternoon of the 10th of August, about 3 o'clock, that your son met his death, and he was buried about seven o'clock the same day in the line close to where he was killed. We have had a cross with his name and number, and "killed in action" and the date, erected on his grave.

Your son had been with me for over a year, and had at all times served as a soldier should. He was exceptionally cool and brave under fire and was one of the most willing and determined men in the battery when we had any tough job in front of us. Throughout the fighting at Vimy Ridge your son spent Thirty-two days in the trenches under exceptionally hard conditions, and never once did he complain or ask to be relieved, but was always as cheerful and bright as usual.

Gunner Toms was in action with his gun when he was killed. A shell burst close, and a small splinter unfortunately struck your son in the chest and pierced his heart, killing him at once. He did not suffer at all, which is always a blessing.

Please accept my sincerest sympathy and, believe me, your son died a soldier's death, fighting for the great cause.

Yours very sincerely,
J. MATHEWSON, Lieut.
O.C. VI. Canadian Trench Mortar Battery.

MANY GERMANS KILLED.

A British official statement says: "Troops of English and Scottish regiments made successful raids last night on the German trenches in Arras and the Somme regions of the battlefront in France Many Germans were killed in their dugouts and prisoners were taken."

"FOR A GREATER PETERBOROUGH."

PETERBOROUGH MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1917

THEY, TOO, SHOULD BE DISQUALIFIED.

The Parliamentary candidate who elects to be tried by ex-subjects of the Kaiser ond by pacifists of enemy country origin rather than by citizens of British birthright ought not to have a seat in the National Legislature. The politician who is not willing to accept as the war-time trustees of his riding the voters there who were born under the British flag is not worthy of the confidence of those voters. The newspaper or agitator that pleads for the war-time vote for citizens of enemy country birth on the ground that the withdrawal of it would hurt their feelings, thereby shows more concern for party advantage than for the safety of the country. Among the citizens of enemy birth there are many whose loyalty to Canada is of a thousand times better quality than that of the small partisan who professes to have more regard for their susceptibilities than for the blood our heroes are shedding at the front.—Mail and Empire.

A YEAR OF PROHIBITION.

ONTARIO has just completed its first year under provincial-wide prohibition, and the general verdict appears to be that the law has proved a success in every sense of the term and that there is every probability that it will be sustained when submitted to a vote of the people two years hence. A renewal of the license system is regarded as one of the improbabilities.

Never before has a law so radical in its scope been so generally upheld by public opinion or so rigidly enforced. There is not a newspaper of standing in the province that has opposed it. The license inspectors and the police everywhere have insisted upon its [illegible] and the magistrates have in all cases imposed the fines prescribed by law. There have been no complaints of official laxity anywhere, and no offender has been allowed to escape.

Two years ago the Ontario Temperance Act was passed by the Legislature, without opposition from either party. It is seldom that a bill becomes law and is launched under such favorable auspices. At the last session it was amended and the provisions made tighter than ever.

The statistics of the police in Peterborough and in other centres of the province show a remarkable falling off in the number of arrests for drunkenness during the past twelve months. The members of the board of license commissioners, who are in a position to know, say that there are more hotels now than ever before, and that the accommodation given the public is of a higher order.

The one great weak point in the Act is the loophole which allows the importation of liquor from Quebec, the United States and other countries where the traffic is not banned. That is a matter the remedy for which rests with the Legislature itself. No one doubts the authority of the Provincial Government, if it cares to assume the responsibility, to outlaw intoxicating liquor as a beverage completely, to make it illegal to keep it in a private house just as it is in a boarding-house, a garage or a stable. That point has been settled by the highest court in the Empire. Every province has practically unlimited power to deal with the liquor question.

The Federal Government has acted in this matter by decreeing that no liquor shall be sent into any province which has declared its use illegal. This is exercising the right of the Federal authorities to the constitutional limit, and the way has been made easy for the province that asipres to have real prohibition. Any agitation to the contrary, any claim that the Dominion should pass a country-wide prohibitory law is simply the strategy of the cheap politician whose object is to arouse the prejudice of the temperance element against the Federal Government now that there is a campaign in sight. Law, however, is law, and the B. N. A. Act is still in force, and its provisions must be observed.

At the present session the Dominion Parliament passed further important temperance legislation. The right of any province to prohibit the publication of liquor advertisements is conceded. No province, however, can deny the use of the mails to any liquor circular or outside newspaper carrying such advertisements. The Federal authorities decreed that such circulars and newspapers could not be mailed to any province where such publications were prohibited.

The Senate refused to pass this provision, deeming it a dangerous interference with the operation of the international postal laws. If, therefore, the Ontario Legislature passes a law making liquor advertising illegal, the result will simply mean that the province will be flooded with liquor circulars and newspapers from Quebec.

THE ALIEN AND THE FRANCHISE.

THE MAN born in a country now at war with the Empire is not trusted in the battle line on behalf of the Allies. Why, then, should he be trusted to take a hand in the operations for the prosecution of the war? In a word, why should the alien be allowed to vote when conscription is the issue, when the question of whether Canada is to carry on or rest on her arms, is to be decided by the people?

There is many a man in Canada of alien birth who, even if he has been naturalised for twelve or fifteen years, has relatives fighting with the armies of Germany and Austria. He may be neutral, but the ties of blood remain strong as ever. Is it reasonable to suppose that such a man is in favor of sending troops from Canada to slay his brothers in Europe. Is there any doubt as to how such a man would vote when he found him[illegible] booth, no matter how exemplary may have been his conduct as a Canadian citizen or how loud may have been his professions of loyalty to his adopted country?

No sensible alien will regard the loss of the vote under present circumstances as a harship or injustice. In all other respects he is treated as a citizen of the country on whose behalf he is not required to make the sacrifices that are exacted from the native-born.

Is there any argument to support the contention that a man should be allowed to vote at this of all elections while he is really a German or Austrian reservist who may forfeit any property he may still hold in Germany or Austria if he fails to respond to the call to arms?

There is none of the so highly vaunted spirit of justice in these mawkish claims for fair play that are being made on behalf of the aliens who will lose their votes. Their champions are inspired by nothing save one of the most questionable grades of partisanship that has ever been paraded in Canada. It is their votes that are being sought, not their own welfare as members of the community.

THE C. N. R. PURCHASE.

THE LIBERALS in Parliament put up a stiff fight against the proposed purchase of the C. N. R., as they call it, or, what is more properly designated as the Government control of that road. The matter is to be carried into the approaching election campaign as one of the issues with which opposition candidates will attempt to hide the real question of the day.

It is noticeable that the Opposition lacked the support of their own influential organs. The Liberal papers of Toronto refused to join in the clamor against the measure which has passed the Senate and is now a law. The Winnipeg Free Press, easily the leading Liberal paper in the West, says editorially that it is the first C. N. R. deal on record in which the people are getting the best of the bargain.

Which would the Liberals prefer, to see the C. N. R. absorbed by the C. P. R., which so long has had its eye on that road, or to have the embarrassed line of transportation taken over by the Government and operated in competition with the other line? The only way to prevent absorption was by the country assuming control of the road. It is, or soon will be, the property of the people, and as such can be operated to public advantage. To render the road any further financial assistance was out of the question, as the Liberals themselves are forced to concede. At previous sessions of Parliament, when such aid was given, the Opposition were as hostile as they have just been on the question of purchase. Public ownership was the only alternative left the Government.

The Opposition had only one line of argument, that old specious plea, the claptrap that never fails the party with a poor cause, and that was the assertion that the "Big Interests," the element so conveniently charged with every form of political wrong-doing, was being allowed by Parliament to rob the country.

The deal is a momentous one for the people of Canada. It is a longer step than has ever before been taken in the direction of public ownership of utilities. By that bargain the people are getting possession of the second best railway in the country, the largest telegraph company, and one of the biggest express companies. There has always been a demand for the public ownership of the railways, the telegraph lines and express companies. Here is a stride toward the desired goal. When the deal is complete the Government will be in a position to dictate rates to its private competitors in the same line of business.

As to the price to be paid—there is no reason for jumping at the conclusion that this will be unreasonable. The stock held by the private shareholders has a nominal value of sixty million dollars. There is no likelihood that any such amount of money will be paid. The stock may be worth nothing. That is a question that is to be settled by arbitration. If they find it is without value the board of arbitrators will so report, and the country will acquire the road without the expenditure of another dollar more than what has already been advanced to develop it. As usual, the critics of the proposition are dishonest in their claims. They are simply assuming, and asking the public to believe that the board of arbitration and the Government will conspire to defraud the people.

The Government has set a maximum price on the stock, which cannot be exceeded, notwithstanding any award the arbitrators may make. That is the people's safeguard.

Sir Clifford Sifton denies Dr. Neely's story to the effect that the knight urged the doctor last June to oppose conscription. But is it really a matter of great importance whether he did or not?

A FORTUNE IF HE MARRIES

Charles Hoffman, private in the 52nd Infantry, U. S. A., rose with the day shift.

Hoffman stood up in the squad tent, stretched a bit and yawned. Then he suddenly remembered that he is a millionaire—and he sat down abruptly. He had forgotten for the nonce that he had come into great wealth just before taps sounded the night before.

It wasn't the realization of his suddenly acquired fortune that made Private Hoffman sit down. He recalled that a proviso in the will of his uncle made it obligatory that he should wed within a year if he is to get the $1,500,000 his wealthy relative wanted him to have.

"To wed or not to wed—that is the question," mused Hoffman. Then a trumpeter sounded regimental assembly. Everybody tumbled out. A top sergeant came.

"Private Hoffman, fall out!" was his order.

Hoffman was relieved from drill duty that he might cogitate on the uncertainties of his new-found position.

Then came the newspaper men.

"Is there a girl already?" buzzed a reporter.

"That's my secret," answered Private Hoffman.

"Will you advertise for a wife?" another asked.

"Say, what's the big idea?" asked Hoffman. "I'm not going to be [illegible]ed into anything. I'm an independent sort and if they try to make me do something I don't want to do—well, I'll just let the money go to someone else."

Hoffman has been a soldier of fortune. He is 23. He enlisted on May 23rd, patriotism his only incen[illegible] wealthy than [illegible] troit.

"I've knocked about a lot," he says, "and I don't know that I want to get married, money or no money. I've got a year to make up my mind, and I'm not going to hurry."

Hoffman's uncle died a few weeks ago. He wanted to make his nephew settle down, and believed marriage would bring this about. But Hoffman is in the army now and he desires to go to France.

He's a German-American—mostly American — which accounts for his independence, and he's not certain whether he'd rather have a wife and $1,500,000 or his independence and a berth in the army.

The Index That He Expurgated

In his early boyhood the young man, doubtless influenced by "The Count of Monte Cristo," started a card index of the names, addresses and further particulars of all who had helped or hurt him.

Faithfully he kept it up until his fortieth year, thus accumulating some scores of cards, including enemies and friends, also some doubtful and some mixed specimens.

After many ups and downs, mostly the latter, he suddenly came into several thousand dollars. Following the counsel of Iago, after the necessary preliminaries, he put money in his purse. A checking account, bank notes, gold pieces and railway guides were quickly obtained.

Now came the card index. Card after card he examined. Here was a man who had always clamored for the pauper's presence as a guest and was now still well off. Notation was made that he should receive an excellent evening's entertainment.

One who, poor himself, had many years ago bought a useless book from the young agent, was put down for a [illegible]

A man who had pawned his writing machine to lend the youth a few needed dollars was to be repaid a hundredfold.

Some were put down for cheques, some were to receive gold pieces for the children, one was to see his mortgage paid. The young man finished annotating the last card and planned his trip.

Then a puzzled look came over him and he ran through the cards again. In all the tray he could find no enemy cards; and, think as he would, he could not recall a person who had ever injured him.

The next morning, in good raiment, he happily started on his rounds, and soon spent on his friend nearly all his money.

Still happier than ever before, he returned to his small furnished room and a little job as bookkeeper. He was good at accounts.

A prominent farmer twitted us about the women of Guelph not being consistent. He asked us, if our women wanted to save as much as possible, why they did not buy peas in the pod instead of shelled. Shelled peas sold for 20 cents per quart; peas in pod, four quartes for 25 cents. Three quarts of pods make one shelled. Here is a distinct saving. Besides, the farmer has no time to shell them.

He promised to send her some medicine to take.

Oh, she said nervously. They're—not—not mine.

She—Well, go on. Why do you suppose I brought up the wishing subject?

EDITOR'S MAIL

Editor Review: At a social gathering of ladies the other day, at which I was present, the talk as usual turned on dress and shopping. The majority of those at the gathering boasted—no other word so well fits the case—that they never bought anything in the shape of raiment in this city, but that when they wanted anything they went to Toronto. These were not the wives and other relatives of business men, it is hardly necessary to explain, but their husbands were all members of the learned professions or the holders of good salaried positions, men who never in all their careers earned a dollar outside of Peterborough.

Is this good citizenship—to earn money in one place and spend it in another?

Permit me to add, there were present a number of ladies who wore hats and wraps and dresses that were made in this city. I may not be a judge, but it did seem to me that they were just as well dressed as their more fastidious sisters who turn up their noses at the home products. And I may say that they were equally well mannered.

Soldiers Guarded From Temptation

OFFICER SAYS THEY ARE AS SAFE IN LONDON AS ANYWHERE.

London, Sept. 17. (Via Reuter's Ottawa Agency)— A representative of Reuter's enquired at Canadian headquarters in London as to the foundation for the statement of Rev. Dr. Chown, made in Toronto, that Canadian soldiers were submitted to greater temptation in London than they should be called on to bear, and that the matter called for action by the British Government. A responsible Canadian officer said:

"The statement is absolutely absurd. Canadian soldiers in England would indignantly deny it. They have been exceedingly well treated and looked after by people who have guarded them from evil as if they had been their own children.

"As a matter of fact. London is no worse than others of the large cities. We have had the kindly paternal interest of the British Government, who have given our men every possible guidance and warning. It is not the first time that this matter has been brought up, and it reflects unworthily on our feelings of gratitude to the British people."

RETURNED MEN EXEMPT

Do Not Have to Appear For Medical Examination

The idea seems to be abroad that returned soldiers will be expected to appear for medical exemption under the new Military Service Act. This is not so. In clause 5 of the Exemptions Act, men who have seen service and been honorably discharged from the forces of Great Britain and the allies are distinctly specified as exempt from service under the Act. The confusion has arisen from a statement made by Major Christie who said, however, that men who had applied and been rejected would probably have to report for further medical examination. The returned men have no desire to avoid further service, as had been already proved by their volunteering, but they are anxious that the matter should be understood by the public.

EIGHT GROUNDS FOR EXEMPTION PROVIDED BY MILITARY ACT

Nature of Present Employment and Physical Health, Principal Points Provided for.

When the exemption tribunals meet in this city and county exemption from service under the Military Service Act may be claimed on eight separate grounds. The forms of application, which will be available at the post office in the course of a few days, make this clear. The grounds are:

1. The importance of continuing employment in habitual occupation.
2. Importance of continuing employment as ———, for which he is specially qualified.
3. Importance of continuing education or training.
4. Serious hardship owing to exceptional financial obligations.
5. Serious hardship owing to exceptional business obligations.
6. Serious hardship owing to exceptional domestic position.
7. Ill-health or infirmity.
8. Adherence to religious denomination of which the articles of faith forbid combatant service.

In Form of Ballot

The form is drafted much after the style of a ballot paper. The applicant for exemption is required to place a cross opposite the ground on which the claim is made. His case will then go to the local tribunal, to which proof in support will be submitted.

Application for exemption may be made not only by the man himself but by his employer or a near relative. In Great Britain claims for exemption on the ground of a man being indispensable in his civil occupation are generally made by the employer, who appeals to the tribunal on behalf of his men. It is felt that such a claim can best be made by the employer. In any event, a man claiming essential occupation would need to have the support of his employer to his claim.

The forms of military report are equally simple. These will be used by men who do not wish to claim exemption. They would avoid the necessity of reporting in person until such time as a recruit is called up for service. The declaration reads:

"I hereby report myself for military service. I will report myself for duty when called upon by notice mailed to me at

Blanks follow for the name and address of the recruit, his status, whether a bachelor or a widower, his present occupation, and the name and address of his employer.

Both classes of forms are now in the hands of the printer, and will be distributed immediately they are available.

ST. ANDREW'S NOTES.

The Sunday School yesterday had increase of 20 per cent over the previous Sunday and the officers are looking for a similar increase next Sunday, so that by "Rally Day" on Sept. 30th, they will have a record attendance. They want everyone in the church to be a booster for the Sunday School. On Monday afternoon at 4.15 the Willing Workers will hold their regular meeting.

Monday evening at 8 p.m. there will be a meeting of the officers and teachers of the Sunday School. It is hoped that all will endeavor to be present.

Tuesday afternoon at 3 p.m. the Women's Missionary Society will hold their regular monthly meeting. It is urged that this be made a rally meeting for the work of the coming year and that all the women of the congregation have a share in this important branch of the Church's activity.

Tuesday evening at 8 p.m. the Young Ladies' Mission Band will hold a special sewing meeting in the school room. It is important that all members be present at this meeting.

Don't forget to be present Wednesday evening at 8 p.m. at the mid-week prayer meeting.

Thursday afternoon from 3 to 5 the ladies of the Red Cross Society will meet in the school room to receive all completed work, and give out a further supply. All the ladies of the congregation should make it a practise to assist in this special work.

Next Sunday morning the pastor, Rev. W. L. H. Rowand, will speak on "Food Conservation." No doubt every seat will be occupied to hear this most important question presented.

The Ladies' Bible Class which meets in the church every Sunday at 3 p.m. extend a cordial invitation to the ladies of the congregation to join their class next Sunday. All members are earnestly requested to be present, and it is hoped that each member will try and secure one new member.

Germany Is Sorry For Issues Raised

(Canadian Press Despatch)

London, Sept. 17.—Germany has sent a note to Sweden, says the Central News Agency, highly regretting the disagreeable issues raised on account of Sweden transmitting telegrams to Germany. Germany says she is obliged to the Swedish government for transmitting messages but regrets that her representatives in Argentina should have sent telegrams in the phraseology they did.

Stockholm, Sept. 17.—Liberals at a great meeting here severely censured the Swedish Government because of the revelations that Swedish consular agents had been used to forward German spy communications.

HEARS FROM HIS SON.

Mr. W. C. Austin has received a letter from Europe stating that his son, Frank D. Austin, who was recently wounded, is not seriously injured and is making satisfactory progress in the hospital. A Toronto paper last Wednesday announced his death and later was obliged to correct the report. In the meantime Mr. and Mrs. Austin are receiving letters of condolence from friends outside the city.

Despatch Rider Austin served for two years in the most dangerous branch of the service and almost miraculously escaped injury until a few weeks ago, when German snipers finally brought him down. He is a graduate of the engineering department in Toronto University and was one of the first to enlist when the war broke out.

The Woman's Medicine. Good for All Ages. Mrs. Harold Smith's Experience.

Clarksburg, W. Va.—"I am writing to tell you the good your medicine has always done me and I hope my letter may be the means of helping some other suffering woman. When I was 16 years old I caught cold and had suppression for two months. I got so weak I could scarcely drag myself up the stairs. I went to two doctors, then my mother got a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I took it. I never had any more trouble and got strong fast. Then I took it again before my little girl was born and it helped me a good deal and I give the Compound the credit for it. Then this spring I felt very badly again, but I took the Compound and have been well all summer. I cannot be grateful enough for your medicine." — Mrs. HAROLD M. AWFUL STORY OF HUN CRUELY

OF TWO THOUSAND PRISONERS IN ONE CAMP, TWO THIRDS HAVE PERISHED.

Washington, Sept. 17. — Another chapter is added to the story of the tortures of German prison camps by a Russian soldier who escaped by tunnelling with a knife under the electrically charged fence along the Antwerp Rosendaal line. It has been forwarded to the state department from Petrograd.

Brutal treatment and poor and insufficient food have cost Germany the labor of thousands of prisoners, he says. One labor battalion on the western front, consisting of 2000 men has been reduced by starvation, exposure, beatings and death to less than 500.

Rations Are Poor

The daily rations for a prisoner, he reported, consisted of a small amount of bread and turnip soup, the soup enriched occasionally by a bit of horse meat. The unfit, the wounded and those who have lost members of their body were kept in invalid camps until they died, but never, he says returned to camps in Germany, because the officers in command feared the psychological effect upon the people of the sight of the maimed men, often little more than animated skeltons.

Compelled to Work

Stern and implacable methods were used to compel prisoners to work. Ingenious tortures that ended only short of death were inflicted on some, while others were shot outright. Punishments varied, from enforced standing at attention, for a day at a time, without food, to beatings with rifle butts and to hours of suspension in the air with ropes being tied to wrists while prisoners' hands were held behind the bodies, the result being to throw the weight on the unnaturally twisted muscles of arms and shoulders. Such methods in his own battalion, once 2000 strong, had reduced it to 350, at the time he escaped.

NEW TIMBER FOR THE CABINET

RUMORS THAT LIBERALS ARE TO BE TAKEN IN WHEN HOUSE PROROGUES.

Ottawa, Sept. 17.—While dissolution of parliament may be looked for prior to October 7, when the term expires anyway, there is likely to be no immediate development regarding cabinet reconstruction. It is said that a month may be taken to allow things to shape up.

That a number of Liberals will go into the cabinet now seems a certainty, though the union may not be on the broad lines originally proposed.

A new name mentioned for a cabinet portfolio is Lloyd Harris, ex-M.P. for Brantford, who broke with the Liberal party on the reciprocity issue in 1911.

Hugh Guthrie, M.P., is likely to be minister of customs in place of Hon. Dr. Reid, who would go to the railway department in succession to Hon. Frank Cochrane.

From the west the unionists most in view now are T. A. Crerar, of Winnipeg, head of the Grain Growers' Grain Company; J. G. Turriff, of Assiniboia, and Hon. Arthur Sifton, Hon. Thomas Johnson, of the Manitoba Government, who is an Icelander, has also been mentioned, and Hon. Edward Brown, provincial treasurer in the Norris government, is due to arrive in Ottawa.

The election, certain not to be held before December, will be preceded by a campaign of education on war issues. The final result may not be known till a month after voting at home. The soldiers' votes overseas have to be counted, and this will begin as soon as the ballot bags are all received in London. If they come in a few days the result will soon be known, but, in any event, the outside limit for starting the count is thirty days. Ballot bags received after that will be rejected.

Oratorio Choruses Sung At St. John's

The Harvest Thanksgiving Services at St. John's were continued yesterday. The Rev. Walter Archbold, D. D., preached eloquent and impressive Sermons, morning and evening, also giving a helpful address to the scholars and staff of the Sunday school in the church at 3.15. Mr. Archbold also made stirring appeals to the congregation to service in Red Cross work, loyal support of the movement for conservation of food for which pledge cards are now being distributed and to do all possible for the gallant men now overseas who were actually under conditions we could not realize.

The church Woman's Association propose again to send parcels to St John's overseas men, and ask that the latest addresses of the men be sent at once to Mrs. Sangster, the secretary, 549 Homewood avenue, telephone 916.

The music throughout the festival has been good. Like an ancient river, which overflowed its banks at harvest, St. John's choristers overflowed the seating capacity yesterday for in addition to new members, choristers who had been away for the summer were on hand, and it was a great pleasure to welcome back Mr. Morphelt and Mr. Hutchinson after serious illness.

Mr. Devey was swift to utilize the magnificent combination of voices, and the following choral compositions were finally rendered.

Te Deum in F flat, W. H. Woodward Anthem "Ye shall dwell in the land," Stainer; solo passages by Miss Quartermaine and Mr. Tom Ward.

Magnificat, by Bishop Tozer. "The Marvellous Work," chorus from Haydn's "Creation," solo obligate by Mrs. W. G. Perks, the final number being that greatest of all choruses "Hallelujah" from Handel's "Messiah."

A letter from Mr. W. F. Johnston Rector's Warden expressing hearty appreciation of the faithful work of the choir by himself and Dr. Holloway, Peoples Warden, was read to the choir after the morning service

VOTE FOR YOUR FAVORITE

The fact that a name appears in the list of nominees does not necessarily imply that the person is an active candidate in the contest. It is the duty and purpose of the contest department to announce the nominations that have been made. In many instances people have been nominated by friends who hope to see them win the race for the Great Prizes. Many of these nominees will engage in the contest actively, while others will remain "in the hands of their friends."

It is the right of the patrons of The Review to decide who shall win. It is within the province of the subscribers to vote for anyone, and these votes will be credited as ordered, without regard to such person as an active candidate or not. The public will do the voting, and the judges will decide who are the winners at the close of the contest.

For the purposes of the contest, any person who has been voted for is a candidate in the contest. The votes will stand as credited to the end of the contest. They are not transferable and they are not subject to cancellation except for reasons of irregularity.

The vote standing today shows that many people have divided the votes up to the present. Votes have been issued on all subscription payments made at The Review office since the opening of the contest, in many instances by subscribers who paid in person. These votes have been credited in every instance according to the wishes of the subscribers, and this practice will be followed throughout the contest. Several people have been voted for in this way, although they have not sent in any subscriptions themselves.

A very few subscriptions separate the leading candidates.

ROOM FOR MORE CANDIDATES.

The contest is only just starting. There are many who would enter the race today if they realized that the chances of victory are as good as the contest office knows them to be.

You should enter the contest today. Send in your name. Send for a receipt book. Call at the contest office and talk it over.

LUBIN AN AUSTRIAN

Let no man question the detective instinct of the provincial police. They have not yet found the elusive Lubin who victimized the natives of Lindsay with the worthless cheque game, but they have discovered his nationality and that should help. It seems that he is an Austrian, not a French-Canadian as originally stated. It is reported that a party answering his description was seen at Windsor. He was probably attempting to get across the line. And so merrily goes the quest.

Russia's political crisis has been solved, as new cabinet has been formed.

German attacks early Sunday morning in an effort to recapture positions lost near Inverness yesterday were repulsed.

NEW YEAR'S DAY WITH THE JEWS

ACCORDING TO THEIR CHRONOLOGY THE WORLD IS NOW 5,678 YEARS OLD.

"Awake and ponder your deeds; remember your Creator, return to Him in penitence. Look well to your souls and consider your acts; forsake each of you his evil ways and thoughts, and return to God that He may have mercy upon you."

Rosh Hashanah, the Jewish New Year, 5678, commenced Sunday night, when the Jews throughout the world entered their synagogues to usher in this holiday, which marks the beginning of the cycle of sacred observances held during the month of Tishri, the seventh month of the Jewish calendar. The holiday will last two days, concluding Tuesday evening.

The Jewish New Year is known by different names, each of which expresses something of its spiritual significance. It is known as the Day of Memorial, the Day of Judgment, or self-examination. Jewish tradition tells that on this day the doings of man are weighed by the Ruler of Life, who allots to each his own destiny. Therefore, ever since September the eighth and continuing till Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement (September 26), pious Jews can be seen wending their way to the synagogues very early in the mornings. There they hold special services and prayers.

Throng Places of Worship

Shortly after lunch today the Jews again thronged to their places of worship for graces. In Toronto they will proceed to the Bay, where every Jew will empty all the bread crumbs found in his pockets into the water. By so doing they believe that they will get rid of all their sins. Supposing that each person throws one ounce of bread into the Bay, there being about 35,000 Jews in that city, approximately 2,000 pounds of bread will be disposed of. Till sunset they remained at the Bay saying prayers, for, according to tradition, when one stands near a river he is somehow seized by the idea of the insecurity of life. It reminds him that life is short and that something must be done for the future.

Replenish Tables

This evening on every Jewish table will be found the first fruits of the season, which he will taste for the first time in the year.

All the Jews living in the small towns and villages in Ontario, such as Galt, Guelph, Sudbury, St. Catharines, and the like, have been exceedingly busy up to now engaging the services of cantors for the holiday.

Franchise Bills

Franchise discussions in British countries have always been of interest to the people. The bill of 1832, commonly called the Reform Bill, of 1867 and 1888, are political landmarks in British history. In Canada we remember the Franchise Bill of 1885, largely because of the character of the debate. It lasted fully six month. Advantage was taken of nearly every form of parliamentary obstruction. The estimates and the bill were fought inch by inch. For a time the House sat day and night without adjournment, save when it rose from 6 until 8 in the evening. The opposition organized itself into brigades and relieved each other at regular intervals. It did all the talking, and the most of that was irrelevant and simply for obstruction. That was what could be done before closure was introduced. It is impossible now, and most people will agree that it is a good thing that it is so. Sir John Macdonald belonged to a school that shrank from the innovation, otherwise he might have passed the bill. It is known that the friends of Sir Wilfrid Laurier appealed to him to put through the Reciprocity Bill by closure, and that a bill was actually prepared for him, yet he managed to sidestep it and instead dissolved Parliament and got defeated. Very recently he stated in the Commons that he could have got the Reciprocity Bill by closure, but he preferred the other course. In this regard and in many other ways he shared the prejudices as well as many of the political talents of his old antagonist, although he cannot fail to appreciate the great advantages of conducting public business when it is known that anything like organized obstruction can be prevented under the new rules.

A quiet wedding is often the prelude to a noisy divorce.

POINTERS FOR FARMERS

edit page—POINTERS

Notes of the Hog Lot.

A blanket of fat on the fall pig is worth bushels of corn in the crib.

No man can make money feeding 80-cent corn and $30 millfeed to mongrel hogs.

Separate the breeding stock from the fattening hogs, also separate the larger from the smaller ones.

Points To Avoid.

Do not buy a horse with a narrow or shallow chest or whose forelegs are very close together; he has not sufficient room for a set of strong lungs and will not be long-winded.

Marketing Onions.

It is usually a good plan to market onions as soon as possible in the fall. If one has good storage facilities it may pay to keep them until into the winter.

Blanching Celery.

Celery may be blanched by placing boards, paper or dirt about it. A drain tile will do. Soil is likely to cause decay in the early varieties if put on during hot weather.

Skill is shown and good results obtained when the gardener does each job at the right time and in the right way.

There is one advantage in teaching a horse to walk well, and that is, he is not injured in the least in any way for any other gait.

Help Out the Meat Supply.

Keep chickens on city lots. They utilize kitchen waste, require only light labor, such as children, older folks and convalescents can supply, and make quick and economic returns in meat and eggs.

Save Everything.

Every apple grower or every apple growing community should this year have adequate means of utilizing low grade and waste apples in some one or more of the many commercial ways in which that delicious fruit may be used.

For every acre of alfalfa that New York had 18 years ago it now has 32 acres. Nearly one farm in every three now has a silo, yet this showing could be vastly improved to the advantage of the State.

An auto in the farmyard is no sign that the owner is a spendthrift—on the contrary it may indicate that he prefers to give himself and his family harmless pleasure and has the money to pay for it.

A steer prefers silage to dry corn-fodder just as a boy prefers pie to dry corn-bread, but in the case of the steer, the silage is better food for him than the pie is for the boy.

It is a whole lot of satisfaction to the customer to know that he can depend upon a farmer. Cash sales and small profits are best.

Currant and gooseberry bushes come into leaf so early in the spring that it is a good time to plant them this fall.

Save everything in the garden and orchard. If there is no sale for produce, can all that is suitable and feed the remainder to the stock.

A hog is simply a pork-factory, and if run on good business lines he will do all that is asked of him.

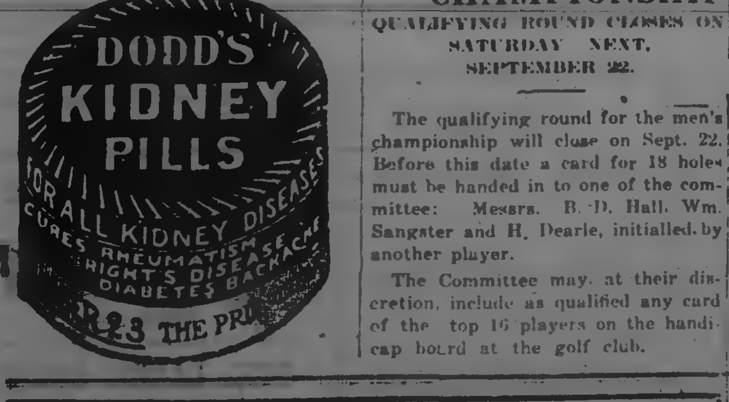
TORONTO TEAM WINNERS OF INTERNATIONAL RACE

Cinched the Chamhionship When They Won Two Games from Rochester, Saturday

Rochester, Sept. 17. — "We've bagged the flag. Permit us to thank you for your kind expression of good wishes contained in telegram received at the ball park here today. Our efforts on behalf of the best baseball town in the International or any other league outside the majors have been rewarded."

The foregoing telegram was despatched to Mayor Church of Toronto immediately after the Leafs had beaten Rochester twice on Saturday afternoon. The scores were 1 to 0 and 5 to 1, and placed the Leafs beyond the reach of their last remaining rival, Providence. Thus was the pennant won on the last day of the Leafs' playing season.

The victory of 1917 adds another to the championships which have been won in cycles of five years, commencing in 1902. Arthur Irwin's great team of 1897 finished second to Syracuse and beat the latter for the Steinert Cup. The latter was contested between the pennant winners and runners-up every season in the old Eastern League. The trophy has been in Toronto for twenty years without being played for, and is now in possession of President McCaffery of the Leafs.



MEN'S GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP

QUALIFYING ROUND CLOSES ON SATURDAY NEXT, SEPTEMBER 22.

The qualifying round for the men's championship will close on Sept. 22. Before this date a card for 18 holes must be handed in to one of the committee: Messrs. B. D. Hall, Wm. Sangster and H. Dearle, initialled by another player.

The Committee may, at their discretion, include as qualified any card of the top 16 players on the handicap board at the golf club.

PATRIOTISM

Patriotism, like Charity, should begin at home. The man who is willing at any time to protect his country against foreign foes, should be willing AT ALL TIMES to protect his Family against such common foes as Poverty, Privation and Suffering.

A Life Insurance Company cannot take the place of a Husband

BUT

It can preserve the family from want.
It can lighten their load of care.
It can build a barrier against adversity.
It can strengthen the foundation of the home.
It can certify to a man's affectionate regard for his family.
It can place his widow beyond the need of marrying for support.
It can add to a man's years by freeing him from anxiety.
It can enhance the respect and esteem of the public and of his wife and children for him.

GEORGE GRANGE NEW FIRE CHIEF RESIGNS OFFICE

Gives up Position After Few Days Trial---Pleads Family Matters as Reason

George Grange, who was appointed by Council to succeed ex-Fire Chief Howard as head of the brigade, after a few days' trial of his new duties, has resigned the position which everyone believed he was eager to accept as soon as a vacancy occurred. He was the choice of Mayor Duffus for the place, and it is not likely the Mayor would have espoused Mr. Grange's cause if he had lacked assurance that the new job was to his taste.

The reason which Mr. Grange gives for resigning, as submitted to Chairman Dobbin of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, is that his wife objects to the hours which the place would make it necessary for him to keep. At all events his term of office will always stand as one of the shortest on record.

Now that the position is open again there are a number of applicants likely to rise up. In the meantime Assistant Chief Jamieson is well able to direct the brigade.

WORLD IN BRIEF

An escaped Russian prisoner from a German camp gives a harrowing story of the death of fifteen hundred out of two thousand prisoners by starvation and abuse.

In hand to hand fighting along the East Bank of the Meuse after short artillery preparations the Germans stormed the heights east of Chaume Woods and took over three hundred prisoners.

High British naval authorities says Germany will reach the maximum [illegible] effort between now and November. "Their campaign, however, will be more than met by our counter measures."

The Scalpers Harvest

Chicago tickets scalpers who are mobilizing their forces to reap a golden harvest out of the prospective world's series are going to have the battle of their lives, according to President Comiskey of the White Sox. The White Sox magnate declares that for every reserved seat sold for the games played at the south side grounds, if his team gets into the world's series, he will have the name and address of the purchaser, and for every seat that gets into the hands of a scalper he will be able to publish the name and home address of the person who bought the seat for the purpose of making money out of it. Moreover, he declared he would let the public know the names of fans who scalp tickets by advertising them in the newspapers of Chicago at his own expense.

A forgiving disposition is the first law of self-preservation.

FRANCE RESOLVES TO IMPART NEW IMPETUS TO WAR POLICY

Candidates Who Depend on Luck Will Lose---Resolution Backed by Action Will Win First Voting Period Closes Week From Saturday---Not too Late to Enter Contest.

Do you think other candidates can get subscriptions easier than you?

That's what the unsuccessful man or woman thinks of the successful man or woman in any line of endeavor in the world.

Look into the history of any man who ever did anything that makes him stand out from the rest of humanity.

You may say he had money, opportunity, friends at court, good luck, was born with brains, or had a chance.

After you have taken stock of all these things, which appear on the surface, look at the man.

No amount of money ever made any man great; the finest of opportunity never made any man famous; the most favorable environment never produced a genius or master of men.

If those things were true, there would be only two kinds of people in the world—a class of mental aristocrats, with all the money and the brains, and the rest of the world full of cattle.

We would have a race of supermen and a race of slaves.

But you'll find that the majority of the supermen come from the classes sometimes called "lower," which only means poorer.

The first thing to do is to tell yourself you can do it, and you are already a winner. You can't lose if you can convince yourself that you can win.

There are only ten more working days of the first contest period left; and the end of the contest is little more than five weeks away.

Tell your friends how many votes you already have and ask them if they will extend their present subscription to help you win.

Tell them about the prizes and show them where you stood in yesterday's list.

Get them interested and impress upon them that it means much to you to get every possible subscription now.

To the present subscribers of The Review it simply means that they will give you money that they will pay out at some future date for the paper when there will be no votes or prizes given for the subscriptions.

If they understand that you will get some benefit from their paid-in-advance subscriptions, they will be willing to give you their help.

This is the chance of a lifetime, and all the candidates seem to realize it.

Never again may you have the chance to get such valuable prizes by the simple method of getting a few subscriptions for The Review.

The time to act is NOW. Work hard while the contest is running, win a good prize, and you will have something that will last a lifetime.

You don't have to do much—just a little more than your competitors.

Did you ever work with such an object in view before?

What could you do in the next few weeks that would bring you a bigger returns for your efforts?

You can win if you want to—you know that you can.

Go right out and get a few subscriptions. One thing is certain in this contest; that is, the hardest workers will win.

Many men and women make a living soliciting subscriptions.

It isn't as though you were asking people to buy pictures or books or something for which they have little use. A daily paper is a necessity. And in buying a newspaper everybody should have the best, just as they demand the best clothes, the best groceries or the best kind of coal.

Everybody knows that The Review is the best paper. That's why you should not feel a bit timid in asking for subscriptions.

The Review speaks for itself—all you have to do is to look after your own interests and get the votes.

Let your motto be: HUSTLE! HUSTLE! HUSTLE. Then HUSTLE SOME MORE.

JAMES D. O'BRIEN'S DEATH WAS ENTIRELY ACCIDENTAL

Adjourned Inquest Held Last Night---Evidence of Witnesses Cleared C.P.R. Employees of any Suspicion of Negligence—Fatality Due to Mistaken Judgment.

The adjourned inquest to inquire into the death of Jas. D. O'Brien of Downeyville, who sustained fatal injuries by jumping off a moving C. P. R. train a mile this side of Brady's flag station, resulted in the railway company being exonerated from all blame. The accident occurred on the night of September 7.

All the evidence to hand pointed to the conclusion that the train crew were guilty of no negligence whatever, and that conditions and operations on the night in question were those customarily observed.

Conductor Abbs swore that he first heard of the accident on his arrival at Burketon Junction. He reported to the agent, who sent back section-men on a hand-car to bring in the injured man. The section men had left on their errand before he pulled out with his train, which stopped at Burketon only ten minutes as usual. The hand-car would make better time than the train would had it been backed up to the scene of the accident, as the latter would have to be, in protection, flagged the whole distance. The train had stopped at Brady's to let a passenger off, and had run from there to Burketon at the usual varying speed, according to road-bed conditions. He did not call Burketon before reaching Brady's. The deceased was found on the track about a mile this side of Brady's.

Who Will Be Rated Physically Fit?

Editor Review: It is the intention of the Government to call out for service as soon as possible, the first class under the Military Service Act, namely—unmarried men and widowers between the ages of twenty and thirty-four. It is, of course, obvious that only men who are physically fit will be required for service, and the Military Service Council is considering the question of physical fitness at the present time.

It will be a great benefit to the employer to know definitely which of his employees are exempted on the ground of physical fitness. It will help the members of the class called out to know as soon as possible whether they are physically eligible or not. It will assist the Government to get this portion of the work to be handled, covered as soon as possible.

The Military Service Council has therefore proposed that a Medical Board be established at a very early date at convenient centres, which will pass authoritatively on the question of physical fitness, and the Military Service Council is anxious to secure the co-operation of the different communities in support of this measure.

The Military Service Council has asked that the Peterborough Board of Trade discuss the question of physical fitness, at once, and also the establishment here of a Medical Board to decide the standard of physical fitness to be required of the members of the first class to be called out under the Military Service Act. This board has now been established here and it is desired to consider the questions arising out of its establishment.

It will readily be understood that the matter is a very important one and one that will have far reaching effects in the community, and it is therefore desired that at the meeting to be held in the Council Chamber tonight at eight o'clock p.m., under the auspices of the Board of Trade, a large attendance of manufacturers, merchants, professional men and representatives of the Trades and Labor Council be present at the meeting and take part in the discussion.

The meeting is not confined to members of the Board of Trade.

W. H. HILL'S APPRECIATION OF THE LATE DR. BURNHAM

The Two Worked Together on Board of Education for Thirty Years—The Deceased was a Model of Honor and Fairness in all His Dealings—Funeral To-morrow.

No successor to the late Dr. Burnham as member of the School Board is likely to be appointed, as the term of the deceased expired at the end of the year, and the Board has only three more meetings before the next election. A special election would not be necessary, in any case, as the Board has power to fill a vacancy by a majority selection whenever such occurs, for the extent of the unexpired term.

Mr. Hill's Tribute.

Mr. W. H. Hill, with a record of thirty years of service, is now the dean of the Board of Education. He and Dr. Burnham worked together for the educational advancement of the city for three decades. Mr. Hill has nothing but the highest praise for his former colleague. Together they watched the school system of Peterborough emerge from its crude stage to what it is today, and together they worked for that end. The two witnessed many changes. Mr. Hill recalls the stirring days when the Board held exciting sessions that often lasted from the hour of opening until well towards midnight and when debates were often warm. Several times in those days Dr. Burnham held the responsible position of chairman.

Mr. Hill says that in all his rulings as presiding officer the late Dr. Burnham was eminently fair. He was a master of parliamentary procedure and was possessed of that sense of justice and fearlessness which is so essential in the president of a deliberative body.

"Words fail to express my appreciation of Dr. Burnham," said Mr. Hill today. "He seemed to be everything every man should be. Above all, his honesty of purpose was always above suspicion. Once he was satisfied that he was right his course was unalterable. He stood firm as a rock. No one who knew Dr. Burnham could imagine for a moment that he would swerve a hair's breadth from what he regarded as the path of duty.

Half Holiday for the Schools.

Out of compliment to the memory of the man who worked on their behalf for thirty-seven eventful years, the schools of the city will close for the day at noon tomorrow.

Funeral Services.

Family service in memory of the late Dr. Burnham will be held at the house at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. The remains will be then taken to St. John's Church, where a funeral service will be conducted by Rev. W. Archbold, commencing at 2:20, thence to Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

Deceased gentleman was a lifelong, consistent and active member of St. John's Anglican Church, and at the time of his death was a member of the church's advisory board, the rectory trust, and also lay delegate to the Synod. He was also a past warden of St. John's, and a generous patron of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Otonabee, in the welfare of which he took a keen interest, being practically its main support. Deceased was a member of the Masonic Order and one of the oldest master Masons in Peterborough.

The Board of Education members will attend the funeral in a body.

Labor Congress Will Ask Government to Take Share of Earnings of Men Not Naturalized---Westerners Threaten Strike if Draft is Enforced.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Ottawa, Sept. 18.—That all aliens in Canada not naturalized be compelled to pay a war tax on their earnings was a resolution adopted today by the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress and a memorial will be sent to the Dominion Government recommending this. This resolution emanated from Sault Ste. Marie where it was stated. There are over one thousand Austrians and Germans drawing big pay in the steel works and paying no taxes.

After considerable discussion, during which some delegates declared it was no part of a labor congress's business take up the cudgels for the soldiers, it was decided to refer a resolution re separation allowance, pensions, etc., to the Congress pensions committee. A resolution in favor of rural credits developed considerable position.

FRANCE RESOLVES TO IMPART NEW IMPETUS TO WAR POLICY

Candidates Who Depend on Luck Will Lose—Resolution Backed by Action Will Win First Voting Period Closes Week From Saturday—Not too Late to Enter Contest.

Do you think other candidates can get subscriptions easier than you?

That's what the unsuccessful man or woman thinks of the successful man or woman in any line of endeavor in the world.

Look into the history of any man who ever did anything that makes him stand out from the rest of humanity.

You may say he had money, opportunity, friends at court, good luck, was born with brains, or had a chance.

After you have taken stock of all these things, which appear on the surface, look at the man.

No amount of money ever made any man great; the finest of opportunity never made any man famous; the most favorable environment never produced a genius or master of men.

If those things were true, there would be only two kinds of people in the world—a class of mental aristocrats, with all the money and the brains, and the rest of the world full of cattle.

We would have a race of supermen and a race of slaves.

But you'll find that the majority of the supermen come from the classes sometimes called "lower," which only means poorer.

The first thing to do is to tell yourself you can do it, and you are already a winner. You can't lose if you can convince yourself that you can win.

There are only ten more working days of the first contest period left; and the end of the contest is little more than five weeks away.

Tell your friends how many votes you already have and ask them if they will extend their present subscription to help you win.

Tell them about the prizes and show them where you stood in yesterday's list.

Get them interested and impress upon them that it means much to you to get every possible subscription now.

To the present subscribers of The Review it simply means that they will give you money that they will pay out at some future date for the paper when there will be no votes or prizes given for the subscriptions.

If they understand that you will get some benefit from their paid-in-advance subscriptions, they will be willing to give you their help.

This is the chance of a lifetime, and all the candidates seem to realise it.

Never again may you have the chance to get such valuable prizes by the simple method of getting a few subscriptions for The Review.

The time to act is NOW. Work hard while the contest is running, win a good prize, and you will have something that will last a lifetime.

You don't have to do much—just a little more than your competitors.

Don't hang back and loaf—you can't afford to do that with so much at stake.

Did you ever work with such an object in view before?

What could you do in the next few weeks that would bring you a bigger returns for your efforts?

You can win if you want to—you know that you can.

Go right out and get a few subscriptions. One thing is certain in this contest; that is, the hardest workers will win.

Many men and women make a living soliciting subscriptions.

It isn't as though you were asking people to buy pictures or books or something for which they have little use. A daily paper is a necessity. And in buying a newspaper everybody should have the best, just as they demand the best clothes, the best groceries or the best kind of coal.

Everybody knows that The Review is the best paper. That's why you should not feel a bit timid in asking for subscriptions.

The Review speaks for itself—all you have to do is to look after your own interests and get the votes.

TURN BACK ON BRITISHERS.

IT WILL NOT GO unnoticed that the Opposition members are greatly concerned about the naturalized citizens of alien birth, but are not at all championing the Britishers, at a time when the Empire and the Dominion are paying a measureless price of life and suffering to maintain British ideals.

It would be a disgrace to the memory of our gallant dead and desertion to the heroic living soldiers of Canada in the battle line, to allow residents of Canada whose hearts are with the enemy to enter the polling booth and nullify the efforts of loyal Canadians to reinforce the men at the front. The political managers may unload themselves of a lot of theoretical catch-vote cries, but the supporting of the heroes in France has got out of party bounds and Conservatives and Liberals alike propose to stand by them—that is, all except the office-hungry partisans.

Every Opposition candidate who is seeking to prevent the will of the loyal Britishers dominating the next Parliament of Canada will have to answer to his win-the-war constituents for turning his back on them in favor of the enemy.—Stratford Herald.

THE BARK AND THE BITE.

IF SIR ROBERT BORDEN were as wicked as he is weak, the Kaiser would have to look to his laurels, remarks the Examiner, talking out loud while it dreams.

If our contemporary's bite was as severe as its bark would indicate, all except those marked with the trademark of its gracious consideration would consult their personal safety by taking to the woods.

A GENTLEMAN OF THE OLD SCHOOL.

THE DEATH of Dr. George Burnham marks the passing of a member of that class whose ranks are becoming thinner year by year—those sturdy pioneers, the gentlemen of the old school, who to rare natural abilities add the advantages of all the educational equipments that the county affords, men in whom the sense of honor is developed to the utmost and who would rather give up life than break faith with their fellows. The late Dr. Burnham was a man of sterling worth and spotless integrity, a worthy member of a distinguished family. He has passed from the city for which he had done so much, but his works live after him, and his name will be preserved with honor in the memory of the people.

The late doctor was born in St. Thomas, the son of an Anglican clergyman of high natural endowment and finely educated. His father came to Peterborough, when the place was a town, as rector of St. John's Church. The son was given an admirable opportunity to fit himself for the duties of life when he was sent as a student to the old Grammar School at Galt, at that time presided over by the late William Tassie, one of the most noted educationists this country has ever seen, a man who turned out well-molded characters as well as scholars from his institution. It was at this school that the mind of the late Dr. Burnham was first directed, and the qualities which distinguished him as a citizen in after years were brought to perfection. He afterward studied medicine in the United States, later taking a degree in Victoria College.

It was the good fortune of the late Dr. Burnham that he found himself in easy circumstances and was spared the necessity of the struggle for existence which has absorbed all the energies of so many men called on to make their way in one of the learned professions. He had a chance to devote time to public affairs, and his inclination was in that direction. He was prominent in every public movement. For years he was chairman of the Public Library Board, member and chairman of the Board of Health, director of the Little Lake Cemetery Company, identified with associations for the promotion of athletics, and a leader in all charitable work.

It is as a member of the Board of Education, however, that the late Dr. Burnham will be best remembered. He was the oldest member, both in years and point of service, at the time of his death, having been elected in 1880 and holding office continuously ever since. Several times he held the position of chairman, his last term of service in that capacity being in 1916. As a member of that Board, Dr. Burnham helped to build up the excellent school system for which this city is so justly noted the country over. He was liberal in his policy without being extravagant, and the physical as well as the mental development of the rising generation was always his aim. The doctor intended to retire from the Board at the end of the present year.

In politics the late doctor was always a consistent Conservative, but never a partisan in the modern sense of that term. Anything like sharp practice by either party was always repellant to his nature. In religion he was a lifelong member of the church of which his father had been rector.

In his charitable work the late Dr. Burnham followed the scriptural injunction by keeping his left hand in the dark as to what his right was doing. The world never heard of his generous acts. Many a man has been aided, many a family saved from want, by the munificence of the late Dr. Burnham, and none but the parties to the transaction were ever any the wiser.

THE DIFFERENCE.

THE CONSCRIPTIONISTS would continue this war with the object of ending war for all time. The anti-conscriptionists would drop the conflict now and so render possible another and a ghastlier war before the world was many years older.

THE FOOD CONTROLLER'S WORK.

FOOD CONTROLLER HANNA is being assailed from every quarter. In this particular he is simply sharing the fate of every man selected for an important public duty, for the performance of a work which is closely concerned with the every-day life of the people.

One of the attacks made upon Mr. Hanna came last week from an unexpected quarter and in the form of an advertisement in a Toronto paper, accusing him of extravagance in the matter of getting the campaign for the conservation of food before the public. The fact that Mr. Hanna is devoting his own time and energy to the work without compensation appears to have been lost sight of by his detractors.

The necessity for the present campaign for economy in the use of food is recognised by everyone who has studied the situation. There is only one channel through which the facts can be got before the people, and that is by means of the newspapers. The papers cannot be expected to do all of this work gratuitously, but it must be said in their behalf that for every line for which they are paid they publish at least twenty for which they receive nothing. No reasonable person will object to such an arrangement.

It is impossible to overestimate the value of the work which Mr. Hanna is doing at this time. As an educational factor, his propaganda is worth vastly more than it costs, even if the country were not at war. The people are being taught to save; they are being shown the real value of the different varieties of food, all of which information is desirable at any time, but especialy so when millions of men have been taken out of the producing ranks, and have become merely consumers of the fruits of the earth, which must be provided by others.

The soldiers of the Allies must be fed if this war is to be won. Mr. Hanna proceeds to show how this is to be accomplished. That is the work in which he is engaged, and that is a work which ranks in importance with any operation designed to win the war.

WORKING ON SUNDAY.

MEMBERS of the Lord's Day Alliance have decided to take action with a view to putting a stop to all Sunday labor on the gigantic industrial plant that is being put up in this city. This is likely to result in a division of public opinion. When the matter is investigated it will probably be found that any work now being done there on the first day of the week is practically a matter of necessity, such as is provided for in the Mosaic law upon which the members of the Lord's Day Alliance base their faith and their regulations.

The plant in question is required to add to the world's food supply. If the straining of a point is allowable in any case it surely is under such circumstances. The war has called for liberality in the interpretation of more than one hard and fast creed, and the revision of more than one regulation. The man who opposed smoking in the British army is no longer heard from. Sunday work has been carried on as it has not been for years, to provide for conditions created by the war.

In the matter at issue in this city there are two sides, just as in every problem. The public will do well to suspend judgment, to avoid taking sides, until all the facts are before them.

KEEP UP THE STRENGTH.

"I AM GLAD to note," writes General Currie to Capt. Burnham, M.P., "that you are exerting all your influence to keep the corps at full strength."

It is Capt. Burnham and his party who are exerting this influence. It is the politicians opposed to Capt. Burnham and his party who are exerting the malign influence that will work the contrary effect.

NOTES AND COMMENT.

TO WASTE FOOD, war or no war, is a crime.

• • •

BRITAIN eats war bread. Why not the same regulation for Canada?

• • •

IF YOU cannot fight, you can render the cause valuable service by helping to save.

• • •

THE BRITISH are short of meat. Canadians, by saving in the use of this food, can help them.

• • •

BRITAIN is on rations. Why should Canadians complain if they are called upon to make the same sacrifice?

• • •

BOTH IN HONOR and as a matter of patriotic duty, Canadians are bound to carry out the decrees of Food Controller Hanna.

• • •

THE SALE of fresh bread is prohibited in England. Canadian housewives will do well to remember that bread twelve hours old goes further than if used soon after it comes from the oven.

CATECHISM ON FOOD PROBLEM

A great many people are trying to understand something about the food situation because of their desire to sign and live up to the food service pledge, if they can be convinced that it is necessary. The following short catechism will, it is hoped, answer some of the questions which are being asked:—

Q. Why are so many eggs in cold storage warehouses?

A. Eggs accumulate in cold storage at the end of the packing and surplus egg production season. If storage houses did not have them in store now it would be as serious in [illegible] the granaries at the end of October.

Q. Why is there so much butter in cold storage warehouses?

A. We are nearing the end of the surplus production and storage season. The demand for fats in Europe is becoming greater every day. Anxious inquiries for fats of all kinds are being made. The demand will be still sterner in the near future to spare all kinds of fats for export. Butter exports from Canada were 1000,000 pounds before the war. Last year they were 7,000,000 pounds.

Q. Why are large quantities of beef in storage?

A. Because by the marketing of grass-fattened animals every fall a comparative surplus of beef occurs which is taken care of by cold storage. Every pound of beef in storage is capital on which we can draw for supplying our friends in need overseas.

Q. Is there a marked decrease in food animals in the Allied Countries?

A. So imperative is the demand for meat to feed the armies that there has been a decrease of 33,000,000 head in the Allied Countries, and of 114,000,000 head in the number of food animals in all Europe.

Q. If then there is such a demand for beef overseas, and when the price in Canada is so high, why are cattle and hogs allowed to be shipped from Canada across the border?

A. We cannot discriminate against the United States, one of our allies in the war and the source of our supplies of coal and many other necessities. There is a reciprocal movement of America beef and bacon into Canada. So that the net gain in supplies is on our side of the line.

Q. Why are beef and bacon asked for and not other meats?

A. These meats are most needed by the armies, keep best, and are most easily shipped under conditions of reduced tonnage.

Q. Why is the killing of veal not prohibited by the Food Controller?

A. Because it would be unwise to keep all calves born. Some are naturally unprofitable for beef animals and would not be profitable to either beef producer or consumer if reared to maturity.

American Soldiers and The Bible

General Pershing has sent the following message through the New York Bible Society to the American soldiers. The message was sent in response to the request of Dr. George William Carter, the general secretary:

To the American Soldier:

Aroused against a nation waging war in violation of all Christian principles, our people are fighting in the cause of liberty.

Hardship will be your lot, but trust in God will give you comfort; temptation will befall you, but the teachings of our Saviour will give you strength.

Let your valor as a soldier and your conduct as a man be an inspiration to your comrades and an honor to your country.

PERSHING, Commanding.

This message will be inserted in the Testaments given to the men, along with the message already given to the troops through the New York Bible Society by Colonel Roosevelt.

The New York Bible Society is aiming to place 100,000 copies of the Bible in the hands of the troops just as quicly as possible. The demand is greater than the supply. Small khaki covered Testaments are presented to the men. The Testaments cost $15 a hundred, which is actual cost.

At one encampment one of the men said: "There are only a few Bibles here. It is impossible to meet the requests for them. The books cannot be obtained."

In another encampment the Bible distributer said: "The first sergeant came after me about fifty times asking if he might buy a copy, but I had none left. Please rush a new supply." He adds: "Some fellows just went crazy when they got the book."

At one of the forts in an Atlantic harbor through which 10,000 troops are passing every month, one of the engineers said: "I read the Testament continuously, and I find it more interesting than ever I expected."

In this fort in one day before the men were transferred to one of the large concentration camps as many as 153 soldiers called and personally asked for Testaments.

Why Not in Canada Also?
(Providence Journal)

A despatch from Lexinging, Mass., says that windfall apples will not be left to rot on the ground in the orchards of that town this year. The Boy Scouts will make daily collections and send the fruit to Boston for distribution among the poor. This sound economical plan has been worked out from the suggestion of a local official. The fruit growers have agreed to it, and as a result many bushels of good fruit will be saved that would otherwise go to waste.

This passage from a Petrograd dispatch relating to the women's battalion is illuminative of the conditions which have grown up under the Socialist regime: "The battalion last week had its first experience in fighting owing to continual night raids on the camps by hooligans and robbers, in which a woman soldier and several hooligans were wounded." It is small wonder that Korniloff thought it was time to establish some kind of order.

Zurich, Sept. 17.—The German war food department announces that no barley will be available this winter for feeding pigs, as it is needed for human consumption. Wit and Wisdom

Hello Profanity.

The rule is strict against using profane language when talking over the telephone. A telephone experiment has proved a failure in Lynn, Mass. The manager noticed that "wrong number" calls were frequent, and he ordered the "hello" girls to call each digit separately and to insert the word "dash" after each one. The method was slow, but the climax was reached when a Lynn man was in a hurry to get a Boston newspaper office. He called for "Beach 3000," and heard a sweet voice at "Central" say:

"Beach three, dash, oh, dash, oh, dash, oh, dash."

That nettled the Lynn man, and he called out:

"Well, what are you cussing about?"

The order was abolished, and no more dashes are being said by the telephone girls at Lynn.

Yesterday was the first time the Chief took a notion to weigh a specimen of what appealed to him as unusually heavy cabbage, resulting from his amateur gardening.

Friends Wonder At Great Change

FRED BAKER SAYS HE WAS ON VERGE OF A NERVOUS RUNDOWN.

"Honestly, my friends all tell me I am looking like a different person since I started taking Tanlac, and I sure feel like one, for this medicine has fixed me up so I can work as well as I ever did," said Fred. Baker, a machinist employed by the Steel & R. Radiator Co., and living at 39 Mariposa avenue, West Toronto, the other day.

"Eighteen months ago, when I went from day to night shift," he continued, "the change in hours and habits seemed to upset me, and I began to go down hill pretty fast. My nervous system was strained, and it made me so irritable that I was peevish all the time. After working all night long I felt so tired and worn out, it was all I could do to drag myself home, and when I got there I lost patience with everything and couldn't even stand to have the children around. I tried to sleep during the day, but my rest was not refreshing, and when the time came to go on again I could hardly put one foot before the other. I was fast losing all my strength and energy and I was actually on the verge of a nervous breakdown when I started on Tanlac.

"Well, sir, my appetite began to pick up and I felt better before I had used up half my first bottle, and now my wife has to fill my lunch basket to the brim, and then I don't get enough to eat. My nerves have become quiet and I am never cross or irritable any more. I have got over that tired, worn out feeling, and my night work seems to be just as agreeable as my day work used to be, and I feel just fine and dandy all the time.

GREATEST OF INDIAN LACROSSE PLAYERS

John White of Cornwall Had Great Professional Career—Made Baseball Stars Look Dim

Though many columns are written out annually concerning the feats of Hans Wagner, Napoleon Lajoie and many other old timers of baseball Canadian writers seem to have overlooked the fact that the town of Cornwall produced one of the most remarkable athletes of a decade. John White, the grand old man of lacrosse. For twenty years John was one of the leading figures in the Canadian national game. Every fall, lacrosse men gathered and reached a verdict that "Old John" was through but every spring the call went up for stick handlers, and John left the wigwam to take up the gutted stick again.

White is said to have been born in 187[illegible]. He made his reputation with the Cornwall team as a defence fielder and about 1904, when lacrosse was all the rage in Western Ontario, Tom Nelson and other Brantford magnates then determined to defeat the Shamrocks and capture the celebrated Minto cup, sought to round up an all-star team. They imported Johnny Powers from Ottawa, Jack Hendry from Montreal, many other veterans from the East and West, and finally signed on John White. He played through the Minto cup series with flying colors, and has since been very reliable. He figured on the Tecumseh team at Toronto, joined the Irish-Canadians when they were in the "Big Four," and finally returned, like other Cornwall colts, to the fireside in Joe Lally's town.

Clean and Intense

As one writer once said, "Old John" is in every way a credit to the game. The big redskin checks hard. He uses his body with effect, and studied to perfection the art of blocking home men. Yet John is always clean and sportsmanlike. White seldom speaks when the game is on. He stalks silently about, looking after his own man and generally others as well, intercepting passes with that long-handled stick and galloping noiselessly up and down the field to the accompanying shouts of his fellow Indians and Cornwall people in general.

John, undoubtedly, slowed up to some extent after fifteen years of service. He shifted from the field to point and he did not cover more ground than was absolutely necessary. Yet he was a valuable man. His coolness and inside knowledge of the Canadian national game pulled Cornwall out of many a tight hole. White seldom grumbled. However, he disliked to lose, chiefly for the season, he says, that it made his team mates angry. John loved the game, and after a long professional career played in 1916 as an amateur.

The big clean-boned Indian from Cornwall Island is one of the most picturesque figures in lacrosse history. Few can boast of a better record. Every time John went on the field against Ottawa he looked for Johnnie Powers. One Saturday he was visibly disappointed to learn that Powers did not make the trip. "Great little man Powers," was White's compliment.

A Faithful Marvel

After each game John folded his war togs and stole back to his wigwam on the island, to farm, make lacrosse sticks and do various odd jobs. One year he failed to show up, and rumors were current that John was a "hold-out." The spring freshets in the St. Lawrence had carried away his row boat, and on this account the lanky fellow was unable to report. He sent his regrets to Coach O'Neil and explained all about the "skiff."

Lacrosse is, undoubtedly, the hardest game in the world. Compared to it, baseball, from a physical point of view, is child's play. How long would heavyweights like Wagner, Lajoie, Doyle, Crawford or other veterans, who pulled down fabulous salaries from the baseball magnates, last, if called upon to gallop around the field eight or nine times in as many minutes? Talk about Charley Horses! They would all be candidates for the morgue. Hence John White, one of the greatest athletes in America.

Britain's Priceless Charter

Britain has many possessions which "no money could buy." Perhaps the most priceless of them are the Great Charter—an old parchment enclosed within a glass case in the British Museum; and the stone under the Coronation chair in Westminster Abbey, on which centuries of kings have been crowned and which is said to have served as a pillow for Jacob, son of Isaac and Rebekah. Time was when the Great Charter was bought for fourpence by a London tailor, from whose hands it was rescued just as he was about to cut it up for measures. To-day all the gold of a Rockefeller could not purchase it.

Wren's Masterpiece

St. Paul's Cathedral and most of the City churches were designed by Sir Christopher Wren, one of the most remarkable persons who have ever lived in England. He started life as a mathematician, and made many wonderful inventions in connection with telescopes, microscopes, etc. He was an extraordinary worker, and lived to the ripe age of ninety. Sir Christopher built fifty-five churches in London alone.

Novel in Eleven Words

Tabloid claims to have written the "shortest complete novel on record." Here it is, in less than a score of words: "A man, a maid, a pout, some doubt, misunderstood; same man, same maid, a kiss, some bliss, Miss understood." Even this tabloid novel could be still further condensed, thus: "Man, maid, pout, doubt, misunderstood; man, maid, kiss, bliss, Miss understood"—a life romance in eleven words.

Old Folks' Party

Among a party of nonagenarians, octogenarians, and septuagenarians who kept Christmas, 1916, at Islington Workhouse were a "few youngsters" of sixty. Six women at Lambeth were over 90, sixty-two over 80, and 139 over 70.

ABOUT SUITS.

Why We Have One Pieces From Paris Instead of Them.

When the war started it took away as soldiers many of the expert tailors, and the clever couturiers to bridge this difficulty paid more attention than ever to the designing of street dresses and one piece frocks. In fact, they were so clever in this respect that few women realized that if they had wanted smart suits they would have been compelled to go to one of the two houses that retained tailors who could develop smart suits. Callot and Paquin both have had to offer their patrons not only beautiful one piece frocks and street dresses, but suits that women could not resist buying. The majority of women followed blindly the lead of their particular couturier, and, even when they started out to buy a suit they returned with a frock or a street dress, so cleverly were they talked into purchasing what the couturier had to sell.

There is scarcely a doubt that in a season or two suits will be such a novelty that they will be in demand and tailors will have to be procured from somewhere, or, better still, women will have to learn this particular art.

Of the two suits seen recently in the Bois both had rather long coats, one almost long enough to conceal the skirt. It is predicted by some that long coats will be smart for fall, and this may be another whim with a real idea behind it of the couturiers, for if it is still difficult to obtain tailors it would be a simple matter to make the coats a bit longer and eliminate the skirt—and behold the topper again!

Crocheted Bags.

The latest thing in crocheted bags looks as though it were designed particularly to go with the sport suit. It is made of two perfectly flat circles, crocheted on a plain double stitch of worsted or some other thick mercerized material. The two circles, which are about seven inches in diameter, are sewed firmly together all around, except for six inches or so at the top. The handle is a strap of the same material, crocheted in the same stitch and about an inch and a half or two inches wide. The bag is adorned with a spray of flowers, embroidered on with the same material in contrasting colors, green leaves and pink or yellow blossoms, with loose stems hanging, and finished off each with a rather large bead to match the blossom. This is a bag of brilliant blue. The same bag could be crocheted in emerald green, beige or deep rose—any color wished—and decorated with flowers that harmonized.

For Campers.

Food can be kept cool by evaporation. Milk in bottles or pitchers if wrapped in one or more thicknesses of wet paper and placed where the air will blow upon it will keep cool. Wet paper will keep butter cool and firm. Leftover meats and vegetables can be kept cool in a similar manner. Crush the paper, wetting it thoroughly. Paper bags are excellent for the purpose or any kind of wrapping paper. Then place quite a mass of this wet paper on top of the covered butter or food. A sheet of waxed paper is often a better covering for food than a glass lid or saucer and will protect it perfectly from the wet paper.

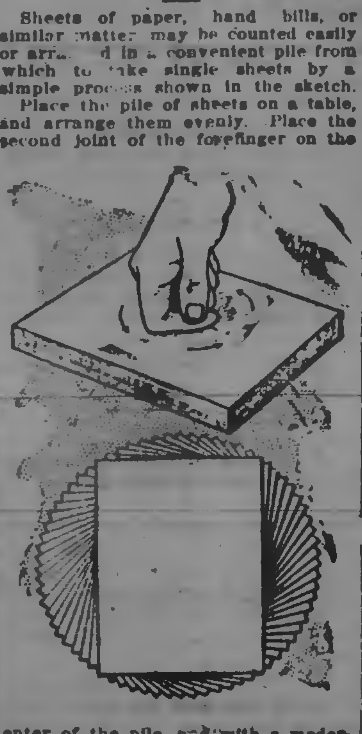
COUNTING PAPER SHEETS

A Kink For Handling Hand Bills With Great Ease

Sheets of paper, hand bills, or similar matter may be counted easily or arranged in a convenient pile from which to take single sheets by a simple process shown in the sketch.

Place the pile of sheets on a table, and arrange them evenly. Place the second joint of the forefinger on the center of the pile, and with a moderate pressure turn the hand in the direction of the arrows. The finger may be raised in order to secure a new contact. The result will be surprising, and interesting to observe. A pile of sheets, as shown in the lower figure, will result.—Popular Mechanics.



QUEBEC FIRE LAWS

Provisions That Made Spread of Forest Fires Difficult

The Legislature of Quebec made several amendments to the fire act, calculated to add materially to its strength and efficiency. One of these provisions required that settlers engaged in clearing operations must, between April 1 and November 15 of each year, secure a burning permit from an authorized forest officer before setting out clearing fires. Wherever this provision is properly enforced, it effects a very material reduction in the forest fire loss. One of the most serious features of the fire situation throughout Canada is the tendency of settlers to burn debris during dry periods, when fire is likely to spread and cause serious damage.

Another amendment to the Quebec act provides that the debris from settlers' clearing operations must, before burning, be piled in heaps or rows at a distance of at least fifty feet from the forest. On this basis, it is much more practicable to control the fire than where the old method of broadcast burning is employed.

Holders of timbers licenses on Crown lands are required to clear away the debris on a depth of one hundred feet from railway rights of way. In many cases, the efforts of railway companies in the direction of fire protection are largely neutralized through the presence of large quantities of the most inflammable debris on lands immediately adjacent to railway rights of way.

Another provision of the Quebec act is that any fire ranger or other forest officer may summon any male citizen between 18 and 55 years of age to assist in extinguishing any forest fire; the rate of pay being specified, and penalty being provided for failure to obey the summons. The fire laws of the province of Quebec are among the most progressive in Canada.

Silver Cake

¾ cup shortening; 1½ cups sugar; 1 cup milk; 3½ cups flour; 3 teaspoons baking powder; whites of eggs; 1 teaspoon flavoring, either of almond or vanilla. Cream shortening, and sugar together until smooth. Add milk very slowly alternately with the flour, which has been sifted twice with the baking powder. Add flavoring and fold in the stiffly beaten whites of eggs.

Pear Butter

Wash the pears and without peeling them boil them until they fall to pieces. Run them through a colander to remove the cores, seeds and skins. Put the pulp into a stone crock with half as much sugar, add spices to suit the taste, and cook mixture slowly until it comes smooth and thick, stirring it carefully to prevent burning. Seal the butter in jars.

COUNTRY LACKED FOOD

King Nicholas' Grandson an Italian Prince, Guessed Truth

King Nicholas of Montenegro, who felt quite at home in his small palace at Lyons, and who is the most easily accessible of monarchs, told the following little story of his little grandson, Prince Humbert of Piedmont, son of the King and Queen of Italy, to a Parisian journalist who called on him there after his recovery. "My grandson," said the king, "was a veritable ray of sunshine to me during these dark hours of my life when I was still asking myself if I had acted right in leaving my native soil instead of fighting there sword in hand to the last. He was very respectful and it did not take him long to discover that I was not happy."

"'Why are you so sad, grandfather? Who has done you any harm?'

"I answered: 'Your poor grandfather is a beaten man, my boy.'

"'But who has dared beat you, who are so big and strong?' the boy asked. 'Where did they beat you, tell me.'

"I was beaten all over, on the arms and legs, in the head and on the chest by those who are my enemies.

"The boy looked at me with tears in his big dark eyes, thought for a moment and then said: 'Then you had nothing more to eat in your country?' "That is how this little boy of twelve years discovered the true reason of our defeat far quicker than any diplomat or chancellor. He, at least, did not suspect me as others did, in the most unjust and cruel manner, but had instinctively felt that his big old grandfather would never stop fighting, as long as there was food in his country."

BOASTS 520 GODSONS

Splendid Frenchwoman, Looks After Many Boys at Front

Almost every woman in France has adopted at least one soldier at the front or prisoner in a German camp as her godson, but the record as godmother is held by Mme. Robin of Paris, who has no less than 520 godsons and who is constantly adding to the number. She did not hesitate though her maternal duties took up her time entirely. No more visits, no concerts, even her daily walk in the Bois she has given up in order to devote herself to her numerous godsons.

"You see, I had no son of my own to offer to France," she said, "so it was quite natural that I should want to do something for the soldiers who are fighting and who have no relatives of their own." All Mme. Robin's godsons come from the French departments now occupied by the Germans. She sends them parcels of food and clothing regularly, corresponds with them and has even succeeded in locating the wives and children of some of them. She employs a staff of three secretaries to whom she dictates her letters and half a dozen young girls who work all day making up parcels which are daily taken to the post office in a motor moving van.

"My boys are exceedingly thankful to me and more than reward me for what I am doing for them," she said. "The only ones who occasionally grumble, are those who are in the East. Here is one who writes 'Your letters take twenty days to reach me, your parcels a whole month. Fortunately, we have got rid of the submarines now, so I hope the service will be better.'"

Patching up a Skull

An extraordinary surgical operation has been successfully performed on a wounded soldier. A piece of shrapnel struck him on the head and dislodged a piece of bone. The Sunderland surgeons took strips of bone from the patient's shin and filled them into the skull cavity, which was 3 inches by 4½ inches. The new bone knitted with that of the skull and the patient rapidly recovered. He is now going about, and, save for the scar on the head, no sign of the injury is apparent.

Scotch Short Bread

Three-quarters pound of finest flour, one-half pound of butter, one-fourth pound of castor sugar. Put the flour and sugar into a basin and rub the butter thoroughly in; turn it out on the board, and knead firmly till it is a smooth paste (it requires a great deal of strength to knead it), roll it out to the thickness of about an inch, and shape to suit. It should not be much rolled, as rolling makes it tough. Bake on a sheet in a brisk oven for 20 minutes to half an hour.

To Relieve Fatigue

When a woman is very tired she will find one of the best processes of refreshing herself is to wring out hot cloths and lay them over her eyes and forehead. A hot water bag does not act as a substitute for this, and the treatment is a little trouble. The simplest way is to have two cloths and a basin of hot water ready to wring out and replace on the head the one that becomes cool.

HOW BUMPS CAUSE LUMPS

When Johnny knocks his silver mug on the door knob he makes an ugly dent in it; when Johnny knocks his head on the same old knob he expects to find that dented too, and he's naturally surprised to find a big lump instead of a hole.

Funny isn't it, that the mug should have a dent and Johnny's cranium should have a bump. But it just shows what good care Old Mother Nature takes of us when we get into trouble and bump our heads or knees or noses.

Just as soon as Johnny's head and the knob collide, Mother Nature gets busy, and she pumps a lot of blood into the blood vessels around the "sore spot" and she also sends certain white cells there to soak through the walls of the blood vessels where the bruise is, and when they've all gathered there together they make such a lump that Johnny's mother thinks maybe she'll have to call the family doctor, not knowing, of course, that Mother Nature is already on the job.

But with the extra blood and the extra white cells she begins her work of healing and curing the bruise or cut. If there's a cut there's likely to be germs around, and if there are the little white cells will gobble them up; the new blood also gets in its work and almost before Johnny knows it, the cure has commenced and in a very few days the lump disappears and everything is all right, and he is ready for more collisions with door knobs and table corners.

NATURE'S ORCHESTRA

Some Explanations of Why the Wind Sometimes Whistles

Did you ever notice that, although you may feel the force of the wind when you are out in it, you do not hear it whistle unless you are close to a building? This is because the sound is produced according to the same principles as apply to the production of the tones of a pipe organ or any instrument on which the tones are produced by blowing.

In order to make the whistling sounds we hear from the wind it is necessary for it to blow against something. That is why we hear it when we are in the house or some other building.

The whistling is caused by the wind blowing past the sharp edge of some obstacle in its path or finding its way through small openings offering some sharp-edged resistance.

If you blow through a long tube or pipe you will produce no sound, but if there is an opening with a sharp edge near the end where you blow the blowing will cause a distinct sound. It is on this principle that all small whistles, organ pipes and wind instruments of an orchestra are made.

Another way in which the wind produces sounds is by blowing against objects which vibrate. A curious illustration of this is the humming volume of sound produced by the wind blowing through a group of telegraph wires, and which may be noted, even when there is not a great force of wind, by placing the ear against a telegraph pole.

TUNNEL BORING RECORDS

New Figures Established For Day, Week and Month

World's records for tunnel-boring were established by Messrs. Foley Bros., Welch & Stewart, contractors on the C.P.R. Rogers Pass tunnel scheme. In one month 817 feet of the "pioneer" heading the preliminary shaft running parallel to the main passage, from which operations are directed at several points was excavated. The American record for a month's tunnel-boring was 810 feet.

The maximum amount of excavation on a tunnel heading for a day was formerly 26 feet, this projection being accomplished on the Simplon tunnel through the Alps. This record was eclipsed one day on the tunnel through the Selkirks, when 37 feet was excavated. The world's record was beaten also for a week, 220 feet of rock being bored.

Upward of a Thousand Languages Among the Indians.

The bureau of American ethnology of the Smithsonian Institution, which conducts studies and investigations among the Indians, is constantly bombarded with requests for "the Indian word" for this and that. It may be worth while to explain to the public, therefore, that there is no one American Indian language. On the contrary there are about 1,000 languages in the two Americas, and practically 500 distinct Indian languages north of Mexico. It becomes, then, impossible to give "the" Indian word for any English equivalent, and consequently it is usually chosen from the language of the tribe which inhabits, or once inhabited, the particular section of the country from which the request comes; for example, the word may be chosen from the Sioux, Delaware, Cherokee, Seneca, Zuni, or other language.

One of the exhibits of the bureau of American ethnology at the recent Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco was a large placard, in tabular form, intended to illustrate the number and variety of Indian languages north of Mexico. Although not exhaustive, it included 33 family groups and 167 different tribes. The equivalent of only one word was shown, the concept expressed by Latin homo, "human being." For example, a member of the Cherokee tribe says "yunwi," while his former neighbor of the Creek tribe, says "isti." The Delaware of the Algonquin says "in," for a male person, and "lenno" or "lenape" for a human being. The eastern and central Eskimo use the word "inuit," meaning people, or "inuk," person, whereas his not far distant relative the Aleut, says "aliwut." The Zuni Indian expresses the word by "kwe," and the Osage by "nikashiga." These few examples show in how many ways, all different, this one idea is expressed. In fact, the Indian languages are so numerous and so difficult to record that the American anthropological association appointed a committee some time ago to devise a standard method for transcribing them. Its report has just been published by the Smithsonian Institution and is entitled "Phonetic Transcription of Indian Languages." It goes into detail as to the best and most improved manner of recording the many Indian languages of this continent in a form that is feasible and easily understood. The report is intended primarily for philologists and students of phonetics, and is designed to show what is necessary in order to record an Indian language properly.

Fortunately for the student of Indian linguistics, nearly all the tribal and family languages may be classified into groups, so that it is not necessary for the philologists to learn each language; he studies the basic principles of the speech of a linguistic group, and following certain rules and exceptions is able to comprehend much of the speech of its several branches. He knows, according to Grimm's law evolved years ago by our old friend, the compiler of the fairy tales, that certain consonants correspond in all related languages, as for example, in German, the high German "das" becomes "dat" in low German; the s changing to t. The consonants l, n, and r are also readily interchangeable. Thus the scientist recognizes the same word despite its disguises. But it is not with a view of disguising or making his speech distinctive that an Indian of one tribe pronounces a word differently from one of another tribe, but because he cannot pronounce certain sounds. The Arapaho, Cheyenne, and Caddo tribes have the sound of n but lack l and r; on the other hand the Kiowa, Apache, Zuni, and Cherokee have l and n, but lack r. The Sioux call themselves by a name meaning "allies," pronounced "Dakota" by those of the eastern or Santee division; "Nakota" by the middle or Yankton division, and "Lakota" by the western or Teton division; the latter division comprises all the tribes west of Missouri or about two-thirds of the whole nation. This example shows the three methods of expressing one word by the members of a single family.

But besides these variances and many others there are the eccentricities in speech of the individual, of the family proper, and of the camp group, all of which intrude transient forms, just as in the English speech of North America we find variations between the speech of a northerner, a westerner, and a southerner. The philologist has to beware all this, and to sift and sort the languages to eliminate all such local and colloquial accents, for it must be remembered that the speech of the red man is not a written language with a grammar and a dictionary, except those which his white friends have evolved for him. It is of interest and value to know and record these various aboriginal languages before they become extinct, and that is one part of the work of the bureau of American ethnology. In order to meet the popular demand for Indian names for postoffices, parks, villa sites, and outing organizations the bureau has lately compiled and issued a circular, giving simplified forms in Osage, Blackfoot, Delaware, Cheyenne, Cherokee, Seneca, Chippewa, and other Indian languages. Some of these names are especially interesting and musical in sound.

Winnipeg Parks.

According to the annual report of the Public Parks Board, Winnipeg has park properties to the extent of 673 acres, which cost for the land $524,154. This area is divided into twenty-one parks, and a large square of four acres. Included in one of the parks is a zoo, which must be paradise for the kiddies. The park's board also control the cemetery, which shows a surplus.

COUNTY PLOWING MATCH TO BE HELD OCTOBER 23

Fields Have Been Selected on the Farm of J. K. Moore and James Young, Smith—Class for Plowmen Over 60 Years of Age.

The fourth annual plowing match for the championship of Peterborough county will be held this year on the farms of J. K. Moore and James Young on the fourth line of Smith on October 23rd. Final arrangements for the match were made at a meeting of the directors of the County Association held recently. Five classes will be held this year as last; in all $200.00 in prizes will be offered. It has been decided to continue the class for double plows.

This year's match is likely to include two specal features. An effort will be made through M. G. A. Gillespie, M.L.A., and District Representative McRae to have some farm tractors on hand to demonstrate their possibilities in the matter of plowing. A farmer in Smith township who owns a tractor is also to be invited to have his on hand. The directors decided also to have a special class for plowmen sixty years of age or over who will compete for three special prizes of $8.00, $6.00 and $4.00, $10.00 of which is given by Farm and Dairy. Flourmen in this class will not need to commence plowing until one o'clock in the afternoon and will be required to plow only eight rounds.

The ladies of Central Smith are planning to have a tent erected and to serve meals at a nominal cost for the benefit of the Red Cross.

The Provincial Match

The possibility of holding the provincial match here next year was discussed. It was realized that it would be a very big undertaking, it having been estimated that over 15,000 people attended the match last year at Whitby, but it was felt that if suitable ground can be obtained it may be well to make an effort to secure the match. The directors agreed to be on the lookout for suitable fields. The matter will be discussed later in the fall after the county match is over.

Investigation Into Accounts of William Davies Company Proceeds in Toronto Vast Difference Between Margin and Profit

Toronto, Sept. 18.—At the resumed inquiry by the Dominion Government Commission into the cold storage business in Canada, Mr. W. D. Taylor, accountant, of the firm of Clarkson, Gordon and Dilworth, stated in reply to J. W. Bain, K.C., representing the Government, that the profits of the Wm. Davies Company in 1917, were $1,827,494. From this had to be deducted $50,000 for pensions to employes, which were instituted for the first time; $125,000 bonus to employes; $20,000 depreciation to Harriston factory; $50,000 depreciation on new factory; $25,000 depreciation on old factory; office extension and improvements, $28,790; ventilation equipment $15,788; making a total of reduction of $447,591. This left a balance of $1,279,903 in profits.

"What was done with that profit?" asked counsel.

"Five hundred thousand was transferred to reserve fund. $250.000 in dividends at 12½ per cent."

Mr. Bain: "There were some other deductions, were there not, leaving trading profits to the company of $1,342.087?" "Yes."

"You have stated that $1,900,000 had been recovered in 1917; what were the charges made before that sum was arrived at?" asked Mr. Waldron.

"Everything except depreciation and some special items."

"Could you tell us the dividends paid each year?"

"In 1913 the dividend was $112,500, being at the rate of 7½ per cent. In 1914 it was $45,000, or 3 per cent."

"Any stock dividend that year?" "No, not until 1915."

What was the dividend in 1915? "It was $225,000 or at the rate of 15 per cent. In 1916 the dividend was $500,000 or a 33 1-3 per cent. In 1917 the dividend was $250,000 or 12½ per cent.

"SKY PILOT" PUT IN DRAMA FORM

CELEBRATED NOVEL OF RALPH CONNOR PRESENTED AT BUFFALO THEATRE.

(Special to The Review)

Buffalo, Sept. 18.—Ralph Connor's "Sky Pilot" was presented for the first time on any stage last night at the Teck Theatre. The play is founded on Connor's two best known novels, "Sky Pilot" and "Black Rock". The dramatization being the work of Frank Mandel and George H. Brennan.

The scene is laid in the Canadian Rockies and the production was faithful to the original story characterisations. Scenically, it was superb, an immense audience, including the British, French and Italian consuls testified to its approval by repeated curtain calls.

The advance sale of seats is said to be the largest in the history of the theatre for a new dramatic attraction. At the conclusion of the Buffalo engagement, the play will commence a short tour of the principal cities in Canada. In November it will go to New York to remain for the balance of the season.

ARE BUILDING SHIPS

NEW FIRMS SPRINGING UP IN BRITISH COLUMBIA.

Wooden and Steel Vessels Costing $27,000,000 Are Now Being Constructed on the Pacific Coast, and With the Industry Thriving Further Developments Are Planned in the Near Future.

A YEAR ago there was not a large ship being built in the Province of British Columbia, and the industry did not represent an output of much more than $50,000. To-day there are $27,000,000 worth of steel and wooden vessels under construction or contracted for on the Pacific coast.

While the shipbuilding industry of the Province is by no means new—wooden ships were built there as far back as 1788—its firm establishment as one of the chief assets of the west coast of Canada has taken place within the year. It is, of course, due to the ever-increasing demand for ocean tonnage.

The aid to shipping act, passed by the Conservative Government of British Columbia early in 1916, drew attention to the facilities available for shipbuilding, and soon afterwards contracts were placed for the construction of ten auxiliary power wooden schooners. This particular type of vessel costs about $150,000, and is similar to the motor sail ships that have been built in the Pacific States. They are 225 feet long, 44 feet in beam, and 32 feet deep. Bolinder engines of 160 horsepower drive twin screws.

In order to assist communication between Eastern and Western Canada through the Panama Canal the Dominion Government decided to establish a line of vessels, and have already let contracts for two ships of the auxiliary schooner type. This started the activity, and contracts amounting to $18,000,000 had been set up to a few weeks ago. Since then announcement has been made by the Imperial Munitions Board of the letting of contracts for a further twenty-seven wooden steamers in this Province. The total program of construction now amounts to $27,000,000 in value.

Of the original ten auxiliary schooners six were to be built at the Wallace shipyards at North Vancouver and four at the Cameron-Genoa yards of Victoria. Also at the Wallace yards there were to be built three steel steamers of the "war dog" type, one of which has already been launched. These steel ships cost about $650,000 each.

At the Coughlan shipyards at Vancouver a program of construction involving $7,500,000 was embarked upon. It provided for the building of six steel steamers, one for Norwegian and five for British interests. They cost about $1,250,000 each. Three are now under construction.

Meanwhile the Cameron-Genoa yards secured further contracts, and at the present time have built or are building ten auxiliary schooners. Yarrow's, Ltd., at Esquimalt, one of the oldest of the shipyards in this Province, has secured contracts for four steel shallow-draught steamers for river navigation in India.

These were the principal of the older yards, but new firms sprang up and other shipyards were established. Harrison & Lamond of South Vancouver are building one auxiliary power schooner, the British Pacific Engineering Company of Vancouver have a construction program of $1,500,000 and the Vancouver shipyards are building cannery tenders and other small boats.

This was the original program of construction up to the latest announcement by the Imperial Munitions Board, which added another $9,000,000 to the value of ship contracts in the Province. The Lyall Construction Company of Montreal then secured a controlling interest in one of the Wallace shipyards and will build six steamers there. For the purpose of establishing shipyards near New Westminster, the B. C. Construction Co. and the Westminster Marine Railway Co. amalgamated as the B. C. Construction & Engineering Co. They will build four of the new program of twenty-seven wooden steamers. Then the Cameron-Genoa shipyards at Victoria secured four contracts and the Pacific Construction Co. was formed to take over an old shipyard at Coquitlam and build two steamers.

In Vancouver another new firm came into being in the Western Canada Shipyards, Ltd., which is an association of Armstrong-Morrison & Co., Grant, Smith & Macdonnell, Ltd., the Northern Construction Company, and Palmer Brothers. They will build six steamers and have already commenced two of them.

Other yards either now existing or projected and which hope to secure contracts are: The British Columbia Marine, Ltd., Vancouver; the Prince Rupert Drydock & Engineering Company of Prince Rupert; the Sound Construction Company of Vancouver; the Taylor Engineering Works of Vancouver, and the Victoria Machinery Depot of Victoria.

There are plans for other new firms also, and there is every indication of still further developments in the very near future. It seems probable that new yards will be organized to build ships for sale in the open market instead of on contract.

BOWSER'S STOREHOUSE KNOWLEDGE SUFFICIENT FOR A SAGE LIKE HIM

OTHER - AUTHORITIES? BAH!

Has His Own Ideas Regarding Geography and Spelling, and When Mrs. Bowser Dares Dispute Them There Is a Family Explosion.

By M. QUAD.

[Copyright, by Associated Literary Press.]

WHEN Mr. Bowser wears a look of importance mingled with a patronizing air it sets Mrs. Bowser to guessing.

Something has happened.

Mr. Bowser has discovered that the world is round. It is 93,000,000 miles to the sun and a few feet over. The few feet over are known to him alone.

After dinner he took the cat on his knee and stroked her back as he smoked.

A preliminary cough and then:

"Mrs. Bowser, you know I was over to see Davidson the other evening? I had to wait about half an hour for him, and during the interval I talked with Mrs. Davidson. I was more than surprised to find how well informed she was. Davidson ought to feel proud of her."

"I suppose he does," replied Mrs. Bowser.

"It's a wonder to me that all women don't go at it and inform themselves," continued Mr. Bowser.

"Most of the women I know are about as well posted on general affairs as the men," returned Mrs. Bowser.

Mr. Bowser's Tolerant Spirit.

"What an assertion! Ha, ha, ha! Most women know the title of the last love sick novel, the latest style of hat and who is going to get married next, but as for knowledge of current events they haven't got as much as a cat. However, as the Lord made 'em that way it's all right."

"WHAT I KNOW I KNOW."

"Why don't you give me a few pointers on current events?" asked Mrs. Bowser after a minute of silence.

"Do you mean that?" asked Mr. Bowser as he looked at her over the top of his spectacles.

"Of course I do."

"Well, the Philippine question is one which concerns everybody. Perhaps you have heard of it?"

"I have. Anything you would like to ask me about it?"

"A question or two. Where are the islands?"

"North of Borneo, in the China sea."

"I thought you'd trip up on the very first question, and you have. Mrs. Bowser, it gives me pleasure to inform you that the Philippine islands are situated between the Cape of Good Hope and Australia. See if you can remember that for five minutes."

"I don't want to remember that," she replied. "The Philippines are where I located them. You are thinking of Madagascar."

"What, you dispute me!"

"I'll show you a map."

Shameless Impudence.

"Map be hanged! What I know I know! The idea of you disputing me on a point like this!"

"Here's an atlas and here's a map," said Mrs. Bowser as she took the book from the shelf. "Here's the China sea —here are the Philippines. Up here you see Japan—down here is Borneo Who is right?"

"Woman, don't try to bluff me with any old map, because it won't work I'm going by what I know—not by any tomfool business. That's always the way with you!"

"Well, never mind," replied Mrs Bowser, as she put the book away "You know the name of the principal island, of course?"

"Certainly I do, and for your personal benefit I will state that it is Manila. You'd better write it down before it escapes from your memory."

"You mean Manila is the principal city?"

"No; I don't. When I say island I don't mean city!"

"But Manila is a city, Mr. Bowser and the principal island is Luzon."

"What, what!" shouted Mr. Bowser "You dispute me! You try to correct my geography! Woman, don't go too far! If you are honest in your ignorance I can bear with you, but don't try to bluff me away through!"

"Geography says that the chief island is Luzon and that Manila is the capital city," quietly replied Mrs. Bowser.

"And what is geography to me?" almost howled Mr. Bowser, as he kicked the cat across the room. "Because geography states that Ohio is in Asia does it make it so? I say that Manila is the principal island, and I'll bet a million dollars to a cent on it!"

Mr. Bowser's Own Style Spelling.

Mrs. Bowser let him walk around and cool off a bit, and then asked:

"How do you spell Philippines?"

"The same as everybody else with sense in his head!" sulkily replied Mr. Bowser.

"That is, you put two p's in the word?"

"That is, I don't do any such thing! Any schoolboy will tell you that it is spelled with two l's and one p. You'd better get out your spelling book before you go into war or politics!"

"The geography and the newspapers give one l and two p's."

"What! Disputing me again! Mrs. Bowser, this is too much. If you are trying to make out that I'm a fool, why don't you say so?"

"Look for yourself."

"Never, never! What do I care how they spell the name?"

"But"—

"I say that there are two l's in it and that settles it. When you asked me to post you on current events I knew you simply wanted to spoil my evening, Mrs. Bowser"—

"And how do you spell Manila?" she interrupted.

"How do I spell Manila?" he repeated. He tried to freeze the blood in her veins by an icy glare and went on:

"I might ask you how to spell cat or dog, but I don't want to embarrass you. I spell Manila with two l's, but perhaps you and the newspapers and idiot asylums make it end in 'y' instead of 'a.'"

"There's only one l in it, Mr. Bowser. Find the name where you will and you will see that I am right."

"Home" Becomes a Hollow Mockery.

Mr. Bowser gathered himself to work awful destruction on the furniture of the room and to raise his voice until it could be heard a mile away, but suddenly checked himself. Then he swallowed at the lumps in his throat, grew pale and started for the hat rack. Mrs. Bowser followed him and queried:

"Are you going out, dear?"

"I am going out," he sternly replied—"o-u-t! Perhaps [illegible] spell it some other way."

"But will you be gone long?"

"Don't wait for me. I may be back in an hour or may not be home for a month. I said home, but it is no home for me. You have broken it up. When a husband becomes a fool in his wife's eyes it is time for him to go."

"But you see you were wrong about the orthography of those"—

"Oh, I was, was I? Then you still insist that I'm a fool? That will do! That will do, Mrs. Bowser—that will do! In pity of your ignorance I set out to post you about certain things. Like other ignorant people, you resent it and seek to cover up your lack of knowledge by bluff. I am through. You can put six p's in Philippines and leave the l's out of Manila if you wish. I go. I bid you good night—n-i-g-h-t, night!"

"But how foolish!"

"N-i-g-h-t, night, Mrs. Bowser, and you needn't sit up for me. When the saloons close I can walk the streets or go to a hotel. H-o-t-e-l!"

GEORGE GRANGE RETAINS POSITION AS FIRE CHIEF

Withdrew Resignation on Securing Release From Military Office—Appointment Endorsed by Members of Fire-Brigade—Sergt. Cooper Caretaker of Armories.

George Grange has definitely decided to accept the appointment of Chief of the Fire Department, which decision was submitted to the City Council's Fire, Water and Light Committee by Chairman Ald. Dobbin last evening, and acquiesced in.

It appears that Grange's refusal of the appointment had been actuated by family objections and doubt of his release by the military authorities as caretaker of the Armories. Family objections, however, have been overcome, and General Hemming's consent to Grange's release from his military position secured, therefore Grange withdrew his resignation.

Sergeant Cooper, a returned soldier, has been permanently appointed caretaker of the Armories in Grange's place.

Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Taylor, that George Grange's proffered resignation be returned to him, and his appointment as Fire Chief confirmed.

This was carried unanimously, although Ald. Smith said he would personally have preferred another appointment. He credited Grange with commendable reliability, and industry, but doubted his executive ability. "A man may be a good fireman," he said, "and yet not be able to keep abreast of the times and meet the underwriters' requirements." However, he would not oppose the appointment, and wished Grange every success.

Ald. Duncan expressed his pleasure in the appointment, and had every confidence that the new chief would make good.

This seemed to be the opinion of the Committee generally.

J. A. Ploufe had applied for the position, while intimation was to hand that Kingston's Fire Chief, Jas. Armstrong, and Joseph France, Woodstock's fire chief, were willing to be candidates for the office.

All the members of the Fire Brigade, except Jamieson, endorsed by letter Grange's appointment, and believed his retention would be in the best interests of the city.

Assistant Chief.

Archie McDonald, a present member of the brigade with six years' service, applied for this position.

Committee decided to let Chief Grange recommend the appointment of his own assistant before definite action is taken by Council.

The members present were Chairman Ald. Dobbin, Aldermen Duncan, Worth, Taylor, Weir, Smith and McIntyre.

One can't always judge a woman's innate truthfulness by what she says.

CHANGE NAME OF NEW BRUNSWICK

PROPOSAL THAT WORD WINDSOR REPLACE COGNOMEN NOW IN USE.

Ottawa, Sept. 18.— Rrepresentations have been made to the Dominion Government that the Province of New Brunswick should change its name to that of New Windsor. The communication, which hails from Manitoba, emphasizes that the King had dropped "Brunswick" from his title and that the Royal Family is known as that of Windsor. It is urged that a similar course should be followed in Canada in regard to names "possessing a German flavor." New Windsor instead of New Brunswick is therefore suggested.

A great many farmers of this county have lost valuable cattle this last week from blackleg. A disease which is very prevalent at this season of the year.

If cattle contract this disease there appears to be no efficient remedy, and it cannot be cured. When cattle die the carcase of the victim should be promptly burned or burried deep and covered with lime. Burning is much to be prefered as a protection to surviving cattle. There is only one sure way to prevent this disease and that is to vaccinate the cattle, and this dreaded disease can be prevented in animals just as sure as you can prevent smallpox in people.

Either write or go to Lynch's Drug Store, 168 Hunter street and you will be furnished with literature and full particulars how to prevent this dreaded disease.

The House of Commons killed a Toronto divorce bill, and during the discussion the existing condition in regard to divorce in Canada was vigorously condemned.

20 CARS MORE COAL FOR CITY

FIFTY-ONE TONS HANDLED AT MUNICIPAL COAL YARD YESTERDAY.

Ald. Dobbin informed the City Council's Fire, Water and Light Committee last night that 51 tons of coal had been handled in the city's coal yard yesterday, out of which 36 tons were delivered to customers.

As orders for coal are being received every day the committee decided to give notice again on Wednesday of the municipal coal yard's preparedness to meet more demands.

Ten more cars of coal are on the way, and on motion of Alderman Duncan and Smith another ten cars (3 of egg, 5 of nut and 2 of stove) will be at once ordered. Out of the latter 10 cars the requirements of municipal buildings will be filled.

In discussion of the coal situation Ald. Weir stated that he is delivering now April orders at $9 a ton, will deliver May, June and July orders shortly at $9.75, and August orders later on at $10 a ton.

Incidentally it was pointed out that in Belleville coal is selling to-day for $10 per ton, while Ald. Smith had heard that in Collingwood black diamonds are being delivered for $7.50.

One of Canada's Notable Women

Mrs. Julia Henshaw, of Vancouver, was made a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society during one of her lecturing tours in England, being the first Canadian woman to be so honored.

This unique distinction is one well merited by Mrs. Henshaw for she has, both on her private account and as a member of the Alpine Club of Canada, explored great stretches of the Rocky Mountain district, to the signal enrichment of geographic science. Her book, "Mountain Wild Flowers of Canada" and her other book with the similar title, "The Wild Flowers of British Columbia," are treasure trove to the botanists or to the simpler lovers of flowers, to whom a pretty primrose is—a primrose.

In her lectures across the water before the war on the flora and fauna of the Canadian Rocky Mountains, the slides shown by way of illustration were remarkable for their originality and beauty and represented a collection of photographs taken by Mrs. Henshaw which is quite unique in its great extent and completeness. This lecturer has added hundreds of names to the list of known flowers in nature's garden, and may be termed a constitutional "finder" in this regard.

This scientist is not Canadian-born, although this country has taken her in and Canadianized her into an almost native. She comes of an old Shropshire family, her father being that Mr. William Henderson, who wrote a number of works on folk-lore and angling. She was born in Durham, not so many years ago, and preserved the name of her birthplace in her pen-name, which is seen ubiquitously, "Julian Durham."

Mrs. Henshaw has written on many subjects besides those of which we have made mention. She has contributed profusely to The Girls' Own Paper, The Canadian Magazine, The Graphic, Sketch, The Queen, Lady's Pictorial, and The Traveller. As an author, she has produced the volumes, "Hypnotized? or the Experiment of Sir Herbert Galbraith"; "Why Not, Sweetheart?" and the two books on flowers already referred to.

This clever Angle Canadian lady was married in 1887 to Mr. Charles Grant Henshaw, of Montreal. She had a place on the editorial staff of The Vancouver Province during the years 1894-98. Latterly her time has been principally devoted to giving lectures, illustrated with her views.

Mrs. Henshaw gave her lecture, "The Awakening of Vancouver Island," in London before the Royal Colonial Institute. A large and appreciative audience was present, Mr. J. G. Colmer, C.M.G., presiding; and previous to the lecture, the speaker of the evening was the guest of the Council of the Royal Colonial Institute at a dinner in the Whitehall Rooms. Mrs. Henshaw has done great work exploiting the wonders of Vancouver Island as she has seen them.

"She has explored," says a British Columbia writer, "many new districts in this Province, of whose vastness those of us who reside in cities have often a more imperfect conception than have those who form the Royal Geographical Society." Very easily! Mrs. Henshaw, for one, is correcting misconceptions.

This brilliant woman of research and revelation is member of a number of the organizations in which Canadian women fraternise. She belongs to the Canadian Society of Authors (as well as to the Society of Authors, England) and holds office in the Vancouver Women's Canadian Club. She is also a member—a most active one—of the Canadian Alpine Club, in which last organization she continues to be a member, though the fact is an obvious one that she has "clumb."

Since 1914 she has devoted her time to war work, and in recognition of her efforts the Militia Department has made her Capt. Julia Henshaw.

Amateur Dramatics in Ashburnham

The Dramatic Club of the Church of the Immaculate Conception in Ashburnham opened the season last night in the Parish Hall with an entertainment that augurs well for the future, the various amateur actors giving evidence of histronic ability of a high order, the soloists and readers, too, keeping up their end of the performance. Little Marguerite Gilman, fairy-like in her dainty white attire, announced the different events on the program and at the close recited an apt prologue in which the audience were thanked for their attendance and politely requested to come again.

The acting was really excellent for amateurs and in the parish there is more than one budding stage artist if they care to adopt that as a profession. The opening number was "The Actor and the Janitor," in which the former part was taken by George Leonard, while Arthur Leonard made an excellent cork-faced comedian.

"The Bachelor's Baby," a farce in one act, was the hit of the evening. Alex. Primeau, as the impecunious young lodger, held an infant in his arms while the mother procured a ticket at a railway depot, lost the mother in the crowd and was obliged to carry the child to his room where he had some difficulty in explaining its presence to Mrs. James Dillon, who acted to perfection the part of the stern landlady, and to his fiancee, Mrs. John Primean, who latter appeared on the scene. James Dillon, looking every inch the policeman whose role he played, was about to drag the young man to the police station when the arrival of the mother explained everything.

"The Coon Rehearsal," was a comic representation of a scene between John Primeau, Jr., ambitious as a playwright, and D. Leonard, who took the part of a colored man whom the play writer attempted in vain to drill in his lines.

The other items of the program were a recitation, "The Old Actor's Story," by John Primeau, Jr., a solo, "The Sands of the Desert," by Roland Leonard, a banjo selection by Frank Clark and a solo "Asleep in the Deep," by Arthur Leonard, who possesses a magnificent bass voice.

The Club will give another entertainment, promised to be better than ever, at an early date.

HE WASN'T EVEN MISSED.

Proof That a Bridegroom Is the Least Important Part of a Wedding.

There was to be a wedding of great importance in colored circles. Preparations were made for weeks and a big crowd turned out on the auspicious evening.

Next day the wife of a judge chanced to meet the happy bride, who had formerly been her maid.

"Well, Martha," said Mrs. J., "did you have a big wedding?"

"'Deed Ah did, missus; 'deed Ah did; the mos' splendiferous occasion of de season."

"Receive many handsome presents?"

"Yes'm, yes'm, de hull house was just crowded wiv de gifts."

"Did you have your house nicely decorated?"

"Yes'm, yes'm. Everybody done wear der very best, look jes' lak a white folks' dress affair, yes'm."

"And yourself, Martha, how did you look?"

"Ah was suttinly some scrumptious, yes'm. Ah done wore mah white bridal dress, an' orange blossoms, yes'm. Ah was some kid."

"I should say so."

THE MOST FAMOUS WOMAN.

An Interesting Question That is Hard to Answer.

At first the question asked itself: "Why should we be requested to name the most famous woman in history?" But our inward consciousness immediately answered: "Why not? Is not the request of a reader that you do so the most flattering tribute imaginable to your judgment? Paris was called upon to decide a dispute as to which of three goddesses was the most beautiful. Now if you had been asked to declare which of all the women of history was the loveliest appearing!"

With a sigh of immense relief we settled down to turn the pages of "Famous Women of History" (if that was the title).

Since fame has been made the test we must reject looks, behavior, and personal achievement. It were easier to settle pre-eminence by taking those things into account. A model efficiency chart could then be made out and percentages carefully assigned, somewhat on this order:

Personal appearance	30
Achievement	30
Disposition	10
Influence over husband	10
Influence over others	10
Fame	10
Total	100

There are so many things that cannot be crowded in 100 per cent. that no pretence is made of justice in this apportioning. It is doubtful if man can do justice to woman, anyway.

Still, under some arrangement on this order, headway could be made. Helen would score heavily as to personal appearance; assuming that Helen was a historic person. Cleopatra, whose disposition was heavily minus, is tolerably famous. Jane Austen and George Eliot should receive the full 30 per cent. for achievement. And as for influence over the menfolks, wasn't it George III.'s mother who used to exhort him to "Be a man, George!"

Achievement would have to be counted indirectly as well as directly. There was Klara Wieck, who made Robert Schumann sing. The mother of the Gracchi raised her boys to be soldiers, and not only were they notable fighters, but the younger, Tiberius, helped the small farmer before Mr. Lloyd George.

It is useless to consider on the score of fame Mme. De Stael or La Pompadour or George Sand. They had their power and their day. Both are over. But a fame like Florence Nightingale's endures and grows. Some very famous women are totally obscure—the Dark Lady of the Sonnets, [illegible] who were Robert Herrick's loves that inspired some brief lyrics which are green and fresh blossomed after almost three centuries? Were we not bounded to history, could we turn to the pages of fiction, the floodgates would be opened. There are more famous women in fable than ever existed in fact.

Perhaps the most famous woman of history was the Maid of France.

The Phantom Sniper.

All sorts of things are happening in the Great War, not only in connection with the actual fighting—over the details of which, of course, a veil must often be cast—but on the human side. In the Wide World, under the title of "Strange Stories of the War," appears a selection of some of these little incidents contributed by readers in connection with a competition which is interesting every Britisher now fighting in the trenches. Here is one out of the half-dozen published. A certain place on the British front a solitary German sniper caused scores of casualties among our men over the writer, and try as they would our scouts failed to locate him. Once three men of the Worcesters went out one night to seek him; they never returned. Later, three men of the Manchesters departed on the same errand; they were also reported "missing." Another battalion commander, at the man's earnest request, allowed his best scout to go out single-handed, but nothing more was heard of him. At last, when the "phantom sniper" had become quite famous, a keen-eyed sentry reported that he thought he had an idea where Mr. Boche was lurking, and permission was sought for a party to go out and bag him. "No," said the C.O. "We've lost quite enough good men on that game; we'll make a proper job of him this time." The rifle-flashes that the observant sentry had detected were watched for, the position surveyed by the airmen, and other measures taken that need not be described. Then, at an agreed-upon hour, a gun of a British battery fired one shell, and one only. Later on, as nothing had been heard of Mr. Sniper in the interval, a reconnoitring party went over to investigate. They found that the solitary shell had registered a magnificent bull right in the centre of the sniper's little eyrie, dug in the side of a shell-crater in "No Man's Land" and most cunningly concealed. Mr. Sniper was blown to pieces, but they discovered his rifle and his store of food and ammunition. Some distance off they also located the bodies of the three Worcesters, the three Manchesters, and other victims of the concealed marksman's skill.

Jane Austen's Cottage.

Chawton Cottage is to have a memorial tablet commemorating the centenary of Jane Austen. Though it was only after 1809 that Miss Austen removed to Chawton, the cottage certainly deserves a tablet, for it was there that she wrote "Emma" and "Persuasion," retrieved "Northanger Abbey" from the Bath bookseller to whom she had sold it for £10, and revised it, as well as "Sense and Sensibility" and "Pride and Prejudice." It is easy to imagine the busy writer in the quiet country house, undisturbed except for occasional visitors, when a handkerchief would promptly be thrown on the manuscripts, as a hasty preventive to idle questions.

Professing Too Much.

"My dear lady, I go further than believing in woman suffrage; I maintain that man and woman are equal in every way."

"Oh, professor! Now you're bragging."—Life.

Saturday night the final play-off for the beautiful Electric Reading Lamp, was witnessed by many interested bowling enthusiasts, who saw a keenly contested game. THE PITCHER WITH ONE WING.

Thirty-four years ago. Thursday, Sept. 13, 1883, Pitcher Daily, Cleveland, then in the National League, shut out the Philadelphia club without a hit or run. Many other twirlers before and since have broken into the baseball Hall of Fame by performing this feat, but Daily stands alone and unique as the only one-armed pitcher in the history of the game to attain such heights of stardom. Lee Meadows, the Cardinal slab artist, is now considered something of a freak because his lamps are weak and he has to wear spectacles, but such a handicap is not to be compared with that of the old Cleveland twirler. It is not generaly known that Jimmy Archer of Toronto, the great backstop formerly with the Cubs, has a bum wing, but such is the fact. Archer's deadly right arm is an inch shorter than his left and is terribly scarred. When he was about 19 years old, Jimmy, an immigrant from Dublin, was working in a cooperage shop in Toronto. While thus employed he slipped and fell so that his right arm was plunged into a vat of boiling sap. All of the skin and quite a bit of the flesh were torn away when the clothing was removed, and for weeks Archer was in the hospital. For a time it was thought the arm would have to be amputated, but the surgeons managed to save it. Since then he has had his arm broken at the elbow, while most of the fingers of his right hand have been broken or dislocated several times. Despite these handicaps Archer became one of the best backstops in the big leagues.

STANLEY KETCHEL.

Stanley Ketchel, had he lived, would have been 30 years old yesterday. It will be remembered that the middleweight king was shot and killed on the ranch of Col. R. P. Dickerson, of Springfield, Mo. Ketchel fought his first important ring battle with Mose LaFontise, and put him to sleep in the 24th round of a bout at Butte, Mont. Mose was a clever fighter who was touring the country posing as a "boob" boxer and taking on local boys. When Ketchel got through with him he didn't have to pose as a boob any longer. Ketchel was but 16 years old though big for his age, when he consented to meet Rudolph Hinz, a heavyweight, at Miles City, Mont. Hinz was a husky miner and weighed 50 pounds more than Ketchel. The session ended in a draw after going the allotted 20 rounds. Morris Thompson was the first man to defeat Ketchel, getting the decision in six rounds. Later Thompson knocked out Ketchel in three rounds. In 1906 Ketchel had cleaned up all the men of his weight in Montana. The following year he invaded California, making his first appearance clad in a sombrero, flannel shirt, leather trousers, high-heeled boots, spurs, and a belt with a revolver in it. He was hailed as the "Cowboy Fighter." After his defeat of Bill Papke he was acknowledged the leader of his division.

Base running has been a big factor in the pennant drive of the Chicago White Sox. In fact, rival teams in the American league might accuse them of "stealing" the pennant, for the latest base running figures show Rowland's team to be far in advance of the field. The pace set by the Rowland men has netted them a total of nearly 200 stolen bases in games played up to September 5, and they rank today as the best base running club in either major league. The Cleveland Indians rank second in this department, while the Cincinnati Nationals are third. The base running of four White Sox has been particularly brilliant. Eddie Collins leads his team with a total of 35 stolen cushions, while Nemo Ieibold, George Weaver and Happy Felsch, with Collins, have stolen 101 bases between them.

Lewis's Feat

Ted Lewis, world's welterweight champion, headed the "know-alls" a rude jolt the other night when he outclassed Soldier Bartfield in ten round at Rochester. The Englishman toyed with his opponent and won with ease. The soldier had been boosted as the next welterweight title holder, and his more ardent admirers were insistent that the change would become a fact in the very near future. The scrap showed that whenever Ted wants to he can beat any of the present crop of welters, or middles, for that matter. How Ted does it is what puzzles the boxing critics. He goes in for no particular training, having no time to do any. For instance, he fought four contests in seven days last week, fought one Tuesday night and has two more for this week. Tonight he boxes Jimmy O'Hagen, of Albany, at the St. Nicholas rink, New York, and tomorrow night taken on Italian Joe Gans for ten rounds at the Brooklyn Sporting club. Both these men are pounds heavier than the champion. Lewis is certainly in a class by himself.

Base Ball Receipts

With the probability strong that the Red Sox will run second this season they are trying to josh themselves down in Boston that it's all right, and that the club will do pretty nearly as well pecuniarly as in its winning seasons. One writer claims that the club, even if it isn't in the fall classic, will do as well as the 1912 team, whose earnings allowed Jim McAleer to retire, and sent home Jake Stahl and Robert McRoy with enough coin to make them free from immediate worry. The world series alone that year gave the Boston owners more than $146,000, while in 1915 and 1916 respectively the club's piece was $72,000 and $92.000.

It isn't always wise to grab up a man just because he has a sudden spell of heavy hitting. There is the case of Louis Guisto, for instance. He was the big thing in the hitting line on the coast last year, and several of the major league clubs were hot after him. He is now playing with the Cleveland Indians, and his batting average is around .186. Maybe Louis is suffering from stage fright.

On the other hand, it seems that a change of air is sometimes good for players whose stickwork has taken a slump. When Jimmy Walsh was with the Athletics and the Yankees he simply couldn't connect with the pill. Since he has gone over to the Red Sox he has shown remarkable improvement in his stick work and has become one of the most reliable hitters on the team. Now, you figure it out.

Grouchy Gus Says:

"No wonder Americans are nervous people. The war, the world's series, and the high cost of living are enough to make anybody jumpy."

Old Nick Altrock.

Nick Altrock who a few years ago wound up his baseball career as official comedian of the Washington American League club, was born in Cincinnati forty-one years ago today, September 15, 1876. In his career as a pitcher, lasting fifteen years, Nick came pretty near to smashing all records by playing with twelve different clubs in half as many leagues. This is the record of the once famous twirler: He started his league career in 1898, with Grand Rapids in the Interstate League; finished that season with Louisville then in the National League; in 1889 he played with Grand Rapids and Columbus in the Interstate League; in 1900 he joined the Eastern (now International) circuit as a member of the Syracuse club; in the following year he pitched for Toronto in the same league, and then went to Los Angeles and finished the year with the California State Winter League; in 1902 he pitched for the Milwaukee Brewers in the American Association; in 1903 he was given his second chance in the majors, first with Boston and then with Chicago, in the American League, but was incapacitated by illness most of the year; he continued with Chicago White Sox as one of the stars of their twirling staff from 1904 to 1908, and helped the Sox to win the pennant and the world's championship flag and swag in 1906; in 1909 he went back to the American Association, playing with Minneapolis; he made his third trip to the majors in 1909, pitching for Chicago and Washington; he returned to Minneapolis in 1910 but in the following year was traded to Kansas City; in 1912 he returned to Washington as coach for the pitchers and sideline comedian, forming a partnership with "Germany" Schaefer and pulling off a great knockout stunt, to the amusement of the populace. Few players have had so variegated a career as Altrock. George Browne, however, who played outfield for Lynchburg, Va., was also seen on many other diamonds. Besides playing for Lynchburg, he played for Trenton, N.J.; Dubuque, Ia.; Auburn, Troy, Oswego and Elmira, N.Y.; Toronto, Ont.; Philadelphia, New York and Boston Nationals; Washington and Chicago Americans; and Newark, N. J. The opposite of this rolling stone was Eddie Plank, who had never worn a professional uniform before he joined the Athletics in 1901, and who only recently retired from that team without ever having worn any other uniform.

Barry-Leon Bout.

Jimmy Barry and Caspar Leon fought for the bantamweight championship on September 15, 1894. Barry knocked Caspar out in the twenty-eighth round of the contest, which was staged at Lamont, Ill. The championship had been left vacant when George Dixon entered the featherweight class. In 1898 Barry fought a twenty-round draw with Caspar Leon at New York, and another with the same result at Davenport, Ia., and retired from the ring undefeated in 1899.

BREAD ON THE WATER

Toronto Jews Observe Religion Rite

Toronto, Sept. 18.—Thousands of pious Jews made their annual pilgrimage to the Toronto waterfront yesterday to observe the Tashlich ritual which is the main religious feature of the Hebraic New Year ceremonies. Each pilgrim broke bread and cast it upon the water whilst reciting the Tashlich prayer, which is a supplication that their sin may be taken from them as the bread is borne away on the water and consumed by the fishes. The foot of Bay Street was the mecca yesterday for many hundreds of those who came to give full observance to the ritual and the procession to that point was almost continuous from daybreak to sunset.

PIANOFORTE---VOCAL RECITAL

MISS MATHER, MR. BROWN AND MISS PORTER WIN CRITICAL APPROVAL.

The pianoforte and vocal recital given last evening in the Collegiate Hall by Miss Marjorie Powell Mather, pianist and John Smith, baritone, in aid of the Red Cross Society, was attended by a delighted and receptive audience. The program was a difficult and varied one, in which the principals excelled themselves and reflected great credit on the musical Colleges in which they were trained. Demands for encores by the critical audience was frequent and persistent.

Miss Mather is a pianist of marked ability, and she charmed her audience with exquisite and versable selections. The program made exhaustive calls upon her talent and she rose admirably and irresistibly to the occasion. Her technique is skilful and her tone touch and volume brilliant.

Mr. John Smith's offerings were pleasingly selected, and he sung himself into the approval of his audience. He possesses a rich baritone voice of remarkable scope and power. He sings with appreciable east, and his enunciation is refreshingly clear and distinct.

The orchestral accompaniment for the second piano was rendered by Miss Marion Porter with the fullest measure of accuracy and harmony and displayed the acme of technical training.

OLD PETERBORO BOY IN TOWN

REV. H. GRUNDY AT ONE TIME DEP.-REGISTRAR HERE, NOW OF CHICAGO.

Rev. H. Grundy, of Chicago, Ill., an old Peterborough boy, paid the Review a call this morning. The Rev. gentleman was deputy registrar here for 17 years and is in the city for a short visit on his way from New York to Chicago. Mr. Grundy left Peterborough some 18 years ago, and is and has been for 13 years Financial Agent for the Glenwood Manual Traing School, a school for 450 dependent, but not delinquent boys, ages from 10 to 17 years. The boys are retained in the school until they graduate from the Grammar grade, when they are placed in positions. Ten trades are taught in the school, and 90 per cent of the boys make good citizens. The secret of the success of the school is they are kept busy. The school is undenominational, and has been established over 30 years. The school has a yearly endowment fund of $50,000, is a private institution and receives no Government aid whatever.

FOR PATRIOTIC FUND.

The Stratford Council adopted the plan of five-year debentures for $50,000 for the Canadian Patriotic Fund and gave the final reading to the by-law for $30,000 for extensions and improvements to the local electric distribution station. It was decided to table the request for a municipal coal yard for future consideration.

Coroner's Charge.

Coroner Dr. Greer charged directly in exoneration of the railway company from all blame. Instructing the jury to make their finding in accordance with the evidence, he submitted that such evidence indicated that deceased had met his death accidentally, due to his own mistaken judgment.

The jury rendered a verdict in accordance with the coroner's charge, giving the cause of death as entirely accidental, with no blame whatever attached to any person.

GENERAL MANAGER FOX SAYS ACTION OF COMPANY WAS JUSTIFIED.

(Canadian Press Despatch)

Toronto, Sept. 18.—That all deductions from profits and the amounts written off in the William Davies Company statements to the Government were perfectly proper and regular and had nothing to do with the liabilities for war taxes, was the assertion of E. C. Fox, General Manager of that company, at the enquiry today. Mr. Fox further stated that although the directorates of Wm. final decision will be the attitude of organized labor of Canada on this most important issue.

General Strike.

The resolution concludes as follows:

"Resolved, that in the event of the Dominion Government enforcing the conscription of man power without the conscription of wealth and wealth production and the nationalization of all industries herein before described, this council strongly urges that the delegates in convention assembled formulate plans for a general strike of organized labor from the Atlantic to the Pacific, the strike to continue until such time as the Dominion Government does conscript the wealth and nationalize the industries, this being a national necessity more than conscription of man power a military necessity."
